Big Ten Powers Triumph Despite Loss Of Threats

By Associated Press

Northwestern and Purdue — heading for a titanic struggle for the Big 10 championship — didn't blink an eye Saturday at the loss of their top offensive threats.

The Wildcats, No. 2 in The Associated Press weekly poll, polished off Minnesota 6-0 behind fourth - string quarterback Bob Eickhoff, while Purdue, rated No. 7, shut out ninth - ranked Wisconsin 21-0 with scrub Bernie Allen supplying the punch.

Northwestern lost Dick Thornton, who had directed the Wildcats to their opening game stunner over Oklahoma, last week. The Boilermakers' big man, Ross Fitchner, also is out with injuries.

Eickhoff, 157 pounds, led an 86-yard scoring march in the final period, pulled Northwestern out of the doldrums, and capped his performance by firing a seven-yard touchdown flip to end Paul Yanke.

ONE-MAN

Bernie Allen took over for Fitchner and was strictly a one-man gang for Purdue. He tossed three touchdown passes and kicked all three extra points.

Louisiana State, top team in the weekly poll, played a night game against the University of Miami.

In another struggle between two goliaths, Georgia Tech, No. 3, cut down Tennessee 14-7 in the South's top game. Tennessee was the third national power to fall before Tech. Taz Anderson, one of the Ramblin's Wrecks' lesser lights, running, grabbing passes and anchoring the defense.

Texas, No. 4 in the country, continued unbeaten by defeating once-mighty Oklahoma 19-12. This was the second straight year the Longhorns have put the hex on the Sooners.

While it was small consolation to Bud Wilkinson's last who had hoped to regain some of their lost prestige, they became the first

Mission Says Group Will Stay In Laos

Team To Note Changes, Tell Developments

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The U.N. fact finding mission announced Saturday it will leave a team behind when it departs Tuesday.

A communique said the U.N. four-nation subcommittee will leave the team here to report any developments in Communist threatened Laos after the mission leaves to prepare its report for the Security Council in New York U.N. headquarters.

Japanese alternate delegate Morio Oaki and Italian army Capt. Vincenzo Piccione, who arrived Saturday, are expected to remain in Laos with some members of the secretariat.

The communique said the members remaining behind would answer any request for clarification and supply any additional information which might be required in writing the report for the Security Council. They also will give information on any material changes in Laos.

OFFICER

A U.N. press officer said he did not know how long the team would remain in Laos.

The fact finders met during the day to decide what form its report to the Security Council would take. Informed sources said a Communist North Viet Nam.

Two Laotian officials said they will accompany the investigators to the U.N. to answer any questions that might arise in the report. One is Inpeng Suryadhay, acting foreign minister. The investigators, whose chairman is Japan's Shinichi Shibusawa, came from Argentina, Italy and Tunesia.

Laos had asked that a permanent U.N. observer team remain here, claiming the U.N. presence tended to dampen Communist and rebel activities.

Since the U.N. team's arrival Sept. 15, no major military action

Two Summit Meets May Be On Slate

Cold War End, Disarmament Plans Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within the next two months, not one but two summit conferences may be held in an effort to discover some way of negotiating East - West agreements to end the cold war and make a start on disarmament.

Diplomatic officials now consider a distinct possibility a gathering of chief Western leaders, perhaps in Washington, in advance of a meeting between the Allies and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This East-West session will almost certainly be held at Geneva.

President Eisenhower, who discussed his next move Friday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, is understood to favor opening the meeting with Khrushchev before mid-December. Of 10 days or two weeks duration, it progress justified such length, it would bring together Eisenhower, Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

CLEARED

Macmillan's reelection Thursday, ending a period of uncertainty over Britain's political future, cleared the way for a speedup of summit conference negotiations among the Allies.

One of the things they have to decide is exactly what they want

Termed Goal Requiring Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans called Saturday for the elimination of racial segregation in public places. They set this as a high priority goal requiring a cooperative effort by government at all levels.

In a wide-ranging report on "Human Rights and Needs," a task force of the Republican committee on program and progress also recommended that the nation:

1. Increase its current public and private expenditures of 20 billion dollars annually on education to 50 billion by 1976.

2. Expand the flow of mortgage credits for housing and try to find ways to finance an increasing number of trade-ins of older homes.

3. Boost national medical research spending to a billion dollars yearly by 1965, with the government bearing half the cost.

4. Make pensions and seniority rights transferrable so that union members and management executives could change jobs if they chose.

WELFARE

5. Reshape welfare services and strengthen public assistance program "so as to provide help for any person who is hungry, homeless, disabled or sick, while at the same time preventing a further increase in the federal share of support...."

6. Provide for the rehabilitation of 90,000 disabled persons next year in a continuously accelerating program.

The report, one of a series being published by a 44-member committee headed by Charles H. Percy of Chicago, was written by a task force captained by Miss Bertha Adkins, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In its discussion of civil rights, the task force avoided specific recommendations for new legisla-

Traffic Victim Is Found Dead On Area Road

FERRIDAY (Special) — A 21-year old Natchez man, Hiram D. Tullos, was found dead on a lonely stretch of Highway 65 shortly after midnight Friday, and local officers said he had been run over by an automobile.

Parish Coroner, Dr. B. G. Trosclair ruled "accidental death," but added that "a known party from St. Joseph was driving the auto involved" and that investigation was still being made in the case.

Identity of those involved was not disclosed by authorities, who stated that the names would not be released until further developments from the investigation.

IN ROAD

The body was found on the highway about one mile east of Clayton, along a swampland stretch of road where the nearest house or building is miles away. The victim had apparently been walking, and authorities said evidence showed he was lying down in the road when the vehicle struck him. There was no evidence of foul play.

Death resulted from internal chest injuries, according to the coroner. The victim was last seen alive less than an hour before he was found, and witnesses said he was hitchhiking.

There were no traces of liquor or other intoxicants, officers said. Tullos had been in the home of a sister in Natchez.

The body was taken to Young's Funeral Home in Ferriday, and was later transported to McGee, Mississippi, where tentative plans

U.S. FUNDS IN 1961

$60-Million Due For State Roads

WASHINGTON (Special)— Louisiana will receive $60,081,303 in federal funds for road construction in fiscal year 1961, Commerce Secretary Frederick H. Mueller said Saturday.

The apportionment for the year starting next July 1 includes $47,062,620 for payments on the interstate system of super-highways and other major traffic arteries, for which the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

The breakdown also provides $13,018,683 in federal funds for less important roads, for which the U. S. Government pays half the cost.

SHARE

The money represents the state's share of $2.7 billion available for all types of road construction throughout the nation. Of this, $1.3 billion comes from the special funds derived from a federal gasoline tax of four cents a gallon to be used for a 41,000-mile super-highway system eventually linking all major American cities.

The Commerce Department said that the announcement of the apportionment provides nine months lead time for construction planning by state highway departments to assure "orderly progress in the program."

The department explained that there would have been no funds for the interstate system available in fiscal 1961 if Congress had not increased the special gasoline tax to its present level effective Oct. 1. It said planning can now proceed under the "pay as you go" guidelines laid down by Congress.

Last Thursday, the department

Small Child Corroborates Father's Story

CHICAGO (AP) — A 6-year-old girl, prim at times and squirming at others, apparently corroborated Saturday the story of her father about the strangulation death of her mother.

The child, Nancy Hansen, was called as a defense witness in the Criminal Court trial of her father, Duncan, 29, who has been charged with killing his former wife, Susan Hansen, 24, on May 24.

Nancy, a tiny blonde, who does not know her father is on trial, spent 40 minutes in testimony before Judge Robert E. English and lawyers.

Later, the judge deferred a ruling, probably until Tuesday, on whether the child may appear as a witness to face jurors in Hansen's murder trial.

Hansen, a part-time school teacher, has testified that he came to his former wife's South Side home after Nancy answered his telephone call and said: "Mommy's on the floor and we — the three Hansen children — can't wake her up."

ARRIVED

Hansen said he arrived at the home at 8:30 a.m. and found Susan's body sprawled on a bedroom floor.

Previous testimony had placed Hansen near the murder scene more than an hour before he said he arrived.

Charles A. Bellows, defense attorney, asked Nancy what she did the early morning of May 24.

Nancy said: "I went to my

Mrs. Santa Wraps Gifts For Orphans

She and her staff are making sure no orphan child in this area is forgotten.

Mrs. Santa is Jessie Fountain. She has been working with the state Santa Claus commission since 1937, and has managed the program since 1942.

During the last two weeks Mrs. Fountain has piled up so many toys, games and books in a fourth floor conference room it looks like a variety store.

And she's going through a big bundle of letters from children at orphanages across the state.

Under the state program, each child writes Santa stating his desires and — if he doesn't want too much—he gets his wish.

Eisenhower, Mexico Head In Meeting

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Two old friends, President Eisenhower and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico, sat down Saturday in a Sylvan retreat intent on drawing even closer the relations between their two countries.

The talks, which started in the presidential hideaway at Camp David, Md., in the Catoctin Mountains about 25 miles south of here, are a continuation of the meeting between the two last February at Acapulco, Mexico.

As in the Mexican meeting, the surroundings are informal, with the marine atmosphere of Lopez Mateos' modest bungalow at Acapulco being replaced by the rustic surroundings of Aspen Lodge.

The two opened their chats seated in easy chairs in the sun room of the lodge, where they and their foreign ministers are housed.

REPORT

Eisenhower gave Lopez Mateos a detailed report on the Camp David talks he had last month with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen this was part of a gen-

Bellhop Admits Killings

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A thin, wiry bellhop with an edgy trigger finger was overpowered and captured Saturday by would-be holdup victims he threatened to shoot. A few hours later, authorities said, he admitted the holdup-slaying of a waitress and a bait shop proprietor last month.

Capt. F. J. Vasel, commander of the St. Louis County secret service division, quoted 21-year-old James Palmer as saying he shot both victims with a .22-caliber rifle "so they couldn't identify me."

Palmer, who eluded a posse of 100 men Friday after shooting up a farm house and wounding a railroad brakeman, was to be charged with murder. Illinois law does not specify degree.

CHARGE

The murder charge applies to the death of red-haired, 22-year-old Hazel Riley, whose ravished body was found on a lonely, dirt road in nearby Wood River, Ill., Sept. 17.

Missouri authorities were expected to file a similar charge against Palmer in connection with the Sept. 12 slaying of Thomas L. Nelson, 40. Nelson's bullet-riddled body was found outside his bait and tackle shop in St. Louis County. Jerseyville is about 50 miles north of St. Louis.

Palmer re-enacted the killing of Mrs. Riley and then signed a statement admitting the slaying of the woman.

He then was taken to St. Louis County to re-enact the Nelson slaying. A separate statement was to be taken in that case. He already had made an oral admis-

Steel Hearing Details To Be Decided Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of fact finders named by President Eisenhower will decide Sunday how it will conduct hearings aimed at bringing at least an 80-day respite in the nation's worst steel strike.

The striking steelworkers union was reported planning a strong fight at the hearings against a court order, provided for in emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, to send the men back to work after 88 days on the picket lines.

Eisenhower's action in setting the Taft-Hartley machinery in motion late Friday drew a barrage of critical fire from many of the striking steelworkers, from other unions and from some Democrats in Congress.

Even the man the President named to head the three-man fact finding board didn't seem enthusiastic about the job. He is Dr. George W. Taylor, a seasoned labor mediator.

HOPED

Taylor, a former federal official and now a University of Pennsylvania professor, said before leaving Philadelphia for Washington Saturday that he had hoped to withdraw from the labor relations field entirely and spend all his time teaching. Then he added:

"But this is a critical time. When the President asks you to do something, you can't very well say no."

Taylor said he planned to meet with his colleagues on the fact finding panel Sunday to determine

Next Century May Belong To South

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A prominent historian and author predicted Saturday that the next century may belong to the South.

Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, University of Texas professor of history and past president of the American Historical Assn., wrote a special report on the South for the university's Bureau of Business Research.

"If I thought that the history of the South from 1960 to 2030 would repeat the history of the South from 1864 to 1930 I would advise every young person in the land, and all the older ones who could, to get away and as soon as possible," Webb said.

"As things stand now, as I see the South for the next 70 years I would not advise any young person to leave it, because it is not only possible but it is also probable that this next century will belong to the South."

Webb said further: "Since about 1840 the South has been nourishing a negative attitude, spending much of its energy in seeing that something was not done. It has not spend enough time studying what could be done, what might

Clinic To Study Forgery Reason

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — People don't forge checks just to get money, a noted psychiatrist said Saturday — and added nobody knows just why they do forge them.

To discover that may be one of the objectives of a new program Dr. Karl Menniger announced Saturday for the Menninger Foundation, of which he is chairman of the staff. The foundation operates a widely known psychiatric clinic here.

The new program will study the relation of psychiatry to criminology and law, Dr. Menninger said. It will include seminars for lawyers, judges and others directly connected with enforcement of law and management of penal institutions.

It is possible, he added, eventually there will be some pilot studies of certain kinds of offenders, such as check forgers.

INABILITY TO ADAPT

Emotional Reasons Can Cause Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Some illnesses and deaths can be charged to emotions that run wild, a group of medical researchers said Saturday.

Ordinarily healthy men as well as animals have died under conditions which they should have survived easily, and the cause was their inability to adapt themselves to sudden, frightening emergencies, they said.

Dr. David M. Rioch, psychiatrist of Walter Reed Army Hospital, told of U. S. soldiers drowning in two feet of water after having received slight flesh wounds on Omaha Beach when Allied forces landed in Normandy June 6, 1944.

Dr. Maurice S. Goldstein, of Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, said investigators have shown repeatedly that disease or death can come from an individual's emotional over-response to some new and challenging situation.

Dr. Edward A. Weinstein, director of mental health for the Virgin Islands, reported the outcome of an illness often can be predicted by a patient's attitude toward death. The patient may play dead, or wear black. Or he may fall in-

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A prominent historian and author predicted Saturday that the next century may belong to the South.

Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, University of Texas professor of history and past president of the American Historical Assn., wrote a special report on the South for the university's Bureau of Business Research.

"If I thought that the history of the South from 1960 to 2030 would repeat the history of the South from 1864 to 1930 I would advise every young person in the land, and all the older ones who could, to get away and as soon as possible," Webb said.

"As things stand now, as I see the South for the next 70 years I would not advise any young person to leave it, because it is not only possible but it is also probable that this next century will belong to the South."

Webb said further: "Since about 1840 the South has been nourishing a negative attitude, spending much of its energy in seeing that something was not done. It has not spend enough time studying what could be done, what might

Two Summit Meets May Be On Slate

Cold War End, Disarmament Plans Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within the next two months, not one but two summit conferences may be held in an effort to discover some way of negotiating East - West agreements to end the cold war and make a start on disarmament.

Diplomatic officials now consider a distinct possibility a gathering of chief Western leaders, perhaps in Washington, in advance of a meeting between the Allies and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This East-West session will almost certainly be held at Geneva.

President Eisenhower, who discussed his next move Friday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, is understood to favor opening the meeting with Khrushchev before mid-December. Of 10 days or two weeks duration, it progress justified such length, it would bring together Eisenhower, Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and President Charles de Gaulle of France.

CLEARED

Macmillan's reelection Thursday, ending a period of uncertainty over Britain's political future, cleared the way for a speedup of summit conference negotiations among the Allies.

One of the things they have to decide is exactly what they want

Mrs. Santa Wraps Gifts For Orphans

She and her staff are making sure no orphan child in this area is forgotten.

Mrs. Santa is Jessie Fountain. She has been working with the state Santa Claus commission since 1937, and has managed the program since 1942.

During the last two weeks Mrs. Fountain has piled up so many toys, games and books in a fourth floor conference room it looks like a variety store.

And she's going through a big bundle of letters from children at orphanages across the state.

Under the state program, each child writes Santa stating his desires and — if he doesn't want too much—he gets his wish.

It's pretty hard to fill some of the orders.

Clinic To Study Forgery Reason

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — People don't forge checks just to get money, a noted psychiatrist said Saturday — and added nobody knows just why they do forge them.

To discover that may be one of the objectives of a new program Dr. Karl Menniger announced Saturday for the Menninger Foundation, of which he is chairman of the staff. The foundation operates a widely known psychiatric clinic here.

The new program will study the relation of psychiatry to criminology and law, Dr. Menninger said. It will include seminars for lawyers, judges and others directly connected with enforcement of law and management of penal institutions.

It is possible, he added, eventually there will be some pilot studies of certain kinds of offenders, such as check forgers.

Eisenhower, Mexico Head In Meeting

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Two old friends, President Eisenhower and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico, sat down Saturday in a Sylvan retreat intent on drawing even closer the relations between their two countries.

The talks, which started in the presidential hideaway at Camp David, Md., in the Catoctin Mountains about 25 miles south of here, are a continuation of the meeting between the two last February at Acapulco, Mexico.

As in the Mexican meeting, the surroundings are informal, with the marine atmosphere of Lopez Mateos' modest bungalow at Acapulco being replaced by the rustic surroundings of Aspen Lodge.

The two opened their chats seated in easy chairs in the sun room of the lodge, where they and their foreign ministers are housed.

REPORT

Eisenhower gave Lopez Mateos a detailed report on the Camp David talks he had last month with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen this was part of a gen-

KUCHING, Sarawak (AP) — Headhunting 87 - year - old Chief Renghulu Gani Anank Chaong has been buried with the mementoes of his favorite hobby as a youth—26 human skulls. It was his last request.

The chief was a good friend of the second and third white rajahs of Sarawak. They persuaded him to stop his headhunting.

INABILITY TO ADAPT

Emotional Reasons Can Cause Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Some illnesses and deaths can be charged to emotions that run wild, a group of medical researchers said Saturday.

Ordinarily healthy men as well as animals have died under conditions which they should have survived easily, and the cause was their inability to adapt themselves to sudden, frightening emergencies, they said.

Dr. David M. Rioch, psychiatrist of Walter Reed Army Hospital, told of U. S. soldiers drowning in two feet of water after having received slight flesh wounds on Omaha Beach when Allied forces landed in Normandy June 6, 1944.

Dr. Maurice S. Goldstein, of Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, said investigators have shown repeatedly that disease or death can come from an individual's emotional over-response to some new and challenging situation.

Dr. Edward A. Weinstein, director of mental health for the Virgin Islands, reported the outcome of an illness often can be predicted by a patient's attitude toward death. The patient may play dead, or wear black. Or he may fall in-

Termed Goal Requiring Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans called Saturday for the elimination of racial segregation in public places. They set this as a high priority goal requiring a cooperative effort by government at all levels.

In a wide-ranging report on "Human Rights and Needs," a task force of the Republican committee on program and progress also recommended that the nation:

1. Increase its current public and private expenditures of 20 billion dollars annually on education to 50 billion by 1976.

2. Expand the flow of mortgage credits for housing and try to find ways to finance an increasing number of trade-ins of older homes.

3. Boost national medical research spending to a billion dollars yearly by 1965, with the government bearing half the cost.

4. Make pensions and seniority rights transferrable so that union members and management executives could change jobs if they chose.

WELFARE

5. Reshape welfare services and strengthen public assistance program "so as to provide help for any person who is hungry, homeless, disabled or sick, while at the same time preventing a further increase in the federal share of support. . . ."

6. Provide for the rehabilitation of 90,000 disabled persons next year in a continuously accelerating program.

The report, one of a series being published by a 44-member committee headed by Charles H. Percy of Chicago, was written by a task force captained by Miss Bertha Adkins, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In its discussion of civil rights, the task force avoided specific recommendations for new legisla-

Bellhop Admits Killings

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A thin, wiry bellhop with an edgy trigger finger was overpowered and captured Saturday by would-be holdup victims he threatened to shoot. A few hours later, authorities said, he admitted the holdup-slaying of a waitress and a bait shop proprietor last month.

Capt. F. J. Vasel, commander of the St. Louis County secret service division, quoted 21-year-old James Palmer as saying he shot both victims with a .22-caliber rifle "so they couldn't identify me."

Palmer, who eluded a posse of 100 men Friday after shooting up a farm house and wounding a railroad brakeman, was to be charged with murder. Illinois law does not specify degree.

CHARGE

The murder charge applies to the death of red-haired, 22-year-old Hazel Riley, whose ravished body was found on a lonely, dirt road in nearby Wood River, Ill., Sept. 17.

Missouri authorities were expected to file a similar charge against Palmer in connection with the Sept. 12 slaying of Thomas L. Nelson, 40. Nelson's bullet-riddled body was found outside his bait and tackle shop in St. Louis County. Jerseyville is about 50 miles north of St. Louis.

Palmer re-enacted the killing of Mrs. Riley and then signed a statement admitting the slaying of the woman.

He then was taken to St. Louis County to re-enact the Nelson slaying. A separate statement was to be taken in that case. He already had made an oral admisbe done to the benefit of the region.

"The South since 1865 looked back nostalgically to what it conback nostalgically to what it considered the good days, the days of dominance and glory. As a result of the Civil War and what followed, the South did not, it could not, keep pace with the economic development of the nation.

"I think it could be shown that from 1870 to 1930 the South's condition became progressively worse. By this I mean that it dropped further and further behind the North and the West in wealth, in welfare, in education and in health."

Webb said he believed the national election of 1932 marked the beginning of a revolution induced by a national crisis.

"Fortunately for the South, when the economy collapsed it took down with it the political forces that had historically been responsible for the exploitation and degradation of the region," he wrote. "The political forces fell in the election of 1932 and have never been able to re-establish their evil influence."

sion in the Nelson case.

Vasel said Palmer, who was questioned once about the slayings and released, claimed he took $100 from Nelson and about $35 from Mrs. Riley. Each victim was shot six times.

Vasel also quoted Palmer as saying he held up a tavern in El Paso, Tex. Sept. 28 or 29th while on a honeymoon trip with his 16-year-old bride.

Palmer told officers he walked into a cafe where Mrs. Riley was on duty alone and ordered food. He said he then drew a .22-caliber pistol, forced her to accompany him to a deserted road and shot her with a rifle.

Police said Mrs. Riley had been criminally assaulted, but Palmer denied raping her.

Two warrants charging assault with intent to kill and one charging armed robbery were filed against Palmer earlier in the day. These charges grew out of a shooting spree before dawn Friday when police sought to question him anew and Saturday's encounter with eight men in the office of Gorman Bros. Construction Materials Co. here.

Big muscular Louis Gorman, a World War II military policeman played the key role in Palmer's capture.

Gorman, 52, whacked the rifle out of Palmer's hands and then knocked him against a wall after Gorman and seven others had been held captive for 1½ hours.

"He said he was going to shoot the others in the head and take me with him," said Gorman, a partner in the firm. "So I figured I had nothing to lose."

Palmer was hiding inside the office when Gorman and two employes arrived for work at 7 a.m. He trained the rifle on them, growling, "You do what I say or I'll kill you."

Plant manager Ernest Pohlman and four other men also fell prey to Palmer when they entered the office moments later.

Palmer took $500 from Gorman, $150 from Pohlman and other amounts from the other men and then ordered Pohlman to open a safe. There was about $1,000 in the safe.

Told to tie up the men lying on the floor, Gorman trussed up three of his companions. Watching for his chance, Gorman lunged at Palmer shouting, "Let's get him, boys." They swiftly overpowered the gunman, who turned meek and addressed them as, "Sir."

Man Reveals Details Of Killing Wife

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Fingering a rosary, a 74-year-old man walked into police headquarters Saturday and told officers that he had killed his wife, cut her body into six pieces and buried the packages under the front porch.

Police went to his home and uncovered the dismembered body of Rosalia Micale, 66, wrapped in newspapers and wrapping paper and buried in two feet of dirt.

Francisco Micale, the woman's husband, told Detective Capt. Charles Nowakowski that he had killed her Aug. 11 in an argument after she ordered him out of the house. A daughter, Francisca Guida, reported her missing Aug. 18. Mrs. Guida described her father, a retired factory worker, as "a belligerent man." Police had been searching for Mrs. Micale but had found no trace of her.

Micale told police that he had gone to church every day since killing his wife, and that each time he returned home he looked under the porch. He said he had decided to go to police headquarters after attending mass Saturday morning.

Capt Nowakowski said Micale told him that he and his wife had argued for many months and on various subjects. On the morning of Aug. 11—the date marked with an X on Micale' bedroom calendar—he got up before 6 a.m., made coffee, prayed the rosary and went to church.

When he returned home, Micale related, he and his wife argued and she told him to get out of the house and not come back. He hit her with his fist, he said, knocking her down the stairway. Then he pulled her by her hair into the basement, dismembered her body with an ax and a knife, wrapped the pieces separately and buried them.

The Micales have three sons and two daughters.

to get out of the new phase of East-West relations which seems to be opening up. Some are calling it a new era of high level personal diplomacy. Whatever it is, Khrushchev seems to know exactly what he wants while Western goals are far less definite.

Therefore, some highly placed diplomatic authorities say privately it would be a good idea for Western leaders to get together and decide what they want and how to go about getting it at the Geneva summit meeting.

When Eisenhower visited Europe prior to his September talks here with Khrushchev he also called on West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. U. S. officials recognize that Adenauer, because of Germany's position and importance in Europe, would have a keen interest in Western planning.

While Eisenhower and Herter reportedly would like the Big Four heads of government meeting to be started in late November or December and finished before Christmas, they do not intend to insist on this. Eisenhower's main concern now is said to be to make sure that Adenauer and de Gaulle are satisfied with whatever arrangements are worked out.

Eisenhower is planning to tour the Soviet Union next May or June. Herter and he clearly think of the East-West summit conference as taking place before that time. Whether there is a policy purpose in this or not, it is obvious that should the summit conference fail to agree on anything Khrushchev and Eisenhower would then have an opportunity to patch up some new plan for continuing negotiations.

Famed Music Group Slates Showing Here

Music by the world - famous Philharmonia Hungarica Symphony Orchestra is scheduled as the second attraction offered during the current season by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

Zoltan Rozsnyai, founder of the orchestra, will conduct the Philharmonia Hungarica on October 21 at Neville Auditorium. Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m.

The series of lectures, concerts and drama being presented by the association opened Thursday night with a lecture on Soviet Russia by Dr. Fremont P. Wirth, world traveler, author and educator.

Rozsnyai is considered one of the most talented among the young generation of musicians in Hungary. In spite of the difficult circumstances in his country, he was able to achieve notable successes during the last few years.

DURING REVOLT

It was during the Hungarian revolt of 1956 that the Philharmonia Hungarica was born. The eighty musicians who compromise the organization were members of their country's foremost orchestras before they fled to Vienna. Rozsnyai, himself a refugee musician, came upon the idea of organizing an orchestra to provide work for the number of gifted performers in refugee camps.

Rozsnyai can look back upon an impressive musical past. He was barely 10 years old when he made his first public appearance in Budapest as soloist in a Mozart piano concert. As a high school student, he entered the Franz-List Music Academy and attended the piano class which was directed by the famous Dolamanyi. Then followed studies with the world-renowned maestro Carlo Zecchi in Italy.

Before the outbreak of World War II, he began studying composition at Budapest with Sandor Veress, and finally received his training as a conductor under supervision of Professor Janor Ferencsik.

DIRECTOR

Rozsnyai became musical director of the second largest opera in Hungary, the Opera of Debrecen, and organized and directed the philharmonic orchestras of the cities of Gyor and Pecs.

His concerts in Budapest gave him recognition in Rome, where he was invited to conduct the Santa - Cecillia Orchestra in that city.

Further recognition came when he accepted an invitation from Antal Dorati, musical director of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and now also artistic director of the Philharmonia Hungarica, to conduct a concert of his own orchestra in the states.

After a successful American tour with the Minneapolitans Rozsnyai returned to Europe and began organizing in Vienna the Philharmonia Hungarica.

Unlucky

Bus Driver Joe Cicero, operator of a DeSiard road outfit left his own car in a quiet spot in downtown Monroe when he went to work on his eight hour shift. The day was one of those unlucky Fridays, but all too late he found it out.

At the close of day he went to what he assumed was his car awaiting him, got into it and proceeded to the carbarns of the City of Monroe.

Cicero didn't at the time know that he had taken another man's car by mistake. The real owner went to reclaim his property, but all he found was the awaiting Cicero car, which he did not want. The city of Monroe police were informed that his car was gone. Officers got busy. Ultimately the perplexed situation was ferreted out, and Cicero was the butt of jokes about missing cars all day Saturday.

Unlucky

Bus Driver Joe Cicero, operator of a DeSiard road outfit left his own car in a quiet spot in downtown Monroe when he went to work on his eight hour shift. The day was one of those unlucky Fridays, but all too late he found it out.

At the close of day he went to what he assumed was his car awaiting him, got into it and proceeded to the carbarns of the City of Monroe.

Cicero didn't at the time know that he had taken another man's car by mistake. The real owner went to reclaim his property, but all he found was the awaiting Cicero car, which he did not want. The city of Monroe police were informed that his car was gone. Officers got busy. Ultimately the perplexed situation was ferreted out, and Cicero was the butt of jokes about missing cars all day Saturday.

Steel Hearing Details To Be Decided Today

hearing procedures. He said the hearings themselves may get under way Monday afternoon.

As a matter of routine, the Federal Mediation Service invited all interested parties to testify or submit sworn statements.

Taylor is on record as saying that neither injunctions nor government seizure of plants is likely to contribute to a meeting of minds in collective bargaining.

A similar stand has been taken by David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers union. McDonald is expected here from Pittsburgh Sunday to help argue the union case against a strike-ending injunction.

He has said injunctions cannot solve the basic bargaining problems involved, but that the union would obey the law and go back to work if ordered by a federal court to do so.

Walter P. Reuther's United Automobile Workers Union, holding a convention in Atlantic City, N.J., unanimously voted to ask Eisenhower to reconsider his action in invoking the Taft-Hartley Act.

There was no sign that Eisenhower would do so. He has said he is sick and tired of the situation and could not let it drag on to the point where the American people would suffer serious hardship.

Similarly, there appeared little prospect that either the fact finding board or a federal court would reject the idea of an injunction to halt the strike for 80 days.

Since enactment of the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947, its emergency provisions have been invoked 15 times. Each time a court has issued an injunction. The most recent occasion was this week, when the East-Gulf coast dock strike was halted by court order.

Eisenhower gave Taylor's fact finding board until next Friday to file its report. The word was that the board would hold fairly extensive hearings.

Not until it reports will Eisenhower be free under the law to instruct the Justice Department to seek an injunction.

Thus the steel shutdown will continue—barring a surprise agreement between union and industry—until at least next weekend.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union convention appealed to President Eisenhower Saturday to reconsider his decision to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel strike.

The nearly 3,000 delegates unanimously approved a telegram from UAW chief Walter P. Reuther to Eisenhower asking that instead the President create "an impartial public fact-finding board."

An injunction forcing the steelworkers back to their jobs, the telegram said, "constitutes little more than using the power and majesty of the United States government as a strike - breaking weapon."

Renther messaged the President:

"Unfortunately, your advisers inside and outside the administration, with their close ties to the steel industry, vetoed the proposal of impartial fact-finding, knowing full well that such an exposure of the economic facts would have indicted the steel management before the bar of public opinion.

"Now that the steelworkers and their families have invested many weeks of sacrifice through strike action and the steel inventories have been depleted and the economic pinch on the steel industry is becoming effective, you are proposing to take the pressure off the industry by forcing the steelworkers to return, involuntarily, to their jobs.

"In our free society, the use of legal force to compel workers to work against their will solves no problems. It not only leaves the basic issues of economic and social justice unsolved, but it creates bitterness and frustration which can only make the ultimate solution far more difficult to achieve."

The UAW gave the steelworkers one million dollars last month and offered to contribute more help in supporting the strike.

Meanwhile, the UAW set a goal of building its strike fund, which is now below $15,000,000, to $46,000,000 by the end of 1961 and to $40,000,000, before present three-year contracts in the auto industry expire in August of 1961.

eral discussion the two presidents had on matters of common interest.

It was similar to the report previously given by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to the ambassadors of nations which are members of the Organization of American States, he said.

"But this one was different," Hagerty said, "as it was a report from one president to another."

Other topics that came up in a two-hour discussion were cotton, lead, zinc, coffee and shrimp, Hagerty said.

In the case of the first four commodities, he added, the conversations were a continuation of the Acapulco discussions in which the two presidents studied ways of protecting the mutual interests of the two countries in the marketing of these products.

Mexico has felt that its interests have been imparied by the U.S. policy of selling its surplus cotton on the world market. It also has objected to the quota system for metals importation.

An export quota system on coffee—although drafted by producing nations themselves—also had tended to work a hardship on Mexico.

Shrimp was a new topic of discussion. Hagerty indicated the talks involved the interest of the two countries in protecting shrimp exports from Mexico to the United States against competition from other foreign producers.

Hagerty said the question of rivalries between shrimp fishermen from the two countries, which occasionally have caused Mexicans to accuse the U. S. shrimpers of "piracy" was not discussed.

Herter and Mexico Foreign Minister Manuel Tello took part in the talks, along with U.S. Ambassador Robert C. Hill and Mexican Ambassador Antonio Carrillo Flores.

No agenda for the meeting was set up, and Lopez Mateos said on his arrival in Washington Friday that he was ready to discuss any problem which might arise or which respective advisers might want to bring up.

Ambassador Carrillo Flores has described the conference as being one "with subject matter but without problems." This would indicate that no far-reaching decisions are likely to result.

Whatever conclusions are reached, it is probable that they will not be announced until the final day of the Mexican President's four-day visit which ends Monday night.

to a stupor because of his emtions. The outlook for such patients is poor, Dr. Weinstein said.

These three specialists participated in a symposium on the physiology of emotions sponsored by the Kaiser Foundation hospitals.

Dr. Richter found that wild Norway rats died quickly if their whiskers were clipped and they were put into a tank for a swimming experiment.

The whisker trimming was found previously to have robbed the rats of their power of orientation. When put into the tank they swam straight to the bottom and died. There was no water in their lungs, Dr. Rioch said, so they did not drown.

Other rates were hooked up to an electrocardiograph and put through the same ordeal. It was found their hearts slowed suddenly and stopped after hitting the water.

Most tame rats put through similar experiments survived, Dr. Rioch said.

Autopsies indicated the mechanism of death in these cases was exhaustion of the vagus nerve. Dr. Rioch reported. This important nerve governs sensation and motion and influences many vital organs, including the heart, lungs, stomach and intestines.

Trying to meet the emergency of swimming while dewhiskered was just too much emotionally for the wild rats, Dr. Rioch reported. Nerve exhaustion probably was the trouble on Omaha Beach, he added.

tion. Another civil rights battle is expected to explode in the Senate by mid-February.

The GOP report called for "vigorous programs to be developed to make effective for all members of minority groups equality of opportunity to compete for jobs and upgrading on the job, to receive the best in education and obtain health service and financing."

"We look forward to the day when segregation is completely eliminated in public places," the Republicans said. "This goal is one of high priority. To achieve it a cooperative effort by government is needed at all levels. The federal government must never allow the peaceful and orderly transition that must take place to lag."

The report called for "effective action to deal with persons who use force or threats of force to obstruct court orders in school desegregation cases."

In education, the Republicans recommended matching federal grants for elementary and secondary school construction "where need is demonstrated and local resources are clearly inadequate." But they said such grants should be made on a yearly installment basis to keep within the bounds of a balanced budget.

The task force estimated that by 1976—the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence — the nation will need 600,000 additional public school classrooms and as many as a half-million more teachers. It said that in 17 years there will be 76 million Americans of school and college age.

Of these it said 12 million will be seeking a college education, compared with 3 million today.

For that reason the report said "we must at least treble the capacity of our present colleges and universities and train many thousands of additional instructors."

UN Laos Team Slates Meeting On Report Form

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United Nations fact-finding committee met today to determine the form of its report to the Security Council on charges of Communist aggression in Laos.

The main question before the four-nation committee is whether to simply enumerate the Laotian government's evidence or to include a commentary in the report.

Informed sources said such a commentary would support, to some extent, charges of direct or indirect aggression by Communist North Viet Nam.

mommy's room, and I saw her bed, and she was on the floor."

"Did you talk to her?" Bellows asked.

"No," said Nancy.

"After you couldn't awaken your mommy, what did you do next?" asked Bellows.

"I went downstairs," Nancy related. "Then, I went in Laura's and Chuckie's—the other Hansen children—room, and then I went back to my mommy's room and I waited until Laura and Chuckie were awake. When they were awake, I got some cereal for them and brought it upstairs and we ate it."

"And then?" Bellows asked.

"Then, my daddy called and he asked me where my mommy was, and I told him she was on the floor. He—Hansen—told me he would be right over to take me to Sunday school. Then he came over and I opened the door."

"What did your daddy do?" asked Bellows.

"He called someone on the telephone and then he drove me to Aunti Lynn's home," Nancy replied.

Hansen has said he regularly took the children to Sunday school.

Nancy also said she heard no scream that Sunday morning prior to her father's call.

Police and the coroner's office have set Susan's death at approximately 6:45 a.m. that morning. Hansen contends that a prowler slipped into the residence and strangled her.

Susan divorced Hansen in April on grounds of cruelty and planned to marry a doctor.

Homecoming Schedule At La. College

PINEVILLE (Special) — Another colorful Homecoming Day is in store for Louisiana college students, faculty members, and friends Saturday, Oct. 17. Features of the annual observance will be an afternoon football game, a morning parade, and a late-afternoon meeting of the school's Alumni Association.

Special invitations have been sent to members of the school's 1907-08-09 graduation classes as well as to those who were enrolled in all classes that finished in the "'9" ending years, according to Joe W. Campbell, Alumni Association president from Alexandria.

Frances Harper, 19-year-old brunette beauty from Elizabeth, will reign as 1959 Homecoming Queen at L.C. on that occasion. A junior education major, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Harper of Elizabeth.

She will be crowned in traditional ceremonies to be held just prior to the kickoff at the Louisiana College-Texas Lutheran football game slated for 2 p.m. at Pineville's Alumni Stadium. Dr. G. Earl Guinn, L.C. president, will crown Queen Frances, while Mrs. Guinn will present her with a bouquet of roses.

Maid of Honor will be Peggy Carter, senior English major and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Carter of Shreveport.

COURT

Other members of the Queen's Court ,all of whom will be recognized at this football classic include Sunshine Boone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Boone, Sr., Woodworth, Nancy Lee Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders Corbin, Lafayette, Colleen Chaudoir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Chaudoir, Alexandira, Lynda Lee Scarber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee H. Scarber, DeQuincy, Mary Frances Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Jones, Bossier City, and Donna Guyton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don F. Guyton, Monroe.

Members of this honored group will be escorted on the football field prior to gametime by their fathers.

The gridiron tilt will find the improving Wildcats attempting to repulse another invasion of the frisky Texas Lutheran Bulldogs from Seguin, Texas.

PARADE

The parade, under the direction of Bobby Campbell, Student Congress vice president from Shreveport, will begin at 10 a.m. It will wind its way through Pineville's Main Street and Alexandria's business section. Featured in this will be gaily decorated student floats, an automobile caravan conveying college and student dignitaries, and marching bands.

The returning Alumni will stage a buffet supper at 5 p.m. in the formal lounge of the Morgan W. Walker Student Center building. This will be followed by a period of entertainment and an important business session.

Returning graduates will begin registering at 9 a.m., also in the Student Center. Coffee will be served them during that time.

In the afternoon football fray, only daylight affair on the 1959 Wildcat schedule, the home team will be going after its third-straight Homecoming victory and its fifth in the past six years.

The Felines posted triumphs 14-7 in 1955 and by 26-20 in 1954, over Texas Lutheran by 14-7i in 1955 and by 26-20 in 1957, and over Southern(Ark.) State by a resounding 52-0 in 1959. Lone loss during this period was to Northeast Louisiana in 1956 in a spine-tingling 34-32 encounter.

LUCIEN SAWYER

Sawyer Aims Are Detailed

Lucien Sawyer, owner of a sheet metal business is campaigning for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 2.

In announcing his candidacy, Sawyer said he knows of a proven plan that will give the parish "much better" roads during the winter weather than "ever before."

"I am very well accustomed to planning and cooperating with businessmen and will look forward to doing the same with the other police jurors for the good of the parish," Sawyer stated.

A native of Morehouse Parish, Sawyer has lived in Monroe since 1920. He went into business for himself in 1935 after working as a traveling salesman for several years.

Sawyer said he had a study made recently and is convinced the parish is not using proper methods in Ward 2 to have a "good hard road bed."

FCC Says Faked Shows Not Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fooling the public with rigged television quiz shows is a fraudulent and deceptive practice but not an illegal one, the Federal Communications Commission told Congress Saturday.

"Neither the prosecuting attorney in New York nor I have been able to pinpoint any violation of the law," FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer said.

"We can't determine who has been harmed. The home owner certainly didn't pay his way into the show."

Doerfer said the FCC cannot censor programs, interfere with freedom of speech "in the field of dramatic expression" or dig up the manpower to monitor all programs.

It would be a different matter, he said, if networks or stations were doing the faking instead of producers of individual shows.

Doerfer made it clear he thought fixed quiz shows were thoroughly reprehensive. But, he added, "Sometimes we have to endure some evil for the over-all public good. We can't have everything perfect."

Doerfer testified before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee that is investigating TV quiz show operations. Several witnesses have testified since Tuesday that contestants were given answers in advance. Further testimony will be heard Monday.

Asked why the commission didn't come to Congress for more authority if it feels it lacks power to act, Doerfer replied: "I would never recommend to Congress that it adopt a law that would suppress something by unconstitutional means."

He added: "I think for the commission to intimate to the American people that it can deal with a subject that is beyond its power is just as much deceit as what has been going on."

Doerfer said he would be grateful if anyone could come up with a suggested regulation that could cope with the quiz show problem without infringing on the Constitution.

Doerfer said holders of broadcasting licenses would be in serious trouble if they participated in or condoned deceitful practices. He added there has been no evidence that the licensees themselves—the networks and stations had been involved in the rigging.

U.S. Captain Murdered Near Training Area

REGENSBURG, Germany (AP) A U.S. Army captain was found murdered Friday near the entrance to the U.S. Army training area of Grafenwoehr, about 50 miles north of here, police said Saturday.

The officer was identified as Capt. John P. Maher, stationed at Grafenwoehr with the 1st Field Artillery Battalion. Police said his skull was smashed with a blunt instrument.

U.S. Army authorities confirmed a U.S. Army captain had been found dead by an unidentified Germany passerby but declined to reveal further information or his name and home town.

Jonesville To Receive Bids For Generator

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Jonesville Town Council will consider bids Tuesday night submitted on furnishing the town a new generating unit. The bids were opened at the meeting of the council and action deferred until the Tuesday meeting.

Those submitting bids were Ingersoill Corporation on a 1000 KW unit with a speed of 900 RPM for $127,000; Fairbanks - Morse Co., a 720 RPM with a capacity of 900 KW at $175,789; Nordberg Co., on a 900 KW 450 RPM unit at $181,414; White Diesel Co., $207,835 on a 1000 KW 360 RPM unit and Chicago-Pneumatic Co., $247,997 on a 1250 KW 720 RPM unit.

The Louisiana Power and Light Co. also submitted a proposal to furnish the town with power on a wholesale basis. They would run a transmission line from Harrisonburg, installing a sub-station and deliver the power to the plant to be distributed by the plant. The price to the town would be .98 cents wholesale per kilowatt. They would also put in facilities for taking care of any future growth in expansion.

It was also pointed out that the furnishing of the electric power to the town, to be distributed by the town, would eliminate purchasing a new generating unit at this time. Money that is now set aside for the purchase of the unit could be used later for reworking the distribution system of the town electric system and thereby avoid the possibility of having to float a bond issue for the purpose at a later date. Or the money could be used to retire existing bonds. It also has been stated that if the expansion of the town continues at the rate of growth experienced over the past few years that within the next few years the town would have to purchase another generating unit to take care of the additional load.

A delay on considering the bids was due to the complexity of the various items, such as price capacity and speed.

Hope Abandoned For Capture Of Frisky Monkey

BOSTON (AP) — Hope was abandoned Saturday night for the early capture of an egg-throwing monkey that fled from the nose of a DC6 air freight plane into the steel framework of a huge hangar at Logan International Airport.

Airport officials said the little critter has quieted down some but is still taking an occasional pot shot at hangar employes with pigeon eggs. It bombarded everyone who came in range Friday night.

The monkey was discovered Friday in the nose well of the air-freighter that landed from Los Angeles. It fled into the hangar after evading capture in the well.

H. Swaggart Running For Police Juror

Harry Swaggart, a southside grocer, is a candidate for the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward three, where three out of seven candidates will be elected in the Democratic primary December 5.

Swaggart, a resident of Monroe all his life, is making his initial bid for public office.

If elected, Swaggart said, "I will work with all the people and help develop a constructive program of development for the parish as a whole.

"I will be fair and above board with everyone with whom I deal in any matter in connection with my duties on the police jury," Swaggart said.

Swaggart is married to the former Miss Annie Mae Bres and they are the parents of three children, two sons and one daughter.

He is a member of the Catholic Church and a Fourth Degree Knight.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

NARROWED PIPES

Hardening of the arteries is a gradual process that begins the moment we are born. The vessels behave like the drain pipe in a kitchen sink that clogs by degrees because of an accumulation of grease and other debris. The only indication of narrowing of this pipe is that water in the sink drains out more slowly. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, the drain stops up and the sink water cannot escape.

Arteriosclerosis is a painless process; symptoms occur only when the supply of blood to an organ is reduced 70 per cent or stopped completely. Chest pain develops when the coronary arterics are affected. Small or large strokes are the aftermath of crebral arteriosclerosis of the brain arteries.

Leg involvement leads to coldness and pain in the feet and calves. The toes and feet assume a dusky or reddish hue when sitting or standing and become pale when lying down. Progression of the condition may have serious consequences ending in gangrene and possible loss of a limb.

There is no way to prevent arteriosclerosis but the process may be slowed by avoiding high blood pressure and obesity and by being moderate in all things. Heredity plays a role in that some individuals inherit the tendency to develop hardened arteries at an earlier age.

The question of the relationship between fat in the diet and hardening of the arteries is far from settled. There is a good possibility that a high cholsterol level in the blood is a hereditary trait or stems from an unknown body disturbance. It took a long time, for example, to discover that the pancreas was responsible for a high sugar level in the blood of a diabetic. Diet helps in this disease but there is no substitute for insulin — a secretion from the pancreas of animals — when it is needed.

Some day we may find the magic pill or hormone to lower cholesterol and other fatty substances in the blood.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

ULCER AND HEARTBURN

W. E. writes: Does a duodenal ulcer cause steady heartburn?

REPLY

Not unless the ulcer is growing deeper and about to perforate. As a rule, ulcer pain comes and goes. Relief occurs after eating and distress returns when the stomach is empty.

BUTTERMILK AND INDIGESTION

M. L. writes: A friend gets relief from indigestion by drinking buttermilk. I decided to try it and it gave me indigestion. Can you explain this difference in reactions?

REPLY

Indigestion is a vague term for many stomach and intestinal symptoms. Your friend's indigestion may have been caused by altered ferments or chemical changes in the colon, in which case the buttermilk may have hit the spot. It will not help indigestion caused by gallstones, ulcer, gulping food, or nervousness.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

NARROWED PIPES

Hardening of the arteries is a gradual process that begins the moment we are born. The vessels behave like the drain pipe in a kitchen sink that clogs by degrees because of an accumulation of grease and other debris. The only indication of narrowing of this pipe is that water in the sink drains out more slowly. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, the drain stops up and the sink water cannot escape.

Arteriosclerosis is a painless process; symptoms occur only when the supply of blood to an organ is reduced 70 per cent or stopped completely. Chest pain develops when the coronary arteries are affected. Small or large strokes are the aftermath of cerebral arteriosclerosis of the brain arteries.

Leg involvement leads to coldness and pain in the feet and calves. The toes and feet assume a dusky or reddish hue when sitting or standing and become pale when lying down. Progression of the condition may have serious consequences ending in gangrene and possible loss of a limb.

There is no way to prevent arteriosclerosis but the process may be slowed by avoiding high blood pressure and obesity and by being moderate in all things. Heredity plays a role in that some individuals inherit the tendency to develop hardened arteries at an earlier age.

The question of the relationship between fat in the diet and hardening of the arteries is far from settled. There is a good possibility that a high cholsterol level in the blood is a hereditary trait or stems from an unknown body disturbance. It took a long time, for example, to discover that the pancreas was responsible for a high sugar level in the blood of a diabetic. Diet helps in this disease but there is no substitute for insulin — a secretion from the pancreas of animals — when it is needed.

Some day we may find the magic pill or hormone to lower cholesterol and other fatty substances in the blood.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

ULCER AND HEARTBURN

W. E. writes: Does a duodenal ulcer cause steady heartburn?

REPLY

Not unless the ulcer is growing deeper and about to perforate. As a rule, ulcer pain comes and goes. Relief occurs after eating and distress returns when the stomach is empty.

BUTTERMILK AND INDIGESTION

M. L. writes: A friend gets relief from indigestion by drinking buttermilk. I decided to try it and it gave me indigestion. Can you explain this difference in reactions?

REPLY

Indigestion is a vague term for many stomach and intestinal symptoms. Your friend's indigestion may have been caused by altered ferments or chemical changes in the colon, in which case the buttermilk may have hit the spot. It will not help indigestion caused by gallstones, ulcer, gulping food, or nervousness.

Historian Notes Ways Of Russia

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvard historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. said Saturday the Soviet Union now gets things done not by "ruthless coercion as under Stalin but by ruthless enthusiasm."

The United States cannot effectively compete with the Soviet dicatorship, Schlesinger said, until this country develops a "sense of national purpose" and stops allowing "the consumer to determine our national priorities."

Schlesinger, speaking to a state convention of Americans for Democratic Action after his return from three weeks behind the Iron Curtain, said many Americans underestimate Soviet capabilities simply because of the poor tourist system in the Soviet Union.

"Americans who can get tickets to Odessa can't believe," he said, "that the Russians could send a rocket to the moon.

"They don't realize," he added, "that the able men are working on rockets and the dopes are working on tickets. Now in our society . . ."

Schlesinger was interrupted by an outburst of laughter and when it was over commented: "I see I don't have to finish the thought."

The Harvard University history professor said he found it "frightening to see in the Soviet Union what energy a nation can generate when it allocates its talents and resources according to a rigid system of priorities . . ."

"The Soviet leadership is out to build national strength," he said. "It commits its best people to its biggest jobs and gives them ample backing . . .

"We allocate a major share of our talent and resources to consumer goods and services, and try to build national power on what remains.

"If the national energy now devoted to creating and satisfying consumer wants were devoted instead to building national strength, we would not have to worry about the Soviet campaign to 'overtake and surpass' the United States."

The New York State ADA's 12th annual convention also heard the organization's national leaders criticize the 86th Congress for lack of accomplishment during its first session and predict that the coming second session would accomplish little more.

The ADA is an anti-Communist left-of-center organization that usually, but now always, supports Democratic political candidates.

Kennedy Hits Ike's Handling Of Strikers

WELLSBURG, W.VA. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) tossed out his prepared speech here Saturday and grasped an opportunity to attack President Eisenhower's handling of the nationwide steel strike.

The Democratic figure, generally expected to be a candidate for his party's presidential nomination called use of the Taft-Hartley labor law "the most one-sided, unfortunate and unfair action in this administration's history."

About 400 persons from the northern Panhandle section turned out to hear Kennedy speak at a Democratic rally.

The President, in invoking the Taft-Hartley law in the steel dispute late Friday gave an inquiry board a week to hold hearings and report back to him on the situation.

"The course this strike has taken," Kennedy asserted, "and the administration's handling of it indicates a necessity of Congress' rewriting the national emergency section of the Taft-Hartley law in order to prevent a repetition."

Kennedy promised that as chairman of the Senate's subcommittee on labor he planned to call hearings on the steel strike at the earliest possible date.

The senator said the federal government's action assisted only one party in the dispute, the steel companies, Kennedy said administration intervention did what the industry had been trying to do, "break the strike."

"After a record first six months, companies have been disposing of stocks for the past three months, and with the invocation of the Taft-Hartley law, they can now get work done for the remainder of the year," Kennedy declared.

"The companies knew that the President would invoke the injunction when they began to feel the pinch, and therefore had no incentive to bargain."

Kennedy was asked by a reporter what he would have done about the steel shutdown.

He answered that he favored appointment of a fact-finding committee earlier in the dispute. Kennedy said Eisenhower appointed the secretary of labor to investigate the matter.

"Public opinion would have a better idea of where both industry and labor stand," through use of a committee, Kennedy remarked.

AT LSU

Nuclear Studies Expansion Set

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State University's College of Engineering is preparing for the future in atomic work this year with the introduction of a master's degree program emphasizing courses in the nuclear field, engineering Dean Fred H. Fenn said today.

The graduate level program has been approved by the University and will be implemented by a requested Atomic Energy Commission grant for a sub - critical reactor and counting room. Harry D. Richardson, associate professor of mechanical engineering, and author of the proposal, believes that LSU can expect to receive the grant in the near future.

This fall the department of petroleum engineering is offering a course in petrophysics dealing with the electric and radioactive logs used in finding and producing oil. A course offered by the department of electrical engineering deals with the control systems associated with nuclear equipment.

Within a year, the electrical engineering department plans to add a special ungergraduate electronics course in nuclear instrumentation. The department of mechanical engineering will begin a night course in the engineering applications of radioisotopes for technical personnel in Louisiana industries.

REACTON

The University is attempting to obtain a 10 kilowatt atomic reactro to step up both nuclear training and research in all fields. The College of Engineering plans to use it for courses in reactor design and for the training of operating personnel.

The college now has an LSU graduate and faculty member studying at the University of North Carolina in preparation for work with the proposed LSU reactor. The student is working toward a doctoral degree in nuclear engineering and will teach courses in that field when he returns.

Professor Richardson said that the proposed reactor will open up many new possibilities for LSU researchers as well as for technical personnel from Louisiana industries. When obtained it will be valuable both as a research instrument itself and as a means of producing radioisotopes for other research.

A research proposal has been made to evaluate low energy gamma radiation for metal inspections when facilities become available. Several rare earth isotopes which can be produced in metallic form are useful for the inspection of rocket components, guided missiles and aircraft where space will not permit the use of x-ray machines.

TURNABOUT

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Some kids give apples to the teacher but the University of Oklahoma has made a switch and gives each of its football players two big red apples at 10 p.m. the evening before each game.

Union Voter Registrants Total 5,307

FARMERVILLE (Special) — A total of 5,307 voters were registered in Union Parish at the end of September. The announcement was made by Woodrow Farrar, registrar of voters.

Registrations during September totaled 510. Of the overall total, 418 are Negroes. There are 5,251 Democrats and 20 Republicans.

Among the Democratic registrants, 387 are Negroes. Thirteen of the Republicans are colored.

Thirty-five voters are registered with no party affiliation and 15 ed with no party affiliation and 15 are Negroes.

There are 80 illiterates registered.

Louisiana Grand Master To Head Special Program

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Louisiana Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons will preside at a special ceremony here tomorrow night, when 33 local lodge members will be presented a 25-year certificate service awards.

John F. Hartmann, of New Orleans, will make his appearance at 8 p.m. before Eastern Star Lodge No. 151, F and AM in Winnfield.

Several other officers of the Louisiana Grand Lodge will accompany Hartmann here, T. G. (Bill) Kelly, Worshipful Master of the Winnfield Lodge said.

Members slated to receive the awards are A. Leonard Allen, L. C. Carter, D. T. Colwell Sr., J. E. Bean, Al Dowden, Thomas Durham, George Eagles, Joe Elmo Frazier, A. N. Goodson, J. T. Gresham, Henry Harlan, T. A. Henderson, Lewis Jenkins, Charles Edwin Kelly, Cortez Lawley, Robert Matthews, L. J. Melton, Robert Mills, James McCartney, Perry Norman, James Peters, John J. Vernon Parish Man Killed In Crack-Up Of Car

HICKS, La. (UPI) — A 20-year-old Vernon parish man was killed instantly Friday when he apparently went to sleep at the wheel of his car, which crashed into a gasoline pump in front of a store here.

Dr. John E. Hearne, deputy parish coroner, identified the victim as James D. LaCaze of Hicks.

Officers said LaCaze's car veered off state Highway 28 and knocked over the pump. Relatives said the victim had been visiting friends in Anacoco, La., and was returning at the time of the accident.

Dognaping Case In N.Y. Court; Ransom Asked

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — The "dognaping" of 10 toy poodles valued by their owner at $25,000 was revealed Saturday with the arraignment of four Long Island women in court.

They were charged with burglary for allegedly taking the dogs Sept. 15 from the home of Mrs. Leicester Harrison of Massapequa, a frequent exhibitor at dog shows.

Mrs. Harrison told the court the women had held the dogs for a $5,000 ransom.

The four women were ordered to post $1,000 bail each pending grand jury action.

Mrs. Harrison, a tiny blonde, said the ransom demand was made in a telephone call a few days ago. She said she recognized the voice as that of Belle Di Joseph, whom she formerly employed as a groom for the dogs.

The owner notified police, who arrested Miss Di Joseph, 28, and Virginia Kalkof, 28; Mrs. Lillian Lyons, 34, and Mrs. Marcia Esterbrook, 27.

Detective Chief Stuyvesant Pinnell said they had admitted taking the dogs. Mrs. Harrison said one of the dogs, Leicester's Sultan's Song Legacy, known informally as "Baby," was the finest toy poodle in the world.

Police said Mrs. Harrison was in a hospital at the time the dogs were taken and the alleged ransom demand apparently was delayed until it was known that she had returned home.

BIG-TIME GAMBLERS

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Eugene Meyer of Milwaukee has had a long-standing bet with a friend from Indianoplis, Ind., on the Wisconsin Iowa football game each year.

When the friend suggested that they cut down on the size of the wager this year because Wisconsin's team looks so much better than Iowa's, Meyer agreed. So there'll be a nickel riding on the 1959 game instead of the usual dime.

Nuclear Studies Expansion Set

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State University's College of Engineering is preparing for the future in atomic work this year with the introduction of a master's degree program emphasizing courses in the nuclear field, engineering Dean Fred H. Fenn said today.

The graduate level program has been approved by the University and will be implemented by a requested Atomic Energy Commission grant for a sub - critical reactor and counting room. Harry D. Richardson, associate professor of mechanical engineering, and author of the proposal, believes that LSU can expect to receive the grant in the near future.

This fall the department of petroleum engineering is offering a course in petrophysics dealing with the electric and radioactive logs used in finding and producing oil. A course offered by the department of electrical engineering deals with the control systems associated with nuclear equipment.

Within a year, the electrical engineering department plans to add a special ungergraduate electronics course in nuclear instrumentation. The department of mechanical engineering will begin a night course in the engineering applications of radioisotopes for technical personnel in Louisiana industries.

REACTON

The University is attempting to obtain a 10 kilowatt atomic reactro to step up both nuclear training and research in all fields. The College of Engineering plans to use it for courses in reactor design and for the training of operating personnel.

The college now has an LSU graduate and faculty member studying at the University of North Carolina in preparation for work with the proposed LSU reactor. The student is working toward a doctoral degree in nuclear engineering and will teach courses in that field when he returns.

Professor Richardson said that the proposed reactor will open up many new possibilities for LSU researchers as well as for technical personnel from Louisiana industries. When obtained it will be valuable both as a research instrument itself and as a means of producing radioisotopes for other research.

A research proposal has been made to evaluate low energy gamma radiation for metal inspections when facilities become available. Several rare earth isotopes which can be produced in metallic form are useful for the inspection of rocket components, guided missiles and aircraft where space will not permit the use of x-ray machines.

Building Permits At 81 For Month

Eighty - one building permits for $716,622.80 worth of construction were issued by the Monroe Building Inspector's office during September, accoding to John E. Zufall.

The permit totals ranged from 34 dwelling units and 32 alterations to residences to one warehouse.

Fifteen buildings were moved and five were demolished.

A break - down on the permits follows:

Thirty - four dwelling units, $278,885; five offices, $85,700; one warehouse, $6,246.80; two shops, $6,050; two garages, $10,350; one church, $255,679; 32 alterations and additions, residential, $33,462; four alterations and additions, non - residential, $4,250.

DECLINE

Building permit valuations fell off to $20,290 last week, as a meager seven permits were issued by the Monroe Building Inspector's office.

On Monday, Oct. 5, permits went to:

National Gas Co. to construct a frame filling station, one room at 1001 S. Second St., 176 square feet, $1100.

A. L. Huffman, construct a one room addition, a den, attached to a brick veneer home at Jan St., 600 square feet, $900.

Tuesday, Oct. 6:

Frank Taylor, add two rooms, bedroom and living room, to frame house at 3034 Polk, 180 square feet, $390.

Wednesday, Oct. 7:

T. G. Scharf, construct frame playhouse, one room, 310 Erin St., 190 square feet, $100 cost, using secondhand material.

Aubrey Reed Jr., construct all metal garage, one room at 100 Louisville, 288 square feet, $300.

Thursday, Oct. 8:

Vasto W. Roye, add bath and three rooms to frame residence at 1305 Florida, 900 square feet, $2500.

Friday, Oct. 9:

Usrey Lumber and Supply, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 1505 Speed Ave., 1715 square feet, $15,000.

Old Cannibal Dead At 65

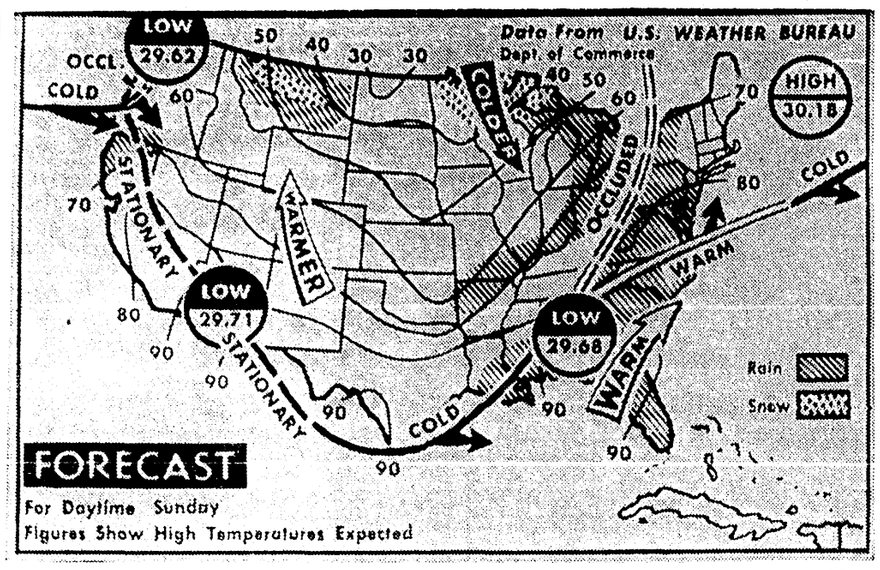
An estimated 10 million persons have seen the 900-pound gator in his pen at the Ross Allen Reptile Institute at Silver Springs since Allen captured him with another gator in Lake County 26 years ago.

Both gators were put in a pen. The next morning only one was there. But Old Cannibal didn't get his name until Allen put 14 newly captured gators in a pen with him and he killed all of them.

In 1936, a female alligator came out of the swamps and broke into the pen with Old Cannibal. They lived in peace and contentment for 20 years, raising many families. Then one day in 1956, Old Cannibal bit her head off.

Apparently touched with remorse, he hasn't eaten well since then. This coupled with old age led to his death Friday at an estimated age of 65.



WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is in store today for central and eastern Gulf coast, southern and middle Atlantic states, central Appalachians and from northern Arkansas through the Ohio Valley. Some snow may continue to fall over northern Minnesota and snow or rain over northern Lakes area. Colder temperatures are expected to move eastward to Appalachians and southward to southern Plains, while it will be warmer over southern and central Plateau. (AP Wirephoto Map)

SIGNIFICANT

Farflung Results Of Strike Told

NEW YORK (AP) — You don't notice it at all at first.

The mills shut down, and that's tough in the steel towns, but elsewhere the nation's economy hums along pretty much as it has been. It lives off the fat.

Then you start to notice it: Layoffs spread, work hours are reduced, consumer buying slackens, plans for future expansion are held up.

The steel strike had reached the point where you noticed it this week.

Here were significant items:

Mighty General Motors, the nation's largest corporation, had 12,000 employees out of work as a direct result of the steel strike. The number mounted daily.

If this condition exists at GM, it must exist in smaller steel-using companies with much less influence in procuring steel than the giant motor company.

Retail sales lagged behind a year ago this week and Dun & Bradstreet said the steel strike was partly to blame. Sales of new cars, auto company executives admit, have fallen off in the last two weeks.

New orders for machine tools have dropped from the early summer level. Business sales and inventories have slumped, partly because of the steel strike. Contracts for future building construction fell a substantial 11 per cent below 1958 in August.

Purchasing agents are convinced that, even with an immediate return of workers to steel mills, there will be a period when companies which use steel will have to reduce production.

This is because pipe lines are empty, must be refilled. A trade magazine warns layoffs will continue to spread after the strike ends.

"Getting some semblance of order in the flow of shipments will take months, not weeks," says Iron Age magazine.

All this should not reverse the current upswing in the business cycle, which has been under way since April 1958. In fact, it could prolong the length of that upswing.

Undersecretary of Commerce Phillip A. Ray told a Senate unemployment committee this week, "we may look for a renewed surge" in the economy when the steel strike ends. Most economists and businessmen probably would agree.

Tight money also was a potent factor in restraining overenthusiasm in business. It is consistently getting costlier to borrow, a point which has hurt home building.

The other side of this tight money coin became apparent this week—when the Treasury offered a note issue at 5 per cent interest, the public rushed to grab it.

The magic 5 per cent figure—it was the first time it had been reached in 30 years — stimulated national publicity. Ordinarily, Treasury issues are oversubscribed two or three times. This one was oversubscribed five times.

An unprecedented 130,000 investors wanted the 5 per cent notes. Undoubtedly some cashed in their 3¾ per cent savings bonds to get money to buy the notes, which mature in four years and 10 months.

The sensational demand for the Treasury note provided the main feature in finance on this side of the Atlantic, but London had another. Following a thumping Conservative party victory at the polls, the London stock market scored its widest one day advance on record.

Briefly over the business scene: Here's a switch: Screw & Bolt Corp. of America, closed down by the steel strike, has offered loans to any of its striking workers who are hard up. "Of course," says the president, "loans will be interest-free." Pan American World Airways has begun twice-a-week 'round the world jet service. Ten stops will be made and it will take two days. Cheap pork pleases consumers but low hog prices arouse farmers. Small groups of farmers at Kansas City and St. Joseph livestock yards tried to prevent truckers from unloading hogs. Diamonds are even better friends with girls: Sales for the first nine months this year exceeded all of 1958. The president of Schenley Industries Inc. said Americans eventually will be buying liquor in smaller bottles. It's the answer, he said, to increased taxes and rising costs.

LSU Aiming Toward Nuclear Program Stepup

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Wanted: A subcritical atomic reactor and counting room.

Louisiana State University needs them to step up its program in nuclear research.

The university plans to ask the Atomic Energy Commission for funds to cover the equipment.

LSU has approved a graduate level nuclear program. The college of engineering already is preparing for a future in atomic research work this year by offering a master's degree program.

Harry D. Richardson, associate professor of mechanical engineering, is author of the plan to push LSU ahead in the nuclear field. He believes LSU can expect to receive the AEC grant in the near future.

The petroleum engineering department this fall is offering a course in petro - physics dealing with the electric and radioactive logs used in finding and producing oil.

The university is attempting to obtain a 10 kilowatt atomic reactor to step up both nuclear training and research in all fields.

The college of engineering plans to use the reactor for courses in reactor design and for the training of operating personnel.

Richardson said the reactor would open many new possibilities for LSU researchers as well as for technical personnel from Louisiana industries. It will be valuable both as a research instrument itself and as a means of producing radiosotopes for other research.

Old Cannibal Dead At 65

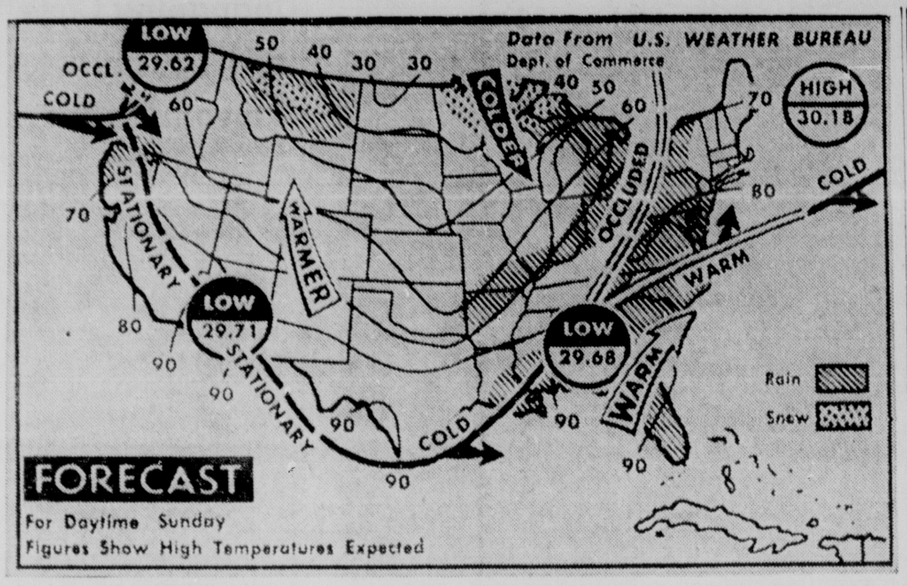
An estimated 10 million persons have seen the 900-pound gator in his pen at the Ross Allen Reptile Institute at Silver Springs since Allen captured him with another gator in Lake County 26 years ago.

Both gators were put in a pen. The next morning only one was there. But Old Cannibal didn't get his name until Allen put 14 newly captured gators in a pen with him and he killed all of them.

In 1936, a female alligator came out of the swamps and broke into the pen with Old Cannibal. They lived in peace and contentment for 20 years, raising many families. Then one day in 1956, Old Cannibal bit her head off.

Apparently touched with remorse, he hasn't eaten well since then. This coupled with old age led to his death Friday at an estimated age of 65.



WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is in store today for central and eastern Gulf coast, southern and middle Atlantic states, central Appalachians and from northern Arkansas through the Ohio Valley. Some snow may continue to fall over northern Minnesota and snow or rain over northern Lakes area. Colder temperatures are expected to move eastward to Appalachians and southward to southern Plains, while it will be warmer over southern and central Plateau. (AP Wirephoto Map)

SIGNIFICANT

Farflung Results Of Strike Told

NEW YORK (AP) — You don't notice it at all at first.

The mills shut down, and that's tough in the steel towns, but elsewhere the nation's economy hums along pretty much as it has been. It lives off the fat.

Then you start to notice it: Layoffs spread, work hours are reduced, consumer buying slackens, plans for future expansion are held up.

The steel strike had reached the point where you noticed it this week.

Here were significant items:

Mighty General Motors, the nation's largest corporation, had 12,000 employees out of work as a direct result of the steel strike. The number mounted daily.

If this condition exists at GM, it must exist in smaller steel-using companies with much less influence in procuring steel than the giant motor company.

Retail sales lagged behind a year ago this week and Dun & Bradstreet said the steel strike was partly to blame. Sales of new cars, auto company executives admit, have fallen off in the last two weeks.

New orders for machine tools have dropped from the early summer level. Business sales and inventories have slumped, partly because of the steel strike. Contracts for future building construction fell a substantial 11 per cent below 1958 in August.

Purchasing agents are convinced that, even with an immediate return of workers to steel mills, there will be a period when companies which use steel will have to reduce production.

This is because pipe lines are empty, must be refilled. A trade magazine warns layoffs will continue to spread after the strike ends.

"Getting some semblance of order in the flow of shipments will take months, not weeks," says Iron Age magazine.

All this should not reverse the current upswing in the business cycle, which has been under way since April 1958. In fact, it could prolong the length of that upswing.

Undersecretary of Commerce Phillip A. Ray told a Senate unemployment committee this week, "we may look for a renewed surge" in the economy when the steel strike ends. Most economists and businessmen probably would agree.

Tight money also was a potent factor in restraining overenthusiasm in business. It is consistently getting costlier to borrow, a point which has hurt home building.

The other side of this tight money coin became apparent this week—when the Treasury offered a note issue at 5 per cent interest, the public rushed to grab it.

The magic 5 per cent figure—it was the first time it had been reached in 30 years — stimulated national publicity. Ordinarily, Treasury issues are oversubscribed two or three times. This one was oversubscribed five times.

An unprecedented 130,000 investors wanted the 5 per cent notes. Undoubtedly some cashed in their 3¾ per cent savings bonds to get money to buy the notes, which mature in four years and 10 months.

The sensational demand for the Treasury note provided the main feature in finance on this side of the Atlantic, but London had another. Following a thumping Conservative party victory at the polls, the London stock market scored its widest one day advance on record.

Briefly over the business scene: Here's a switch: Screw & Bolt Corp. of America, closed down by the steel strike, has offered loans to any of its striking workers who are hard up. "Of course," says the president, "loans will be interest-free." Pan American World Airways has begun twice-a-week 'round the world jet service. Ten stops will be made and it will take two days. Cheap pork pleases consumers but low hog prices arouse farmers. Small groups of farmers at Kansas City and St. Joseph livestock yards tried to prevent truckers from unloading hogs. Diamonds are even better friends with girls: Sales for the first nine months this year exceeded all of 1958. The president of Schenley Industries Inc. said Americans eventually will be buying liquor in smaller bottles. It's the answer, he said, to increased taxes and rising costs.

LSU Aiming Toward Nuclear Program Stepup

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Wanted: A subcritical atomic reactor and counting room.

Louisiana State University needs them to step up its program in nuclear research.

The university plans to ask the Atomic Energy Commission for funds to cover the equipment.

LSU has approved a graduate level nuclear program. The college of engineering already is preparing for a future in atomic research work this year by offering a master's degree program.

Harry D. Richardson, associate professor of mechanical engineering, is author of the plan to push LSU ahead in the nuclear field. He believes LSU can expect to receive the AEC grant in the near future.

The petroleum engineering department this fall is offering a course in petro - physics dealing with the electric and radioactive logs used in finding and producing oil.

The university is attempting to obtain a 10 kilowatt atomic reactor to step up both nuclear training and research in all fields.

The college of engineering plans to use the reactor for courses in reactor design and for the training of operating personnel.

Richardson said the reactor would open many new possibilities for LSU researchers as well as for technical personnel from Louisiana industries. It will be valuable both as a research instrument itself and as a means of producing radiosotopes for other research.

Real Estate Head Warns Of Prices

BATON ROUGE (AP) — James M. Udall, president of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, warned Saturday the federal government may force down discount charges on housing if the industry fails to follow the intent of Congress in resisting interest rates.

Udall, of Los Angeles, spoke to the closing session of the Louisiana Realtors Assn. at the annual convention here.

"The decision of mortgage lenders to maintain FHA discount prices declined only half as much as the higher interest rates warrant.

The government, he said, may be forced to take corrective action.

"To maintain discounts higher than justified by the increased FHA interest rates," he said, "is to suggest an area for further probing by a badly-needed national monetary commission."

On another topic, Udall said cities combating blight should exercise more local initiative and law enforcement for conservatin and rehabilitation, and lean less on federal money for total area clearance.

GOOD AND BAD EFFECTS

Rains Bring Halt To Miss. Harvest

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — The Agricultural Extension Service reports rains brought harvesting activity to a halt in much of Mississippi last week.

Although slowing the harvest, the moisture helped small grains and pastures in most sections, the service reported Saturday.

Reports from county agents during the week indicated the rains were both beneficial and harmful. The reports included:

Gavin James, Wayne County agent at Waynesboro: Cotton about 70 per cent picked and corn nearly half gathered. Soybeans excellent. The planting of cover crops about half complete and stands good.

C. F. Randle, Monroe County agent at Aberdeen: Cotton harvesting about 65 per cent before halted by wet weather. Rains helped winter grazing and pastures.

C. S. Norton, Neshoba County agent at Philadelphia: Cotton picking about three-fourths complete. Winter grazing crops being planted.

R. A. Anderson, Noxubee County agent at Macon: Farmers have one of their best hay crops in years. Several hundred more acres of alfalfa being planted.

G. L. Hales, Hinds County agent at Jackson: Cotton and soybean harvesting both well under way. About 25 per cent of cotton picked. Soybean yields above average.

Lee Thompson, Quitman County agent at Marks: Cotton harvest slowed by rains, but yields of cotton, corn and soybeans look extremely good. All available hand pickers and mechanical pickers used as weather permits. Second growth likely to lower some grades.

John Killebrew, Montgomery County agent at Winona: Cotton picking about 35 per cent over. Little or no farming activity under way due to rain. Oats about 90 per cent planted and some early corn harvested.

M. W. Edwards, Simpson County agent at Mendenhall: Rains have delayed cotton picking but were highly beneficial to early fall oats. Cotton harvest about 90 per cent completed and corn harvest getting in full swing. Fall Army worms reported in several places and poisoning being done.

J. B. Miskelley, Benton County agent at Ashland: Cotton yields good and average of bale to acre forecast. Rains have halted harvesting. Work on winter pastures under way.

Viruses May Cause Mental Slowdowns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Medical researchers Friday reported indications that virus illnesses during infancy may be to blame for mental slowness later on.

They also may have a delayed, time-bomb effect on emotional health.

Previously it had been assumed that hereditary defects were reponsible for some kinds of mental retardation.

The research results indicating that viruses may be the villain were published by the Veterans Administration. They were obtained by scientists at the North Little Rock, Ark., VA hospital and the University of Arkansas Medical Center.

Virus infections, the scientists said, may affect an individual's learning ability by damaging the brain and central nervous system. The effect appears to be greatest when the infection occurs early in life.

The research, done with laboratory animals, lays the foundation for clinical research with human beings, the VA said. Such research, it was said, would determine the need for extra precautions to safeguard babies from virus disease.

Thus far the work in Arkansas has dealt only with the effect of virus infections on ability to learn. The researchers plan, however, to investigate whether brain damage caused in babies by viruses may lead also to psychiatric disturbances later in life.

The Arkansas research is being done by Dr. Carl E. Duffy, chairman of the microbiology department at the medical center; Dr. Oddist D. Murphree, chief of the VA hospital's research division, and Dr. Thomas T. Frost, the division's chief pathologist.

The scientists inoculated baby rats with viruses of the kind which cause various kinds of encephalitis (sleeping sickness). They plan later to experiment with viruses responsible for more common kinds of illness, such as mumps.

The mental retardation caused by viruses apparently is a result of harm to the central nervous system during the time when it is still developing.

Other research by other scientists has shown such damage may occur in children whose mothers were infected during the first three months of pregnancy, the VA said.

"When the child is infected in the first few hours or days after birth," the report continued, "his learning processes may be affected for the rest of his life regardless of the mental capacities he has inherited."

The report said early virus infections also may cause emotional illness years later.

"It is believed that some viruses may infect children with no apparent immediate harm but have physical effects from which psychiatric troubles might develop later in adulthood," the VA said.

Jewish People Trace Lineage To Abraham

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

There are in the world today about 12 million people whose very existence is one of the most remarkable facts of history.

These people are the Jews. They trace their lineage back nearly 3,500 years to a Mesopotamian nomad named Abraham.

The survival of this family as a conscious entity through 35 centuries of dispersion and ruthless persecutions would be hard enough to explain. But the mystery does not end there. For the Jews have not merely survived. They have placed an indelible mark on the whole of Western civilization, contributing some of its noblest ethical ideals as well as many of its greatest creative geniuses.

The religion of Judaism is essentially an explanation of this, phenomenon. It olds that the Jews were chosen by God for a peculiar destiny as a "holy people" through whom "all families of the earth shall be blessed."

THE CHOSEN PEOPLE

The Jewish scriptures — which Christians know as the Old Testament of the Bible — tell the story of God's dealings with this chosen people: How he delivered them from slavery in Egypt; how he gave them, through their prophet Moses, the great moral laws called the Ten Commandments; how he sought, through many other great prophets and leaders, and also through many terrible disasters, to bring them to a full awareness of him and his will for mankind.

Christians believe that this long historic process of spiritual education reached its climax about 1960 years ago in the life of a Jew named Jesus of Nazareth. They believed that Jesus was the Messiah or Savior whom the Jews had been taught to expect. They believe that the Jews, by rejecting Jesus, forfeited their destiny, and that their peculiar role as light-bearers to mankind has now passed to the "new Israel"—the Christian church.

Jews deny this doctrine. Many of them today revere Jesus as a moral teacher. But they do not believe that he was the Divine Son of God, or that his coming altered the special relationship of the Jewish people to God. Orthodox Jews believe the promised Messiah is still to come. Many modern Jews have abandoned expectation of a personal Messiah, but believe that God will somehow work through the Jewish people to bring about a reign of peace and righteousness on earth.

W.M. Methodist Church Open Revival Today

Rev. Jimmy Pyles will fill the pulpit at a revival opening today at Brownville Methodist Church, 1301 Alvin Street in West Monroe, according to Rev. Paul Durbin, pastor.

Services at the one-week revival will be held at 10:45 a.m. today and at 7:30 each evening.

The occasion will be climaxed by a homecoming to be held at the recently completed church next Sunday. This will also mark a layman's day service at the church, Rev. Durbin said.

Select Pastor At Salem Church

FARMERVILLE (Special) — The Rev. L. E. Traxler has been named pastor of the Salem Baptist Church near Farmerville, it was announced today.

The new pastor will succeed Rev. Troy L. Chapman who recently resigned. Before acepting the post at Salem church, Rev. Traxler was a teacher at Start High School.

He is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, is married to the former Urania Puckett. They are the parents of three sons and a daughter.

JIM STROUD

New Minister Of Music At Local Church

Jim Stroud, formerly of Montgomery, La., has accepted the post at Central Baptist church, 3400 Lee Ave., Monroe, Louisiana to serve as minister of music and education, and began his duties on October 5th.

Stroud comes to Central church from the First Baptist church in Welch, La., where he served as music and youth director.

He received his degree as Bachelor of Music from Louisiana College and has served as president of Student Congress and assistant director of the men's chorus, the Louisianians, at the college.

Rev. Charles B. Littleton is pastor of Central Baptist church.

Publication Slated For Thomas Scroll

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In 1945, a group of Egyptian peasants, poking around the ruins of a hillside tomb, discovered 13 earthen jars containing leather-bound volumes of papyrus.

They didn't think much of their find. They used one of the documents to light a fire, and sold the rest very cheaply to a dealer in antiquities.

Eventually the papyrus volumes came to the attention of biblical scholars — and touched off the greatest wave of excitement since the Dead Sea Scrolls.

One of the ancient books, preserved for more than 16 centuries in the dry Egyptian sands, proved to be a collection of 114 "Sayings of Jesus" purportedly recorded by the Apostle Thomas.

The full text of this so-called "Gospel according to Thomas," hitherto available only to a handful of researchers, will be published in English by Harper & Brothers at the end of this month.

It is fascinating reading, particularly for anyone who is reasonably familiar with the Bible.

Many of the "sayings" attributed to Jesus duplicate passages that are found in the four canonical gospels of the New Testament —Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Others, however, are new.

DOCUMENTS SPUR DEBATE

The authenticity of the latter will be the subject of long and earnest debate among scholars. Some of them sound as if they might truly have come from the lips of Jesus. For example:

"Jesus said: If those who lead you say to you: 'See, the kingdom is in Heaven,' then the birds of the heaven will precede you. If they say to you: 'It is in the sea,' then the fish will precede you. But the kingdom is within you and it is without you."

Or this new beatitude:

"Blessed is the man who has suffered, for he has found life."

And this timeless answer to the whole philosophy of materialism:

"If the flesh has come into existence because of spirit, it is a marvel; but if the spirit has come into existence because of the body, that is the marvel of marvels."

SOME 'GOSPELS' SPURIOUS

Despite the presence of these pearls, the Gospel according to Thomas" cannot properly be called "the fifth gospel." Scholars are unanimous and emphatic on that point.

Scholars are convinced that many of the alleged "sayings of Jesus" were simply made up by the Gnostic writer or writers who composed the "Gospel according to Thomas." There is general agreement that the Apostle Thomas was not the author.

Local Minister Attends Seminar

Henry C. Trull presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, Monroe, and group have just returned from El Dorado, after attending a three-day seminar at the high school auditorium.

One session at the conference presented film coverage of the International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York in July, 1958. Also the film portrayed activity of the organization world wide.

Delegates from the 18 congregations attending the circuit assembly were speakers on the program. Principal speaker was W. L. Mackey, traveling district supervisor.

Churches Here To Host State Lay President

The College Place Baptist Church will have as its speaker Sunday morning as they observe Layman's Day, H. C. Abbott, who now serves as president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

Mr. Abbott is one of the few laymen ever serve in this position. He is a member of the Broadmoor Baptist Church in Shreveport and active in many phases of Christian work. He is owner and co-owner of several businesses located in Shreveport, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, and Monroe. Mr. Abbott has a message that is of special interest to men. Abbott will also speak at the Emmanuel Baptist Church located on the corner of Breard and Fifth in Monroe at the evening service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. According to the pastor, the Rev. Fred Doolittle, the public is cordially invited to hear this man at that time.

Layman's Day activities will begin in the College Place Baptist Church according to the pastor, the Reverend T. Earl Ogg, with a Layman's Prayer meeting Sunday morning at 8:30 at the church. Special music will be arranged by the men for the morning service.

Parson Paints Churches In New England

GODDWINS MILLS, Maine (AP) — The "Painting Parson" and his family are among the best things that ever happened to church budgets in this New England area.

The Rev. Lloyd N. Osborne, 51-year-old pastor of the Advent Christian Congregation here, specializes in painting religious edifices—inside and out.

"I prefer to work on churches," he says, "they're nearer my profession. I never make any service charge for equipment. It keeps the cost down and they have a hard enough time trying to get along—especially if they're anything like mine."

The country minister said he started painting about 10 years ago. It was a natural outgrowth of his building trade experience which includes carpentering and electrical wiring.

Usually, he works with a two man crew, his son, William L., 16, and daughter, Jean, 18. Sometimes a third member of the family Deborah, 14, joins them.

Jean is a sophomore at Berkshire Christian College in Massachusetts. Her brother is a high school student. Both work on a no-holds-barred basis, climbing the long extension ladders right beside their father.

"I can pay them more than anyone else," he says, "and they're working their ways through college. They need money."

Though they specialize in churches, the parson and his family will paint just about anything. They do two churches a summer, usually, and did the same before they came here from Newbury, Vt.

Osborne devotes his winters to sermon writing and free lance writing of inspirational pieces for popular and church magazines, "but I've never sold anything yet."

Osborne, who hails from Wareham, Mass., is a graduate of the New England School of Theology and though trained in the Advent Christian discipline, makes no distinctions as to sect when painting churches.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: A woman in our church, who has a fine husband, is running around with a man who has a lovely family, also active in the church. We have talked to her, but she pays no attention. She is definitely a hindrance to the work of the church. What steps should we take? J. B. C.

ANSWER: Jesus Himself has given the general outline for handling such problems. In Matt. 18:15-20 He tells how to approach such matters without making more publicity than is necessary and yet manifesting firmness with love. It is quite clear in the Bible that such offenders are usually in a state of spiritual weakness and inactivity. Those who are informed of their sinful ways should be the spiritual nucleus of the church. The Bible tells us that "If a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself lest thou also be tempted." (Galatians 6:1). In any such case which causes embarrassment to the whole church, we must always remember that each one is subject to temptation and failure. Therefore deal with these offenders as if you were also one who stood in need of forgiveness.

But neither can you ignore the fault and allow it to continue. The general neglect of such m\ters in the church is one of its weaknesses. Pray that the Lord will guide you as you move to find a solution to such a delicate matter.

Rayville Pastor To Take Part In Hollywood Meet

RAYVILLE (Special) — The Reverend W. D. Boddie, pastor of the Rayville Methodist church, will represent the Louisiana Annual conference of the Methodist Church at the meeting of the Methodist Council of Evangelism in its annual meeting to be held this week at First Methodist Church, Hollywood, California.

Following the Council of Evangelism meeting, Mr. Boddie will participate in an evangelistic mission in the Southern California - Arizona Conference, October 17-19.

On Tuesday, October 20 the Mission will reach its climax in a meeting and closing service at First Methodist Church, Los Angeles.

That night 3,200 persons are expected to be present to hear a conference - wide report and the closing address by Bishop Gerald Kennedy, head of the Los Angeles area of the Methodist Church, which includes the Southern California - Arizona Conference.

Missionary To Brazil Slated To Speak Here

The quarterly meeting of the Ouachita Associational W. M. U. will be held Thursday at College Place Baptist Church, it was announced today. The missionary message will be brought at 11 a.m. by Mrs. Rosa Lee Duggan Clinkscales, missionary to Brazil. The meeting will open at 9:30 a.m.

The theme of the meeting will be "Unto the Uttermost," and will be reflected throughout the program.

A devotional by Mrs. W. D. Nix will open the meeting, and after matters of business presided over by Mrs. H. K. Litton, various method conferences will be held, with chairmen to include Mrs. Litton, Mrs. Leon Ivy, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, Mrs. James Pharis, Mrs. C. D. Smith, Mrs. A. D. Foreman, Mrs. A. R. DeLand and Miss Wanda Bullock.

Special music will include a trio by Mrs. P. M. Guice, Mrs. E. O. Williams and Mrs. James McGough.

Lunch will be served by the host church at the noon hour.

Jewish People Trace Lineage To Abraham

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

There are in the world today about 12 million people whose very existence is one of the most remarkable facts of history.

These people are the Jews. They trace their lineage back nearly 3,500 years to a Mesopotamian nomad named Abraham.

The survival of this family as a conscious entity through 35 centuries of dispersion and ruthless persecutions would be hard enough to explain. But the mystery does not end there. For the Jews have not merely survived. They have placed an indelible mark on the whole of Western civilization, contributing some of its noblest ethical ideals as well as many of its greatest creative geniuses.

The religion of Judaism is essentially an explanation of this, phenomenon. It olds that the Jews were chosen by God for a peculiar destiny as a "holy people" through whom "all families of the earth shall be blessed."

THE CHOSEN PEOPLE

The Jewish scriptures — which Christians know as the Old Testament of the Bible — tell the story of God's dealings with this chosen people: How he delivered them from slavery in Egypt; how he gave them, through their prophet Moses, the great moral laws called the Ten Commandments; how he sought, through many other great prophets and leaders, and also through many terrible disasters, to bring them to a full awareness of him and his will for mankind.

Christians believe that this long historic process of spiritual education reached its climax about 1960 years ago in the life of a Jew named Jesus of Nazareth. They believed that Jesus was the Messiah or Savior whom the Jews had been taught to expect. They believe that the Jews, by rejecting Jesus, forfeited their destiny, and that their peculiar role as light-bearers to mankind has now passed to the "new Israel"—the Christian church.

Jews deny this doctrine. Many of them today revere Jesus as a moral teacher. But they do not believe that he was the Divine Son of God, or that his coming altered the special relationship of the Jewish people to God. Orthodox Jews believe the promised Messiah is still to come. Many modern Jews have abandoned expectation of a personal Messiah, but believe that God will somehow work through the Jewish people to bring about a reign of peace and righteousness on earth.

W.M. Methodist Church Revival Today

Rev. Jimmy Pyles will fill the pulpit at a revival opening today at Brownville Methodist Church, 1301 Alvin Street in West Monroe, according to Rev. Paul Durbin, pastor.

Services at the one-week revival will be held at 10:45 a.m. today and at 7:30 each evening.

The occasion will be climaxed by a homecoming to be held at the recently completed church next Sunday. This will also mark a layman's day service at the church, Rev. Durbin said.

Select Pastor At Salem Church

FARMERVILLE (Special) — The Rev. L. E. Traxler has been named pastor of the Salem Baptist Church near Farmerville, it was announced today.

The new pastor will succeed Rev. Troy L. Chapman who recently resigned. Before acepting the post at Salem church, Rev. Traxler was a teacher at Start High School.

He is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, is married to the former Urania Puckett. They are the parents of three sons and a daughter.

JIM STROUD

New Minister Of Music At Local Church

Jim Stroud, formerly of Montgomery, La., has accepted the post at Central Baptist church, 3400 Lee Ave., Monroe, Louisiana to serve as minister of music and education, and began his duties on October 5th.

Stroud comes to Central church from the First Baptist church in Welch, La., where he served as music and youth director.

He received his degree as Bachelor of Music from Louisiana College and has served as president of Student Congress and assistant director of the men's chorus, the Louisianians, at the college.

Rev. Charles B. Littleton is pastor of Central Baptist church.

Publication Slated For Thomas Scroll

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In 1945, a group of Egyptian peasants, poking around the ruins of a hillside tomb, discovered 13 earthen jars containing leather-bound volumes of papyrus.

They didn't think much of their find. They used one of the documents to light a fire, and sold the rest very cheaply to a dealer in antiquities.

Eventually the papyrus volumes came to the attention of biblical scholars — and touched off the greatest wave of excitement since the Dead Sea Scrolls.

One of the ancient books, preserved for more than 16 centuries in the dry Egyptian sands, proved to be a collection of 114 "Sayings of Jesus" purportedly recorded by the Apostle Thomas.

The full text of this so-called "Gospel according to Thomas," hitherto available only to a handful of researchers, will be published in English by Harper & Brothers at the end of this month.

It is fascinating reading, particularly for anyone who is reasonably familiar with the Bible.

Many of the "sayings" attributed to Jesus duplicate passages that are found in the four canonical gospels of the New Testament —Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Others, however, are new.

DOCUMENTS SPUR DEBATE

The authenticity of the latter will be the subject of long and earnest debate among scholars. Some of them sound as if they might truly have come from the lips of Jesus. For example:

"Jesus said: If those who lead you say to you: 'See, the kingdom is in Heaven,' then the birds of the heaven will precede you. If they say to you: 'It is in the sea,' then the fish will precede you. But the kingdom is within you and it is without you."

Or this new beatitude:

"Blessed is the man who has suffered, for he has found life."

And this timeless answer to the whole philosophy of materialism:

"If the flesh has come into existence because of spirit, it is a marvel; but if the spirit has come into existence because of the body, that is the marvel of marvels."

SOME 'GOSPELS' SPURIOUS

Despite the presence of these pearls, the Gospel according to Thomas" cannot properly be called "the fifth gospel." Scholars are unanimous and emphatic on that point.

Scholars are convinced that many of the alleged "sayings of Jesus" were simply made up by the Gnostic writer or writers who composed the "Gospel according to Thomas." There is general agreement that the Apostle Thomas was not the author.

Local Minister Attends Seminar

Henry C. Trull presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, Monroe, and group have just returned from El Dorado, after attending a three-day seminar at the high school auditorium.

One session at the conference presented film coverage of the International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York in July, 1958. Also the film portrayed activity of the organization world wide.

Delegates from the 18 congregations attending the circuit assembly were speakers on the program. Principal speaker was W. L. Mackey, traveling district supervisor.

Churches Here To Host State Lay President

The College Place Baptist Church will have as its speaker Sunday morning as they observe Layman's Day, H. C. Abbott, who now serves as president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

Mr. Abbott is one of the few laymen ever serve in this position. He is a member of the Broadmoor Baptist Church in Shreveport and active in many phases of Christian work. He is owner and co-owner of several businesses located in Shreveport, Baton Rouge, New Orleans, and Monroe. Mr. Abbott has a message that is of special interest to men. Abbott will also speak at the Emmanuel Baptist Church located on the corner of Breard and Fifth in Monroe at the evening service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. According to the pastor, the Rev. Fred Doolittle, the public is cordially invited to hear this man at that time.

Layman's Day activities will begin in the College Place Baptist Church according to the pastor, the Reverend T. Earl Ogg, with a Layman's Prayer meeting Sunday morning at 8:30 at the church. Special music will be arranged by the men for the morning service.

Parson Paints Churches In New England

GODDWINS MILLS, Maine (AP) — The "Painting Parson" and his family are among the best things that ever happened to church budgets in this New England area.

The Rev. Lloyd N. Osborne, 51-year-old pastor of the Advent Christian Congregation here, specializes in painting religious edifices—inside and out.

"I prefer to work on churches," he says, "they're nearer my profession. I never make any service charge for equipment. It keeps the cost down and they have a hard enough time trying to get along—especially if they're anything like mine."

The country minister said he started painting about 10 years ago. It was a natural outgrowth of his building trade experience which includes carpentering and electrical wiring.

Usually, he works with a two man crew, his son, William L., 16, and daughter, Jean, 18. Sometimes a third member of the family Deborah, 14, joins them.

Jean is a sophomore at Berkshire Christian College in Massachusetts. Her brother is a high school student. Both work on a no-holds-barred basis, climbing the long extension ladders right beside their father.

"I can pay them more than anyone else," he says, "and they're working their ways through college. They need money."

Though they specialize in churches, the parson and his family will paint just about anything. They do two churches a summer, usually, and did the same before they came here from Newbury, Vt.

Osborne devotes his winters to sermon writing and free lance writing of inspirational pieces for popular and church magazines, "but I've never sold anything yet."

Osborne, who hails from Wareham, Mass., is a graduate of the New England School of Theology and though trained in the Advent Christian discipline, makes no distinctions as to sect when painting churches.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: A woman in our church, who has a fine husband, is running around with a man who has a lovely family, also active in the church. We have talked to her, but she pays no attention. She is definitely a hindrance to the work of the church. What steps should we take? J. B. C.

ANSWER: Jesus Himself has given the general outline for handling such problems. In Matt. 18:15-20 He tells how to approach such matters without making more publicity than is necessary and yet manifesting firmness with love. It is quite clear in the Bible that such offenders are usually in a state of spiritual weakness and inactivity. Those who are informed of their sinful ways should be the spiritual nucleus of the church. The Bible tells us that "If a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself lest thou also be tempted." (Galatians 6:1). In any such case which causes embarrassment to the whole church, we must always remember that each one is subject to temptation and failure. Therefore deal with these offenders as if you were also one who stood in need of forgiveness.

But neither can you ignore the fault and allow it to continue. The general neglect of such matters in the church is one of its weaknesses. Pray that the Lord will guide you as you move to find a solution to such a delicate matter.

Rayville Pastor To Take Part In Hollywood Meet

RAYVILLE (Special) — The Reverend W. D. Boddie, pastor of the Rayville Methodist church, will represent the Louisiana Annual conference of the Methodist Church at the meeting of the Methodist Council of Evangelism in its annual meeting to be held this week at First Methodist Church, Hollywood, California.

Following the Council of Evangelism meeting, Mr. Boddie will participate in an evangelistic mission in the Southern California - Arizona Conference, October 17-19.

On Tuesday, October 20 the Mission will reach its climax in a meeting and closing service at First Methodist Church, Los Angeles.

That night 3,200 persons are expected to be present to hear a conference - wide report and the closing address by Bishop Gerald Kennedy, head of the Los Angeles area of the Methodist Church, which includes the Southern California - Arizona Conference.

Cotton Season Schedule Ends At Area Schools

WINNSBORO (Special) — M. D. Peel, superintendent of Franklin Parish schools, said that all schools in the parish will begin operating on a regular schedule Monday. Classes will start at 8:30 a.m. and dismiss at 3:15 p.m.

Since school started, they have operated on a short schedule, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. This was to give the children a chance to help with the cotton picking. The cotton crop in this area is over half gathered.

According to T. B. Dickey, manager of the Union Compress and Warehouse here 26,835 bales of cotton have been received to date. On this same day, last year, the compress had received 13,000, Dickey said.

Last year, Franklin parish farmed approximately 43,000 acres of cotton, which produced 38,000 bales. This year, of 53,000 acres will be harvested. The allotment this year was 55,000 acres, but some farmers did not plant and the early spring rains caused some crops to be discarded.

It has been unofficially estimated that Franklin Parish will produce around 47,000 bales of cotton this year.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Two persons were arrested by police officers in the Twin Cities yesterday and charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

The Monroe police department arrested Bobbye Ruth Johns, 21-year old Monroe white woman of 1706 North 4th street. She was placed under bond of $500, police reported.

West Monroe police arrested George J. Von Diezelski, 45, of 307 Lakeshore Drive in Monroe on the same charge.

WATCH FOR RABIES

Pet Skunks Can Prove Dangerous

If you're going to buy a pet skunk make sure it was bred and raised in captivity, and properly immunized against rabies. That's the word from the Louisiana State Board of Health's chief veterinarian, Dr. Charles T. Caraway.

Since skunks are becoming more popular as pets, the public should be made aware of the danger in obtaining captured animals for pets, the public health official said. Any captured wild animal may have been exposed to rabies, and may develop the disease as long as six months after capture.

ADVISED

Recently, the United States Public Service advised that young skunks captured in nature have been shipped to many states as pets. The PHS report said that in September two pet skunks purchased in Texas from a local dealer were found to be rabid. The dealer made a practice of trappng wild pregnant skunks and nursing litters, weaning the young in captivity, and selling them as pets.

Similar incidents have occurred in other states, the PHS advisory stated.

During 1958 there were 1005 laboratory - confirmed cases of skunk rabies reported in the United States, most of these having been among wild skunks. This is 21 per cent of the total number of confirmed animal cases reported in the U.S.

State board of health records show that no laboratory confirmed cases of skunk rabies have be reported in Louisiana for the past 20 years. Although skunk rabies has not been a problem here, the danger lies in getting the disease started through importing the wild animals from other states, Dr. Caraway observed.

There have been no human cases of rabies in Louisiana since 1953. The state board of health emphasized that there is no cure for rabies once the symptoms develop.

Officers Named By Latin Club

Officers for the Neville High Latin Club to serve during the 1959-60 school year have been elected.

The Latin Club is a member of the Junior Classical League. In the past members of the club have served in various posts with the Louisiana Junior Classical League, including those of president, vice president and treasurer.

The club has won a number of awards at conventions. It engages in civic and charity projects as well as in various activities for the improvement of the school and entertainment of the student body.

Home Accident Here Results In Injuries To Two

A freak accident in a Monroe home yesterday sent two persons to the hospital with serious lacerations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pritcher, of 2107 Jasmine Street, were rushed to St. Francis hospital by Mulhearn ambulance after a large refrigerator fell onto the husband, crushing a milk bottle against his chest.

Pritcher's bleeding chest cuts resulting from the accident excited his wife, who rushed into the kitchen where the mishap occurred to help. In doing so, she slipped onto a jagged piece of broken glass and cut a deep gash in her right foot.

Several stitches were used to treat the two at the hospital, but both were released and returned home last night to begin cleaning up the array of blood-strewn debris in their kitchen.

"It was strictly a freak accident," Pritcher commented after it was all over," and one of those things nobody could believe would happen to him."

Since school started, they have operated on a short schedule, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. This was to give the children a chance to help with the cotton picking. The cotton crop in this area is over half gathered.

According to T. B. Dickey, manager of the Union Compress and Warehouse here 26,835 bales of cotton have been received to date. On this same day, last year, the compress had received 13,000, Dickey said.

Last year, Franklin parish farmed approximately 43,000 acres of cotton, which produced 38,000 bales. This year, of 53,000 acres will be harvested. The allotment this year was 55,000 acres, but some farmers did not plant and the early spring rains caused some crops to be discarded.

It has been unofficially estimated that Franklin Parish will produce around 47,000 bales of cotton this year.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Two persons were arrested by police officers in the Twin Cities yesterday and charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

The Monroe police department arrested Bobbye Ruth Johns, 21-year old Monroe white woman of 1706 North 4th street. She was placed under bond of $500, police reported.

West Monroe police arrested George J. Von Diezelski, 45, of 307 Lakeshore Drive in Monroe on the same charge.

TRICK TO REMEMBER

WATCH FOR RABIES

Pet Skunks Can Prove Dangerous

If you're going to buy a pet skunk make sure it was bred and raised in captivity, and properly immunized against rabies. That's the word from the Louisiana State Board of Health's chief veterinarian, Dr. Charles T. Caraway.

Since skunks are becoming more popular as pets, the public should be made aware of the danger in obtaining captured animals for pets, the public health official said. Any captured wild animal may have been exposed to rabies, and may develop the disease as long as six months after capture.

ADVISED

Recently, the United States Public Service advised that young skunks captured in nature have been shipped to many states as pets. The PHS report said that in September two pet skunks purchased in Texas from a local dealer were found to be rabid. The dealer made a practice of trappng wild pregnant skunks and nursing litters, weaning the young in captivity, and selling them as pets.

Similar incidents have occurred in other states, the PHS advisory stated.

During 1958 there were 1005 laboratory - confirmed cases of skunk rabies reported in the United States, most of these having been among wild skunks. This is 21 per cent of the total number of confirmed animal cases reported in the U.S.

State board of health records show that no laboratory confirmed cases of skunk rabies have be reported in Louisiana for the past 20 years. Although skunk rabies has not been a problem here, the danger lies in getting the disease started through importing the wild animals from other states, Dr. Caraway observed.

There have been no human cases of rabies in Louisiana since 1953. The state board of health emphasized that there is no cure for rabies once the symptoms develop.

Officers Named By Latin Club

Officers for the Neville High Latin Club to serve during the 1959-60 school year have been elected.

The Latin Club is a member of the Junior Classical League. In the past members of the club have served in various posts with the Louisiana Junior Classical League, including those of president, vice president and treasurer.

The club has won a number of awards at conventions. It engages in civic and charity projects as well as in various activities for the improvement of the school and entertainment of the student body.

Home Accident Here Results In Injuries To Two

A freak accident in a Monroe home yesterday sent two persons to the hospital with serious lacerations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pritcher, of 2107 Jasmine Street, were rushed to St. Francis hospital by Mulhearn ambulance after a large refrigerator fell onto the husband, crushing a milk bottle against his chest.

Pritcher's bleeding chest cuts resulting from the accident excited his wife, who rushed into the kitchen where the mishap occurred to help. In doing so, she slipped onto a jagged piece of broken glass and cut a deep gash in her right foot.

Several stitches were used to treat the two at the hospital, but both were released and returned home last night to begin cleaning up the array of blood-strewn debris in their kitchen.

"It was strictly a freak accident," Pritcher commented after it was all over," and one of those things nobody could believe would happen to him."

Great Moments

Fifteen guests, aged three to six, attended the "Housewarming" for Connie Moore's backyard playhouse, at 306 Roselawn. Robert Moore built the Queen-size doll's house for his four-year-old daughter. It took one month of leisure hours, several items of scrap material. White frame, well-roofed, insulated, painted inside and out, the house has an electrical outlet, ceiling light, open-out windows, furniture — it could be lived in. Connie wants to.

It's so cozy and comfortable in your own, exclusive home.

Tea for three. Don't forget t o fill my cup, Terry warns.

Talkative Bird Light In Head

By BOB BARNES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A talking bird's a silly thing. He tosses off one nursery rhyme after another. He acts the perfect host—or quite the opposite. His wisecracks can double you up. But—

Don't let him fool you.

There's not a thought in his saucy little head.

That's the word of Philip Marsden, England's leading expert on parakeets—known as budgerigars or "budgies" over there.

TRAINED

A properly trained parakeet can prattle on and on, astounding his listeners with his scope. His vocabulary can rival that of many a human. There's just that one thing wrong: He doesn't think.

"But what fun they are," says Marsden. "They're the perfect companion, especially for shutins."

Marsden once had 300 birds at the same time. Not bad for someone who does it strictly as a hobby. He says there's no reason for anyone to own a parakeet that doesn't sound off for the wide-eyed guest.

"They're easy to train, you know. How? we'll get to that in a minute.

REMARKABLE

"It's rather remarkable what some budgies can do." Marsden says. "Last year we ran a competition over the British Broadcasting Co. in England and the bird that won knew more than 700 words. He could say 14 nursery rhymes right through perfectly."

Here's one that Marsden, a slight, 43-year-old fighter pilot veteran of the Battle of Britain, taught one of his pets:

"Mary had a little lamb.

"Its foot was black as soot;

"And everywhere that Mary went

"The sooty foot he put."

"There is one parakeet for every five people in England now, you know.

EASY

"They're cheap to buy, cheap to keep, easy to train — and lonely people can talk to them without feeling silly."

Back to the training: "You start with a 6-week-old male bird. You can recognize a baby by the black barring across its forehead. It's trainable if it has a barred head. If it has spots, it's an adult; don't buy it. Millions buy birds like that, then wonder why they can't make them talk."

Start with one word—the bird's name. "Repeat it as often as possible and always in the same tone. The first month speak every chance you get. With normal perseverance, a bird will say its name in a month to five weeks. After that teach it a phrase, tacking it onto the name. Then tack another phrase to the first.

Like this: " 'Bobby's a clever boy, Bobby will wash the dishes.' Say it all at once, then repeat the last phrase over and over. By that method, you can teach the bird long nursery rhymes and other things."

What about the thinking?

"They don't think at all. They do learn to associate a word with a circumstance, however."

Marsden is principal of the vote office in the House of Commons. He's in this country for three weeks of television appearances, to discuss parakeets.

"My family all think I'm a little bit nuts," he sighs. "But I've got a tiger by the tail and can't let go."

Capital City Described By Lord Lyons

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 100 years ago, Lord Lyons, bewhiskered, youngish ambassador from Britain, sent home a description of the city of Washington.

"A terrible place for young men," he said. "Nothing whatever in the shape of amusement for them."

No one doubts the accuracy of Lord Lyons' picture. Washington was just an overgrown village then.

But could the present ambassador cable home the same description now? Is the nation's capital still a hub by day and a dud by night?

Like most questions in this federal town, these provoke more than one answer. Arguments usually follow two contrasting lines:

DREARIEST

1. Washington is one of the world's dreariest capitals after dark. A few hours after midnight the only one you are likely to meet on the silent, black streets is a milkman or a mugger.

2. Washington is one of the world's great cultural, cosmopolitan centers. Great music, theater, jazz, night clubs, foreign restaurants, parties. There's enough amusement here for anyone.

Where does the truth lie? Well, it is true that city laws tend to drive everyone home late at night.

No drinks may be served past midnight on Saturday, and 2 a.m. on other nights. Even before then, regulations cramp the informal spirit of bars and cabarets.

ONLY BEER

No one may perch on a bar stool and down whisky, for only beer is served along the bar. If you sit at a table and order liquor, you can't walk around with it; no one may stand with a drink in his hand.

Washington also seems to have an entrenched hostility toward novel, atmospheric or imaginative night spots.

Just a few months ago, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board forced the owner of a cafe to remove an exhibition of paintings from his walls. The business of the cafe is to sell food and liquor the board decided, not culture.

But in spite of this evidence, it is true that Washington often is host to some of the country's most exciting cultural events.

Foreign troupes, like the Bolshoi Ballet, arrive, even for just one night, to pay their respects to the capital of a great nation. The Moiseyev Dancers, the Old Vic Theater, the Japanese Imperial Household Dancers, the African Ballet all appeared in Washington during the past year.

In addition Broadway producers frequently use the city as a tryout town. From six to a dozen plays a season show their wares in Washington before making the big sell on Broadway.

Canada's Northland

New Frontier

By TOM HENSHAW

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (AP)—Indians in black leather jackets and heavy, muddied boots hunch over beers in the plush cocktail lounge of the Yellowknife Hotel and debate whether to go to a movie.

An off-duty mine worker in Uranium City, Sask., checks the red devils and one-eyed wobblers in his tackle box and hops into his mahogany speedboat to do lonely battle with the giant trout in Lake Athabasca.

A 5-year-old boy plays construction worker with toy steam shovel in the yard of his modern ranch-style home in Thompson, Man. At the time he was born, Thompson was virgin forest.

It was just another sunshiny fall day amid the green and gold forests and clear blue lakes of the new North American frontier—Canada's vast, booming and forbidding Northland, whose untapped mineral resources stand high in the nation's economic future.

It's frontier, yes; but a frontier that features most of the comforts of home in strange combination with the inconveniences of a remote new land.

"This is a frontier?" grinned Frank McCall, the Northern Affairs Department's representative in Yellowknife. "There's so many autos around here that we're thinking of putting in stop lights and parking meters."

There are, by official count, 787 motor vehicles in Yellowknife — pop. 3,500—and no access roads. But you need a car to get to the busy airport or to the sand-strewn 9-hole golf course.

A graceful, brick Roman Catholic cathedral is going up in Fort Smith—pop. 1,500—capital of the Northwest Territories, some 200 miles south of here. The cathedral looks out of place among the dirt streets and the rough board sidewalks.

Fly by bush plane from The Pas, Man., over miles and miles of forest, lakes and muskeg (swamp) and suddenly the town of Thompson—pop. 2,700; expected pop. 8,000—with its prim little bungalows and geometric streets springs up out of the sea of trees.

A striking feature of the Canadian North is its isolation. The rest of the world in general—and Edmonton, Alta., in particular—is known to Northerners as "the outside."

For Yellowknife, Fort Smith and Uranium City, the "outside" begins either at Waterways or Grimshaw, both in Alberta. Each is a terminal of different northern Alberta railroad lines. They are about 250 miles south of Fort Smith.

A railroad north to Pine Point on Great Slave Lake is in the planning stage and, in true frontier tradition, rival towns are choosing up sides to fight for either the western route from Grimshaw or the eastern route from Waterways.

Current overland access to the North Country is provided by the MacKenzie Highway, hacked out of the wilderness for some 400 miles between Grimshaw and Hay River, and by barge from Waterways down the sluggish, shallow Athabasca and Slave rivers.

The queen of northern transport is the airplane. Pacific Western Airlines (PWA—known locally as "Please Wait Awhile") operates as far north as Inuvik and Coppermine on the Arctic Ocean. Tough little bush planes can fly almost any place that has a puddle of water.

The people of the North Country are inveterate travelers, mostly by air. It's not unusual for a fun-loving fellow in Yellowknife to fly down to Edmonton 600 miles; $106 round trip—for a weekend of frivolity in the big city.

A housewife in Thompson — luckily in spur distance of the Canadian National Railways Hudson Bay line—has a six-hour train ride to The Pas and then a 2½ hour flight in order to go on a shopping spree in Winnipeg.

The larger towns in the North Country boast telephone service. But calls to the "outside" are impossible. The "outside" begins in McMurray, Alta., some 250 miles from Fort Smith.

"Some of the mining men have been known to fly to Edmonton to make an urgent phone call to Toronto," says a Yellowknife cab driver. Yellowknife has two cab companies.

Both Fort Smith and Yellowknife have radio stations affiliated with the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. El Dorado and Gunnar, tiny company-built towns near Uranium city, have unlicensed but tacitly approved 2½ watt stations with a range of one mile.

There are five television sets in Yellowknife—but no TV station. Set owners spend their time fiddling with the dial, hoping that freak atmospheric conditions will bring in such odd places as Denver, Seattle or Anchorage. If reception is good, they'll call in the neighbors to help with the viewing.

Such a spirit of helpful cooperation and sharing is high in the North. Veteran bush pilots like Pat Carey of Fort Smith daily fly miles out of their way in their pontooned Beavers and Otters to check an isolated logging camp and see that everything is all right.

Almost all the communities of the Canadian North are single industry towns. In Yellowknife, it's gold; Uranium City, uranium; Thompson, nickel; Fort Smith, government. There are reminders of the industry everywhere.

The price of gold ($35 an ounce) is a ceaseless topic of conversation in Yellowknife. Unpaved streets in Uranium City bear the names Nuclear South and Uranium Road. The smelter stack of the International Nickel Co. is the landmark of Thompson. Three out of every four people in Fort Smith work for the government.

The accent is on youth in the North. The Average age of workers at the Eldorado mine near Uranium City is said to be 24. Some of the young people come with a spirit of adventure. Others are looking for a quick stake to take back "outside." The number of young, single women is surprisingly high.

"It's a funny thing," says Peter Templeton, assistant administrator of the MacKenzie District. "Most of them find that they're better off socially up here. In a place like Edmonton they'd get lonely sitting around their rooms. Here, everyone knows everyone else and there are a lot of community activities."

A sample of the activities might include a dance at Consolidated Discovery mine 55 miles out in the bush from Yellowknife or a basketball game between the Town Trotters and the High Dribblers in the Uranium City High School auditorium or the curling matches in Fort Smith.

The large number of young married couples — like Pete and O'Connor, late of London, Ont., who brought their 8-weeks-old baby to Swanson, Alta. — means a large number of children in the North Country. And children mean schools.

The first elementary school — 12 rooms — opened last month in Thompson with 144 children between 6 and 16. The 2-year-old, three-million-dollar federal school and hostel in Fort Smith is equipped to handle 500 youngsters. The Roman Catholic mission staff the hostel where kids from the bush stay during the school year.

Many old timers view the changing face and population of their Northland with something akin to sadness. One is Paul W. Kaesar who came north 30 years ago working on the old Hudson Bay Co. river steamers and now runs one of the three general stores in Fort Smith.

"The romance of the North is gone," he concludes — and then he does his little bit to keep it alive. He still trades for furs with the dour Indian trappers who wander into his store across the street from the rambling, modern Pinecrest Hotel.

Rub, scrub, sweep, shake, got to clean it up.

Small Fry Learn To Save

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's small-fry, saling away their hard-earned money, last year put more than four million dollars in the bank.

Their mountain of savings, nearing the quarter-billion mark, jumped 19 per cent during the last 12 months.

Some banks offer special passbooks—in pink and blue and illustrated with storybook characters—to help turn the march of coins from piggy-banks into a stampede.

After a number of deposits, many bankers pass out coloring books, balloons, candy and other sweets—also grandfatherly pats on the head or back.

A few banks go all out to help their pint-sized customers retain dignity and independence in fiscal matters. In such places, the little men—and women—climb a raised platform at the "pediatric teller's window."

Older youngsters, reports the American Bankers Association, save the easy way through branch banks set up in public and parochial schools in many areas. Deposits range from as little as a nickel to a week up to folding money.

The development of the savings habit matters more than the amount, the ABA says.

The habit grows stronger when the youngster sets a definite savings goal. Typical goals: Christmas present money, a musical instrument, a new bicycle, and, long-range—a college education.

To start a child on the savings habit, bankers suggest:

—Encourage him to supplement the allowance you give him with extra payments for odd jobs around the hose.

—Boost the incentive for saving by not buying him everything he asks for.

—Help him to decide how much to save and how much to spend.

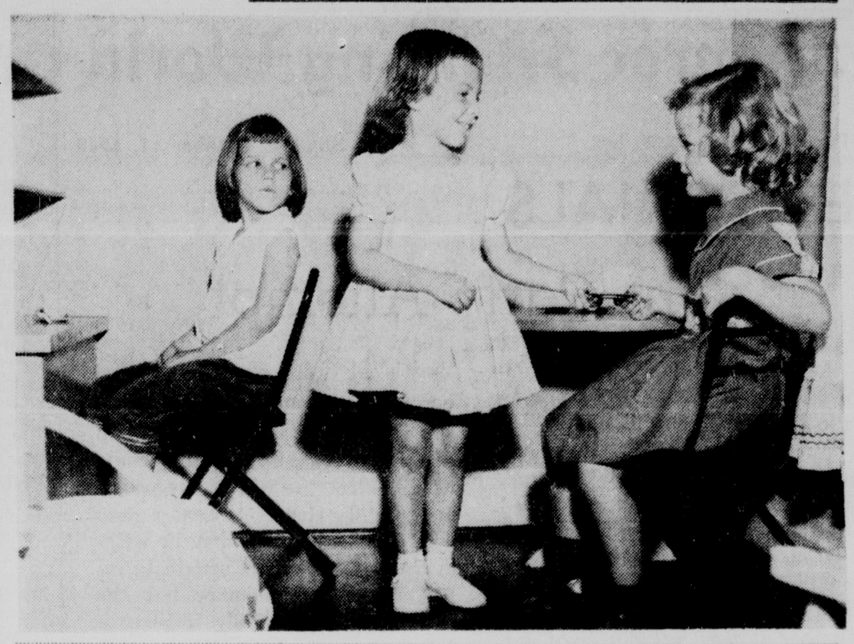
Sure is nice to rest after a hard day's work.

Great Moments

Fifteen guests, aged three to six, attended the "Housewarming" for Connie Moore's backyard playhouse, at 306 Roselawn. Robert Moore built the Queen-size doll's house for his four-year-old daughter. It took one month of leisure hours, several items of scrap material. White frame, well-roofed, insulated, painted inside and out, the house has an electrical outlet, ceiling light, open-out windows, furniture — it could be lived in. Connie wants to.

Early visitors come to help get house "in shape" for housewarming. Rhonda Nell Brister, 5, knocks on Connie's door, Terry Heckathorn, 5, right, waits patiently.

It's so cozy and comfortable in your own, exclusive home.



Tea for three. Don't forget t o fill my cup, Terry warns.

One-Party Attempt

A strange attempt in Mississippi to bind the state to one-party rule apparently has failed.

Circuit Judge M. M. McGowan ordered the name of William V. Westbrook, Jr., republican, placed on Mississippi's November general election ballot as a candidate for senator.

Judge McGowan ruled that whether it was morally right for a republican to run by petition as an independent was "not a question for the court but the legislature."

"It appears that this man has a right to run for the senate," Judge McGowan said."

The 31-year-old Mr. Westbrook, segregationist president of the Jackson Republican club, promised "an immediate hard campaign" to win the senate seat of Hinds county's long - time democratic lawmaker Hayden Campbell.

So strong was the democratic opposition to the entry of a republican that Assistant Attorney General Rubel Griffin represented the election boald at the hearing. He told the court that even if Mr. Westbrook did win the senate's seat, the state senate was almost certain to refuse to seat him and to continue to recognize Mr. Campbell.

The ruling came after the state democratic leadership expressed outspoken opposition to the candidacy of Westbrook.

Faced with what was called "the greatest resurgence of the Mississippi G.O.P. since Little Rock," even Governor J. P. Coleman and Attorney General Joe Patterson issued statements opposing the "invasion" of a republican into the November general election.

The contention of the assistant general that the state senate would refuse to seat Mr. Westbrook and would continue Mr. Campbell in office, even if Mr. Westbrook were elected, was unbecoming to any official representing the state. Virtually, in so many words, he said the senate would reject the will ot the people and would attempt to seat a man who was defeated. It may lie within the powers of the senate to reject an elected member but the authority of that body to place a defeated candidate in office is far more in doubt. In all probability, if the senate were to flout the will of the people in the event of the election of Mr. Westbrook, a special election would be required and it is doubtful, under the judge's ruling, if Mr. Westbrook could be prevented from running again in a general election.

Clearly the handling of a general election in any state lies outside the province of any one political party. If this were not so, it would soon be possible to establish one-party rule in all states. Apparently, the governor, the attorney general and the assistant attorney general in Mississippi have been acting more in behalf of the state's democratic party than in behalf of the state itself.

Political neglect and mistreatment of the south can be attributed to a large extent to the fact that it has had only one political party. The value of the two-party system has been clearly demonstrated.

Resurgence of republicanism in Mississippi or any other state in the south means the people are dissatisfied with the leadership of the Democratic party. They have a right to voice this dissatisfaction by way of the ballot.

As Judge McGowan pointed out, a republican candidate cannot be barred from the general election ticket simply because members of the Democratic party do not want him to run.

Inadequate Parents

Sensibly, the National Education Association has made statements refuting a somewhat recently developed theory that the whole question of juvenile delinquency can be solved by an attack on delinquent or inadequate parents.

In the first place, changing inadequate parents is no easier than changing juvenile delinquents into models of correct behavior. It has long been recognized that inadequate parents are largely, although not completely, responsible for the misbehavior of their children but the theory that parents should be punished for the crimes of their children is comparatively new in the United States, but not in some of the countries in which it is customary to punish whole families for the alleged misdeeds of one member.

Dr. William C. Kvaraceus, director of the year-long NEA project, emphasized that "the famliy is one of the most important influences in the life of the individual, and few parents are willfully negligent or have any wish to raise a delinquent youngster."

Anyone who will study this statement will know that it is true. Even among the lower-grade parents, the percentage of those who do not wish good and honorable lives for their children is extremely small. Most of the parents in the lower-grade groups themselves have had inadequate upbringing and opportunity and simply do not have the ability to pass on to their children something they, themselves, do not possess. If it were possible to take these parents and run them through some magic machine that could make them adequate the question of juvenile delinquency would be greatly lessened but the same would be true if the juvenile delinquents could be run through that sort of machine. Even the most upright, conscientious and educated parents sometimes fail to meet the needs of their children, and raise juvenile delinquents, although the percentage among these people is much smaller.

Some parents, the NEA report says, just aren't able to cope with their children. They may be imigrants, unfamiliar with the American way of life. They may be so busy making a living they have no time for their offspring. Either the father or mother, or both, may be emotionally insecure or mentally disturbed. The family may be broken by death or divorce.

"We must be particularly wary of the 'delinquent' parent as a handy scapegoat," said the report. "To blame the inadequate parent is useless. How to help the inadequate parent — that is the problem." Continuing, the report said:

"Many of these parents need, more than anything else, some feeling of understanding and acceptance on the part of the school and the community. When school and family work closely together, a promising result is likely. But when school and family are in opposition, an entirely different climax may be in the offing.

"The school cannot live in isolation from the police and the courts. If it does, it is failing the youngster in trouble and handicapping the professional workers who are trying to help him.

"Unfortunately, most — if not all — communities attach a stigma to police contact and juvenile court appearances.

"Thus, when some minor or even major violations is uncovered, home and school sometimes from the police and court. They join forces in protecting the child often err on the side of over-protection from legal agencies that aim to help, rather than hurt."

Old China Editors Die

Sokolsky Recalls Happy Days With O. M. Green And H. G. W. Woodhead When It Was Good To Live In Asia

I see by the newspapers that two of my old China editors recently died in London. The mention of the names, O. M. Green and H. G. W. Woodhead, aroused memories of a happy, exciting, fascinating world when China was trying hard to become a democratic republic and could not find a way to do it. It was good to live in Asia then.

O. M. Green was as English an Englishman as ever was and he edited the North China Daily News in Shanghai which was more British than Buckingham Palace. It was in format more austere than the London Times after which it was fashioned. Only one American had ever been associated with it, Rodney Gilbert, its Peking correspondent.

I had drifted in from Tientsin into Shanghai where I found work on the Gazette which was really owned by Sun Yat-sen. This brought me into close contact with the Father of the Republic and I saw Dr. Sun every afternoon for a few years. It was he who steered me into the Shanghai Students Union, telling the boys and girls that I had recently come from Russia and therefore knew how to make a revolution.

During the Students Strike of 1919, I was very active. This was a universal refusal to work, to sell, to transport anything but food supplies unless the government of China rejected the Versailles Treaty, as that documnt gave parts of China to Japan. It was out of this movement that all the conflicting forces now struggling in the East of Asia blossomed. Within a year the Chinese Communist Party was organized.

Little of this news was being reported at the time in the foreign press, even in locally published newspapers. So one day, O. M. Green sent for me and asked me if I were willing to give him an occasional article on the mass movements among the Chinese. It was a wonderful opportunity for me to bring into this most important newspaper in the Far East, the views and activities of those elements among the Chinese who heretofore had had no avenue for communication with the foreigners in China.

Working for O. M. Green was a novel experience. He was a man of great culture, of firm belif in British virtue of some suspicion that Americans were upstarts, a little shocked that the youth of China were not like their forebears. He was loyal to China as he was loyal to Great Britain. His virtues were classical and he could not let down anything or anyone with whom he was associated. After he left China permanently, he continued to write about that country for the Observer.

H. G. W. Woodhead was of different material. He edited the British newspaper in Tientsin when I assisted on the American newspaper. We were strictly divided along national lines in those days and although nearly two decades had passed since the Boxer Rebellion, there were still memories of it in Tientsin and the foreigners there continued to live in the shadow of fear. Foreign troops were stationed in this city when I came there in 1918 and occasionally these troops fought each other as I once experienced when American and Japanse soldiers made a private war over some Korean prostitutes.

Some years later, Woodhead engaged me to write on current Chinese matters for the "China Year Book," a most valuable compendium of information. The "China Year Book" for 1924 contains the first full account of the new relations between China and Soviet Russia and this edition also reports on the newly organized labor movement in China into which the Communists under the leadership of Li Lih-san were already infiltrating. In the 1926 edition appears the following:

"The Communist Party and the Communist Youth are organizations which came into existence largely through young people of China being converted to Communism through the reading of Communist literature and through education in Communist schools in Irkutsk, Moscow, Leningrad and other Russian cities. These Chinese are more closely affiliated with the Third International than with the Soviet Government and their activities are not always identical with the activities of the Soviet representatives in China . . ."

These Chinese Communists were Trotzkyists and their contact in Russia was Karl Radek. I knew this movement when it was born and imagine the surprise when a decade later I heard it said in the United States that these were not Communists; they were Agrarian reformers!

New Neighbors Will Be Just About Like Those Left Behind

A Two-Faced Crowd — In a talk before the American Public Welfare Association, Rep. Frank Thompson, Jr., Dem.-New Jersey, was reminded of an old Carl Sandburg vignette from our pioneer past. An early sodbuster in Kansas was leaning on his gatepost when a newcomer drove up in a covered wagon asking, "What kind of folks live around here?" "Well, stranger," the sodbuster replied, "What kind of folks was there in the country you came from?" "Well," said the newcomer, "they were mostly a lowdown, lying, thieving, gossiping, backbiting lot of people." Said the sodbuster, "Well, I guess, stranger, that's about the kind of folks you'll find around here." Some time later another covered wagon pulled up and the same question was repeated. Again the sodbuster countered, "Well, stranger, what kind of folks were there in the country you came from?" "They were mostly a decent, hardworking, law - abiding, friendly lot of people," was the reply this time. "Well," said the sodbuster, "I guess, stranger, that's about the kind of folks you'll find around here."

Out Of The Past — It hardly seems so but the first anniversary of Sherman Adams' resignation as right - hand man to President Eisenhower has just passed. Many stories about Adams' reputation for Yankee chilliness are being repeated. It is being recalled, too, how the 500 guests at the Gridiron Club's annual dinner in 1954 roared with laughter at one of the skits. Adams, who was labeled "Sherm the Firm" by the club, was asked to rise at the dinner. Then Joe Pew, head of Sun Oil Co., also was asked to stand. At this point a voice roared, "This proves that oil and ice water do mix."

A TRAGIC RECORD — The Civil War Centennial Commission has put together in an interesting booklet scores of facts about that great war. It points out, for example, that an area of barely 20 square miles in Virginia became America's bloodiest battle ground. More than half a million men fought in deadly combat in this small area which embraced Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, The Wilderness, Spotsylvania and Cold Harbor. Here, more than were killed and wounded in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the War with Mexico and all the Indian wars combined. Nineteen generals — 10 Union and nine Confederate — met death there.

Draped In Red Tape — Richard Jackson, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of personnel and reserve forces, has gone along with a proposal that WAVEs be issued four towels each — the same number men sailors get. The girl sailors now get their towels on an "organizational basis" which is to say they must turn them in or account for them when transferred. It only costs $1.50 to give the WAVEs a towel allowance but it's not that simple. Since this is an unbudgeted item it must be approved by the Secretary of Defense.

Table Habits — A new department of agriculture study shows that young homemakers are setting a more nutritious table than older homemakers. The study has turned up the fact that food prepared by the older homemakers is low in one or more of eight essential nutrients. Young homemakers tend to use more of such prepared foods as flour mixes, potato chips, canned vegetables and baby foods. On the other hand, though, the older homemakers make greater use of dried fruits and vegetables.

Stock Declines

Many Little Fellows May Get Out But Holdings Still Good

Perhaps, if the stock market slide which began this past summer continues for some time, countless numbers of little fellows who have been buying stocks regularly will become thoroughly disenchanted. And they'll stop putting any percentage of their savings into "Wall Street." Perhaps..

Perhaps if the stock price decline of September — the sharpest in more than a quarter-century — turns into a severe crack-up, countless numbers of Americans who until now have been claiming they're not concerned with week - to - week fluctuations will become panicky. And these will begin dumping what they own. Perhaps . . .

Perhaps, if some unanticipated event suddenly shifts the national attention from inflation to deflation, countless families will decide that dollars in the bank are the best thing after all. And they'll abruptly start hoarding every penny they can in cash. Perhaps . . .

Any of these things could happen.

For the startling fact is that the 6,000,000 individuals who have been added to the stockholder lists in America just since 1952 have known only a market going up most of the time. (The 100-point break in the Dow-Jones stock price average in 1957 was so short - lived that it was over before most little investors were aware it had occurred.) We can't be sure how these new stockholders will respond to a prolonged, painful decline.

Still, the odds are against these things happening on anything approaching a calamitous scale for the stock market — and one reason lies in the "rhythmic pattern" of buying developed by so many millions of America's new investors.

What was the "pattern" of stock buying by the individuals who dominated the market before the catastrophic crash of 30 years ago this month? Not only was the buying on the thinnest of margins. It also was erratic. It was frequently emotional. It was mostly uninformed. It was often hysterical as the stock market roared toward its historic 1929 top.

It's hard to describe the pattern, because there really wasn't any.

Today? Today, there is a rhythm to stock buying by the millions — and this, I submit, is another distinction between 1929 and 1959.

Today a vast and growing army of stockholders consists of employes of corporations buying shares in their own companies through payroll savings plans. Under these plans the employe generally puts a percentage of his pay in stocks, and a most significant point is that many of the plans have major provisions safeguarding the employe's nestegg against a stock market slump.

At the last count 1,340,000 of the 12,490,000 individual stockholders in the country were buying under employe stock purchase plans. A full 27 per cent who had become stockholders between 1956 and 1959 had begun their buying through these plans.

Is this type of stockholder likely to panic? I'd guess "no."

Today millions of little investors are buying through programs which stress regular, month-after-month buying of highest-grade stocks. The devices for this buying both in periods of price rise and price fall are many and varied, but the basic angle is that these millions are deliberate long-term buyers, investing a comfortable percentage of their savings in confidence that, over the years, they'll come out okay.

Today an increasing volume of stocks is going into the hands of children via new state laws making it easy to give gifts of stocks to minors, and as a result stock-ownership is coming early to the new generation.

Are these stocks likely to be dumped? I'd guess "no."

This "rhythm" is not as fundamental as some of the other distinctions, of course — but it is important: it has no parallel in previous eras, and it might be a much more important stabilizing factor than we suspect.

Tomorrow: Distinction No. 5: Regulations.

'Nine' To Work

Supreme Court Most Famous Notwithstanding World Series

WASHINGTON, D. C. — America's most famous "nine," the World Series notwithstanding, get down to serious work on October 12th with around 800 cases and half a dozen hot issues before the Supreme Court.

* * *

In matters of this sort, it doesn't do to look for "progress." The Justices have 100 more cases on this year's docket than on last year's. Many of the issues, although previously confronted and decided, are back again in different costumes and reenforced by more learned and more wily arguments. You might say that the Justices, like the motormen on the Times Square-42nd Street underground shuttle train, don't "get anywhere." But by doing their jobs they are proving the worth of the old French proverb which says, more or less, that the more life changes the more it remains the same. Some of the recurring but unchanging matters are:

The States vs. the Federal Government: Both Alabama and Georgia have won cases in the lower courts with regard to their conduct of elections. Under the Civil Rights law of 1957, Negro citizens went into Federal court for the first time with claims that their voting rights are being infringed. The Supreme Court has a long record of deciding against the States — but the Deep South is a land of renowned Constitutional lawyers. The outcome of these cases may slow up the down-with Dixie trend.

In a similar case, the Gulf States are fighting for what they consider is their own territory, albeit submerged by water. This new go-round on who owns how much of the tidelands is another instance of Federal vs. local sovereignty.

Equal Justice Under Law: Surely no country under heaven ever tried so hard, to its own detriment, to give every scoundrel a chance to beat the law. This is notably true of laws designed to protect the State against hidden enemies. As everybody knows, treason against the USA is severely defined in the Constitution and is almost impossible to prove in peacetime. Statutes passed by Congress and State legislatures have been crippled and slain by the Supreme Court in a sometimes quixotic interpretation of its duty. At the present session two Communist agents appeal their convictions and hope to escape punishment by loophole legalities.

Junius Irving Scales, a Red organizer in North Carolina, is contending: that the Communist "membership clause" of the Smith Act does not sufficiently apply to him; that he was denied a fair trial by reason of some technicalities in presenting grand jury evidence and because he was not permitted to examine the full text of some FBI materials.

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, alias "Mark," alias Martin Collins, alias Emil R. Goldfus, is a convicted Red spy from Brooklyn. He claims his right to freedom because, he says, the Department of Justice employed a "subterfuge" by holding him on an alien detention warrant instead of arresting him for his crime. This action is alleged to violate the Fourth Amendment which guards "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Protect the Individual: Two cases, opposite in nature, test the rights of persons within their communities. In the town of Moberly, Missouri, the education board in 1954 obeyed the Supreme Court and desegregated the schools. This was done by closing the Negro's Lincoln School and integrating the colored children into other classrooms. Yes, but at the opening of the 1955-56 school season, the board decided not to renew the contracts of the eleven Negro teachers at Lincoln. School. Question: "That the board acted honestly pursuant to its rule in awarding the teaching contracts."

One-Party Attempt

A strange attempt in Mississippi to bind the state to one-party rule apparently has failed.

Circuit Judge M. M. McGowan ordered the name of William V. Westbrook, Jr., republican, placed on Mississippi's November general election ballot as a candidate for senator.

Judge McGowan ruled that whether it was morally right for a republican to run by petition as an independent was "not a question for the court but the legislature."

"It appears that this man has a right to run for the senate," Judge McGowan said."

The 31-year-old Mr. Westbrook, segregationist president of the Jackson Republican club, promised "an immediate hard campaign" to win the senate seat of Hinds county's long - time democratic lawmaker Hayden Campbell.

So strong was the democratic opposition to the entry of a republican that Assistant Attorney General Rubel Griffin represented the election boald at the hearing. He told the court that even if Mr. Westbrook did win the senate's seat, the state senate was almost certain to refuse to seat him and to continue to recognize Mr. Campbell.

The ruling came after the state democratic leadership expressed outspoken opposition to the candidacy of Westbrook.

Faced with what was called "the greatest resurgence of the Mississippi G.O.P. since Little Rock," even Governor J. P. Coleman and Attorney General Joe Patterson issued statements opposing the "invasion" of a republican into the November general election.

The contention of the assistant general that the state senate would refuse to seat Mr. Westbrook and would continue Mr. Campbell in office, even if Mr. Westbrook were elected, was unbecoming to any official representing the state. Virtually, in so many words, he said the senate would reject the will of the people and would attempt to seat a man who was defeated. It may lie within the powers of the senate to reject an elected member but the authority of that body to place a defeated candidate in office is far more in doubt. In all probability, if the senate were to flout the will of the people in the event of the election of Mr. Westbrook, a special election would be required and it is doubtful, under the judge's ruling, if Mr. Westbrook could be prevented from running again in a general election.

Clearly the handling of a general election in any state lies outside the province of any one political party. If this were not so, it would soon be possible to establish one-party rule in all states. Apparently, the governor, the attorney general and the assistant attorney general in Mississippi have been acting more in behalf of the state's democratic party than in behalf of the state itself.

Political neglect and mistreatment of the south can be attributed to a large extent to the fact that it has had only one political party. The value of the two-party system has been clearly demonstrated.

Resurgence of republicanism in Mississippi or any other state in the south means the people are dissatisfied with the leadership of the Democratic party. They have a right to voice this dissatisfaction by way of the ballot.

As Judge McGowan pointed out, a republican candidate cannot be barred from the general election ticket simply because members of the Democratic party do not want him to run.

Inadequate Parents

Sensibly, the National Education Association has made statements refuting a somewhat recently developed theory that the whole question of juvenile delinquency can be solved by an attack on delinquent or inadequate parents.

In the first place, changing inadequate parents is no easier than changing juvenile delinquents into models of correct behavior. It has long been recognized that inadequate parents are largely, although not completely, responsible for the misbehavior of their children but the theory that parents should be punished for the crimes of their children is comparatively new in the United States, but not in some of the countries in which it is customary to punish whole families for the alleged misdeeds of one member.

Dr. William C. Kvaraceus, director of the year-long NEA project, emphasized that "the famliy is one of the most important influences in the life of the individual, and few parents are willfully negligent or have any wish to raise a delinquent youngster."

Anyone who will study this statement will know that it is true. Even among the lower-grade parents, the percentage of those who do not wish good and honorable lives for their children is extremely small. Most of the parents in the lower-grade groups themselves have had inadequate upbringing and opportunity and simply do not have the ability to pass on to their children something they, themselves, do not possess. If it were possible to take these parents and run them through some magic machine that could make them adequate the question of juvenile delinquency would be greatly lessened but the same would be true if the juvenile delinquents could be run through that sort of machine. Even the most upright, conscientious and educated parents sometimes fail to meet the needs of their children, and raise juvenile delinquents, although the percentage among these people is much smaller.

Some parents, the NEA report says, just aren't able to cope with their children. They may be imigrants, unfamiliar with the American way of life. They may be so busy making a living they have no time for their offspring. Either the father or mother, or both, may be emotionally insecure or mentally disturbed. The family may be broken by death or divorce.

"We must be particularly wary of the 'delinquent' parent as a handy scapegoat," said the report. "To blame the inadequate parent is useless. How to help the inadequate parent — that is the problem." Continuing, the report said:

"Many of these parents need, more than anything else, some feeling of understanding and acceptance on the part of the school and the community. When school and family work closely together, a promising result is likely. But when school and family are in opposition, an entirely different climax may be in the offing.

"The school cannot live in isolation from the police and the courts. If it does, it is failing the youngster in trouble and handicapping the professional workers who are trying to help him.

"Unfortunately, most — if not all — communities attach a stigma to police contact and juvenile court appearances.

"Thus, when some minor or even major violations is uncovered, home and school sometimes from the police and court. They join forces in protecting the child often err on the side of over-protection from legal agencies that aim to help, rather than hurt."

Stock Declines

Many Little Fellows May Get Out But Holdings Still Good

Perhaps, if the stock market slide which began this past summer continues for some time, countless numbers of little fellows who have been buying stocks regularly will become thoroughly disenchanted. And they'll stop putting any percentage of their savings into "Wall Street." Perhaps..

Perhaps if the stock price decline of September — the sharpest in more than a quarter-century — turns into a severe crack-up, countless numbers of Americans who until now have been claiming they're not concerned with week - to - week fluctuations will become panicky. And these will begin dumping what they own. Perhaps . . .

Perhaps, if some unanticipated event suddenly shifts the national attention from inflation to deflation, countless families will decide that dollars in the bank are the best thing after all. And they'll abruptly start hoarding every penny they can in cash. Perhaps . . .

Any of these things could happen.

For the startling fact is that the 6,000,000 individuals who have been added to the stockholder lists in America just since 1952 have known only a market going up most of the time. (The 100-point break in the Dow-Jones stock price average in 1957 was so short - lived that it was over before most little investors were aware it had occurred.) We can't be sure how these new stockholders will respond to a prolonged, painful decline.

Still, the odds are against these things happening on anything approaching a calamitous scale for the stock market — and one reason lies in the "rhythmic pattern" of buying developed by so many millions of America's new investors.

What was the "pattern" of stock buying by the individuals who dominated the market before the catastrophic crash of 30 years ago this month? Not only was the buying on the thinnest of margins. It also was erratic. It was frequently emotional. It was mostly uninformed. It was often hysterical as the stock market roared toward its historic 1929 top.

It's hard to describe the pattern, because there really wasn't any.

Today? Today, there is a rhythm to stock buying by the millions — and this, I submit, is another distinction between 1929 and 1959.

Today a vast and growing army of stockholders consists of employes of corporations buying shares in their own companies through payroll savings plans. Under these plans the employe generally puts a percentage of his pay in stocks, and a most significant point is that many of the plans have major provisions safeguarding the employe's nestegg against a stock market slump.

At the last count 1,340,000 of the 12,490,000 individual stockholders in the country were buying under employe stock purchase plans. A full 27 per cent who had become stockholders between 1956 and 1959 had begun their buying through these plans.

Is this type of stockholder likely to panic? I'd guess "no."

Today millions of little investors are buying through programs which stress regular, month-after-month buying of highest-grade stocks. The devices for this buying both in periods of price rise and price fall are many and varied, but the basic angle is that these millions are deliberate long-term buyers, investing a comfortable percentage of their savings in confidence that, over the years, they'll come out okay.

Today an increasing volume of stocks is going into the hands of children via new state laws making it easy to give gifts of stocks to minors, and as a result stock-ownership is coming early to the new generation.

Are these stocks likely to be dumped? I'd guess "no."

This "rhythm" is not as fundamental as some of the other distinctions, of course — but it is important: it has no parallel in previous eras, and it might be a much more important stabilizing factor than we suspect.

Tomorrow: Distinction No. 5: Regulations.

'Nine' To Work

Supreme Court Most Famous Notwithstanding World Series

WASHINGTON, D. C. — America's most famous "nine," the World Series notwithstanding, get down to serious work on October 12th with around 800 cases and half a dozen hot issues before the Supreme Court.

* * *

In matters of this sort, it doesn't do to look for "progress." The Justices have 100 more cases on this year's docket than on last year's. Many of the issues, although previously confronted and decided, are back again in different costumes and reenforced by more learned and more wily arguments. You might say that the Justices, like the motormen on the Times Square-42nd Street underground shuttle train, don't "get anywhere." But by doing their jobs they are proving the worth of the old French proverb which says, more or less, that the more life changes the more it remains the same. Some of the recurring but unchanging matters are:

The States vs. the Federal Government: Both Alabama and Georgia have won cases in the lower courts with regard to their conduct of elections. Under the Civil Rights law of 1957, Negro citizens went into Federal court for the first time with claims that their voting rights are being infringed. The Supreme Court has a long record of deciding against the States — but the Deep South is a land of renowned Constitutional lawyers. The outcome of these cases may slow up the down-with Dixie trend.

In a similar case, the Gulf States are fighting for what they consider is their own territory, albeit submerged by water. This new go-round on who owns how much of the tidelands is another instance of Federal vs. local sovereignty.

Equal Justice Under Law: Surely no country under heaven ever tried so hard, to its own detriment, to give every scoundrel a chance to beat the law. This is notably true of laws designed to protect the State against hidden enemies. As everybody knows, treason against the USA is severely defined in the Constitution and is almost impossible to prove in peacetime. Statutes passed by Congress and State legislatures have been crippled and slain by the Supreme Court in a sometimes quixotic interpretation of its duty. At the present session two Communist agents appeal their convictions and hope to escape punishment by loophole legalities.

Junius Irving Scales, a Red organizer in North Carolina, is contending: that the Communist "membership clause" of the Smith Act does not sufficiently apply to him; that he was denied a fair trial by reason of some technicalities in presenting grand jury evidence and because he was not permitted to examine the full text of some FBI materials.

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, alias "Mark," alias Martin Collins, alias Emil R. Goldfus, is a convicted Red spy from Brooklyn. He claims his right to freedom because, the says, the Department of Justice employed a "subterfuge" by holding him on an alien detention warrant instead of arresting him for his crime. This action is alleged to violate the Fourth Amendment which guards "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Protect the Individual: Two cases, opposite in nature, test the rights of persons within their communities. In the town of Moberly, Missouri, the education board in 1954 obeyed the Supreme Court and desegregated the schools. This was done by closing the Negro's Lincoln School and integrating the colored children into other classrooms. Yes, but at the opening of the 1955-56 school season, the board decided not to renew the contracts of the eleven Negro teachers at Lincoln. School. Question: "That the board acted honestly pursuant to its rule in awarding the teaching contracts."

Terrible Teeners

Crimes Of Youth

By NORMA GAUHN

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—It was shortly after midnight and Sterling Baker snored loudly beside his sleeping wife, Alice.

On the other side of the cotton drapery that separated their bedroom from the living room, their teen-age daughter and son stood, listening to make sure both parents were asleep.

Then Doreen, 15, pushed the drape aside and tossed two glasses full of gasoline across her father and mother. Bruce, 13, struck a match and tossed it on the bed.

As flames flashed across the couple, Doreen and Bruce fled outside, wailing as if in shock and horror.

The fire was on Friday, June 12. The first newspaper accounts did not mention the children's role. It was thought they had luckily escaped.

But state and township fire marshals uncovered discrepancies in Bruce and Doreen's stories. Doreen said she had been awakened by "choking on smoke" — and there is little smoke in a flash fire. Bruce said his sister awakened him by throwing a glass of water on him—but his pajamas and bed were dry.

Then State Police Detective Sgt. Joseph Terze, an expert on arson, made the shocking report: The children had set their parents on fire in an attempt to kill them.

Why? "Our folks were too strict. We wanted to do the things other kids could do."

The gray-haired father, a veteran of World War I who has been unable to work for seven years because of heart trouble, was in a hospital four weeks recovering from his burns.

He shows little sign now except for a scar on his forearm and mottled white marks on his tanned hands. New skin made wrinkles disappear on his forehead and balding scalp and he jokes grimly, "I even have a little more hair now."

The mother, a sweet - faced, brown-eyed woman, suffered second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body. She spent seven weeks in the hospital and faces further skin grafts for a serious scalp burn. Her left arm is stiff from scars and must be soaked in salt water twice a day to retain its use.

The parents now know what their children did. Mrs. Baker, deeply religious and active in Seventh Day Adventist Church work, says, "I have to forgive them; they're my children."

Her husband says, "Bruce could come back; he just did what Doreen told him. But if she ever came home, I wouldn't sleep nights. Every little sound, I'd be wondering."

Authorities, after delving into the family background, said neither child could return home. Both have been committed to correctional institutions, where psychiatric tests await them.

Probation officers and the family hope that eventually public shock and horror will die so that the children might have some prospect of return to a normal life.

But the question remains—why?

Doreen Baker was regarded as a well-behaved, quiet girl who helped keep house, liked to babysit for neighbors and got average grades at her church-operated school.

She had never been in trouble. Her father says, "I never laid a hand on Doreen."

Younger brother Bruce, who did poorly in school, got frequent parental whippings—for smoking, taking money from his father's trousers, skipping his chores to watch television at the neighbors.

The Bakers live in Michigan Center, an industrial suburb of Jackson. Married 26 years, the couple has a white cement block bungalow which Baker built himself on a three-acre plot of land.

The family gets along on Baker's veterans pension and county welfare aid.

An older son, Bernard, 24, lives at home but was away the night of the fire. Coralee, 25, ran off at 17 and was married, now has three sons. Alice Ann, 22, left home at 19, is married and the mother of two sons. None of the older children finished school. Both daughters visit the parents occasionally although Baker says, "their kids make me nervous."

The fact that Baker is 20 years older than his wife and suffers from blood clots in his leg was viewed by neighbors as explaining much of his strict child rearing methods.

But both parents agreed there were to be no movies, no dancing, no dates. The father also had forbidden Doreen to baby-sit for neighbors "who drank."

After his investigation Sgt. Terze no longer regarded Doreen as such a quiet youngster.

"She's a mixed up teen-ager all right," he said." But I think she acts like an adult and should have been treated like one."

In finally admitting the fire plot, Bruce said the idea started because Doreen was going with a boy she wanted to marry.

"She thought she could go ahead if her parents were out of the way," Sgt. Terze said. "And she told Bruce that with the folks dead, he could take a trip to California he wanted."

Doreen's boy friend was a 22-year-old ex-convict, now serving a 2-10 year prison term for statutory rape.

Doreen admitted her part in the fire plot after police told her of Bruce's account. The children said the fire method was settled on because they felt their first plan was too risky—to beat their parents to death with a hammer.

Mrs. Baker says, "Maybe my husband is too strict and I'm too easy going. Doreen wanted things her own way a lot. She didn't want to go places with us as a family, said it wasn't any fun. Maybe there should be a school where we could learn to be better parents."

At the county juvenile home, Doreen and Bruce waited weeks before learning disposition of their case. The girl, nice looking with brown eyes and black hair, has a mature figure and complained of gaining 13 pounds at the home. Crew-cut Bruce, a sturdy 5-feet-2, told of putting on nine pounds.

Bruce said "I didn't get spanked too often. When I got 'em, I needed 'em."

Doreen's eyes filled with tears at mention of her parents.

"I'm sorry now I didn't talk things over with them," she said. "I wanted to let them know I dated when I sneaked out."

Asked of the fire plot, the girl said in a low voice, "I planned it about a month. Everything more or less boiled over. The idea just popped up. At first I thought of it as a joke."

She wept as she told of the first visit with their parents.

"They forgave us. I'm ready for whatever punishment I get."

AGGRESSOR TRAINING

Implacable Enemy

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

FORT RILEY, Kan. (AP)—An implacable enemy faces nearly every man in Army training today.

He is tough, resourceful and tricky. He fights like a fanatic. His chief weapon is deceit.

His name is Aggressor and his aim: to rule the world.

Few people outside the army have heard of Aggressor. Yet he has "captured" great areas of the United States—in California, Florida, Texas, the Carolinas.

Aggressor was created in 1946 by the fertile brains of top U.S. Army officers. He is the enemy U.S. soldiers meet in maneuvers.

He was born after the Army learned that untested soldiers can be demoralized—and killed in the field—the first time they face battle. It was a bitter lesson learned in World War II.

Those first battle casualties are what caused the Army to set up the Aggressor program, an elaborate training system complete with a mythical government, clenched fist salute and forest green uniform.

Army trainees are drilled in the history of Aggressor. They are told the enemy government is ruled by the so-called Circle Trigon party, whose symbol is a green triangle on a white field.

Before he is designated to play the Aggressor, the soldier is an ordinary GI. But when he puts on that forest green uniform and extends that clenched fist salute, he becomes the prototype of all totalitarian soldiers. In uniform, he believes in The Cause.

He is resourceful, clever and thoroughly indoctrinated in the basic Aggressor objective of world domination.

"We find that just putting on the Aggressor uniform gives the men an incentive to play hell with the other side," says Col. Rollins S. Emmerich, commander of the U.S. Army Aggressor Center at Ft. Riley, which guides the program.

But Aggressor is more than a game. The Army has published three 250-page handbooks to give him identity. His many units—from companies to divisions and armies—are detailed as would be a force from a major nation. Each unit has a battle history that is kept up to date. It can employ nuclear warfare.

The Army has even published a 37-page roster listing the officers and has set up a complete post office system for Aggressor. The program has become the Army's largest training aid.

Battlefield training for the American soldier before World War II, the Army found, bored him and taught him little.

Missing were the sounds and feel of battle, the whine of projectiles, the ground vibrations and the smell of exploding powder.

No wonder the participating soldier needed considerable imagination to visualize the opponent as an enemy and react promptly.

Now his enemy is the Aggressor. He can see him. He is not just another GI wearing a different color armband.

Aggressor as an enemy has wide latitude.

Says the Army manual: "any means, other than those which inflict physical injury to personnel or damage to property and equipment, may be used by Aggressor forces to lower the morale or otherwise hinder the efforts of the friendly troops."

It wasn't always that way.

"At first," says Col. Emmerich, "the boys playing aggressor would get quite carried away. They'd sneak behind the U.S. lines and knock out the radio equipment with the butts of their rifles. We lost a lot of radios that way."

Now the Aggressor is content with leaving cards with the mocking message: "Aggressor was here."

Col. Emmerich, 47, a battle veteran from New Ulm, Minn., has 30 officers and 240 men under his command. All are specialists in the Aggressor program. They travel to Army camps to instruct other officers and men in how to portray the Aggressor.

They write complete scripts for a war exercise. They can supply up to 125,000 uniforms. They can bring a bag of tricks a Hollywood effects expert would envy.

Among them are gigantic balloons that, when inflated, can look like real tanks, antiaircraft guns, jeeps and personnel carriers from 200 yards away. Their sound equipment reproduces sounds of battle realistic enough to make any soldier crouch lower in his foxhole. Their visual effects include an "atomic" bomb that explodes in a ball of fire 50 yards high and wide.

The Aggressor may use leaflets beseeching the American to surrender. He's taken a leaf from the book of Tokyo Rose, using battlefield broadcasts of a come-hither female voice imploring the GI to "let yourself be captured and see a woman again."

If the Aggressor is captured, he will try his best to bedevil his interrogators — the American intelligence teams.

Aggressor may speak Esperanto the language of the Aggressor nation. He may speak one of the many native tongues of nationalities making up the mythical Aggressor homeland. He may carry identification that can be of value to the U.S. commander or it may be deliberately misleading.

The manuals and the officers at the center make plain the Circle Trigon party and the Aggressor forces are fictitious.

But visiting the center you can't help feeling that if the mythical Aggressor nation suddenly hoisted the red star instead of the green trigon, U.S. forces would know what to expect.

Sound Research, Big Achievement

LINCOLN FINDS A GENERAL. Vol. V: Prelude to Chattanooga. By Kenneth P. Williams, Macmillan. $7.50.

Ten years ago, the first volume of "Lincoln Finds A General" was published. The fifth volume is perforce the last and, though not originally planned that way, it is climactic.

Kenneth Williams died in September 1958. He left this "Prelude to Chattanooga" complete, except for two final chapters which were in outline form and are reported in general theme in a publisher's preface. Two more volumes were to come, describing Grant's generalship through the final years of the war. They must forever remain unwritten, but the five volumes nevertheless constitute a complete work, one which fulfills the general title and is a magnificent monument to a meticulous historian.

Williams had the military background, as an officer in two World wars, to enable him to extract the last scrap of meaning from a message file or a field maneuver. He had the inquisitiveness to push into the background of weather conditions and topography to determine whether there might have been another reason than incompetence behind a lost battle.

The volume in hand treats of a relatively quiet period of the Civil War, the interlude between Vicksburg and the fiery maelstrom of Chickamauga. The siege of Port Hudson is treated with rare depth, Schofield's trials in torn Missouri take on new historical stature, Rosecrans briefly gains the heights before his obliterative downfall at Chickamauga, and Grant pursues his quiet way, unassuming and unobtrusive, but still moving to the forefront until his selection as supreme commander becomes inevitable.

This is history in depth, almost too much depth for the general reader. For, it must be said, reading Williams is in some ways an exasperating experience. His passion for detail is so great that he spends too much time beating the underbrush. He seldom gives us a chance to see the trees, let alone the forest. Nor are the maps much help.

The Arts

Books

United Press International William Diamond's Drum, by Arthur Bernon Tourtellot (Doubleday): Early on the morning of April 19, 1775, a ragged line of Massachusetts militia confronted a much larger force of British regulars on Lexington common. Someone fired a shot; there was a return volley; eight Massachusetts men fell and the War of the American Revolution had begun. This is a minute-by-minute account of that fateful day and of the train of historic events in which it took its place. It adds a detailed portrait of Lexington and its people to a gallery of better - known persons and places. Tourtellot believes that Samuel Adams engineered the clash at Lexington in the faith that the shots fired there would be heard, it not around the world, at least as far south as Virginia and Georgia. Although the book does not try to debunk anybody, the account does place certain schoolbook heroes in a less flattering light.

Its Good to be Alive, by Roy Campanella (Little Brown): In January, 1958, Roy Campanella, one of the greatest catchers in baseball history and one of its most beloved personalities, barely escaped death in an automobile accident that left him crippled. This is the inspiring story of his rise to the top of the sports world via the Negro leagues and his even more courageous adjustment to a life of wheelchair confinement. Campy has had other troubles, too — his son was in court as a juvenile delinquent earlier this year — but he has faced them all with intelligence, honesty and a moving religious faith. His story is sure to win him more fans, even among those who don't follow baseball.

James Joyce, by Richard Ellmann (Oxford): This is a big (more than 800 pages) book, billed as the first complete biography of Joyce written since his death. Ellmann has done a scholarly research and writing job on the man and his work. He has also interviewed Joyce's relatives and tracked down the living models for the chief characters in Ulysses, among other literary detective work. All this in an effort to explain Joyce's puzzling and controversial novels—no mean task, as anyone is likely to concede who has ever tried to wade through Finnegans Wake.

The Fireside Book of Humorous Poetry, edited by William Cole (Simon and Schuster): When humor and poetry combine to say something the result is almost bound to be delightful. Cole has put together in this book the best funny poetry he could find.

The War Lover His Seventh, And His Best

THE WAR LOVER. By John Hersey. Knopf. $5.

One raid, one fort, one pilot, one co-pilot and one girl are the principal facts and figures in this long, crusading novel, Hersey's seventh and most substantial book.

Buzz Marrow, loud-voiced, extrovert, brash pilot, tells his co-pilot Bo Boman, the narrator, that of course he hasn't been cheating with his Boman's, girl. But his denial doesn't convince Boman, and Hersey lets us and Boman live with this puzzle for some 400 pages. The place is an American air base in England. Buzz, Bo and crew flew from the states, trained for precision bombing and have started on their punishing daylight raids. Buzz has a magic way with his Flying Fortress, "The Body;" while Bo knows rules, Buzz has instinct and an infallible touch. Flak or fighter attacks down their friends, but Buzz swears it won't happen to them and their plane.

Boman for a time relaxes with the utmost confidence in Buzz. But Hersey ingeniously shows it being undermined while at the same time he pictures it as unshakable. There are alternating chapters; the last great raid by "The Body" is the subject of one set, and the preparatory experiences from the moment they flew over are the other. Hersey begins his novel in two places, months before the crisis and hours before it. You see through Bo's happiness before he does; you see the rot beneath Buzz's brittle surface courage. Thus you hurry at two speeds toward a climax all the more shattering for these two synchronized approaches.

Buzz is the "war lover," as Daphne with her woman's intuition — aided by Buzz's salacious betrayal of his weakness — will reveal to the mystified Boman. Fatality is his dreadful fate. He brags about the women he has loved, but he has only one real love, a horrible one, and it could destroy his loyal crew. Can it not also, Hersey warns, destroy us? Boman loves but loves less than utterly, and this is not a sufficient counter, as the sage Daphne points out, to the wholeness of Buzz's barbaric passion. Hersey fills us in on more background than perhaps we need, but there is a dizzy feel for the dangers of wartime flying, and an awesome impending sense of doom. There are living people here, but this is primarily a novel of ideas — the suicidal destructive urge confronts the peace urge, and the hero takes on the repugnant look of a mere nobody with a single despicable characteristic: He loves to fight.

Running The Scales

By John Cale

Every year about this time, the baseball season closes out, the football season hits its stride and the concert season takes advantage of this situation to turn up its bright lights.

Locally, the Northeast Concert series, having had a good turnout for Thursday's lecture and color slide presentation on Soviet Russia is getting set for the concert of the Philharmonia Hungarica slated at Neville auditorium on October 21.

Little Theatre is just about ready to go with its initial production of the year, "Janus."

The Louisiana Tech series at Ruston will open October 29 and 30 with the appearance of the Air Force Band. That organization has just opened its membership drive and is offering a bill of 10 attractions to members and prospects.

Now established as having the largest community art festival in the state, Caldwell Parish will play host to the occasion on Saturday of this week. Highlight of the festival will be the unveiling of a monument at the Caldwell Community Center in Columbia with the names of all riverboat captains who formerly navigated the Ouachita. The art competitions department of the festival has attracted artists of all categories from throughout Northeast Louisiana.

DOWN ON THE LEVEE

Further down the levee in the Crescent City of New Orleans, the opera season opened Thursday with the first "Tannhauser" held this far south in many a year. At this writing, the scales plan to run in that direction to witness a later production and give it a writeup in this column next Sunday.

The New Orleans Opera during its pre-War period—and to the south this means the Civil War — was ahead of anything in the United States including New York. Of course, the French operas were first in prominence and the city competed with Paris to get the best singers and newest operas from France.

A period of decline followed the carpet-bag rule of "Silver Spoon" Butler in the Louisiana city, but the opera and symphony in New Orleans have been on a fairly firm footing for the past 25 years.

GERMAN OPERA

The decision to undertake a production of "Tannhauser" to open the season may be a departure from the French traditions of the city. But Wagner himself took it to Paris and obliged the members of the Jockey Club there by inserting a special scene and ballet. Although the opera did not go too well in the French capital, French and German cultural differences began to melt. Political differences saw three subsequent wars between France and Germany —Wagner took his opera from Germany to Paris in 1861—but Wagner and his operas had no part in them.

Now "Tannhauser" is looked upon by most opera fans as a thoroughly solid tale about a fellow of the same name who sang about the wrong woman at a folk singing convention. While some of the harmonies and orchestral effects are heavy like potato pancakes and steam noodles, it is nonetheless quite digestible musicale fare. The New Orleans Opera House, we believe, has selected an excellent opener for the 1959-60 season.

Brooks' Usual Effective Prose

HOWELLS: HIS LIFE AND WORLD. By Van Wyck Brooks. Dutton. $5.

William Dean Howells, Ohio's gift to Boston and New York, the Atlantic Monthly and Harper's, and American letters in general, was born into a family of Welsh background, with a father who nurtured in his boy a taste for cultural matters, the theater as well as poetry and prose.

As Brooks says, there were so few poets in Howells' America that they all knew one another, and Howells moved east where he could see more of them. On a trip to Venice he learned from Goldoni that poetry was not his forte, and back in Boston took a position on the Atlantic and became editor in 1871. A year later he published his first fiction, "Their Wedding Journey," based broadly on his marriage to a cousin of President Hayes. Fifteen years later he switched to Harper's, and in the next decade wrote four of his best novels: "A Modern Instance," "Indian Summer," "The Rise of Silas Lapham" and "A Hazard of New Fortunes."

This biography, in its fluid, effortless prose — could Brooks ever do a book that was not well written? — does Howells and us a great service by reminding us that he was in his day one of our most popular and influential writers. He was a guest at the White House, President Taft went to New York for his 75th birthday dinner, he was president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters to his death in 1920. The two greats of his time, that contrary pair Mark Twain and Henry James, were both his close friends.

He is now a novelist most of us are content to continue to ignore. I think it would be hard to win converts for his fiction which was, well, so many things, thoroughly and earnestly American, abiding by the highest standards, worthy, sound, but without the tart to go with the sweet, just not very interesting, apt to bore. But Howells the man and the mind belongs to our noblest tradition. An adventurous spirit, alert to new talent, boadminded in advance of his times, brave and even foolhardy in defense of his convictions, he is if not the best writer the best writer symbol — the pioneer and explorer.

BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those reports from France about how fine an entertainer Yves Montand is were not exaggerated.

The singing actor made his local debut in a one-man show that drew unanimous critical huzzahs.

In his engagement at Henry Miller's Theater, Montand's program runs the gamut of French popular songs, all of which tell little light - hearted or slightly sad stories and bear small resemblance to the Tin Pan Alley product here.

Although he sings entirely in French, Montand has learned enough English to preface each of his 20 numbers with an amusing explanation in the latter language. Because of his skill with gestures — his whole body works when he sings—and a remarkably expressive face, it isn't necessary to know a word of French to enjoy his work.

Montand is a graceful, well set-up fellow of 38 with one of those homely - attractive faces that pleases both men and women. His baritone is of pleasing quality, and there is the skill of a well-trained actor in everything he does.

In fact, in France he is admired not only for his singing specialty, but also as a dramatic actor in the movies and on the stage. He starred in both mediums in Arthur Miller's grim "The Crucible" which will give you an idea of his range.

Montand's singing act is done about as simply as possible. He wears only a brown sport shirt, open at the neck, matching brown slacks and shoes. He works with a microphone, which I doubt he really needs, standing in front of a scrim curtain behind which is the seven-man orchestra that gives him excellent backing.

Montand is a popular recording artist, but listening to his records can't be too rewarding unless you have an intimate knowledge of all of the nuances of the French language. He is an entertainer who has to be seen to be fully appreciated.

Just as Julie Harris spent all last season on a national tour tuning up "The Warm Peninsula" for this year's Broadway season, so is Nancy Kelly giving a thorough workout to the new Arthur Kober-George Oppenheimer comedy, "A Mighty Man Is He."

The play opened late last month in Los Angeles, and an east-bound tour of four and a half months has been booked prior to New York. The present plan is for it to have a Broadway premiere next Feb. 11.

Producer Paul Gregory has proved before that he also is a believer in a long warmup prior to Broadway, and he'll use the technique again with "The Pink Jungle," starring Ginger Rogers. This is a comedy with music by Leslie Stevens, whose "The Marriage-go-Round" of last season is still selling out on Broadway.

"The Pink Jungle," which is about the cosmetics and beauty business, is slated to bow Oct. 14 in San Francisco. The schedule calls for 13 weeks on the road with other engagements in Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia.

Terrible Teeners

Crimes Of Youth

By NORMA GAUHN

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—It was shortly after midnight and Sterling Baker snored loudly beside his sleeping wife, Alice.

On the other side of the cotton drapery that separated their bedroom from the living room, their teen-age daughter and son stood, listening to make sure both parents were asleep.

Then Doreen, 15, pushed the drape aside and tossed two glasses full of gasoline across her father and mother. Bruce, 13, struck a match and tossed it on the bed.

As flames flashed across the couple, Doreen and Bruce fled outside, wailing as if in shock and horror.

The fire was on Friday, June 12. The first newspaper accounts did not mention the children's role. It was thought they had luckily escaped.

But state and township fire marshals uncovered discrepancies in Bruce and Doreen's stories. Doreen said she had been awakened by "choking on smoke" — and there is little smoke in a flash fire. Bruce said his sister awakened him by throwing a glass of water on him—but his pajamas and bed were dry.

Then State Police Detective Sgt. Joseph Terze, an expert on arson, made the shocking report: The children had set their parents on fire in an attempt to kill them.

Why? "Our folks were too strict. We wanted to do the things other kids could do."

The gray-haired father, a veteran of World War I who has been unable to work for seven years because of heart trouble, was in a hospital four weeks recovering from his burns.

He shows little sign now except for a scar on his forearm and mottled white marks on his tanned hands. New skin made wrinkles disappear on his forehead and balding scalp and he jokes grimly, "I even have a little more hair now."

The mother, a sweet - faced, brown-eyed woman, suffered second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body. She spent seven weeks in the hospital and faces further skin grafts for a serious scalp burn. Her left arm is stiff from scars and must be soaked in salt water twice a day to retain its use.

The parents now know what their children did. Mrs. Baker, deeply religious and active in Seventh Day Adventist Church work, says, "I have to forgive them; they're my children."

Her husband says, "Bruce could come back; he just did what Doreen told him. But if she ever came home, I wouldn't sleep nights. Every little sound, I'd be wondering."

Authorities, after delving into the family background, said neither child could return home. Both have been committed to correctional institutions, where psychiatric tests await them.

Probation officers and the family hope that eventually public shock and horror will die so that the children might have some prospect of return to a normal life.

But the question remains—why?

Doreen Baker was regarded as a well-behaved, quiet girl who helped keep house, liked to baby-sit for neighbors and got average grades at her church-operated school.

She had never been in trouble. Her father says, "I never laid a hand on Doreen."

Younger brother Bruce, who did poorly in school, got frequent parental whippings—for smoking, taking money from his father's trousers, skipping his chores to watch television at the neighbors.

The Bakers live in Michigan Center, an industrial suburb of Jackson. Married 26 years, the couple has a white cement block bungalow which Baker built himself on a three-acre plot of land.

The family gets along on Baker's veterans pension and county welfare aid.

An older son, Bernard, 24, lives at home but was away the night of the fire. Coralee, 25, ran off at 17 and was married, now has three sons. Alice Ann, 22, left home at 19, is married and the mother of two sons. None of the older children finished school. Both daughters visit the parents occasionally although Baker says, "their kids make me nervous."

The fact that Baker is 20 years older than his wife and suffers from blood clots in his leg was viewed by neighbors as explaining much of his strict child rearing methods.

But both parents agreed there were to be no movies, no dancing, no dates. The father also had forbidden Doreen to baby-sit for neighbors "who drank."

After his investigation Sgt. Terze no longer regarded Doreen as such a quiet youngster.

"She's a mixed up teen-ager all right," he said." But I think she acts like an adult and should have been treated like one."

In finally admitting the fire plot, Bruce said the idea started because Doreen was going with a boy she wanted to marry.

"She thought she could go ahead if her parents were out of the way," Sgt. Terze said. "And she told Bruce that with the folks dead, he could take a trip to California he wanted."

Doreen's boy friend was a 22-year-old ex-convict, now serving a 2-10 year prison term for statutory rape.

Doreen admitted her part in the fire plot after police told her of Bruce's account. The children said the fire method was settled on because they felt their first plan was too risky—to beat their parents to death with a hammer.

Mrs. Baker says, "Maybe my husband is too strict and I'm too easy going. Doreen wanted things her own way a lot. She didn't want to go places with us as a family, said lt wasn't any fun. Maybe there should be a school where we could learn to be better parents."

At the county juvenile home, Doreen and Bruce waited weeks before learning disposition of their case. The girl, nice looking with brown eyes and black hair, has a mature figure and complained of gaining 13 pounds at the home. Crew-cut Bruce, a sturdy 5-feet-2, told of putting on nine pounds.

Bruce said "I didn't get spanked too often. When I got 'em, I needed 'em."

Doreen's eyes filled with tears at mention of her parents.

"I'm sorry now I didn't talk things over with them," she said. "I wanted to let them know I dated when I sneaked out."

Asked of the fire plot, the girl said in a low voice, "I planned it about a month. Everything more or less boiled over. The idea just popped up. At first I thought of it as a joke."

She wept as she told of the first visit with their parents.

"They forgave us. I'm ready for whatever punishment I get."

AGGRESSOR TRAINING

Implacable Enemy

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

FORT RILEY, Kan. (AP)—An implacable enemy faces nearly every man in Army training today.

He is tough, resourceful and tricky. He fights like a fanatic. His chief weapon is deceit.

His name is Aggressor and his aim: to rule the world.

Few people outside the army have heard of Aggressor. Yet he has "captured" great areas of the United States—in California, Florida, Texas, the Carolinas.

Aggressor was created in 1946 by the fertile brains of top U.S. Army officers. He is the enemy U.S. soldiers meet in maneuvers.

He was born after the Army learned that untested soldiers can be demoralized—and killed in the field—the first time they face battle. It was a bitter lesson learned in World War II.

Those first battle casualties are what caused the Army to set up the Aggressor program, an elaborate training system complete with a mythical government, clenched fist salute and forest green uniform.

Army trainees are drilled in the history of Aggressor. They are told the enemy government is ruled by the so-called Circle Trigon party, whose symbol is a green triangle on a white field.

Before he is designated to play the Aggressor, the soldier is an ordinary GI. But when he puts on that forest green uniform and extends that clenched fist salute, he becomes the prototype of all totalitarian soldiers. In uniform, he believes in The Cause.

He is resourceful, clever and thoroughly indoctrinated in the basic Aggressor objective of world domination.

"We find that just putting on the Aggressor uniform gives the men an incentive to play hell with the other side," says Col. Rollins S. Emmerich, commander of the U.S. Army Aggressor Center at Ft. Riley, which guides the program.

But Aggressor is more than a game. The Army has published three 250-page handbooks to give him identity. His many units—from companies to divisions and armies—are detailed as would be a force from a major nation. Each unit has a battle history that is kept up to date. It can employ nuclear warfare.

The Army has even published a 37-page roster listing the officers and has set up a complete post office system for Aggressor. The program has become the Army's largest training aid.

Battlefield training for the American soldier before World War II, the Army found, bored him and taught him little.

Missing were the sounds and feel of battle, the whine of projectiles, the ground vibrations and the smell of exploding powder.

No wonder the participating soldier needed considerable imagination to visualize the opponent as an enemy and react promptly.

Now his enemy is the Aggressor. He can see him. He is not just another GI wearing a different color armband.

Aggressor as an enemy has wide latitude.

Says the Army manual: "any means, other than those which inflict physical injury to personnel or damage to property and equipment, may be used by Aggressor forces to lower the morale or otherwise hinder the efforts of the friendly troops."

It wasn't always that way.

"At first," says Col. Emmerich, "the boys playing aggressor would get quite carried away. They'd sneak behind the U.S. lines and knock out the radio equipment with the butts of their rifles. We lost a lot of radios that way."

Col. Emmerich, 47, a battle veteran from New Ulm, Minn., has 30 officers and 240 men under his command. All are specialists in the Aggressor program. They travel to Army camps to instruct other officers and men in how to portray the Aggressor.

They write complete scripts for a war exercise. They can supply up to 125,000 uniforms. They can bring a bag of tricks a Hollywood effects expert would envy.

Among them are gigantic balloons that, when inflated, can look like real tanks, antiaircraft guns, jeeps and personnel carriers from 200 yards away. Their sound equipment reproduces sounds of battle realistic enough to make any soldier crouch lower in his foxhole. Their visual effects include an "atomic" bomb that explodes in a ball of fire 50 yards high and wide.

The Aggressor may use leaflets beseeching the American to surrender. He's taken a leaf from the book of Tokyo Rose, using battlefield broadcasts of a come-hither female voice imploring the GI to "let yourself be captured and see a woman again."

If the Aggressor is captured, he will try his best to bedevil his interrogators — the American intelligence teams.

Aggressor may speak Esperanto the language of the Aggressor nation. He may speak one of the many native tongues of nationalities making up the mythical Aggressor homeland. He may carry identification that can be of value to the U.S. commander or it may be deliberately misleading.

The manuals and the officers at the center make plain the Circle Trigon party and the Aggressor forces are fictitious.

But visiting the center you can't help feeling that if the mythical Aggressor nation suddenly hoisted the red star instead of the green trigon, U.S. forces would know what to expect.

Sound Research, Big Achievement

LINCOLN FINDS A GENERAL. Vol. V: Prelude to Chattanooga. By Kenneth P. Williams, Macmillan. $7.50.

Ten years ago, the first volume of "Lincoln Finds A General" was published. The fifth volume is perforce the last and, though not originally planned that way, it is climactic.

Kenneth Williams died in September 1958. He left this "Prelude to Chattanooga" complete, except for two final chapters which were in outline form and are reported in general theme in a publisher's preface. Two more volumes were to come, describing Grant's generalship through the final years of the war. They must forever remain unwritten, but the five volumes nevertheless constitute a complete work, one which fulfills the general title and is a magnificent monument to a meticulous historian.

Williams had the military background, as an officer in two World wars, to enable him to extract the last scrap of meaning from a message file or a field maneuver. He had the inquisitiveness to push into the background of weather conditions and topography to determine whether there might have been another reason than incompetence behind a lost battle.

The volume in hand treats of a relatively quiet period of the Civil War, the interlude between Vicksburg and the fiery maelstrom of Chickamauga. The siege of Port Hudson is treated with rare depth, Schofield's trials in torn Missouri take on new historical stature, Rosecrans briefly gains the heights before his obliterative downfall at Chickamauga, and Grant pursues his quiet way, unassuming and unobtrusive, but still moving to the forefront until his selection as supreme commander becomes inevitable.

This is history in depth, almost too much depth for the general reader. For, it must be said, reading Williams is in some ways an exasperating experience. His passion for detail is so great that he spends too much time beating the underbrush. He seldom gives us a chance to see the trees, let alone the forest. Nor are the maps much help.

Books

United Press International William Diamond's Drum, by Arthur Bernon Tourtellot (Doubleday): Early on the morning of April 19, 1775, a ragged line of Massachusetts militia confronted a much larger force of British regulars on Lexington common. Someone fired a shot; there was a return volley; eight Massachusetts men fell and the War of the American Revolution had begun. This is a minute-by-minute account of that fateful day and of the train of historic events in which it took its place. It adds a detailed portrait of Lexington and its people to a gallery of better - known persons and places. Tourtellot believes that Samuel Adams engineered the clash at Lexington in the faith that the shots fired there would be heard, it not around the world, at least as far south as Virginia and Georgia. Although the book does not try to debunk anybody, the account does place certain schoolbook heroes in a less flattering light.

Its Good to be Alive, by Roy Campanella (Little Brown): In January, 1958, Roy Campanella, one of the greatest catchers in baseball history and one of its most beloved personalities, barely escaped death in an automobile accident that left him crippled. This is the inspiring story of his rise to the top of the sports world via the Negro leagues and his even more courageous adjustment to a life of wheelchair confinement. Campy has had other troubles, too — his son was in court as a juvenile delinquent earlier this year — but he has faced them all with intelligence, honesty and a moving religious faith. His story is sure to win him more fans, even among those who don't follow baseball.

James Joyce, by Richard Ellmann (Oxford): This is a big (more than 800 pages) book, billed as the first complete biography of Joyce written since his death. Ellmann has done a scholarly research and writing job on the man and his work. He has also interviewed Joyce's relatives and tracked down the living models for the chief characters in Ulysses, among other literary detective work. All this in an effort to explain Joyce's puzzling and controversial novels—no mean task, as anyone is likely to concede who has ever tried to wade through Finnegans Wake.

The Fireside Book of Humorous Poetry, edited by William Cole (Simon and Schuster): When humor and poetry combine to say something the result is almost bound to be delightful. Cole has put together in this book the best funny poetry he could find.

The War Lover His Seventh, And His Best

THE WAR LOVER. By John Hersey. Knopf. $5.

One raid, one fort, one pilot, one co-pilot and one girl are the principal facts and figures in this long, crusading novel, Hersey's seventh and most substantial book.

Buzz Marrow, loud-voiced, extrovert, brash pilot, tells his co-pilot Bo Boman, the narrator, that of course he hasn't been cheating with his, Boman's, girl. But his denial doesn't convince Boman, and Hersey lets us and Boman live with this puzzle for some 400 pages. The place is an American air base in England. Buzz, Bo and crew flew from the states, trained for precision bombing and have started on their punishing daylight raids. Buzz has a magic way with his Flying Fortress, "The Body;" while Bo knows rules, Buzz has instinct and an infallible touch. Flak or fighter attacks down their friends, but Buzz swears it won't happen to them and their plane.

Boman for a time relaxes with the utmost confidence in Buzz. But Hersey ingeniously shows it being undermined while at the same time he pictures it as unshakable. There are alternating chapters; the last great raid by "The Body" is the subject of one set, and the preparatory experiences from the moment they flew over are the other. Hersey begins his novel in two places, months before the crisis and hours before it. You see through Bo's happiness before he does; you see the rot beneath Buzz's brittle surface courage. Thus you hurry at two speeds toward a climax all the more shattering for these two synchronized approaches.

Buzz is the "war lover," as Daphne with her woman's intuition — aided by Buzz's salacious betrayal of his weakness — will reveal to the mystified Boman. Fatality is his dreadful fate. He brags about the women he has loved, but he has only one real love, a horrible one, and it could destroy his loyal crew.

Can it not also, Hersey warns, destroy us? Boman loves but loves less than utterly, and this is not a sufficient counter, as the sage Daphne points out, to the wholeness of Buzz's barbaric passion. Hersey fills us in on more background than perhaps we need, but there is a dizzy feel for the dangers of wartime flying, and an awesome impending sense of doom. There are living people here, but this is primarily a novel of ideas — the suicidal destructive urge confronts the peace urge, and the hero takes on the repugnant look of a mere nobody with a single despicable characteristic: He loves to fight.

Running The Scales

By John Cale

Every year about this time, the baseball season closes out, the football season hits its stride and the concert season takes advantage of this situation to turn up its bright lights.

Locally, the Northeast Concert series, having had a good turnout for Thursday's lecture and color slide presentation on Soviet Russia is getting set for the concert of the Philharmonia Hungarica slated at Neville auditorium on October 21.

The Louisiana Tech series at Ruston will open October 29 and 30 with the appearance of the Air Force Band. That organization has just opened its membership drive and is offering a bill of 10 attractions to members and prospects.

Now established as having the largest community art festival in the state, Caldwell Parish will play host to the occasion on Saturday of this week. Highlight of the festival will be the unveiling of a monument at the Caldwell Community Center in Columbia with the names of all riverboat captains who formerly navigated the Ouachita. The art competitions department of the festival has attracted artists of all categories from throughout Northeast Louisiana.

DOWN ON THE LEVEE

Further down the levee in the Crescent City of New Orleans, the opera season opened Thursday with the first "Tannhauser" held this far south in many a year. At this writing, the scales plan to run in that direction to witness a later production and give it a writeup in this column next Sunday.

The New Orleans Opera during its pre-War period—and to the south this means the Civil War — was ahead of anything in the United States including New York. Of course, the French operas were first in prominence and the city competed with Paris to get the best singers and newest operas from France.

A period of decline followed the carpet-bag rule of "Silver Spoon" Butler in the Louisiana city, but the opera and symphony in New Orleans have been on a fairly firm footing for the past 25 years.

GERMAN OPERA

The decision to undertake a production of "Tannhauser" to open the season may be a departure from the French traditions of the city. But Wagner himself took it to Paris and obliged the members of the Jockey Club there by inserting a special scene and ballet. Although the opera did not go too well in the French capital, French and German cultural differences began to melt. Political differences saw three subsequent wars between France and Germany —Wagner took his opera from Germany to Paris in 1861— but Wagner and his operas had no part in them.

Now "Tannhauser" is looked upon by most opera fans as a thoroughly solid tale about a fellow of the same name who sang about the wrong woman at a folk singing convention. While some of the harmonies and orchestral effects are heavy like potato pancakes and steam noodles, it is nonetheless quite digestible musicale fare. The New Orleans Opera House, we believe, has selected an excellent opener for the 1959-60 season.

Brooks' Usual Effective Prose

HOWELLS: HIS LIFE AND WORLD. By Van Wyck Brooks. Dutton. $5.

William Dean Howells, Ohio's gift to Boston and New York, the Atlantic Monthly and Harper's, and American letters in general, was born into a family of Welsh background, with a father who nurtured in his boy a taste for cultural matters, the theater as well as poetry and prose.

As Brooks says, there were so few poets in Howells' America that they all knew one another, and Howells moved east where he could see more of them. On a trip to Venice he learned from Goldoni that poetry was not his forte, and back in Boston took a position on the Atlantic and became editor in 1871. A year later he published his first fiction, "Their Wedding Journey," based broadly on his marriage to a cousin of President Hayes. Fifteen years later he switched to Harper's, and in the next decade wrote four of his best novels: "A Modern Instance," "Indian Summer," "The Rise of Silas Lapham" and "A Hazard of New Fortunes."

This biography, in its fluid, effortless prose — could Brooks ever do a book that was not well written? — does Howells and us a great service by reminding us that he was in his day one of our most popular and influential writers. He was a guest at the White House, President Taft went to New York for his 75th birthday dinner, he was president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters to his death in 1920. The two greats of his time, that contrary pair Mark Twain and Henry James, were both his close friends.

He is now a novelist most of us are content to continue to ignore. I think it would be hard to win converts for his fiction which was, well, so many things, thoroughly and earnestly American, abiding by the highest standards, worthy, sound, but without the tart to go with the sweet, just not very interesting, apt to bore. But Howells the man and the mind belongs to our noblest tradition. An adventurous spirit, alert to new talent, boadminded in advance-of his times, brave and even foolhardy in defense of his convictions, he is if not the best writer the best writer symbol — the pioneer and explorer.

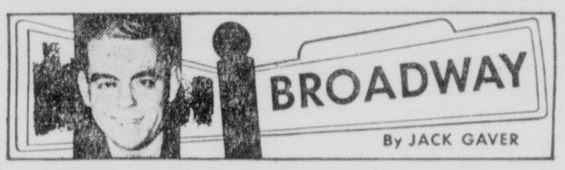
9. SEA OF LOVE, Phil Phillips
10. I WANT TO WALK YOU HOME, Fats Domino



NEW YORK (UPI) — Those reports from France about how fine an entertainer Yves Montand is were not exaggerated.

The singing actor made his local debut in a one-man show that drew unanimous critical huzzahs.

In his engagement at Henry Miller's Theater, Montand's program runs the gamut of French popular songs, all of which tell little light - hearted or slightly sad stories and bear small resemblance to the Tin Pan Alley product here.

Although he sings entirely in French, Montand has learned enough English to preface each of his 20 numbers with an amusing explanation in the latter language. Because of his skill with gestures — his whole body works when he sings—and a remarkably expressive face, it isn't necessary to know a word of French to enjoy his work.

Montand is a graceful, well set-up fellow of 38 with one of those homely - attractive faces that pleases both men and women. His baritone is of pleasing quality, and there is the skill of a well-trained actor in everything he does.

In fact, in France he is admired not only for his singing specialty, but also as a dramatic actor in the movies and on the stage. He starred in both mediums in Arthur Miller's grim "The Crucible" which will give you an idea of his range.

Montand's singing act is done about as simply as possible. He wears only a brown sport shirt, open at the neck, matching brown slacks and shoes. He works with a microphone, which I doubt he really needs, standing in front of a scrim curtain behind which is the seven-man orchestra that gives him excellent backing.

Montand is a popular recording artist, but listening to his records can't be too rewarding unless you have an intimate knowledge of all of the nuances of the French language. He is an entertainer who has to be seen to be fully appreciated.

Just as Julie Harris spent all last season on a national tour tuning up "The Warm Peninsula" for this year's Broadway season, so is Nancy Kelly giving a thorough workout to the new Arthur Kober-George Oppenheimer comedy, "A Mighty Man Is He."

The play opened late last month in Los Angeles, and an east-bound tour of four and a half months has been booked prior to New York. The present plan is for it to have a Broadway premiere next Feb. 11.

Producer Paul Gregory has proved before that he also is a believer in a long warmup prior to Broadway, and he'll use the technique again with "The Pink Jungle," starring Ginger Rogers. This is a comedy with music by Leslie Stevens, whose "The Marriage-go-Round" of last season is still selling out on Broadway.

"The Pink Jungle," which is about the cosmetics and beauty business, is slated to bow Oct. 14 in San Francisco. The schedule calls for 13 weeks on the road with other engagements in Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia.

Family Loves Beef; Gets By On Soup

PITTSBURGH (AP)—"We love rolled beef. We can't have beef so we buy chuck. But mostly we settle for stew or soup."

That's how Mrs. James Moucheron, a steelworker's wife, economizes during a prolonged strike.

They have a 3-year-old son, Jimmy.

Jimmy's maternal grandmother also shares their modest 6-room home a few blocks from the steel plant.

Since the strike began, the Moucherons have dipped heavily into their savings—built up during the peak production periods.

During the 1956 strike, Mrs. Moucheron took an office job to help out. That was right after Jimmy was born.

This time Big Jim managed to find a few days' employment. He's tended bar and also carried a hod for a plasterer.

Once a week Big Jim makes a trip to the union hall about two blocks away for a bag of free food. He is entitled to what the union local calls a No. 1 food bag. There are also No. 2 and No. 3 bags, larger ones, for steelworkers with more mouths to feed.

This week's food bag contained a 3 pound canned chicken, 2 loaves of bread, a can of apple sauce, peas and baked beans, 2 cans of vegetables and a 10-pound sack of potatoes. On alternate weeks a 3-pound can of stew substitutes for chicken.

How does Mrs. Moucheron stretch a 3 pound can of stew?

"It's simple," she said. "I just add a few more potatoes, some carrots and a few more vegetables. Instead of two meals we make it stretch to four.

"We're fanatics on beef and soda pop. We drink pop by the case. But we've had to economize. So, instead, we buy the necessary food staples.

"We've been pretty lucky, a lot luckier than some of our neighbors who have three, four and five children. Thank God we're not on relief."

Before the strike Big Jim's take home pay every two weeks was $155. He's been a millworker for 11 years.

How does he feel about returning to work under the Taft-Hartley Act?

"I don't think much of it," he said. "I think the President should have told both sides to continue negotiating."

How about Mrs. Moucheron?

"Well," she said. "The first check Jim brings home I'm going out and buy a case of soda pop."

HOW LONG SINCE YOU WERE FREEZING TO DEATH?

Never? A simple cloak never meant the difference between life and death to you? Then you can't possibly know what it would mean this winter to more than half the people in many parts of the world. Perhaps you can imagine it . . . just as you can imagine a needy child's gratitude for a gift from you. So give your most to Overseas Aid now—through your own Faith's program.

Nixon Warns Of Competing With Russia

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP)—The United States never must compete with the Soviet Union solely in material terms, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday in dedicating The Dalles Dam, a hydroelectric giant on the Columbia River here.

The U.S.S.R. is successful only in material competition, Nixon said. If the United States attempts to meet the Soviet Union on grounds the Russians select, this nation will lose, the vice president said.

True victory can be attained only if the nation follows "the principles that have made the United States great," the principles of the American Revolution, Nixon said.

It is a vital fact, he said, that 31 million Americans own their own homes, that 60 million have cars, and that millions more own television and radio sets.

But, said the vice president, those material goods are merely symbols of something more important, "the freedom which we like and enjoy."

The vice president spoke on a plateau on the Washington side of the river, at a point behind the dam where he and the crowd of 3,500 were unable to see the face of the 250-million-dollar structure.

When he finished speaking, Nixon pushed a button that put the dam's 10th generator into action. As the generator whirred, it started pouring 76,000 kilowatts into the Northwest power pool. The new flow lighted a bank of lights on the dam, and brought a cheer from the crowd on a chill, overcast day.

Brazil Rhino Misses Fun From Election

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Samba dancers have gotten into the act in this provincial capital's strange election ruckus over Skinny-the-rhinoceros polling the most votes.

Skinny wasn't around to see the parade of dancers who tied up downtown traffic Friday and sang their victory song to the tune of bongo drums.

The half-ton female rhino had been sent back to the zoo in Rio de Janeiro in a dispute over her ownership just before the Municipal election in which she led the ticket with more than 100,000 write-in votes.

In the Brazilian Congress, a leftist nationalist deputy charged Skinny was a plot of "foreign trusts that want to demoralize the regime." The press called the surprise support for Skinny—with the help of jesting university students.

Skinny will never serve her election and all the votes cast for her have been validated.

Space Age Stocks Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Space age stocks revived and made great strides this week while blue chip issues wallowed uncertainly in the stock market.

The over-all market took a small loss while the industrial section gained slightly.

The moon-girdling Russian satellite and the conviction that the United States must spend heavily in the space race inspired the missile-rocket-electronics group.

The big industrials and rails, however, pursued an uncertain course as they waited for President Eisenhower to do what the market expected him to do, namely, invoke the Taft-Hartley law in the steel strike which finished its 87th day as the trading week concluded.

Accordingly, the over-all market, which was buoyant a week ago in hopes that the steel mills would resume operation soon, lapsed into a watch-and-wait mood. The rails, especially sensitive to this situation, took a slight loss on balance. Not until after the final trading session was over did the President invoke the Taft-Hartley law.

The President also used this weapon on Tuesday to put the dock workers back on the job and this gave the rails a nice one-day rally. But later on they dropped.

Bond trading for the week amounted to $27,520,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange. This compared with $31,520,000 the previous week and $30,098,000 a year ago.

Red Guns Silent

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Communist guns lapsed into their usual even - numbered day silence today after letting loose with the heaviest shelling of the Quemoy Islands in almost four months Friday.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Reds fired 235 rounds.

Final Rites Set For Miss Lettie Owen

Miss Lettie Owen, a life - long resident of Monroe, died Friday night in Winnsboro. She was well known in Monroe.

For many years she was employed by the Ouachita National Bank as a bookkeeper and as custodian of the safety deposit department. She was a loyal and devoted member of the First Presbyterian Church, where she served for more than forty years as a superintendent or a teacher in the beginner's department. She was diligent and faithful in attendance of all church activities.

She was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. John Owen of Delhi. She was a graduate of the music department of Ward Seminary in Nashville, Tennessee.

The funeral service will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church, Monroe. Close friends of Miss Lettie from the bank and church will serve as pallbearers. Peters Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements.

Family Loves Beef; Gets By On Soup

PITTSBURGH (AP)—"We love rolled beef. We can't have beef so we buy chuck. But mostly we settle for stew or soup."

That's how Mrs. James Moucheron, a steelworker's wife, economizes during a prolonged strike.

They have a 3-year-old son, Jimmy.

Jimmy's maternal grandmother also shares their modest 6-room home a few blocks from the steel plant.

Since the strike began, the Moucherons have dipped heavily into their savings—built up during the peak production periods.

During the 1956 strike, Mrs. Moucheron took an office job to help out. That was right after Jimmy was born.

This time Big Jim managed to find a few days' employment. He's tended bar and also carried a hod for a plasterer.

Once a week Big Jim makes a trip to the union hall about two blocks away for a bag of free food. He is entitled to what the union local calls a No. 1 food bag. There are also No. 2 and No. 3 bags, larger ones, for steelworkers with more mouths to feed.

This week's food bag contained a 3 pound canned chicken, 2 loaves of bread, a can of apple sauce, peas and baked beans, 2 cans of vegetables and a 10-pound sack of potatoes. On alternate weeks a 3-pound can of stew substitutes for chicken.

How does Mrs. Moucheron stretch a 3 pound can of stew?

"It's simple," she said. "I just add a few more potatoes, some carrots and a few more vegetables. Instead of two meals we make it stretch to four.

"We're fanatics on beef and soda pop. We drink pop by the case. But we've had to economize. So, instead, we buy the necessary food staples.

"We've been pretty lucky, a lot luckier than some of our neighbors who have three, four and five children. Thank God we're not on relief."

Before the strike Big Jim's take home pay every two weeks was $155. He's been a millworker for 11 years.

How does he feel about returning to work under the Taft-Hartley Act?

"I don't think much of it," he said. "I think the President should have told both sides to continue negotiating."

How about Mrs. Moucheron?

"Well," she said. "The first check Jim brings home I'm going out and buy a case of soda pop."

HOW LONG SINCE YOU WERE FREEZING TO DEATH?

Never? A simple cloak never meant the difference between life and death to you? Then you can't possibly know what it would mean this winter to more than half the people in many parts of the world. Perhaps you can imagine it . . . just as you can imagine a needy child's gratitude for a gift from you. So give your most to Overseas Aid now—through your own Faith's program.

Nixon Warns Of Competing With Russia

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP)—The United States never must compete with the Soviet Union solely in material terms, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday in dedicating The Dalles Dam, a hydroelectric giant on the Columbia River here.

The U.S.S.R. is successful only in material competition, Nixon said. If the United States attempts to meet the Soviet Union on grounds the Russians select, this nation will lose, the vice president said.

True victory can be attained only if the nation follows "the principles that have made the United States great," the principles of the American Revolution, Nixon said.

It is a vital fact, he said, that 31 million Americans own their own homes, that 60 million have cars, and that millions more own television and radio sets.

But, said the vice president, those material goods are merely symbols of something more important, "the freedom which we like and enjoy."

The vice president spoke on a plateau on the Washington side of the river, at a point behind the dam where he and the crowd of 3,500 were unable to see the face of the 250-million-dollar structure.

When he finished speaking, Nixon pushed a button that put the dam's 10th generator into action. As the generator whirred, it started pouring 76,000 kilowatts into the Northwest power pool. The new flow lighted a bank of lights on the dam, and brought a cheer from the crowd on a chill, overcast day.

Burma Minister Returns Home

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Burmese Prime Minister Ne Win flew home today after a 44-hour visit to India and talks with Prime Minister Nehru.

Nehru said they discussed the tense situation along their borders with Red China but no communique was issued.

Brazil Rhino Misses Fun From Election

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Samba dancers have gotten into the act in this provincial capital's strange election ruckus over Skinny-the-rhinoceros polling the most votes.

Skinny wasn't around to see the parade of dancers who tied up downtown traffic Friday and sang their victory song to the tune of bongo drums.

The half-ton female rhino had been sent back to the zoo in Rio de Janeiro in a dispute over her ownership just before the Municipal election in which she led the ticket with more than 100,000 write-in votes.

In the Brazilian Congress, a leftist nationalist deputy charged Skinny was a plot of "foreign trusts that want to demoralize the regime." The press called the surprise support for Skinny—with the help of jesting university students.

Skinny will never serve her election and all the votes cast for her have been validated.

Space Age Stocks Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Space age stocks revived and made great strides this week while blue chip issues wallowed uncertainly in the stock market.

The over-all market took a small loss while the industrial section gained slightly.

The moon-girdling Russian satellite and the conviction that the United States must spend heavily in the space race inspired the missile-rocket-electronics group.

The big industrials and rails, however, pursued an uncertain course as they waited for President Eisenhower to do what the market expected him to do, namely, invoke the Taft-Hartley law in the steel strike which finished its 87th day as the trading week concluded.

Accordingly, the over-all market, which was buoyant a week ago in hopes that the steel mills would resume operation soon, lapsed into a watch-and-wait mood. The rails, especially sensitive to this situation, took a slight loss on balance. Not until after the final trading session was over did the President invoke the Taft-Hartley law.

The President also used this weapon on Tuesday to put the dock workers back on the job and this gave the rails a nice one-day rally. But later on they dropped.

Bond trading for the week amounted to $27,520,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange. This compared with $31,520,000 the previous week and $30,098,000 a year ago.

Bean Trade Spotlighted On Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Unfavorable weather for harvesting the soybean and corn crops provided the principal incentive for trading on the Board of Trade this week.

Trading in beans amounted to better than 70 per cent of the total volume on several days and prices advanced daily except Friday when beans suffered a setback on profit-taking.

Other factors in the trade during the week included the longshoremen's strike on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, potential foreign demand which failed to develop to any great degree, and several estimates both private and government, of the total 1959 production of soybeans, corn and wheat.

At the finish Friday wheat was ⅜ higher to ¾ lower, corn ⅛ higher to ¾ lower, oats ⅞ higher to ¼ lower, rye ⅜ to 2⅞ higher and soybeans 1½ to 2⅛ higher.

Wet weather blanketed the midwest corn and soybean belt all week—except Friday—as well as part of the previous week. The harvest delaying moisture brought good support to beans and prices kept advancing until Friday.

Reports of clearing weather on Friday caused a selloff.

There was virtually no news of importance to affect wheat prices.

Corn held within a narrow trading range all week, with weather conditions the main factor. Oats were independently steady most of the time.

Rye followed action in wheat except on Friday when deliveries advanced as much as 2⅛ cents a bushel in sympathy with Winnipeg flax which advanced the limit for one day as a result of harvest delaying snow in Canada.

APPOINTED — Loy A. Everett is newly-appointed sales manager of Commercial Solvents Corporation's Agricultural Chemicals Sales Department. He succeeds Clyde T. Marshall, according to W. W. Jackson, vice president. For the last two years, Everett has been assistant sales manager of the department.

Final Rites Set For Miss Lettie Owen

Miss Lettie Owen, a life - long resident of Monroe, died Friday night in Winnsboro. She was well known in Monroe.

For many years she was employed by the Ouachita National Bank as a bookkeeper and as custodian of the safety deposit department. She was a loyal and devoted member of the First Presbyterian Church, where she served for more than forty years as a superintendent or a teacher in the beginner's department. She was diligent and faithful in attendance of all church activities.

She was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. John Owen of Delhi. She was a graduate of the music department of Ward Seminary in Nashville, Tennessee.

The funeral service will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church, Monroe. Close friends of Miss Lettie from the bank and church will serve as pallbearers. Peters Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements.

Tribe Rides Airlanes For First Victory

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Northeast's Indians, held in check all season by a sluggish passing attack, rode the airlanes for two touchdowns here Saturday night as a rejuvenated band of Apaches and Comanches defeated scrappy Arlington State, 26-21, to snap a three-game losing streak.

The triumph was victory No. 1 for Coach Jack Rowan's Tribesmen who open Gulf States Conference play against McNeese here next week.

Apache quarterback Bob Randel and third string signal caller Malcolm Brewer, a freshman, pitched scoring passes as the Indians made good use of a Rebel fumble and a pass interception to convert them into six-pointers.

Brewer tossed seven yards to halfback Levy Redden and paydirt in the second quarter and Randel, showing more poise than at any other time this year, threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to glue-fingered end Jerry Head in the fourth period to wrap up the win.

Arlington quarterback Amos North, at 29 the elder statesman on the field, sneaked over two touchdowns from the one-yard-line and passed to end Roger Jones for the final ASC score with 2:15 left in the game.

Northeast took the lead in the first period when halfback Jim Laudadio, whose sparkling 35-yard punt return set up the Northeast clincher, recovered an enemy fumble and later scored on a 5-yard jaunt. Fullback Stewart "Tank" Stover, the Indians' bread-and-butter man on his power drives, accounted for the other Tribe touchdown on a 9-yard burst with 20 seconds remaining in the first half.

The game showed all appearances of a high-scoring duel before the first quarter had elapsed.

Northeast racked up two tallies in the first period to enjoy their first lead of the season. Halfback Laudadio started the initial drive when he pounced on North's fumble on the Arlington 42. Curtis Cook, now operating at quarterback after the starting Apaches took a rest, moved for three yards on a keeper play. A pass fell incomplete and Stover, tireless as ever, bulled his way off tackle for five yards.

Cook sneaked 4 yards for a first down on the ASC 34 and then tossed a wobbly pass to end Pete Covington for another first on the 20.

An offside penalty pushed the pigskin to the 15 and Terry Reeves, running like a scared jackrabbit, sprinted to the 10. Laudadio swung wide to the right, stopped and threw to Head at the 5. Laudadio then twisted his way five yards through the middle for the score with 8:40 remaining in the opening quarter. Laudadio booted the conversion to make it 7-0.

Five minutes later the Redskins added another tally through the air. After end James Moore and Delmas Thorne pushed the Rebs back on two running plays, Don Tipto took to the air. Tribe center Sammy Williams corraled his pass on the 35 and returned to the ASC 24. Two offside penalties and fine dashes by Levy Redden and Dave Barnes put the ball on the 15.

Redden crashed to the five then lost one around left end. At this point Brewer, a freshman signal caller, faded back and hit Redden, running parallel on the goal, for the touchdown. Redden's kick was no good.

Moore, a terror defense for Northeast recovered a fumble by Larry Willimson on the Arlington 26 on the Rebs' first play from scrimmage following the kickoff.

Stiff line play by the Rebels halted the Indians in four plays and the visitors began their first drive to paydirt.

A North to Crowley-to-Arnold lateral play netted a first down on the Tribe 49. North tossed a spot pass to Crowley for five yards and a moment later hurled a bullseye to Crowley who made the catch on the 10 and was knocked out of bounds from behind on the one-foot line by Brewer.

Moore stopped Arnold's plunge for no gain and North followed with a one-yard sneak for the score. Ronald Sutherland converted to make 13-7.

Arlington got a break in the second period and converted it into touchdown No. 2. Stover, who shone defensively as well as in ball carrying roles, fumbled on his 40 and Richard John of Arlington recovered.

Halfback Freddie Arnold in three plays chugged to the 25. North threw to end Tom Beasley on the 15 where interference was ruled, giving them a first down.

A jump pass was broken up by Jerry Marchbank and a double reverse and an end sweep advanced the Rebels to the Northeast 2. Fullback Cliff Bradley was stopped on the one by Marchbank and on the following play North knifed over for the score. Charlie Key's conversion just made it over the crossbars.

With three minutes left in the half Northeast stalled an Arlington drive on their own 21 and began one of their own. Two carries by Terry Reeves and one by Stover chalked up a first down and then Randel hit Reeves with a screen pass that carried to the ASC 49.

Then Head, who made three brilliant receptions during the game, hauled in an aerial from Randel and was brought down from behind on the 12.

With 20 seconds left before intermission Stover bulled his way nine yards to paydirt. Laudadio's kick was good.

The two teams settled down to a head-knocking tussle in the third period and neither was able to reach the goal.

Shortly after the fourth quarter opened Laudadio took a punt on his 47, reversed his field at the Arlington 40, picked up a good block on the 30 and raced to the 18 before he was stopped.

Stover bowled his way to the 15 and Randel fired to Head on the goal line for the touchdown. Wayne Crowley, a rugged ASC defender, stopped Stover's attempted run for the two-point conversion.

Head made an amazing catch on the TD pass with Arnold riding his back all the way.

One of his tosses was dropped by Roger Jones who was all by himself on the Tribe 25. However, he redeemed himself five plays later, taking a 3-yard heave from North for the score.

After Northeast failed to gain on the next kickoff, Arlington took over with 25 seconds left to play. Curtis Cook and Head broke up long passes by North and guard Carroll Brown broke through to drop North in his backfield as the horn sounded to end the game.

The Indians turned in a hard-hitting defensive effort and had many standouts. Particularly outstanding in the forward wall were ends Head, Covington and Moore, tackles Thorne and Ben Brownstein and guards Foster Alfred Feeney and Brown.

With Randel and Brewer doing most of the throwing Northeast completed 8 of 14 passes for 112 yards. Arlington topped the Tribe in first downs 16-12 and in rushing 152 yards to 71.

Marvin McManus, Northeast fullback from Holly Ridge, watched the game from the sidelines on an ambulance stretcher. McManus was the No. 2 fullback until injured in play recently.

Tigers Rally In 2nd Half In Runaway

By ED TUNSTALL

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State's frustrated attack exploded for three touchdowns in the second half Saturday night and the top - ranked Tigers crushed Miami, Fla. 27-3 before 67,000 fans.

LSU had a 7-3 lead at halftime on All America halfback Billy Cannon's 5-yard run, but the Tigers really went to town after intermission.

The Miami defense, rated second in the nation before the game, had the LSU offense somewhat stymied in the first two quarters. But the Hurricanes were no match for the versatile Tigers in the final two quarters.

Halfback Johnny Robinson, the other half of LSU's potent 1-2 scoring punch sent LSU into a 14-3 lead with two minutes left in the third quarter on a 12-yard scamper.

A fumble recovery led to the next LSU tally. LSU took over on the Miami 18 and four plays later substitute quarterback Durel Matherne passed to end Don Norwood for 12 yards and the score.

With only 31 seconds remaining in the game, first string quarterback Warren Rabb swept right end for eight yards and the final touchdown.

Cannon was as usual LSU's big running threat. The fleet 210-pounder gained 78 yards on 15 carries and ran his three-year collegiate total to over 1,500 yards.

Miami's three points came in the second quarter when Al Dangel booted a 30-yard field goal.

The passing of 152-pound Miami quarterback Fran Curci failed to live up to pre-game expectations. The talented Hurricane field general connected on only three of 13 attempts and had a rough time with the LSU line all evening.

LSU marched 56 yards in 12 plays for its first touchdown. Cannon gave the drive a big boost with a 14-yard run two plays before he went over right tackle for the touchdown.

Cannon also played a big role in the final LSU tally. He grabbed a pass from Rabb and bulled his way to the Miami 17. A penalty against the Hurricanes took the ball to the 8 and Rabb followed a tight line of blockers to the goal line.

The LSU defense also contained the Miami running game well, limiting the Hurricanes to 99 yards. LSU backs rolled up 162 and Tiger quarterbacks tacked on another 78 on passes. The victory was LSU's fourth of the season. The Tigers had a narrow edge for first place in this week's Associated Press poll over Northwestern, a 6-0 winner Saturday over Minnesota.

The loss was the first for the Hurricanes following victories over Tulane and Florida State.

SECOND GSC WIN

Louisiana Tech Rallies To Beat Southwestern, 21-13

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech came from behind to win its second straight Gulf States Conference contest by dumping Southwestern Louisiana, 21-13, here last night.

The visiting SLI eleven scored in the first three minutes of the game. However, Tech's Bulldogs came back to put across one TD in the first period and two more in the second and were never behind after that.

Scoring for SLI were halfback Dave Cavalier on an 11-yard end sweep and halfback Steve Gossen on a beautiful 94-yard kickoff return.

Tech's scoring was done by fullback B. K. Miller on a four-yard plunge, by end Tom Causey on a 6-yard pass from quarterback Mickey Slaughter and end Jerry Hudson on a 16-yard return of a blocked SLI punt.

SLI got an early break when the game was only 2:30 minutes old when Tech attempted to punt and the pass from center went over the punter's head. J. W. Slack, who was to have punted, recovered the ball but was downed by guard Morris Elder on the Tech 11. On SLI's first scrimmage play of the game, Cavalier skirted right end and, with good blocking, scored standing up. Ralph Davis kicked the PAT and SLI led, 7-0.

Tech's first touchdown also came as a result of a break. An SLI fumble was recovered by Tech guard Joe Hinton on the SLI 27. Bulldog quarterback Johnny Hudson took to the air, completing passes to Charley Garris and B. K. Miller to put the ball on the 15. Runs by Miller, and Jack Howard advanced the ball to the four from where Miller plunged over for the score.

Slack's try for the extra point was no good and SLI led, 7-6.

In the second period, Tech went ahead 14-7 on Slack's pass to Causey. This score came at the end of a 41-yard drive. Fullback Max Rudd stepped off 15 yards for a first down at the SLI 25 and moments later got another first down at the 12. A penalty advanced the ball to the eight. Paul Hynes took it to the six and then Slaughter tossed to Causey for the TD. Slack ran for the two-pointer to make it 14-7.

Both teams scored quick TDs in the closing minutes of the second quarter. Tech went ahead, 21-7, when center Jim Campbell blocked Gossen's punt and Hudson caught it on the SLI 16 and raced into the end zone. Slack kicked the extra point.

SLI came right back seconds later when Gossen gathered in Tech's kickoff on the SLI six and raced 94 yards for the final touchdown of the night. The try for the extra point by Bob Davis was blocked.

Southern Tops Southeastern By 26-6 Count

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern, held to only one touchdown in the first half, came roaring back and scored three to stop a stubborn Southeastern Louisiana team 26-6.

Southern top-ranked small college team in the nation, had trouble moving the ball against the Lions' six-man line during the first half. But mixing passes with short running plays, the Southern-ern first unit rapidly scored one touchdown after the second half kickoff and went on to score two more in the final period.

Senior end Hugh Mcinnis, who makes a habit of grabbing loose footballs in mid-air, caght a punt dropped by sophomore quarterback Don Fuell and ran unmolested for 12 yards and the Southerners first score.

Freshman halfback Billy Ladner broke loose in the final period and sprinted 72 yards for Southeastern's only score.

Fuell at the opening of the second half, threw 45 yards to senior fullback Buddy Supple who twisted away from a Lion tackler and stepped into the end zone for Southern's second score. Fuell plunged for two extra points.

Midway in the last quarter Southern pushed to the Lion 1 and Supple crashed over for his second score.

Hogs Capture 23-7 Victory Over Baylor

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Pass thievery by the Arkansas Razorbacks gave them a 23-7 victory over Baylor Saturday night and a firmer hold on the Southwest Conference lead.

Fleet Hogs bounced in front of would-be Bear receivers to take away pass interceptions of 37,40 and 51 yards.

It was Arkansas' second conference victory. Last week it beat favored Texas Christian 3-0 in the mud.

Baylor scored first and held Arkansas to a 7-7 tie for the half but the Razorbacks outran them offensively and defensively in the last half. Fumbles and interceptions went to the Hogs by a big margin.

Arkansas marched to a touchdown in the second after a quick kick rocked the Bears. An interception and fumble put Baylor in the hole in the third quarter.

Senior halfback Jim Mooty stole a Bear pass and ran 37 yards to start a drive ending with a field goal. Half a dozen plays later Baylor fumbled and started a series of passing plays leading to an Arkansas tochdown.

Mooty took advantage of another Baylor fumble in the fourth for the last Razorback score.

Ivy League Tie

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Brown turned back four Dartmouth thrusts inside the 20 Saturday and battled to a scoreless tie with the Indians in an Ivy League football game. Brown's only threat ended on the 17 when Dartmouth blocked a field goal attempt.

Beavers Bow To Michigan In Fourth, 18-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich., (AP) — Michigan, unable to generate power on its own, snapped a string of six straight defeats Saturday by turning Oregon State's final period fumble into a quick touchdown for an 18-7 victory.

The Wolverines were within one defeat of matching their all-time losing streak when end John Halstead pounced on an Oregon State fumble at the Beavers' 33-yard line.

In eight days, Michigan pumped enough life into its sluggish offense to propel sophomore halfback Ken Tureaud into the end zone.

Coupled with Halstead's 27-yard field goal in the opening period, that was enough to send 74,693 sun-banked spectators home happy.

Holy Cross Wins

WORCESTER, Mass., (AP) — The Holy Cross Crusaders, plagued by penalties, fumbles and interceptions, eked out an 8-0 win Saturday over the University of Dayton.

Purdue Whips Wisconsin In Big 10 Opener

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Junior Bernie Allen, subbing for Purdue's injured Ross Fichtner, threw three touchdown passes and kicked three extra points as the Boilermakers smashed Wisconsin 21-0 Saturday in the Big en opener for both teams.

Purdue ranked No. 7 in The Associated Press poll and Wisconsin No. 9, but the Boilermakers completely dominated the play. It started on a dry field and ended in a downpour of rain.

Taking a long step toward the Rose Bowl, Purdue recovered four Wisconsin fumbles and intercepted three Badger passes as the teams collided like freight trains on every play.

The Boilermakers bunched two touchdowns in 2 minutes 17 seconds of the first quarter, before the rains came. End Leonard Jardine caught 6 and 22-yard scoring passes from Allen, both in the end zone and both without a hand laid on him.

Northeast Turns Back ASC, 26-21; Bengals Race By Miami, 27-3

Tribe Rides Airlanes For First Victory

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Northeast's Indians, held in check all season by a sluggish passing attack, rode the airlanes for two touchdowns here Saturday night as a rejuvenated band of Apaches and Comanches defeated scrappy Arlington State, 26-21, to snap a three-game losing streak.

The triumph was victory No. 1 for Coach Jack Rowan's Tribesmen who open Gulf States Conference play against McNeese here next week.

Apache quarterback Bob Randel and third string signal caller Malcolm Brewer, a freshman, pitched scoring passes as the Indians made good use of a Rebel fumble and a pass interception to convert them into six-pointers.

Brewer tossed seven yards to halfback Levy Redden and paydirt in the second quarter and Randel, showing more poise than at any other time this year, threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to gluefingered end Jerry Head in the fourth period to wrap up the win.

Arlington quarterback Amos North, at 29 the elder statesman on the field, sneaked over two touchdowns from the one-yard-line and passed to end Roger Jones for the final ASC score with 2:15 left in the game.

Northeast took the lead in the first period when halfback Jim Laudadio, whose sparkling 35-yard punt return set up the Northeast clincher, recovered an enemy fumble and later scored on a 5-yard jaunt. Fullback Stewart "Tank" Stover, the Indians' bread-and-butter man on his power drives, accounted for the other Tribe touchdown on a 9-yard burst with 20 seconds remaining in the first half.

The game showed all appearances of a high-scoring duel before the first quarter had elapsed.

Northeast racked up two tallies in the first period to enjoy their first lead of the season. Halfback Laudadio started the initial drive when he pounced on North's fumble on the Arlington 42. Curtis Cook, now operating at quarterback after the starting Apaches took a rest, moved for three yards on a keeper play. A pass fell incomplete and Stover, tireless as ever, bulled his way off tackle for five yards.

Cook sneaked 4 yards for a first down on the ASC 34 and then tossed a wobbly pass to end Pete Covington for another first on the 20.

An offside penalty pushed the pigskin to the 15 and Terry Reeves, running like a scared jackrabbit, sprinted to the 10. Laudadio swung wide to the right, stopped and threw to Head at the 5. Laudadio then twisted his way five yards through the middle for the score with 8:40 remaining in the opening quarter. Laudadio booted the conversion to make it 7-0.

Five minutes later the Redskins added another tally through the air. After end James Moore and Delmas Thorne pushed the Rebs back on two running plays, Don Tipto took to the air. Tribe center Sammy Williams corraled his pass on the 35 and returned to the ASC 24. Two offside penalties and fine dashes by Levy Redden and Dave Barnes put the ball on the 15.

Redden crashed to the five then lost one around left end. At this point Brewer, a freshman signal caller, faded back and hit Redden, running parallel on the goal, for the touchdown. Redden's kick was no good.

Moore, a terror defense for Northeast recovered a fumble by Larry Willimson on the Arlington 26 on the Rebs' first play from scrimmage following the kickoff.

Stiff line play by the Rebels halted the Indians in four plays and the visitors began their first drive to paydirt.

A North to Crowley-to-Arnold lateral play netted a first down on the Tribe 49. North tossed a spot pass to Crowley for five yards and a moment later hurled a bullseye to Crowley who made the catch on the 10 and was knocked out of bounds from behind on the one-foot line by Brewer.

Moore stopped Arnold's plunge for no gain and North followed with a one-yard sneak for the score. Ronald Sutherland converted to make 13-7.

Arlington got a break in the second period and converted it into touchdown No. 2. Stover, who shone defensively as well as in ball carrying roles, fumbled on his 40 and Richard John of Arlington recovered.

Halfback Freddie Arnold in three plays chugged to the 25. North threw to end Tom Beasley on the 15 where interference was ruled, giving them a first down.

A jump pass was broken up by Jerry Marchbank and a double reverse and an end sweep advanced the Rebels to the Northeast 2. Fullback Cliff Bradley was stopped on the one by Marchbank and on the following play North knifed over for the score. Charlie Key's conversion just made it over the crossbars.

With three minutes left in the half Northeast stalled an Arlington drive on their own 21 and began one of their own. Two carries by Terry Reeves and one by Stover chalked up a first down and then Randel hit Reeves with a screen pass that carried to the ASC 49.

Then Head, who made three brilliant receptions during the game, hauled in an aerial from Randel and was brought down from behind on the 12.

The two teams settled down to a head-knocking tussle in the third period and neither was able to reach the goal.

Shortly after the fourth quarter opened Laudadio took a punt on his 47, reversed his field at the Arlington 40, picked up a good block on the 30 and raced to the 18 before he was stopped.

Stover bowled his way to the 15 and Randel fired to Head on the goal line for the touchdown. Wayne Crowley, a rugged ASC defender, stopped Stover's attempted run for the two-point conversion.

Head made an amazing catch on the TD pass with Arnold riding his back all the way.

One of his tosses was dropped by Roger Jones who was all by himself on the Tribe 25. However, he redeemed himself five plays later, taking a 3-yard heave from North for the score.

After Northeast failed to gain on the next kickoff, Arlington took over with 25 seconds left to play. Curtis Cook and Head broke up long passes by North and guard Carroll Brown broke through to drop North in his backfield as the horn sounded to end the game.

The Indians turned in a hard-hitting defensive effort and had many standouts. Particularly outstanding in the forward wall were ends Head, Covington and Moore, tackles Thorne and Ben Brownstein and guards Foster Alfred Feeney and Brown.

With Randel and Brewer doing most of the throwing Northeast completed 8 of 14 passes for 112 yards. Arlington topped the Tribe in first downs 16-12 and in rushing 152 yards to 71.

Marvin McManus, Northeast fullback from Holly Ridge, watched the game from the sidelines on an ambulance stretcher. McManus was the No. 2 fullback until injured in play recently.

Tigers Rally In 2nd Half In Runaway

By ED TUNSTALL

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State's frustrated attack exploded for three touchdowns in the second half Saturday night and the top - ranked Tigers crushed Miami, Fla. 27-3 before 67,000 fans.

LSU had a 7-3 lead at halftime on All America halfback Billy Cannon's 5-yard run, but the Tigers really went to town after intermission.

The Miami defense, rated second in the nation before the game, had the LSU offense somewhat stymied in the first two quarters. But the Hurricanes were no match for the versatile Tigers in the final two quarters.

Halfback Johnny Robinson, the other half of LSU's potent 1-2 scoring punch sent LSU into a 14-3 lead with two minutes left in the third quarter on a 12-yard scamper.

A fumble recovery led to the next LSU tally. LSU took over on the Miami 18 and four plays later substitute quarterback Durel Matherne passed to end Don Norwood for 12 yards and the score.

With only 31 seconds remaining in the game, first string quarterback Warren Rabb swept right end for eight yards and the final touchdown.

Cannon was as usual LSU's big running threat. The fleet 210-pounder gained 78 yards on 16 carries and ran his three-year collegiate total to over 1,500 yards.

Miami's three points came in the second quarter when Al Dangel booted a 30-yard field goal.

The passing of 152-pound Miami quarterback Fran Curci failed to live up to pre-game expectations. The talented Hurricane field general connected on only three of 13 attempts and had a rough time with the LSU line all evening.

LSU marched 56 yards in 12 plays for its first touchdown. Cannon gave the drive a big boost with a 14-yard run two plays before he went over right tackle for the touchdown.

Cannon also played a big role in the final LSU tally. He grabbed a pass from Rabb and bulled his way to the Miami 17. A penalty against the Hurricanes took the ball to the 8 and Rabb followed a tight line of blockers to the goal line.

The LSU defense also contained the Miami running game well, limiting the Hurricanes to 99 yards. LSU backs rolled up 162 and Tiger quarterbacks tacked on another 78 on passes. The victory was LSU's fourth of the season. The Tigers had a narrow edge for first place in this week's Associated Press poll over Northwestern, a 6-0 winner Saturday over Minnesota.

The loss was the first for the Hurricanes following victories over Tulane and Florida State.

SECOND GSC WIN

Louisiana Tech Rallies To Beat Southwestern, 21-13

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech came from behind to win its second straight Gulf States Conference contest by dumping Southwestern Louisiana, 21-13, here last night.

The visiting SLI eleven scored in the first three minutes of the game. However, Tech's Bulldogs came back to put across one TD in the first period and two more in the second and were never behind after that.

Scoring for SLI were halfback Dave Cavalier on an 11-yard end sweep and halfback Steve Gossen on a beautiful 94-yard kickoff return.

Tech's scoring was done by fullback B. K. Miller on a four-yard plunge, by end Tom Causey on a 6-yard pass from quarterback Mickey Slaughter and end Jerry Hudson on a 16-yard return of a blocked SLI punt.

SLI got an early break when the game was only 2:30 minutes old when Tech attempted to punt and the pass from center went over the punter's head. J. W. Slack, who was to have punted, recovered the ball but was downed by guard Morris Elder on the Tech 11. On SLI's first scrimmage play of the game, Cavalier skirted right end and, with good blocking, scored standing up. Ralph Davis kicked the PAT and SLI led, 7-0.

Tech's first touchdown also came as a result of a break. An SLI fumble was recovered by Tech guard Joe Hinton on the SLI 27. Bulldog quarterback Johnny Hudson took to the air, completing passes to Charley Garris and B. K. Miller to put the ball on the 15. Runs by Miller, and Jack Howard advanced the ball to the four from where Miller plunged over for the score.

Slack's try for the extra point was no good and SLI led, 7-6.

In the second period, Tech went ahead 14-7 on Slack's pass to Causey. This score came at the end of a 41-yard drive. Fullback Max Rudd stepped off 15 yards for a first down at the SLI 25 and moments later got another first down at the 12. A penalty advanced the ball to the eight. Paul Hynes took it to the six and then Slaughter tossed to Causey for the TD. Slack ran for the two-pointer to make it 14-7.

Both teams scored quick TDs in the closing minutes of the second quarter. Tech went ahead, 21-7, when center Jim Campbell blocked Gossen's punt and Hudson caught it on the SLI 16 and raced into the end zone. Slack kicked the extra point.

SLI came right back seconds later when Gossen gathered in Tech's kickoff on the SLI six and raced 94 yards for the final touchdown of the night. The try for the extra point by Bob Davis was blocked.

Southern Tops Southeastern By 26-6 Count

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern, held to only one touchdown in the first half, came roaring back and scored three to stop a stubborn Southeastern Louisiana team 26-6.

Southern top-ranked small college team in the nation, had trouble moving the ball against the Lions' six-man line during the first half. But mixing passes with short running plays, the Southern first unit rapidly scored one touchdown after the second half kickoff and went on to score two more in the final period.

Senior end Hugh Mcinnis, who makes a habit of grabbing loose footballs in mid-air, caght a punt dropped by sophomore quarterback Don Fuell and ran unmolested for 12 yards and the Southerners first score.

Freshman halfback Billy Ladner broke loose in the final period and sprinted 72 yards for Southeastern's only score.

Fuell at the opening of the second half, threw 45 yards to senior fullback Buddy Supple who twisted away from a Lion tackler and stepped into the end zone for Southern's second score. Fuell plunged for two extra points.

Midway in the last quarter Southern pushed to the Lion 1 and Supple crashed over for his second score.

Beavers Bow To Michigan In Fourth, 18-7

ANN ARBOR, Mich., (AP) — Michigan, unable to generate power on its own, snapped a string of six straight defeats Saturday by turning Oregon State's final period fumble into a quick touchdown for an 18-7 victory.

The Wolverines were within one defeat of matching their all-time losing streak when end John Halstead pounced on an Oregon State fumble at the Beavers' 43-yard line.

In eight days, Michigan pumped enough life into its sluggish offense to propel sophomore halfback Ken Tureaud into the end zone.

Coupled with Halstead's 27-yard field goal in the opening period, that was enough to send 74,693 sun-banked spectators home happy.

Purdue Whips Wisconsin In Big 10 Opener

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Junior Bernie Allen, subbing for Purdue's injured Ross Fichtner, threw three touchdown passes and kicked three extra points as the Boilermakers smashed Wisconsin 21-0 Saturday in the Big en opener for both teams.

Purdue ranked No. 7 in The Associated Press poll and Wisconsin No. 9, but the Boilermakers completely dominated the play. It started on a dry field and ended in a downpour of rain.

Taking a long step toward the Rose Bowl, Purdue recovered four Wisconsin fumbles and intercepted three Badger passes as the teams collided like freight trains on every play.

The Boilermakers bunched two touchdowns in 2 minutes 17 seconds of the first quarter, before the rains came. End Leonard Jardine caught 6 and 22-yard scoring passes from Allen, both in the end zone and both without a hand laid on him.

Texas Comes From Behind To Tumble Oklahoma, 19-12

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Rambling Rene Ramirez and a pair of daring sophomore substitute quarterbacks snapped Texas to life for a 19-12 come-from-behind victory over arch-rival Oklahoma Saturday.

Coach Darrell Royal's Texans, ranked No. 4 in the nation, changed from a lethargic outfit that gave up two first-period Oklahoma touchdowns into a raging, gambling band of stampeding backs to go ahead by halftime and pull away in the final period.

The men responsible were Ramirez, who personally accounted for 51 yards of Texas' first 72- yard scoring surge, and fledgling signal callers James Saxton and Mike Cotten, who engineered the other two payoff drives.

Oklahoma's Prentice Gautt tried gamely to turn the tide of battle single-handedly, but a vicious Texas defense always rose to the occasion when the goal was threatened. Gautt chewed out 135 yards in 23 blasts at the Texas line.

Cotten turned in a timely fumble recovery to halt one Oklahoma Surge on the nine-yard line in the third period. Then, after another Oklahoma fumble in the fourth period he pitched to sophomore jack Collins at midfield and Collins streaked for the clinching touchdown on a 61-yard play.

Oklahoma had to move only 32 yards for its first score after a Texas fumble. The Sooners covered the final 23 yards with a pass from Bob Cornell to Jackie Holt, then drove 69 yards in seven plays for another a few minutes later when Dick Carpenter tned in a 38-yard dance down the sideline to score standing up.

Ramirez threw a southpaw pass to end Larry Cooper for the first Texas touchdown from six yards out and Bobby Lackey kicked the extra point that loomed as the possible winning margin until Cotton hit Collins with the fourth-quarter payoff.

Score by Periods

Texas	0	13	0	6—19
Oklahoma	12	0	0	0—12

Scoring Summary

Oklahoma—Holt 23 pass from Cornell (kick failed); D. Carpenter 38 run (run failed).

Texas—Cooper 6 pass from Ramirez (Lackey kick); Dowdle 1 run (kick blocked); Collins 61 pass from Cotten (kick failed).

Air Force Runs Unbeaten String To 14 With Win

DENVER (AP) — Quarterback Rich Mayo's sharp passing shattered Idaho as the Air Force Falcons ran their unbeaten football string to 14 Saturday with a 21-0 victory over the winless Vandals.

Mayo nailed halfback Mike Quinlan with a 45 - yard scoring pass in the third period to highlight his aerial show.

The 170-pound junior completed four passes for 59 yards in Air Force's first touchdown drive, an 80 - yard first quarter march capped by Quinlan's six - yard dash over right tackle.

Fullback George Pupich kicked a 37-yard field goal in the second period when penalties stalled the Air Force offense.

Idaho never penetrated any deeper than the Air Force 32.

LOOKS 'EM OVER

CONFLICT OF FREEDOMS

Hunters, with another season ready to go at full blast, still have lots of freedoms in Louisiana, but they should stand forewarned by what is happening in other states that the day of free range and free hunting is in its twilight. Already oldtimers can tell you plenty about freedoms already lost, and the young hunter today will live to see even tighter restrictions.

Some time ago Grayson Guthrie, Monroe banker, sent us a summer copy of a business review published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. The review featured a story titled "A Conflict of Freedom, Sportsmen and Land." There were passages worth pondering. We filed the offering away at the time, but now that the hunting season is ready to wax stronger, feel it appropriate to pass on some of the thoughts about what is happening to hunting lands, and what sportsmen able to foot the bill are doing to preserve it.

"The right to work and live without regimentation and the right to own and develop land have been two of the great attractions of this country. But a rapidly increasing population is bringing these historic freedoms into conflict, and this is particularly evident in the problems of finding hunting lands and fishing waters for sportsmen. In the United States sportsmen have traditionally hunted and fished on both public and private lands. Rivers and the larger streams--as well as fish and game--have been considered public property....

"Tradition as well as law has favored the sportsman. Landowners--particulary those living in sparsely settled areas--have been willing to admit the occasional hunter... a neighbor or fellow townsman of the landowner, and was welcome to go wherever he wished. But this situation is changing.

"A rapidly growing urban population with higher incomes and more leisure time is faning out over the countryside in search of outdoor recreation.. Today's hunter is likely to be a stranger from the city who is looked upon with suspicion.

"Land available to the sportsman is growing more and more scarce. . . .Landowners are withdrawing many more thousands of acres behind multiplying number of 'No Trespassing' signs. Most of these signs have been posted in areas with heavy hunting and fishing pressures—areas where the sheer numbers of sportsmen have created a problem. Carlessness and vandalism by a minority of sportsmen have antagonized many landowners . . . A recent study of the posting problem in Massachusetts revealed that 27 percent of the private rural land in the state was posted. Almost two-thirds of these landowners blamed acts of carelessness or vandalism or fear of fire danger or personal liability . . . .

"In recent years many sportsmen's groups have purchased or leased their own hunting land and fishing waters. In California, better than 85 percent of the privately owned pheasant land is under lease. Most of the larger timbertracts and almost all the waterfowl marshlands in Virginia are under lease. In New York's Adirondacks about one half of the land in ownerships of 10,000 acres or more is under exclusive lease . . . . Over 13 million acres of the best game land in Texas are tied up in leasing arrangements. Even sparsely populated Colorado has more than one half of its better and more accessible hunting land controlled by sportsmen's groups . . . . Many fish and game officials are convinced that the day of public hunting is over."

Louisiana already is seeing much of its deer territory going into the control of sportsmen's groups buying hunting leases. Even some duck hunting areas and fishing locations are under lease. Still Louisiana is fortunate in that there still is much domain open to public hunting, but the hunter stands warned that this can't be expected to remain so. Growing population and hunting pressures are certain to bring changes. State ownership of public hunting and fishing areas may be the last hope for the sportsmen not fortunate enough to own a hunting lease. The conduct of the hunters afield will determine how much quickly the lands now open to them are placed behind the posted signs.

BOWL CAGE PAIRINGS

The pairings for the 1959 Sugar Bowl basketball tournament at the Loyola Field House in New Orleans will send Tulane against Virginia Tech in the opening game Tuesday, December 29, and Mississippi State's defending champs will face Western Kentucky in the second game of the opening night program. Moreau Jumonville, chairman of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association's cage committee, announced the opening night pairings yesterday. As is the custom, the losers opening night meet in the consolation game opening the December 30 show, and their conquerors follow the same night in the title game.

"Roomie" Wilson, Max Macon, Curley White, and Hickman Duncan have been named through Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore to officiate at the tournament.

NO OLYMPICS FOR TYNER

George Tyner, a West Monroe businessman who grew up in Mississippi before World War I in which he saw Europe with the A.E.F., is gifted at recounting old experiences and we have listened to him off and on for several years, always with interest.

But it wasn't until recently we learned he was quite an athlete in "his day" and a United States prospect for the Olympic Games at Antwerp, Belgium, in 1920.

He will look you straight in the face and not bat an eye, and tell you he was the "best athlete in Mississippi" when he went to war. He was exceptional at broad jumping, and had been selected from the U.S. military forces in France to train for the 1920 Olympics. He was considered a good bet to make the team. But "the boys were coming home" and when Tyner learned he would have to stay in Europe to train, rather than come home to prepare for the games, he said to heck with it all. He wanted to come home with his buddies. So he did.

He recounts that train excursions used to run for athletic events in Mississippi and that the athlete of his day was a great hero in the eyes of the public.

"Why I've been brown from ear to ear, stained by victory kisses from snuff-dipping old ladies and proudly wore the stain as a badge of honor," quoted Mr. Tyner. "A winner in any kind of athletics was really something in those days."

Fla. State Nips Virginia Tech

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Roy Bickford, playing in only his fourth game, ran and passed Florida State to a fourth period touchdown Saturday to edge Virginia Tech, 7-6.

Illinois Deals Buckeyes 2nd Shutout, 9-0

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 73-yard pass play that bordered on the miraculous and a fourth-period field goal gave Illinois a 9-0 upset over Ohio State Saturday in a Big Ten football game which attracted 82,980 fans.

The Buckeye attack, once the scourge of the conference foundered on the rocky Illinois defense at the Bucks lost the ball on downs on the 28 and 11 yard lines and on pass interceptions on the Illinois 11 and 12.

The first - quarter touchdown settled the issue as the Bucks suffered their second straight shutout and Coach Woody Hayes' fourth conference loss in six years.

Mel Meyers, sophomore quarterback from Dallas, Tex., was apparently down far behind the 27-yard line of scrimmage on the big play, but eluded three Ohio attackers, broke loose from an ankle tackle and arched the ball far down field. Halfback John Counts, sophomore from New Rochelle, N. Y., picked the pigskin from between two Ohio defenders on the Illinois 45 and raced the rest of the way untouched.

The clincher came in the fourth period when Don Yeazel, a senior tackle from Dayton, Ohio, put the game on ice with a 27-yard field goal with less than five minutes to go.

Bob White, Ohio's huge fullback, was stopped almost cold by the rugged Illini defense as the Bucks were able to gain only 76 yards on the ground and 84 yards on completion of seven of 20 passes. The Illini, with Counts, Meyers and the fullback brothers, Bill and Jim Brown, ate up 195 yards on the ground and 174 through the air to outgain Ohio 369 to 160.

Colorado Tips Kansas State As Fists Fly

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Gale Weidner, a daring sophomore quarterback, ran and pitched Colorado's Buffaloes to an uphill 20-17 Big Eight football victory over Kansas State Saturday in a game spiced by fistfights and a near-riot in the closing minutes.

Colorado got its winning lead two minutes and 16 seconds into the fourth period. The Buffaloes were on the move in the final minutes when a brawl involving players from both benches broke out.

Eight players were thrown out of the game for fighting. At one stage, the Kansas State bench charged across the field to the Colorado side.

VMI Takes 19-12 Win Over Cavs

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI) — Halfback Butch Armistead roared down the sideline Saturday to intercept a Virginia pass and ran 20 yards for the clinching touchdown in Virginia Military's 19 - 12 victory.

VMI end Tom Kurkoski followed Armistead's dramatic play with another pass interception in the dying seconds to stymie the Cavaliers, who came alive after three straight humiliating losses to threaten the Keydets' once-secure 13-point lead.

Texas Comes From Behind To Tumble Oklahoma, 19-12

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Rambling Rene Ramirez and a pair of daring sophomore substitute quarterbacks snapped Texas to life for a 19-12 come-from-behind victory over arch-rival Oklahoma Saturday.

Coach Darrell Royal's Texans, ranked No. 4 in the nation, changed from a lethargic outfit that gave up two first-period Oklahoma touchdowns into a raging, gambling band of stampeding backs to go ahead by halftime and pull away in the final period.

The men responsible were Ramirez, who personally accounted for 51 yards of Texas' first 72- yard scoring surge, and fledgling signal callers James Saxton and Mike Cotten, who engineered the other two payoff drives.

Oklahoma's Prentice Gautt tried gamely to turn the tide of battle single-handedly, but a vicious Texas defense always rose to the occasion when the goal was threatened. Gautt chewed out 135 yards in 23 blasts at the Texas line.

Cotten turned in a timely fumble recovery to halt one Oklahoma Surge on the nine-yard line in the third period. Then, after another Oklahoma fumble in the fourth period he pitched to sophomore jack Collins at midfield and Collins streaked for the clinching touchdown on a 61-yard play.

Oklahoma had to move only 32 yards for its first score after a Texas fumble. The Sooners covered the final 23 yards with a pass from Bob Cornell to Jackie Holt, then drove 69 yards in seven plays for another a few minutes later when Dick Carpenter trned in a 38-yard dance down the sideline to score standing up.

Ramirez threw a southpaw pass to end Larry Cooper for the first Texas touchdown from six yards out and Bobby Lackey kicked the extra point that loomed as the possible winning margin until Cotton hit Collins with the fourth-quarter payoff.

Air Force Runs Unbeaten String To 14 With Win

DENVER (AP) — Quarterback Rich Mayo's sharp passing shattered Idaho as the Air Force Falcons ran their unbeaten football string to 14 Saturday with a 21-0 victory over the winless Vandals.

Mayo nailed halfback Mike Quinlan with a 45 - yard scoring pass in the third period to highlight his aerial show.

The 170-pound junior completed four passes for 59 yards in Air Force's first touchdown drive, an 80 - yard first quarter march capped by Quinlan's six - yard dash over right tackle.

PETTUS GOES 88 YARDS

Auburn Crushes Kentucky, 33-0

A near - sellout crowd of 30,000 sat in a slow drizzle to watch Auburn's eager sophomores and juniors club the Wildcats in every quarter with pin - point passes and bullish running.

	Ky.	Auburn
First downs	4	14
Rushing yardage	91	291
Passing yardage	22	44
Passes	6-19	2-14
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	11-33.3	7-27.8
Fumbles lost	2	0
Yards penalized	40	30

The stubby Tiger defense held Kentucky's seatbacks to 49 yards rushing in the first half. The Wildcats penetrated Auburn territory just five times during the game, making it once to the 16 on a blocked kick in the fourth period.

Pettus, a 165-pound speedster from Oxford, Ala., grabbed the opening kickoff on his 12 and bulleted straight up the field behind fierce blocking for the score. It was the third longest kickoff return in Auburn history and the first since 1953 when Bobby Duke returned 100 yards to tie Mississippi State 21-21 with a minute left.

Hunt, 170-pound speedster from Lanett, Ala., ran across two touchdowns in the rout which boosted Auburn's only-slightly tarnished prestige. The Plainsmen were upset two weeks ago 3-0 by Tennessee, and played Saturday with their eye on the Georgia Tech game at Atlanta next week.

Hunt, a dazzler on the option play, slammed over from the four in the second period and set up fullback Ed Dyas' 21-yard field goal with a 35 - yard scamper to the Kentucky four all in the the lightning-like first period. Auburn grabbed a quick 9-0 lead on Dyas' field goal with less than six minutes played.

Third - stringer Don Machen, playing his second varsity game, smashed 23 yards to the Kentucky three and cracked over on the next play to wind up the first half scoring.

The weary Kentuckians held the Tigers scoreless in the third period while Auburn coach Ralph Jordan experimented with various combinations. But Auburn hit again in the fourth with senior halfback Lamer Rawson of Pensacola, Fla., sprinting over guard for 30 yards to score.

Line stars Zeke Smith and Jackie Burkett were the mainstays of the gritty Tiger defense which hit so hard five Wildcats were carried off the field.

Solons Won't Be Permitted To Leave D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American League club owners with voting power to obstruct him are serving notice on Calvin Griffith he will not be permitted to abandon Washington as a major league baseball city, the Post said Saturday night.

Griffith's projected move of the Washington franchise to Minneapolis drew censure from Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, the Post said.

"The Yankees will never vote to leave the nation's capital without an American League team," Topping said in New York.

Topping added that he would not oppose Griffith's move to Minneapolis if another American League club was installed in Washington.

The Post said Topping's statement corroborated reports of an owners' move to expand the league to 10 clubs.

Only three of the owners' eight votes are required to balk a transfer of the Washington Franchise.

The Post said that previously two other club owners, who asked not to be identified, declared they would approve Griffith's move only if the league expanded to 10 teams, including a franchise in Washington.

'Bama Defeats Chattanooga By 13-0 Count

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Thrifty Alabama, displaying a typically tough defense but no offense tricks to watching scouts, turned two fumbles into touchdowns Saturday to defeat Chattanooga 13-0.

The Crimson Tide, playing intermittent rain in a warmup to next week's traditional contest with Tennessee, needed only four plays to count one six - pointer in the opening period and another in the third.

Sophomore Pat Trammell, a husky 180-ponder, brought the crowd of 20,000 to its feet in the third period with a 54-yard touchdown dash, while second-string quarterback Bobby Skelton darted 17 yards in the first period for the first score. Fred Sington converted one extra point.

A 42-yard scoring play from Skelton to Duff Morrisown was nullified by a penalty.

The crashing Alabama defense, led by guards Don Cochran and Wayne Sims, center John O'Linger and end Tom Brooker, threw back every Chattanooga offensive gesture.

It was Brocker who set up Trammell's long jaunt by falling on Ron Houshalter's fumble at the Aalbama 46. On the next play, Trammell swept left end and, aided by Brocker's key block, went 54 yards down the sidelines to the end zone.

Cornell Johnson, a shifty junior college transfer at halfback, grabbed a first-period fumble by Moccasin halfback Joe Abercrombie on the Chattanooga 27.

Skelton tried an incomplete pass then handed off to Johnson for 10 wards. On the next play, Skelton darted over the right side, cut back and sliced 17 yards through the arms of would-be tacklers for the score. Sims chipped in with a potent block to spring him loose.

Glen Jones' booming punts for the outmanned Moccasins kept the Crimson Tide, which counted its second win against one loss and a tie, from scoring more.

Chattanooga's only offensive effort moved the Moccasins just across the 50 on two first downs but was stopped by Houshalter's fumble.

Oklahoma State Humbles Tulsa

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — An alert Oklahoma State football team scored in every period and beat old-time rival Tulsa 26-0 before 21,000 fans at Lewis Field Saturday.

Oklahoma State counted single touchdowns in each period going 41, 52 and 80 yards for their first three scores. Alternate fullback Jim Dillard, a speedster from Fairfax, Okla., climaxed the scoring with a 91-yard run midway of the final period.

Tulsa had only one real good scoring chance and that backfired, setting up Dillard's gallop. The Hurricane recovered a fumble on the Oklahoma State 27 and moved to the 16 in three plays.

At that point quarterback Jerry Keeling tried a pass and Tony Banfield intercepted on the 2.

Snead Leads Wake Forest Past Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— Quarterback Norman Snead had to open up only twice Saturday in pitching Wake Forest to a 10-7 football victory over Maryland.

Snead's slinging carried Wake Forest from the opening kickoff into position for Nick Patella to kick a 22-yard field goal.

He rested then until Maryland scored its first touchdown in the third quarter on a 6-yard run by Jim Joyce putting Maryland ahead 7-3.

Snead, a 6-4, 200-pound quarterback, promptly warmed up again and passed the Deacons 69 yards down the field for the winning touchdown, a 14 - yard aerial to sophomore end Bill Ruby.

Wake Forest didn't make a first down between scoring thrusts as the game before 21,000 settled into a defensive affair.

Maryland blew a touchdown in the opening period when quarterback Dick Novak dropped the ball just before going over the goal. It was recovered by Wake Forest.

OYSTER BOWL

Syracuse Whips Middies, 32 To 6

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Syracuse struck down Navy's air game with interceptions, sent Art Baker flying 96 yards to a touchdown with one of them and scuttled the Middies 32-6 in the Oyster Bowl football game Saturday.

Baker also scored on a 13-yard run in the third period and another Orangeman, sophomore Ernie Davis, rocked the Navy and a partisan crowd of 31,750 with still another interception that spoiled a Navy bid to get back in the game before halftime.

The audience in this huge Naval center included 1,899 ship-delivered Midshipmen from Annapolis who sat in a steady drizzle to watch Navy absorb its second straight Oyster Bowl loss.

The victory was the third straight without defeat for Syracuse and strengthened the Orange's claim on the Lambert Trophy, symbolic of gridiron supremacy in the East.

The key plays were the interceptions. Baker, a Negro from Erie, Pa., stole a Joe Tranchini pass on the third play of the second period and went winging down the left sidelines 96 yards without a Navy hand touching him. In the fourth period, Syracuse's Mark Weber went 30 yards with an intercepted pass to score.

Syracuse sophomore quarterback Dave Sarrette scored on a two-yard plunge in the first period and Bob Yates converted. Then, when Davis, also a Negro halfback from Elmira, N.Y., grabbed another aerial from Navy quarterback Tranchini in the second period, Sarrette put it out of reach by throwing a 37-yard running - pass to halfback Ger Schwedes for a touchdown and a 20-0 halftime lead.

Baker, NCAA 191-pound wrestling champion and Eastern Heavyweight champ, piled up a total of 144 yards on 11 carries. Davis had 58 yards in 15 runs from scrimmage and added 27 on a pass reception.

Sports writers and broadcasters named Baker the game's Most Valuable Player. Davis was runner-up.

The Navy scored on the last play of the third period when Tranchini hit Joe Matalvage on a 13 yard pass - run play. Tranchini's attempted pass conversion failed.

Weber wrapped up the Syracuse scoring when he stole a pass from Tom Albershart of Navy and went 30 yards for a touchdown with two minutes remaining in the game.

It was Syracuse's 10th straight regular season victory, broken only by a 20-6 loss to Oklahoma in the last Orange Bowl.

Southern Rips Xavier, 35-12

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (Special) — The Jaguars of Southern University toyed with Xavier University for a full quarter, then got their big offensive rolling in the second quarter as they crushed the Gold Rush, 35-12, in Xavier Stadium.

Southrn led at the halftime intermission by 21-6, and completely dominated the Gold Rush in all other departments, they ran up a total of 152 - yards rushing to four for Xavier, 33-yards passing to 17 - for Xavier and racked up nine first downs while the Xavier was able to muster only two.

Henry White scored the first SU touchdown from three yards with a Cyrus Lancaster pitch-out, Lancaster to Leonard Hunter, 40 yard pass, and James Emery with a recovered fumble from the two.

During a scoreless first quarter, the surprising Gold Rush played the Jaguars off their feet with the heroics being shared by halfback Donald Bisbee, quarterback Cornel Lowery and fullback Albert Williams. The only thing missing was a scoring punch.

Irish Turn Back California, 28-6

By HAL WOOD

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Notre Dame's pro-type offense, rolling at a point-a-minute clip through the first 21 minutes, romped to a penalty-filled, fist-throwing 28-6 victory over Hapless California Saturday.

With a throng of 68,500 watching, coach Joe Kuharich's men from South Bend piled up a 21-0 lead over the boys from Cal during the first half and then held the Golden Bears well in check until the final minutes of play.

The Irish were penalized 158 yards during the game and fisticuffs broke out several times. Midway through the fourth period, guard Nick Buonconti of Notre Dame and guard Doug Graham of Cal were thrown out of the game after they engaged in a slugging match 20 yards from the rest of the team on the field.

California's long touchdown came after a 97 yard march with four minutes to play in the game. After Bob Scarpitto, Notre Dame's slick-running and long - kicking halfback, had kicked dead on the Cal three, the Bears, aided by numerous penalties, scored.

The payoff was Wayne Crow's four-yard pass into the end zone to end Dave George.

But by then, Notre Dame had the game wrapped up. And to add to the indignities, the Irish came right back to score again on a 45-yard pass from George Haffner to Leslie Traver.

During the first 21 minutes of play, California looked just as good as Notre Dame on the field—but not on the scoreboard.

The Bears set the tenor of the game on the opening scrimmage play. Crow tossed a pitchout to Bob Wills that went wild. Johnny Powers pounced on it for the Irish and Notre Dame had first and 10 on the Cal 22-yard line.

Bill Mack was tossed for a four yard loss, but George Izo threw to Scarpitto for a touchdown. The next Notre Dame score came on a 68-yard march that featured a 17-yard run by Gerry Gray and an 18-yard pass from Don White to Henry Wilke. White rolled over from the one to score.

California donated another score a few minutes later when Grover Garvin fumbled on his own 40 and Pat Heenan recovered for Notre Dame. Four minutes and eight plays later, Gray plunged across from the one to make the halftime tally 21-0.

Wall Leading Pot Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla. AP)—Art Wall Jr., golf's shotmaker from Pocono Manor, Pa., has become the fifth professional to win $50,000 in tournament play for one year.

The question now is who will finish as runner-up.

Then come Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., $31,836; Mike Souchak of Durham, N. C., $31,807; Bob Rosburg of Napa, Calif., $31,676; and Doug Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., $30,234.

Wall, 35, in his 11th year as a professional, has pocketed $53,142 this year.

The trim Pennsylvanian, finished first in competition for selection to the 1959 Ryder Cup team. He leads in Vardon Trophy standings and is runner-up to Ford in top tournament points for the current tour.

Wall's stroke average in Vardon Trophy competition is 70.15, compared with 70.64 strokes per round for both Ford and Souchak. Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., is next with a 70.71 stroke average.

Ford has amassed 2,210 points toward top tournament honors and Wall 1,969. Littler has 1,870, Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., 1,833, and Finsterwald 1,757.

BATTLE OF UNBEATENS

Anderson Sparks Ga. Tech To 14-7 Victory Over Vols

By MERCER BAILEY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Taz Anderson, an unsung hero in the past, flashed slashing power running and classy pass catching Saturday and Georgia Tech whipped Tennessee 14-7 in their battle of unbeaten football powers.

In addition to his sterling ground gaining, Anderson teamed with center Maxie Baughar to anchor a Tech defense that Tennessee couldn't crack consistently.

Tech went into the game ranked third in the nation in The Associated Press poll. Tennesee, ranked No. 8, became the third straight national power to fall before Tech's speed and finesse.

Anderson, once an end now playing fullback, keyed Tech's two touchdown marches with his pass grabbing and slick running. He scored in the first quarter on a run as the defending ACC champions registered their second conference victory.

State, relying on the passing of sophomore quarterback Roman Gabriel, never was able to penetrate deeper than the Clemson 40.

The victory may have cost Clemson the services of its outstanding senior tackle, Lou Cordileone, who suffered a painful knee injury in a first half scrimmage.

Clemson quarterback Lowndes Shingler threw a 26-yard fourth down scoring pass to end Gary Barnes to open the scoring midway of the second quarter.

When a Tiger drive stalled late in the third period sophomore guard Lon Armstrong kicked a 23-yard field goal. Fullback Ron Scrudato raced 60 yards with an intercepted State pass to score at the start of the fourth period.

of bounds at Tech's 2. Tech was never able to get out of that hole and after an exchange of punts, Etter took the Vols in. He threw a 4-yard fourth down pass to end Marvin Phillips for the touchdown.

The overflow crowd, estimated at 47,000, saw some tough defensive football, typical of Tech-Tennessee games. But they saw more offense than they expected. Braselton and Anderson teamed on three passes in Tech's first drive, Twice they got a big first down and the third time Anderson went into the end zone.

In the second Tech march — a 50-yard drive — Anderson contributed a 15-yard pass reception and gained 21 yards running. Anderson in Tech's other three victories this season has been used largely as a blocker and defender.

The Tennessee line, led by tackles Joe Schaffer and Lebroin Shields, played the Tech forwards on fairly even terms — except for tte terrific linebacking by Bughan and Anderson. Those two made tackles all over the field.

Etter's 19-yard pass to Charles Severance got Tennessee into scoring territory and then Phillips made a sensational one-handen catch on the goal for the touchdown.

Etter drove the Vols deep into Tech territory late in the third period but Baughan was rushed back into the game and was the big man in stopping the march. Etter got to the 8 before Baughan, end Butch Carter and guard Jack Moss hurled him back to the 19 on a fourth down play.

PENN STATE TRIUMPHS

Lucas, Penalties Trip Army, 17-11

By TED SMITS

WEST POINT, N.Y., (AP) — Penn State's crafty quarterback, Richie Lucas, piloted the unbeaten Nittany Lions to a 17-11 victory over Army Saturday. It was the first Penn State triumph over the Cadets since they first met in 1899, when State won 6-0.

A capacity crowd of 27,500 in Michie Stadium saw the action-packed game. Penalties were frequent and two touchdown runs by Army, one for 71 yards and the other for 70, were called back.

Lucas scored both Penn State touchdowns, the first from the 2 in the first period after a march from the 50, and the second from the one in the second period after a flurry of penalties.

George Kirschenbauer scored Army's touchdown in the third period on a 11-yard pass from Joe Caldwell. Sam Stellatella kicked a 20-yard field goal for Penn State in the second period and Tom Blanda booted a 32-yarder for Army in the same quarter.

Penn State's victory disposed of one of its formidable rivals for Eastern football championship honors. It was clearcut, although tonors. It was clearcut, although Army was playing without its two best backs, Bob Anderson and Steve Waldrip. Anderson was injured when Army lost last week to Illinois 20-14, and Waldrop went out with a bad knee early in Saturday's game.

The penalizing reached a climax near the end of the half. Penn State was given the ball on the Army 4 on pass interference by Blanda after a 33-yard toss that wasn't close to the target.

On the same play Penn State was set back to the 19 for illegal substitution. On the next play Mike Casp of Army intercepted a deflected pass by Lucas and ran 71 yards for what seemed to be a touchdown but the play was called back for Army offside.

Wyoming Coach Dies At Game

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — John Tobin, 30, football line coach at the University of Wyoming, suffered a fatal heart attack shortly after halftime of the Colorado State University - Wyoming game Saturday.

Tobin died at Ivinson Memorial Hospital following the game, won by Wyoming 29-0.

The seizure came a few minutes after the second half kickoff. Tobin was in the press box as offensive line-spotter. He had descended during halftime for the Wyoming dressing room briefing, then climbed 40 rows to the press box again.

He complained of chest pains and become pale. Two other Wyoming aides in the press box, Jim Ross and Lloyd Eaton, ordered him taken to the hospital.

Friends said Tobin had no previous record of heart trouble.

Tobin, a guard on Michigan State's football team from 1948 to 1950, is survived by his wife, Donna, and three daughters.

PETTUS GOES 88 YARDS

A near - sellout crowd of 30,000 sat in a slow drizzle to watch Auburn's eager sophomores and juniors club the Wildcats in every quarter with pin - point passes and bullish running.

The stubby Tiger defense held Kentucky's scatbacks to 49 yards rushing in the first half. The Wildcats penetrated Auburn territory just five times during the game, making it once to the 16 on a blocked kick in the fourth period.

Pettus, a 165-pound speedster from Oxford, Ala., grabbed the opening kickoff on his 12 and bulleted straight up the field behind fierce blocking for the score. It was the third longest kickoff return in Auburn history and the first since 1953 when Bobby Duke returned 100 yards to tie Mississippi State 21-21 with a minute left.

Hunt, 170-pound speedster from Lanett, Ala., ran across two touchdowns in the rout which boosted Auburn's only-slightly tarnished prestige. The Plainsmen were upset two weeks ago 3-0 by Tennessee, and played Saturday with their eye on the Georgia Tech game at Atlanta next week.

Hunt, a dazzler on the option play, slammed over from the four in the second period and set up fullback Ed Dyas' 21-yard field goal with a 35 - yard scamper to the Kentucky four all in the the lightning-like first period. Auburn grabbed a quick 9-0 lead on Dyas' field goal with less than six minutes played.

Third - stringer Don Machen, playing his second varsity game, smashed 23 yards to the Kentucky three and cracked over on the next play to wind up the first half scoring.

The weary Kentuckians held the Tigers scoreless in the third period while Auburn coach Ralph Jordan experimented with various combinations. But Auburn hit again in the fourth with senior halfback Lamer Rawson of Penscola, Fla., sprinting over guard for 30 yards to score.

Line stars Zeke Smith and Jackie Burkett were the mainstays of the gritty Tiger defense which hit so hard five Wildcats were carried off the field.

Solons Won't Be Permitted To Leave D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American League club owners with voting power to obstruct him are serving notice on Calvin Griffith he will not be permitted to abandon Washington as a major league baseball city, the Post said Saturday night.

Griffith's projected move of the Washington franchise to Minneapolis drew censure from Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, the Post said.

"The Yankees will never vote to leave the nation's capital without an American League team," Topping said in New York.

Topping added that he would not oppose Griffith's move to Minneapolis if another American League club was installed in Washington.

The Post said Topping's statement corroborated reports of an owners' move to expand the league to 10 clubs.

Only three of the owners' eight votes are required to balk a transfer of the Washington Franchise.

The Post said that previously two other club owners, who asked not to be identified, declared they would approve Griffith's move only if the league expanded to 10 teams, including a franchise in Washington.

'Bama Defeats Chattanooga By 13-0 Count

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Thrifty Alabama, displaying a typically tough defense but no offense tricks to watching scouts, turned two fumbles into touchdowns Saturday to defeat Chattanooga 13-0.

The Crimson Tide, playing intermittent rain in a warmup to next week's traditional contest with Tennessee, needed only four plays to count one six - pointer in the opening period and another in the third.

Sophomore Pat Trammell, a husky 180-ponder, brought the crowd of 20,000 to its feet in the third period with a 54-yard touchdown dash, while second-string quarterback Bobby Skelton darted 17 yards in the first period for the first score. Fred Sington converted one extra point.

Any coaches interested in entering boys or girls teams are urged to contact Johnston.

Fort Necessity has all but two players returning this year from its 1959 class C state championship boys team. The two graduated players are all-staters A. J. Burlew, now at Louisiana Tech, and Milton Linder, currently at Northeast.

Players on this year's team are juniors James Taylor (6-2), Jurrell Thames (6-2), Wade Burlew (6-1), Hoyt Erwin (6-0), Jerry Thomas (5-11), Kermit Burnsides (5-11), Carl Jones (5-10) and Robert Reeves (6-1) and sophomore Billy Linder (6-0) and freshman W. L. Robbins (5-10).

Snead Leads Wake Forest Past Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Quarterback Norman Snead had to open up only twice Saturday in pitching Wake Forest to a 10-7 football victory over Maryland.

Snead's slinging carried Wake Forest from the opening kickoff into position for Nick Patella to kick a 22-yard field goal.

He rested then until Maryland scored its first touchdown in the third quarter on a 6-yard run by Jim Joyce putting Maryland ahead 7-3.

Snead, a 6-4, 200-pound quarterback, promptly warmed up again and passed the Deacons 69 yards down the field for the winning touchdown, a 14 - yard aerial to sophomore end Bill Ruby.

Wake Forest didn't make a first down between scoring thrusts as the game before 21,000 settled into a defensive affair.

Maryland blew a touchdown in the opening period when quarterback Dick Novak dropped the ball just before going over the goal. It was recovered by Wake Forest.

OYSTER BOWL

Syracuse Whips Middies, 32 To 6

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Syracuse struck down Navy's air game with interceptions, sent Art Baker flying 96 yards to a touchdown with one of them and scuttled the Middies 32-6 in the Oyster Bowl football game Saturday.

Baker also scored on a 13-yard run in the third period and another Orangeman, sophomore Ernie Davis, rocked the Navy and a partisan crowd of 31,750 with still another interception that spoiled a Navy bid to get back in the game before halftime.

The audience in this huge Naval center included 1,899 ship-delivered Midshipmen from Annapolis who sat in a steady drizzle to watch Navy absorb its second straight Oyster Bowl loss.

The victory was the third straight without defeat for Syracuse and strengthened the Orange's claim on the Lambert Trophy, symbolic of gridiron supremacy in the East.

The key plays were the interceptions. Baker, a Negro from Erie, Pa., stole a Joe Tranchini pass on the third play of the second period and went winging down the left sidelines 96 yards without a Navy hand touching him. In the fourth period, Syracuse's Mark Weber went 30 yards with an intercepted pass to score.

Syracuse sophomore quarterback Dave Sarrette scored on a two-yard plunge in the first period and Bob Yates converted. Then, when Davis, also a Negro halfback from Elmira, N.Y., grabbed another aerial from Navy quarterback Tranchini in the second period, Sarrette put it out of reach by throwing a 37-yard running - pass to halfback Ger Schwedes for a touchdown and a 20-0 halftime lead.

Baker, NCAA 191-pound wrestling champion and Eastern Heavyweight champ, piled up a total of 144 yards on 11 carries. Davis had 58 yards in 15 runs from scrimmage and added 27 on a pass reception.

Sports writers and broadcasters named Baker the game's Most Valuable Player. Davis was runner-up.

The Navy scored on the last play of the third period when Tranchini hit Joe Matalvage on a 13 yard pass - run play. Tranchini's attempted pass conversion failed.

Weber wrapped up the Syracuse scoring when he stole a pass from Tom Albershart of Navy and went 30 yards for a touchdown with two minutes remaining in the game.

It was Syracuse's 10th straight regular season victory, broken only by a 20-6 loss to Oklahoma in the last Orange Bowl.

Southern Rips Xavier, 35-12

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (Special) — The Jaguars of Southern University toyed with Xavier University for a full quarter, then got their big offensive rolling in the second quarter as they crushed the Gold Rush, 35-12, in Xavier Stadium.

Southrn led at the halftime intermission by 21-6, and completely dominated the Gold Rush in all other departments, they ran up a total of 152 - yards rushing to four for Xavier, 33-yards passing to 17 - for Xavier and racked up nine first downs while the Xavier was able to muster only two.

Henry White scored the first SU touchdown from three yards with a Cyrus Lancaster pitch-out, Lancaster to Leonard Hunter, 40 yard pass, and James Emery with a recovered fumble from the two.

During a scoreless first quarter, the surprising Gold Rush played the Jaguars off their feet with the heroics being shared by halfback Donald Bisbee, quarterback Cornel Lowery and fullback Albert Williams. The only thing missing was a scoring punch.

Irish Turn Back California, 28-6

By HAL WOOD

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Notre Dame's pro-type offense, rolling at a point-a-minute clip through the first 21 minutes, romped to a penalty-filled, fist-throwing 28-6 victory over Hapless California Saturday.

With a throng of 68,500 watching, coach Joe Kuharich's men from South Bend piled up a 21-0 lead over the boys from Cal during the first half and then held the Golden Bears well in check until the final minutes of play.

The Irish were penalized 158 yards during the game and fisticuffs broke out several times. Midway through the fourth period, guard Nick Buonconti of Notre Dame and guard Doug Graham of Cal were thrown out of the game after they engaged in a slugging match 20 yards from the rest of the team on the field.

California's long touchdown came after a 97 yard march with four minutes to play in the game. After Bob Scarpitto, Notre Dame's slick-running and long - kicking halfback, had kicked dead on the Cal three, the Bears, aided by numerous penalties, scored.

The payoff was Wayne Crow's four-yard pass into the end zone to end Dave George.

But by then, Notre Dame had the game wrapped up. And to add to the indignities, the Irish came right back to score again on a 45-yard pass from George Haffner to Leslie Traver.

During the first 21 minutes of play, California looked just as good as Notre Dame on the field—but not on the scoreboard.

The Bears set the tenor of the game on the opening scrimmage play. Crow tossed a pitchout to Bob Wills that went wild. Johnny Powers pounced on it for the Irish and Notre Dame had first and 10 on the Cal 22-yard line.

Bill Mack was tossed for a four yard loss, but George Izo threw to Scarpitto for a touchdown. The next Notre Dame score came on a 68-yard march that featured a 17-yard run by Gerry Gray and an 18-yard pass from Don White to Henry Wilke. White rolled over from the one to score.

California donated another score a few minutes later when Grover Garvin fumbled on his own 40 and Pat Heenan recovered for Notre Dame. Four minutes and eight plays later, Gray plunged across from the one to make the halftime tally 21-0.

Wall Leading Pot Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla. AP)—Art Wall Jr., golf's shotmaker from Pocono Manor, Pa., has become the fifth professional to win $50,000 in tournament play for one year.

The question now is who will finish as runner-up.

Then come Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., $31,836; Mike Souchak of Durham, N. C., $31,807; Bob Rosburg of Napa, Calif., $31,676; and Doug Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., $30,234.

Wall, 35, in his 11th year as a professional, has pocketed $53,142 this year.

The trim Pennsylvanian, finished first in competition for selection to the 1959 Ryder Cup team. He leads in Vardon Trophy standings and is runner-up to Ford in top tournament points for the current tour.

Wall's stroke average in Vardon Trophy competition is 70.15, compared with 70.64 strokes per round for both Ford and Souchak. Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., is next with a 70.71 stroke average.

Ford has amassed 2,210 points toward top tournament honors and Wall 1,969. Littler has 1,870, Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., 1,833, and Finsterwald 1,757.

BATTLE OF UNBEATENS

Anderson Sparks Ga. Tech To 14-7 Victory Over Vols

By MERCER BAILEY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Taz Anderson, an unsung hero in the past, flashed slashing power running and classy pass catching Saturday and Georgia Tech whipped Tennessee 14-7 in their battle of unbeaten football powers.

In addition to his sterling ground gaining, Anderson teamed with center Maxie Baughar to anchor a Tech defense that Tennessee couldn't crack consistently.

Tech went into the game ranked third in the nation in The Associated Press poll. Tennesee, ranked No. 8, became the third straight national power to fall before Tech's speed and finesse.

Anderson, once an end now playing fullback, keyed Tech's two touchdown marches with his pass grabbing and slick running. He scored in the first quarter on a run as the defending ACC champions registered their second conference victory.

State, relying on the passing of sophomore quarterback Roman Gabriel, never was able to penetrate deeper than the Clemson 40.

The victory may have cost Clemson the services of its outstanding senior tackle, Lou Cordileone, who suffered a painful knee injury in a first half scrimmage.

Clemson quarterback Lowndes Shingler threw a 26-yard fourth down scoring pass to end Gary Barnes to open the scoring midway of the second quarter.

When a Tiger drive stalled late in the third period sophomore guard Lon Armstrong kicked a 28-yard field goal. Fullback Ron Scrudato raced 60 yards with an intercepted State pass to score at the start of the fourth period.

Late in the fourth quarter halfback Bill Mathis raced over from four yards out.

PENN STATE TRIUMPHS

Lucas, Penalties Trip Army, 17-11

By TED SMITS

WEST POINT, N.Y., (AP) — Penn State's crafty quarterback, Richie Lucas, piloted the unbeaten Nittany Lions to a 17-11 victory over Army Saturday. It was the first Penn State triumph over the Cadets since they first met in 1899, when State won 6-0.

A capacity crowd of 27,500 in Michie Stadium saw the action-packed game. Penalties were frequent and two touchdown runs by Army, one for 71 yards and the other for 70, were called back.

Lucas scored both Penn State touchdowns, the first from the 2 in the first period after a march from the 50, and the second from the one in the second period after a flurry of penalties.

George Kirschenbauer scored Army's touchdown in the third period on a 11-yard pass from Joe Caldwell. Sam Stellatella kicked a 20-yard field goal for Penn State in the second period and Tom Blanda booted a 32-yarder for Army in the same quarter.

Penn State's victory disposed of one of its formidable rivals for Eastern football championship honors. It was clearcut, although Army was playing without its two best backs, Bob Anderson and Steve Waldrip. Anderson was injured when Army lost last week to Illinois 20-14, and Waldrop went out with a bad knee early in Saturday's game.

The penalizing reached a climax near the end of the half. Penn State was given the ball on the Army 4 on pass interference by Blanda after a 33-yard toss that wasn't close to the target.

On the same play Penn State was set back to the 19 for illegal substitution. On the next play Mike Casp of Army intercepted a deflected pass by Lucas and ran 71 yards for what seemed to be a touchdown but the play was called back for Army offside.

A 13-yard pass from Lucas to Henry Opperman promptly carried to the one from where Lucas plunged over.

Wyoming Coach Dies At Game

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — John Tobin, 30, football line coach at the University of Wyoming, suffered a fatal heart attack shortly after halftime of the Colorado State University - Wyoming game Saturday.

Tobin died at Ivinson Memorial Hospital following the game, won by Wyoming 29-0.

The seizure came a few minutes after the second half kickoff. Tobin was in the press box as offensive line-spotter. He had descended during halftime for the Wyoming dressing room briefing, then climbed 40 rows to the press box again.

He complained of chest pains and become pale. Two other Wyoming aides in the press box, Jim Ross and Lloyd Eaton, ordered him taken to the hospital.

Friends said Tobin had no previous record of heart trouble.

Tobin, a guard on Michigan State's football team from 1948 to 1950, is survived by his wife, Donna, and three daughters.

Etter, tailback sub for starter Bill Majors, generated most of the Vol fireworks with his running and his on-the-run passes. But Majors set the stage for the Vol touchdown with a 45-yard boot out derson set up Tech's third quarter score with a 13-yard run and then scored from the 1.

Gerald Burch's strong punting kept Tennessee bottled up much a 9-yard pass from Fred Braselton. After Gene Etter led Tennessee to a 7-7 halftime standoff, Anderson contributed a 15-yard pass reception and gained 21 yards running. Anderson in Tech's other three victories this season has been used largely as a blocker and defender.

The Tennessee line, led by tackles Joe Schaffer and Lebroin Shields, played the Tech forwards on fairly even terms — except for tte terrific linebacking by Bughan and Anderson. Those two made tackles all over the field.

Etter's 19-yard pass to Charles Severance got Tennessee into scoring territory and then Phillips made a sensational one-handen catch on the goal for the touchdown.

Etter drove the Vols deep into Tech territory late in the third period but Baughan was rushed back into the game and was the big man in stopping the march. Etter got to the 8 before Baughan, end Butch Carter and guard Jack Moss hurled him back to the 19 on a fourth down play.

of bounds at Tech's 2. Tech was never able to get out of that hole and after an exchange of punts, Etter took the Vols in. He threw a 4-yard fourth down pass to end Marvin Phillips for the touchdown.

The overflow crowd, estimated at 47,000, saw some tough defensive football, typical of Tech-Tennessee games. But they saw more offense than they expected. Braselton and Anderson teamed on three passes in Tech's first drive. Twice they got a big first down and the third time Anderson went into the end zone.

In the second Tech march — a 50-yard drive — Anderson contributed a 15-yard pass reception and gained 21 yards running. Anderson in Tech's other three victories this season has been used largely as a blocker and defender.

SEVERAL GOOD FROSH PROSPECTS

Area Players Big Factors In Bengals' Grid Success

By MIKE COOK
Baton Rouge State-Times
Written for Morning World

BATON ROUGE—How much did Northeast Louisiana footballers contribute to the success of the LSU Tigers in winning eleven straight games and the National Collegiate Championship in 1958? What part will the lads from the Northeast play in success or failure of the Bengals this year? And—possibly more important — how much will Coach Paul Dietzel depend on the former Northeast Louisiana prep stars next season to plug the gaps created by graduation?

The answers: plenty, plenty, plenty.

There are currently several gridders from the Monroe area playing regularly on one of the other of Coach Dietzel's three units — the White Team, the Go Team and the now famous Chinese Bandits. Some other area men have had little opportunity to get into action because seasoned veterans are well established at the posts to which they aspire. They stand ready to move in to fill any vacancy which should occur for any reason. And there are others who have been redshirted for seasoning or because of injuries.

There are also a host of promising first - year men from the area on Ray Didier's Baby Bengal freshman team which last week made its debut with a victory over the Ole Miss Rebel yearlings at Oxford.

"Northeast Louisiana certainly ranks high in the development of boys capable of playing college football," says Coach Dietzel. Coach Didier concurs.

Probably the best known of the northeasterners is Max Fugler, 210 pounds of man who moves with the agility of a cat as center and linebacker for the Bengals. Fugler, from Ferriday, played both center and fullback for LSU as a freshman and sophomore. He moved to the center post for keeps on the varsity squad last season and was the toast of the town here last year.

The quick, aggressive Fugler won Associated Press "Lineman of the Week" honors last year for his magnificent play in LSU's four - play goal - line stand against Ole Miss. Big Max was in on every tackle and probably did more than anyone else to keep the Rebels from scoring as the Tigers took a 14-0 victory.

Fugler's play at the goal line was typical of his defensive leadership and his ability to diagnose enemy plays. LSU fans knew he was a whiz but it took the famous series to win him national recognition and berths on the Look and other All-America teams.

The All-America nominations were well - deserved but they were nothing new to amiable Max. He twice reaped prep All-America honors.

Fugler, a 6 foot, 1 inch senior, was a little heavier than usual when he reported for practice this fall. There was no fat, it was all Max and muscle and he has had difficulty getting down to the proper playing weight.

Max got off to a slow start in LSU's 26-3 opening win over Rice but showed some of his old form when the Tigers turned back a tough TCU team the following week. Coach Dietzel last week shifted Fugler from the white unit to the Chinese Bandit team and he was a standout at Shreveport last Saturday as the Bengals whipped Baylor, 22-0. Max played with all three units against Baylor.

"We think Max is rapidly regaining his old form," says Coach Dietzel. "He did a great job at Shreveport. He's looking better and better and we think he's just about as good a football player as any in the country at his position. He's doing a fine job."

Coach Dietzel has also been pleasantly surprised with the play of another Ferriday youth — 5-10, 188 - pound junior fullback Donnie Daye. Daye played with the Go Team last season and was expected to be with that unit again this year. He, however, worked his way up to the White Team and has performed admirably in the backfield with halfbacks Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson and quarterback Warren Rabb. Daye has carried the ball seven times for 30 yards and a 4.2 average.

"Donnie is rapidly developing into an outstanding football player," comments Coach Dietzel. "He is very tough and aggressive and is improving each week. He's a good runner and a fine blocker. He did a fine job against Baylor."

Another lineman of the Max Fugler "size - 'em - up - quick-and - mow - 'em - down" school is still another Ferriday flash—little 5-9, 190-pounds) senior guard Manson Nelson. Nelson impressed fans as a freshman when he time - after - time blew in to dump enemy backs before they could make a hand - off.

His biggest drawback was his own aggressiveness which kept him on the injury list. This looks like the big year for Nelson.

The scrappy little fellow has gotten off to a good start and has impressed Dietzel and spectators.

The LSU head coach credits Nelson with paving the way for some of Billy Cannons best runs. "Manson has been kind of a hard luck player on injuries but he seems to have it licked now," says Dietzel. "He is one of our better offensive guards. He pulls and runs interference well. He does a fine job of it. He threw some big blocks on Cannon's runs at Shreveport last week."

Dietzel expects big things of another northeast Louisiana product at guard — sophomore Billy Booth of Minden. Of Booth, a six-foot, 228 - pound sophomore, Dietzel says, "Billy is getting his feet on the ground at the guard position and we think he will be a real outstanding player for us. He is improving every week."

Another Minden player, fullback Charles Cranford, broke a wrist during spring practice and has been redshirted for this season.

Dave McCarty, Go Team tackle from Rayville, is the only other northeast area player who is expected to see regular action with the Bengals this season. McCarty, a 6-2, 200 - pound senior, was a regular last season. "Dave is a very intelligent football player," reports Coach Dietzel. "He is also steady."

Al Dampier, 6-1, 200 - pound junior guard from Sicily Island, earned a letter with the Go Team last season but has been handicapped by a wrenched knee this year.

Elton Upshaw, the all-state, all-southern signal - calling ace from Monroe's Neville High, may have to wait until next year for his chance to call the plays with the Bengals.

Upshaw, a 6-1, 190-pound sophmore experienced hands are on son. He is available for duty this year but it is unlikely that he will see much action because more experienced hands are on the job.

Of Upshaw, who was a favorite with the fans as a freshman, Coach Dietzel says, "Elton has not had a real good opportunity yet because he's playing behind two senior quarterbacks and a junior who was a regular last year. He should get a big chance next year inasmuch as only one quarterback returns for three positions." Upshaw will probably be a prime candidate for the Go Team quarterbacking slot in 1960.

In addition to Cranford, northeast Louisiana boys on the redshirt list are former Homer High aces Fred Miller and Ray Wilkins. Both are considered outstanding prospects. Both graduated from Homer in 1957. Miller came to LSU and Wilkins signed with Texas A & M. Wilkins, a fullback, transferred to LSU. Coach Dietzel expects him to have some good seasons with the Tigers. Miller, a tackle, can expect to see considerable action if he continues to improve. He was redshirted because there were three seniors at the left tackle berths.

Northeast Louisiana will be well represented on future LSU teams when the redshirts and eight men now on the freshman squad move up to the varsity ranks.

Many of the frosh players are regarded as exceptional prospects. Operating with Coach Didier's White, Gold or Chinese Banditoes units are halfbacks Danny Neumann of Tallulah, Sammy Simonton of Ruston and Jerry Stovall of West Monroe; quarterback Bobby Flurry of Homer; center Charlie Hinton of Ruston; guards Clarence Richard of Jonesville and Sammy Odom of Minden and tackle David Boucher of Springhill.

Flurry, the hero of the annual North - South High School All-Star game here in August, is called by Coach Didier "a tremendous freshman defensive football player". The frosh mentor believes Flurry, a good passer, is capable of becoming an outstanding all - around quarterback at LSU. "He should play a lot of football before he leaves."

Neumann, the lad who led Tallulah to the state class A championship in 1957 and 1958 and who played a lot of football in the prep all-American contest here in July, is a standout punter, a dangerous runner and a defensive ace. He is also regarded as an excellent offensive blocker.

Stovall started with the freshman White team against Ole Miss last week and played on both offense and defense. "He did a real fine job both ways," said Coach Didier, "and we are real pleased with him."

Simonton did not get into the Ole Miss fray but may see action against Mississippi State or Tulane, the two remaining freshman foes.

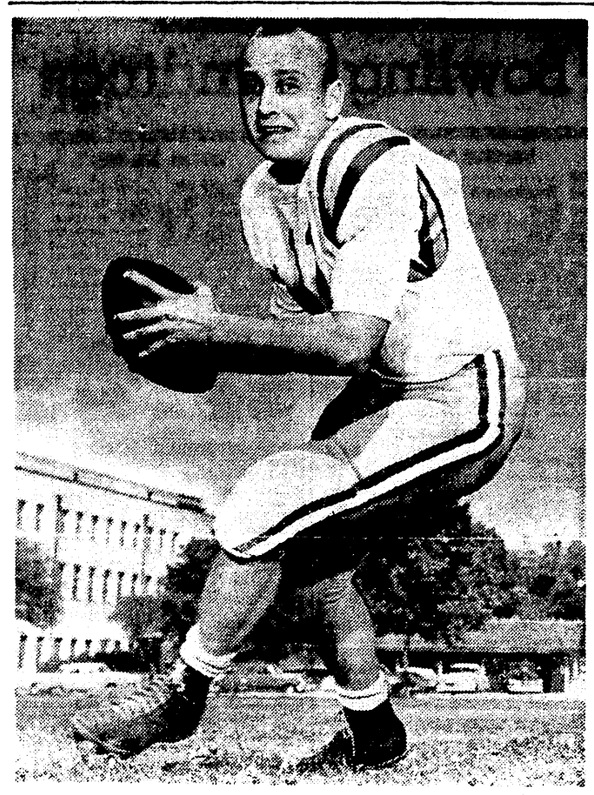
Coach Didier was also "well pleased" with the play of Hinton at center, a position to which he was shifted from end. "He adapted very well, his linebacking was outstanding and his attitude is wonderful."

The guard post is also new to Richard who played fullback at Block High. The shift came two weeks before the Ole Miss game and Richard was not completely adjusted to his new berth for the opener. But Coach Didier is optimistic over Richard's prospects. "We need more strength at guard and we feel that he'll come along and get the job done for us."

One reason for the shortage of strength at guard was the loss of Odom with a knee injury. Odom was playing with the White unit until he was hurt but he was unable to dress out for the opener.

Didier is high on Boucher. "David is one of the most impressive linemen we've had. His speed, reactions and attitude make him a good prospect. He played about half the game with the Gold unit against Ole Miss."

"We've been very impressed with all the boys from northeast Louisiana," Coach Dietzel said. Then, looking over the freshman roster, he added, "I think we definitely have several candidates for the varsity next year. I look forward to coaching them."



ELTON UPSHAW — Ex-Neville all-stater Elton Upshaw is expected to be a strong contender for LSU's starting quarterback slot next year. Upshaw was red-shirted last season.

SOPH QUARTERBACK STARS

Frustrated Northwestern Finally Whips Minnesota

By GENE BLUDEAU

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Bob Eickhoff, a 157-pound sophomore quarterback, came off the bench in the fourth period for a frustrated Northwestern football team Saturday to direct an 86-yard march and pass for the game's only touchdown in a 6-0 victory over Minnesota.

It was the third straight win for the nation's second-ranked Wildcats, but the had to fight off a Gopher scoring threat on their own 18-yard line in the final 37 seconds.

Eickhoff, who had logged only 11 minutes playing time for the Wildcats, entered the dull, scoreless game after his teammates failed repeatedly in attempts to punch through or pass over the huge Minnesota line. The Gopher linemen, averaging 234 pounds, not only held the speedy Wildcats scoreless for three periods, but outgained them on the ground and in the air during the first half.

Senior quarterback Chip Holcomb, filling in for the injured Dick Thornton, failed to fool the alert Gopher secondary. Until coach Ara Parseghian summoned Eickhoff, it appeared that the Wildcats would falter without Thornton's passing arm.

Eickhoff, a graduate of Lima (Ohio) high school, threw three passes in the winning march for a total of 26 yards.

He sent Mark Johnston slicing through right tackle for 25 yards. Johnston, Mike Stock and Eickhoff alternated on the ground to the Minnesota seven-yard line. Here Eickhoff flipped a forward to end Paul Yanke, another Ohioan, who was alone in the end zone.

The Wildcats were favored to beat the Gophers by 14 points. But except for the fourth period touchdown it was an even battle. Each team got 11 first downs and the Wildcats had only a 26-yard edge in rushing yardage, gaining 186 to 160 for Minnesota.

The Gophers failed in their final chance with 37 seconds to go. Johnston, playing an alert secondary, knocked down one desperation pass and then intercepted another when the Gophers were on the Northwestern 18-yard line.

Score by Periods:

Northwestern	0	0	0	6	—6

Losers to Florida and Tennessee in their first two starts, the sophomore - studded Maroons scored almost at will to win their first game of the season. Guided by sophomore quarterback Billy Hill, the Maroon backfield chopped the Arkansas State line to shreads to score in every period.

Hill, a 173-pound Florence, Ala., product, passed for one touchdown and ran for another in the first half before he was replaced by John Correro, another sophomore who turned in a sparkling second half performance.

Arkansas State, which lost its last two starts, scored its two touchdowns in the final period. Quarterback Bill Caldwell tossed a 46-yard pass to Julius Head for the first score. Caldwell passed to Head for the two-point conversion. In the closing moments John Coffey plunged three yards for the other touchdown.

Mississippi State opened its scoring early on a 27-yard field goal by Walter Suggs. Bobby Dejaune then uncorked a 61-yard run and Bill Schoenrock blasted over for a two-point conversion and the Maroons held an 11-0 lead.

Mississippi State added touchdowns in the second period on a six-yard plunge by Pat Shute and a 14-yard pass from Hill to Jerry Wade. Hill passed to Ed Smith for the first of a pair of two-point conversions. He ran for the second conversion.

The Maroons opened the second half by driving 49 yards with Hill climaxing the drive from the three. He passed to Ed Smith for a two-point conversion. Tommy Guest scored the next Maroon touchdown from the 7 and Correro ran for the conversion.

Then Correro tossed a 27-yard pass to Frank Hutson for the sixth touchdown. A pass from Correro to Wade was good for the conversion.

Ex-Senator, Canadian At Local Arena

A Kentucky gentleman who believes his experience in the rough-and-tumble political world has qualified him for wrestling and a handsome young Canadian make their local debuts Monday at B&B Arena.

The Canadian, Paul Carpentier of Montreal, takes on Mexican veteran Carlos Mendoza in half of the night's double main event. The Black Panther and Frankie Kovac tangle in the other headline attraction.

Both bouts will have hour limits with two falls to win.

"Senator" Hartford, a former state senator from Paducah, meets Harvey Cole in the evening's semi-final, slated for 20 minutes and one fall.

Hartford evidently considers the perils of wrestling considerably safer than the pitfalls of politics, is considered a capable wrestler, a colorful chap who might even make a speech if he thinks it might help him win.

Promoter August Baumgartner considers Carpentier one of the top attractions the local arena has had in months.

Boston Swamps Villanova, 39-6

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Boston College, smarting under consecutive defeats by deeper Navy and Army, ran up a 39-6 triumph Saturday over Villanova, which has yet to win a football game this season.

In registering its first victory of the year Boston College overpowered Villanova throughout and left the field at halftime with a 30-0 lead.

SEVERAL GOOD FROSH PROSPECTS

Area Players Big Factors In Bengals' Grid Success

By MIKE COOK
Baton Rouge State-Times
Written for Morning World

BATON ROUGE—How much did Northeast Louisiana footballers contribute to the success of the LSU Tigers in winning eleven straight games and the National Collegiate Championship in 1958? What part will the lads from the Northeast play in success or failure of the Bengals this year? And—possibly more important — how much will Coach Paul Dietzel depend on the former Northeast Louisiana prep stars next season to plug the gaps created by graduation?

The answers: plenty, plenty, plenty.

There are currently several gridders from the Monroe area playing regularly on one of the other of Coach Dietzel's three units — the White Team, the Go Team and the now famous Chinese Bandits. Some other area men have had little opportunity to get into action because seasoned veterans are well established at the posts to which they aspire. They stand ready to move in to fill any vacancy which should occur for any reason. And there are others who have been redshirted for seasoning or because of injuries.

There are also a host of promising first - year men from the area on Ray Didier's Baby Bengal freshman team which last week made its debut with a victory over the Ole Miss Rebel yearlings at Oxford.

"Northeast Louisiana certainly ranks high in the development of boys capable of playing college football," says Coach Dietzel. Coach Didier concurs.

Probably the best known of the northeasterners is Max Fugler, 210 pounds of man who moves with the agility of a cat as center and linebacker for the Bengals. Fugler, from Ferriday, played both center and fullback for LSU as a freshman and sophomore. He moved to the center post for keeps on the varsity squad last season and was the toast of the town here last year.

The quick, aggressive Fugler won Associated Press "Lineman of the Week" honors last year for his magnificent play in LSU's four - play goal - line stand against Ole Miss. Big Max was in on every tackle and probably did more than anyone else to keep the Rebels from scoring as the Tigers took a 14-0 victory.

Fugler's play at the goal line was typical of his defensive leadership and his ability to diagnose enemy plays. LSU fans knew he was a whiz but it took the famous series to win him national recognition and berths on the Look and other All-America teams.

The All-America nominations were well - deserved but they were nothing new to amiable Max. He twice reaped prep All-America honors.

Fugler, a 6 foot, 1 inch senior, was a little heavier than usual when he reported for practice this fall. There was no fat, it was all Max and muscle and he has had difficulty getting down to the proper playing weight.

Max got off to a slow start in LSU's 26-3 opening win over Rice but showed some of his old form when the Tigers turned back a tough TCU team the following week. Coach Dietzel last week shifted Fugler from the white unit to the Chinese Bandit team and he was a standout at Shreveport last Saturday as the Bengals whipped Baylor, 22-0. Max played with all three units against Baylor.

"We think Max is rapidly regaining his old form," says Coach Dietzel. "He did a great job at Shreveport. He's looking better and better and we think he's just about as good a football player as any in the country at his position. He's doing a fine job."

Coach Dietzel has also been pleasantly surprised with the play of another Ferriday youth — 5-10, 188 - pound junior fullback Donnie Daye. Daye played with the Go Team last season and was expected to be with that unit again this year. He, however, worked his way up to the White Team and has performed admirably in the backfield with halfbacks Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson and quarterback Warren Rabb. Daye has carried the ball seven times for 30 yards and a 4.2 average.

"Donnie is rapidly developing into an outstanding football player," comments Coach Dietzel. "He is very tough and aggressive and is improving each week. He's a good runner and a fine blocker. He did a fine job against Baylor."

Another lineman of the Max Fugler "size - 'em - up - quick-and - mow - 'em - down" school is still another Ferriday flash—little 5-9, 190-pounds) senior guard Manson Nelson. Nelson impressed fans as a freshman when he time - after - time blew in to dump enemy backs before they could make a hand - off.

His biggest drawback was his own aggressiveness which kept him on the injury list. This looks like the big year for Nelson.

The scrappy little fellow has gotten off to a good start and has impressed Dietzel and spectators.

The LSU head coach credits Nelson with paving the way for some of Billy Cannons best runs. "Manson has been kind of a hard luck player on injuries but he seems to have it licked now," says Dietzel. "He is one of our better offensive guards. He pulls and runs interference well. He does a fine job of it. He threw some big blocks on Cannon's runs at Shreveport last week."

Dietzel expects big things of another northeast Louisiana product at guard — sophomore Billy Booth of Minden. Of Booth, a six-foot, 228 - pound sophomore, Dietzel says, "Billy is getting his feet on the ground at the guard position and we think he will be a real outstanding player for us. He is improving every week."

Another Minden player, fullback Charles Cranford, broke a wrist during spring practice and has been redshirted for this season.

Dave McCarty, Go Team tackle from Rayville, is the only other northeast area player who is expected to see regular action with the Bengals this season. McCarty, a 6-2, 200 - pound senior, was a regular last season. "Dave is a very intelligent football player," reports Coach Dietzel. "He is also steady."

Al Dampier, 6-1, 200 - pound junior guard from Sicily Island, earned a letter with the Go Team last season but has been handicapped by a wrenched knee this year.

Elton Upshaw, the all-state, all-southern signal - calling ace from Monroe's Neville High, may have to wait until next year for his chance to call the plays with the Bengals.

Upshaw, a 6-1, 190-pound sophmore experienced hands are on son. He is available for duty this year but it is unlikely that he will see much action because more experienced hands are on the job.

Of Upshaw, who was a favorite with the fans as a freshman, Coach Dietzel says, "Elton has not had a real good opportunity yet because he's playing behind two senior quarterbacks and a junior who was a regular last year. He should get a big chance next year inasmuch as only one quarterback returns for three positions." Upshaw will probably be a prime candidate for the Go Team quarterbacking slot in 1960.

In addition to Cranford, northeast Louisiana boys on the redshirt list are former Homer High aces Fred Miller and Ray Wilkins. Both are considered outstanding prospects. Both graduated from Homer in 1957. Miller came to LSU and Wilkins signed with Texas A & M. Wilkins, a fullback, transferred to LSU. Coach Dietzel expects him to have some good seasons with the Tigers. Miller, a tackle, can expect to see considerable action if he continues to improve. He was redshirted because there were three seniors at the left tackle berths.

Northeast Louisiana will be well represented on future LSU teams when the redshirts and eight men now on the freshman squad move up to the varsity ranks.

Many of the frosh players are regarded as exceptional prospects. Operating with Coach Didier's White, Gold or Chinese Banditoes units are halfbacks Danny Neumann of Tallulah, Sammy Simonton of Ruston and Jerry Stovall of West Monroe; quarterback Bobby Flurry of Homer; center Charlie Hinton of Ruston; guards Clarence Richard of Jonesville and Sammy Odom of Minden and tackle David Boucher of Springhill.

Flurry, the hero of the annual North - South High School All-Star game here in August, is called by Coach Didier "a tremendous freshman defensive football player". The frosh mentor believes Flurry, a good passer, is capable of becoming an outstanding all - around quarterback at LSU. "He should play a lot of football before he leaves."

Neumann, the lad who led Tallulah to the state class A championship in 1957 and 1958 and who played a lot of football in the prep all-American contest here in July, is a standout punter, a dangerous runner and a defensive ace. He is also regarded as an excellent offensive blocker.

Stovall started with the freshman White team against Ole Miss last week and played on both offense and defense. "He did a real fine job both ways," said Coach Didier, "and we are real pleased with him."

Simonton did not get into the Ole Miss fray but may see action against Mississippi State or Tulane, the two remaining freshman foes.

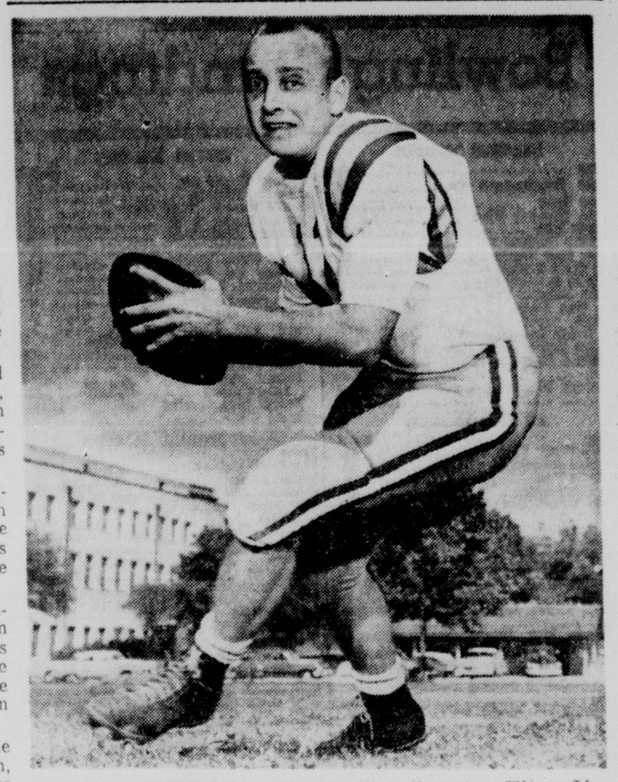
Coach Didier was also "well pleased" with the play of Hinton at center, a position to which he was shifted from end. "He adapted very well, his linebacking was outstanding and his attitude is wonderful."

The guard post is also new to Richard who played fullback at Block High. The shift came two weeks before the Ole Miss game and Richard was not completely adjusted to his new berth for the opener. But Coach Didier is optimistic over Richard's prospects. "We need more strength at guard and we feel that he'll come along and get the job done for us."

One reason for the shortage of strength at guard was the loss of Odom with a knee injury. Odom was playing with the White unit until he was hurt but he was unable to dress out for the opener.

Didier is high on Boucher. "David is one of the most impressive linemen we've had. His speed, reactions and attitude make him a good prospect. He played about half the game with the Gold unit against Ole Miss."

"We've been very impressed with all the boys from northeast Louisiana," Coach Dietzel said. Then, looking over the freshman roster, he added, "I think we definitely have several candidates for the varsity next year. I look forward to coaching them."



ELTON UPSHAW — Ex-Neville all-stater Elton Upshaw is expected to be a strong contender for LSU's starting quarterback slot next year. Upshaw was red-shirted last season.

Frustrated Northwestern Finally Whips Minnesota

By GENE BLUDEAU

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Bob Eickhoff, a 157-pound sophomore quarterback, came off the bench in the fourth period for a frustrated Northwestern football team Saturday to direct an 86-yard march and pass for the game's only touchdown in a 6-0 victory over Minnesota.

It was the third straight win for the nation's second-ranked Wildcats, but the had to fight off a Gopher scoring threat on their own 18-yard line in the final 37 seconds.

Eickhoff, who had logged only 11 minutes playing time for the Wildcats, entered the dull, scoreless game after his teammates failed repeatedly in attempts to punch through or pass over the huge Minnesota line. The Gopher linemen, averaging 234 pounds, not only held the speedy Wildcats scoreless for three periods, but outgained them on the ground and in the air during the first half.

Senior quarterback Chip Holcomb, filling in for the injured Dick Thornton, failed to fool the alert Gopher secondary. Until coach Ara Parseghian summoned Eickhoff, it appeared that the Wildcats would falter without Thornton's passing arm.

Eickhoff, a graduate of Lima (Ohio) high school, threw three passes in the winning march for a total of 26 yards.

He sent Mark Johnston slicing through right tackle for 25 yards. Johnston, Mike Stock and Eickhoff alternated on the ground to the Minnesota seven-yard line. Here Eickhoff flipped a forward to end Paul Yanke, another Ohioan, who was alone in the end zone.

The Wildcats were favored to beat the Gophers by 14 points. But except for the fourth period touchdown it was an even battle. Each team got 11 first downs and the Wildcats had only a 26-yard edge in rushing yardage, gaining 186 to 160 for Minnesota.

The Gophers failed in their final chance with 37 seconds to go. Johnston, playing an alert secondary, knocked down one desperation pass and then intercepted another when the Gophers were on the Northwestern 18-yard line.

Bulldogs Club Defense-Poor Cowboys, 35-6

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Georgia threw a tight defensive lasso around the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys Saturday, then followed quarterback Charley Britt and football victory.

Air - minded Hardin - Simmons, scornful of defense, has yielded 143 points in losing its first four games. Georgia has won three of four.

The outmanned Cowboys finally scored on Georgia third-stringers with less than a minute remaining on a 7-yard pass from Harold Stephens to Bill Voss.

The sluggish contest, attended by 25,000 sweltering fans, produced few flashes of brilliance, and the unsung Britt and improving Walden glittered in most of these.

Britt, leaping out of the shadow on fellow quarterback Francis Tarkenton, scored the first two Georgia touchdowns on runs of six yards and one yard. His running and passing also set up the second.

Walden, only a punting specialist until this season, scored the third touchdown on a five-yard run after going 12 and 3 on other plays to set the stage.

Tarkenton and his second unit backfield, Georgia's top point producers until Saturday, finally got into the scoring act with a 49-yard drive late in the third quarter which Tarkenton capped it with a two-yard touchdown plunge. Sophomore halfback Bill McKenny ran for 19 and 16 yards during the drive.

Durward Pennington kicked five extra points, giving him 10 for 10 for the season.

club to violate Texas' goal line. Texas, of course, now ranks as the favorite to win the Southwest Conference title.

Iowa, the defending Big 10 champion, and No. 10, in the current national listing, walked over Michigan State, 37-8.

Syracuse, which looks more and more like the class of the East, throttled Navy 32-6 in the Oyster Bowl—the first bowl game of the season.

The "pass or run for two" conversion play won one game and lost another. Furman took a chance with less than a minute to play and made it for an 8-7 victory over William and Mary. Virginia Tech tried to run after a last period touchdown, but fell short and dropped a 7-6 decision to Florida State.

Penn whipped Princeton 13-0 and Yale stopped Columbia 14-0 as the winners, both unbeaten, remained atop the Ivy League.

7TH TD PASS

Toncic's Aerials Defeat Duke, 12-0

By STERLING SLAPPEY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ivan (The Tonic) Toncic passed 56 yards to end Mike Ditka for one touchdown and set up another with two low-flying aerials as Pitt defeated Duke 12-0 Saturday in an intersectional football game.

Toncic's throwing and Ditka's catching gave the crowd of 38,749 the only thrilling moments in a hot, sweaty game which otherwise was fought near the 50-yard line.

Pitt opened the game with a touchdown drive that featured Toncic-to-Ditka passes of 15 and 13 yards. Each came as the Pitt offense was beginning to sputter.

The touchdown was scored by Joe Scisly after a 10-play 65-yard drive. Scisly drove over left guard for four yards and the touchdown.

That ended the scoring until midway of the fourth period when Toncic spiraled a high floater to Ditka, who worked out from between two Duke defenders to take the ball. Ditka ran the last 12 yards alone as Duke defensemen thought he had touched the ground making the grab.

The scoring throw was Toncic's seventh of the young season and not only put him very high among the nation's most effective passers but he iow is in a tie for the all-time one - season Pitt touchdown passing mark.

Bob Bestwick also threw seven in 1951.

Three other Pitt scoring chances failed. Toncic's placement try after the first touchdown was wide and his try for two points after the second by passing also failed. A field goal attempt by Fred Cox in the third period was wide to the right.

The score would have gone much higher against Duke except for a pair of fine guards — Jim Gardner and Mike McGee. Each made about 15 tackles and continually turned Pitt runners to the outside.

Pitt was a slow team and could not run the ends fast enough to drive Duke into the ground.

Backs Joe Arrington and Bob Crummie moved the ball best for the Blue Devils.

A great moment for the Duke line came when a Ditka punt was blocked by Dan Gelbert on the Panther 46.

The hard-charging Duke line also poured down on Cox as he tried for a field goal on the Duke 19—Pitt's deepest non-scoring penetration of the game.

Cox' hurried kick was 10 yards to the right of the post.

Two fumbles — by Cox and Chuck Reinhold—were recovered by Duke but little progress could be made against the strong Pitt line.

Pitts season record now includes victories over Marquette, UCLA and Duke, and a loss to Southern California. Duke has lost to Pitt, South Carolina and Ohio State, and defeated only Rice.

Rice Rallies For 13-13 Tie With Florida

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Rice Institute grabbed a Florida fumble with less than five minutes to go and managed to come through with a 13-13 tie Saturday night before 34,000 fans.

The fourth intersectional battle between the two schools, which showed unusual dullness at times saw both teams score in the second and fourth periods.

Rice missed a chance for the all-imporant winning point when a bad pass by center Boyd was dropped on the conversion attempt by Bill Buck after the Owls had tied it up with one minute and 42 seconds to go.

The Gators, too, were cheated out of a chance for a second conversion that could have meant victory when Owl right end Charley Pollard broke through and blocked Dick Allen's kick.

Neither team could work up much steam in the third quarter until the Gators began their second touchdown drive just before the period ended. That drive went 58 yards in nine plays, with quarterback Wayne Williamson passing to right half Don Deal for the final seven yards.

After a dull opening period which saw Florida gain only one first down and Rice none, both teams injected more life into the game and scored a touchdown each to leave it tied 7-7 at the half.

The game saw a total of 17 punts, nine by Florida and eight by Rice. Fullbacks Jon Macbeth for Florida and Roland Jackson for Rice were the leading ball carriers, each carrying 10 times and each netting 51 yards.

Rice	0	7	0	6—13
Florida	0	7	0	6—13

Scoring Summary
Florida — Westbrook 2 run (Allen kick); Deal 7 pass from Williamson (kick failed).

Washington Cops 10-0 Win Over Stanford

SEATTLE (AP) — Two pay-off strikes by Washington Saturday netted a touchdown, a field goal and a 10-0 victory over the frustrated Indians of Stanford.

It was the first game for both teams in the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Their passing attack balked and their runners checked by a combination of slippery turf and smashing enemy linemen, Stanford gathered itself nevertheless for a last ditch thrust that died on the Washington 1-foot line.

There were three minutes left and when the final gun sounded Stanford was back again but its goalward push this time was caught by the clock on the Washington 9.

A crowd of 34,000 out to see Washington click off its fourth consecutive victory, watched the Huskies go in front after 10 minutes of play.

The interception of a Stanford pass by George Fleming on the visitors' 36 set up the opportunity. After one six-yard gain, Don McKeta took a pitchout from quarterback Bob Schloredt and went through tackle for 30 yards and a tally. Fleming kicked the conversion.

In the middle of the third quarter, the Huskies tallied again. They reached the Stanford 11. On fourth down Fleming booted a field goal.

Manhatten 'Cap To Round Table

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kerf Stable's Round Table, Mr. Moneybags of the turf, won his first race in New York Saturday when he took command about an eighth of a mile from home to capture the $58,200 Manhattan Handicap at Aqueduct.

The world's biggest money winner, ridden smartly by Willie Shoemaker, remained off the pace of Admiral Vee, holding third place much of the way until time to strike. Then Admiral Vee faltered, Bald Eagle rushed up to get second place, and Coloneast managed third money.

STILL UNBEATEN

Ole Miss Mauls Vanderbilt, 33-0

By RUSS DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Mississippi ran roughshod over outmanned Vanderbilt here Saturday night defeating the Commodores 33-0 and keeping intact its unbeaten and unscored upon record.

Mississippi used everything from a 78 - yard pass to a simple plunge in racking up its lopsided win.

The partisan crowd of 25,000 got its biggest thrill in the closing minutes when Vanderbilt moved down to the Mississippi two yard line. But the strong Reb line turned back the threat.

Junior quarterback Jake Gibbs tossed a pass on his won 22 to halfback Bob Crespino who went the rest of the way for a 78-yard touchdown play.

Gibbs scored one himself on a 15 - yard run and was very accurate most of the night on his passes.

Vanderbilt couldn't muster a sustained offense, getting only one first down in the first half and only two during the first three periods.

The speedy Mississippi team piled up yardage all night, both with its running and its passing.

First string quarterback Bob Franklin never even got into the game for the Rebels but Coach Jimmy Vaught had three other good signal callers in Gibbs, Bill Brewer and sophomore Douglas Elmore.

Tom Moore, supposedly Vanderbilt chief offensive threat, wasn't given the ball during the first period and it was only late in the 3rd period that he was finally used as a runner.

Mississippi's usually sure-footed Robert Khayat missed two field goal attempts and also missed one conversion attempt.

The touchdown was scored by Joe Scisly after a 10-play 65-yard drive. Scisly drove over left guard for four yards and the touchdown.

That ended the scoring until midway of the fourth period when Toncic spiraled a high floater to Ditka, who worked out from between two Duke defenders to take the ball. Ditka ran the last 12 yards alone as Duke defensemen thought he had touched the ground making the grab.

The scoring throw was Toncic's seventh of the young season and not only put him very high among the nation's most effective passers but he iow is in a tie for the all-time one - season Pitt touchdown passing mark.

Bob Bestwick also threw seven in 1951.

Three other Pitt scoring chances failed. Toncic's placement try after the first touchdown was wide and his try for two points after the second by passing also failed. A field goal attempt by Fred Cox in the third period was wide to the right.

The score would have gone much higher against Duke except for a pair of fine guards — Jim Gardner and Mike McGee. Each made about 15 tackles and continually turned Pitt runners to the outside.

Pitt was a slow team and could not run the ends fast enough to drive Duke into the ground.

Backs Joe Arrington and Bob Crummie moved the ball best for the Blue Devils.

A great moment for the Duke line came when a Ditka punt was blocked by Dan Gelbert on the Panther 46.

The hard-charging Duke line also poured down on Cox as he tried for a field goal on the Duke 19—Pitt's deepest non-scoring penetration of the game.

Cox' hurried kick was 10 yards to the right of the post.

Two fumbles — by Cox and Chuck Reinhold—were recovered by Duke but little progress could be made against the strong Pitt line.

Pitts season record now includes victories over Marquette, UCLA and Duke, and a loss to Southern California. Duke has lost to Pitt, South Carolina and Ohio State, and defeated only Rice.

Washington Cops 10-0 Win Over Stanford

SEATTLE (AP) — Two pay-off strikes by Washington Saturday netted a touchdown, a field goal and a 10-0 victory over the frustrated Indians of Stanford.

It was the first game for both teams in the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Their passing attack balked and their runners checked by a combination of slippery turf and smashing enemy linemen, Stanford gathered itself neverthless for a last ditch thrust that died on the Washington 1-foot line.

There were three minutes left and when the final gun sounded Stanford was back again but its goalward push this time was caught by the clock on the Washington 9.

A crowd of 34,000 out to see Washington click off its fourth consecutive victory, watched the Huskies go in front after 10 minutes of play.

The interception of a Stanford pass by George Fleming on the visitors' 36 set up the opportunity. After one six-yard gain, Don McKeta took a pitchout from quarterback Bob Schloredt and went through tackle for 30 yards and a tally. Fleming kicked the conversion.

In the middle of the third quarter, the Huskies tallied again. They reached the Stanford 11. On fourth down Fleming booted a field goal.

Rice Rallies For 13-13 Tie With Florida

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Rice Institute grabbed a Florida fumble with less than five minutes to go and managed to come through with a 13-13 tie Saturday night before 34,000 fans.

The fourth intersectional battle between the two schools, which showed unusual dullness at times saw both teams score in the second and fourth periods.

Rice missed a chance for the all-imporant winning point when a bad pass by center Boyd was dropped on the conversion attempt by Bill Buck after the Owls had tied it up with one minute and 42 seconds to go.

The Gators, too, were cheated out of a chance for a second conversion that could have meant victory when Owl right end Charley Pollard broke through and blocked Dick Allen's kick.

Neither team could work up much steam in the third quarter until the Gators began their second touchdown drive just before the period ended. That drive went 58 yards in nine plays, with quarterback Wayne Williamson passing to right half Don Deal for the final seven yards.

After a dull opening period which saw Florida gain only one first down and Rice none, both teams injected more life into the game and scored a touchdown each to leave it tied 7-7 at the half.

The game saw a total of 17 punts, nine by Florida and eight by Rice. Fullbacks Jon Macbeth for Florida and Roland Jackson for Rice were the leading ball carriers, each carrying 10 times and each netting 51 yards.

Score by Periods

Rice	0	7	0	6	—13
Florida	0	7	0	6	—13

Scoring Summary
Florida — Westbrook 2 run (Allen kick); Deal 7 pass from William son (kick failed).

Manhatten 'Cap To Round Table

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kerf Stable's Round Table, Mr. Moneybags of the turf, won his first race in New York Saturday when he took command about an eighth of a mile from home to capture the $58,200 Manhattan Handicap at Aqueduct.

The world's biggest money winner, ridden smartly by Willie Shoemaker, remained off the pace of Admiral Vee, holding third place much of the way until time to strike. Then Admiral Vee faltered, Bald Eagle rushed up to get second place, and Coloneast managed third money.

STILL UNBEATEN

Ole Miss Mauls Vanderbilt, 33-0

By RUSS DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Mississippi ran roughshod over outmanned Vanderbilt here Saturday night defeating the Commodores 33-0 and keeping intact its unbeaten and unscored upon record.

Mississippi used everything from a 78 - yard pass to a simple plunge in racking up its lopsided win.

The partisan crowd of 25,000 got its biggest thrill in the closing minutes when Vanderbilt moved down to the Mississippi two yard line. But the strong Reb line turned back the threat.

Junior quarterback Jake Gibbs tossed a pass on his won 22 to halfback Bob Crespino who went the rest of the way for a 78-yard touchdown play.

Gibbs scored one himself on a 15 - yard run and was very accurate most of the night on his passes.

Vanderbilt couldn't muster a sustained offense, getting only one first down in the first half and only two during the first three periods.

The speedy Mississippi team piled up yardage all night, both with its running and its passing.

First string quarterback Bob Franklin never even got into the game for the Rebels but Coach Jimmy Vaught had three other good signal callers in Gibbs, Bill Brewer and sophomore Douglas Elmore.

Tom Moore, supposedly Vanderbilt chief offensive threat, wasn't given the ball during the first period and it was only late in the 3rd period that he was finally used as a runner.

Mississippi's usually sure-footed Robert Khayat missed two field goal attempts and also missed one conversion attempt.

Score by Periods

Vanderbilt	0	0	0	0	—0
Mississippi	7	7	13	6	—33

Scoring Summary
Mississippi — Anderson 10 run (Khayat kick) Gibbs 15 run (Khayat kick) Crespino 78 pass from Gibbs (Khayat kick) Flowers 1 plunge (kick failed) Elmore 4 run (run failed).

MR. AND MRS. F. B. STROHM announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beverly Frances, to William Robert Donelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donelson. The wedding will be an event of November 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church with the Rev. C. B. Littleton officiating.

Afternoon Rites Unite Miss Brenda Sue Ringo And Josef W. Baumgardne

In a setting of stately white chrysanthemums and spiral branched candelabra holding tall white tapers the Covenant Presbyterian Church was the setting on September 26 for the wedding ceremony of Miss Brenda Sue Ringo and Josef William Baumgardner of Lake Charles. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Krae Albert Ringo and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howard Baumgardner of Lake Charles.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 4 p.m. by the Rev. Wayne Gray. Ronny Brothers at the organ presented the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Estelle Sanders who sang, "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's dress was fashioned of Chantilly lace with a scalloped sweetheart neckline and an overskirt of lace and tulle. Her elbow length gloves were of lace. A Juliet lace cap held in place her fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a specimen white orchid.

Miss Kay Cotton served as maid of honor in a street length dress of capuncine color peau de soie with latticed cummerbund of contrasting peau de soie and her headdress was in the shape of autumn leaves held together by a bow of the same material as the dress. She carried large bronze fuji chrysanthemums and croton leaves in cascade effect. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Leon Hill and Miss Georgia Baumgardner, were identically dressed to the maid of honor. Liska Cassyle Waller, flower girl, was dressed similar to the bridesmaids and carried a miniature bouquet.

Mr. Baumgardner chose Keith Ogden to serve as his best man. Ushers were Dr. Val Ringo, brother of the bride, and Pat Bertrand of Lake Charles. Candlelighters were John Brothers and Will Reardon, cousins of the bride. The bride's mother, Mrs. Ringo, chose a beige French corded lace sheath dress over taffeta. The groom's mother, Mrs. Baumgardner, was dressed in a navy silk with matching accessories. They each wore orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table covered with white satin and tulle was centered with a silver and crystal epergne with candles. A crystal punch bowl stood at either end. Pouring were Mrs. F. C. Reardon, Mrs. W. A. Cotton and Mrs. Val Ringo. The wedding confection stood on another table covered with satin and tulle and this was served by Mrs. W. A. Brothers and Mrs. D. C. Brothers, aunts of the bride. Assisting were Miss Patsy Brothers, Miss Montez Brothers and Mrs. Bennie Fryer.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a Royal blue fall ensemble, a sheath with pure silk bodice and short jacket. Her hat was of white feathers and black accessories were used. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple will be at home in Ft. Benning, Georgia where the groom will be stationed as a lieutenant in the army.

The bride graduated from Neville High School and attended L. S. U. in Medical Technology. She is a member of Phi Mu Sorority. The bridegroom is a graduate of Lake Charles High School and L. S. U. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and Samurai interfraternity.

Out of town guests were Mrs. E. N. Collins, the bridegroom's grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Savage and Lucien Bowlware of Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Stratton Love of Thibodaux; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waller of Natchez.

Mrs. Studdard J. V. Willis Pledge Vows

Mrs. Mary Studdard and J. V. Willis of Shreveport were wed on October 2 at 7 p.m. in the home of Rev. R. L. Ross, who officiated for the double ring ceremony. The bride was dressed in a navy wool crepe suit, navy slippers and a small white hat. Her gloves were elbow length. She wore a white yellow throated orchid at her shoulder.

Mrs. Carey Holmes served as matron of honor. She was dressed in a rose wool crepe suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. John Willis Jr. served as best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the den. The mantel in the living room held a large arrangement of white mums and fern. The bride's table in the den was covered with an imported white lace cloth. Valley lilies and small wedding bells decorated the punch bowl and this was flanked by tall candles tied with valley lilies and wedding bells. Assisting with the reception were Miss Maurine Hare, Mrs. Myrtle Garrett and Mrs. Bessie Kilgore.

The couple will make their home at 516 Glenmar in the city.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Willis and daughter of Dallas, Texas; Harold, Ann and Donald Willis of Shreveport and Mrs. J. R. Kennedy of Vicksburg, Miss.

Bridge Club Hostess Is Mrs. Jordan

Mrs. Ivy C. Jordan entertained in her home on Forsythe Avenue Wednesday afternoon with a luncheon bridge party for her club.

Those attending were Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. H. W. McSherry, Mrs. Roy R. McCue, Mrs. J. L. Adams, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. Henry Hinkle and Mrs. Foster Wallace.

MR. AND MRS. Elijah B. Bryan of Downsville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ola Mae, to Juett Eugene McGee, son of Mrs. Harold McGee and the late Mr. McGee of Ruston. The wedding will be an event of Friday, October 30 at 7 o'clock in the evening in the Downsville Baptist Church. The Reverend Jesse D. Bryan will officiate.

Miss Clark Robert Terry Rites Are Told

The marriage of Miss Betty Clark and Robert Terry was solemnized at the First Christian Church on Saturday Sept. 26 at 7 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. John Stewart officiated. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jeff Clark and the late Mr. Clark of this city. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry of Houston and attended the University of Texas.

The couple will make their home in St. Louis, Mo.

MR. AND MRS. F. B. STROHM announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beverly Frances, to William Robert Donelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donelson. The wedding will be an event of November 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Baptist Church with the Rev. C. B. Littleton officiating.

Afternoon Rites Unite Miss Brenda Sue Ringo And Josef W. Baumgardne

In a setting of stately white chrysanthemums and spiral branched candelabra holding tall white tapers the Covenant Presbyterian Church was the setting on September 26 for the wedding ceremony of Miss Brenda Sue Ringo and Josef William Baumgardner of Lake Charles. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Krae Albert Ringo and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howard Baumgardner of Lake Charles.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 4 p.m. by the Rev. Wayne Gray. Ronny Brothers at the organ presented the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Estelle Sanders who sang, "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's dress was fashioned of Chantilly lace with a scalloped sweetheart neckline and an overskirt of lace and tulle. Her elbow length gloves were of lace. A Juliet lace cap held in place her fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a specimen white orchid.

Miss Kay Cotton served as maid of honor in a street length dress of capuncine color peau de soie with latticed cummerbund of contrasting peau de soie and her headdress was in the shape of autumn leaves held together by a bow of the same material as the dress. She carried large bronze fuji chrysanthemums and croton leaves in cascade effect. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Leon Hill and Miss Georgia Baumgardner, were identically dressed to the maid of honor. Liska Cassyle Waller, flower girl, was dressed similar to the bridesmaids and carried a miniature bouquet.

Mr. Baumgardner chose Keith Ogden to serve as his best man. Ushers were Dr. Val Ringo, brother of the bride, and Pat Bertrand of Lake Charles. Candlelighters were John Brothers and Will Reardon, cousins of the bride. The bride's mother, Mrs. Ringo, chose a beige French corded lace sheath dress over taffeta. The groom's mother, Mrs. Baumgardner, was dressed in a navy silk with matching accessories. They each wore orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table covered with white satin and tulle was centered with a silver and crystal epergne with candles. A crystal punch bowl stood at either end. Pouring were Mrs. F. C. Reardon, Mrs. W. A. Cotton and Mrs. Val Ringo. The wedding confection stood on another table covered with satin and tulle and this was served by Mrs. W. A. Brothers and Mrs. D. C. Brothers, aunts of the bride. Assisting were Miss Patsy Brothers, Miss Montez Brothers and Mrs. Bennie Fryer.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a Royal blue fall ensemble, a sheath with pure silk bodice and short jacket. Her hat was of white feathers and black accessories were used. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple will be at home in Ft. Benning, Georgia where the groom will be stationed as a lieutenant in the army.

The bride graduated from Neville High School and attended L. S. U. in Medical Technology. She is a member of Phi Mu Sorority. The bridegroom is a graduate of Lake Charles High School and L. S. U. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and Samurai interfraternity.

Out of town guests were Mrs. E. N. Collins, the bridegroom's grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Savage and Lucien Bowlware of Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Stratton Love of Thibodaux; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waller of Natchez.

Mrs. Studdard J. V. Willis Pledge Vows

Mrs. Mary Studdard and J. V. Willis of Shreveport were wed on October 2 at 7 p.m. in the home of Rev. R. L. Ross, who officiated for the double ring ceremony. The bride was dressed in a navy wool crepe suit, navy slippers and a small white hat. Her gloves were elbow length. She wore a white yellow throated orchid at her shoulder.

Mrs. Carey Holmes served as matron of honor. She was dressed in a rose wool crepe suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. John Willis Jr. served as best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the den. The mantel in the living room held a large arrangement of white mums and fern. The bride's table in the den was covered with an imported white lace cloth. Valley lilies and small wedding bells decorated the punch bowl and this was flanked by tall candles tied with valley lilies and wedding bells. Assisting with the reception were Miss Maurine Hare, Mrs. Myrtle Garrett and Mrs. Bessie Kilgore.

The couple will make their home at 516 Glenmar in the city.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Willis and daughter of Dallas, Texas; Harold, Ann and Donald Willis of Shreveport and Mrs. J. R. Kennedy of Vicksburg, Miss.

Bridge Club Hostess Is Mrs. Jordan

Mrs. Ivy C. Jordan entertained in her home on Forsythe Avenue Wednesday afternoon with a luncheon bridge party for her club.

Those attending were Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. H. W. McSherry, Mrs. Roy R. McCue, Mrs. J. L. Adams, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. Henry Hinkle and Mrs. Foster Wallace.

MR. AND MRS. Elijah B. Bryan of Downsville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ola Mae, to Juett Eugene McGee, son of Mrs. Harold McGee and the late Mr. McGee of Ruston. The wedding will be an event of Friday, October 30 at 7 o'clock in the evening in the Downsville Baptist Church. The Reverend Jesse D. Bryan will officiate.

Miss Clark Robert Terry Rites Are Told

The marriage of Miss Betty Clark and Robert Terry was solemnized at the First Christian Church on Saturday Sept. 26 at 7 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. John Stewart officiated. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jeff Clark and the late Mr. Clark of this city. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry of Houston and attended the University of Texas.

The couple will make their home in St. Louis, Mo.

MRS. ROBERT DANIEL WITT

Miss Warner R. D. Witt Are Wed

In a candlelight, double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church in Columbia, Miss Clois Lea Warner of Memphis, Tenn. became the bride of Robert Daniel Witt of Nashville, Tenn. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Virgil L. Taylor of Columbia and Grady Lee Warner of Vidalia. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Jewel Witt of Ripley, Miss.

Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony on Oct. 3. Mrs. Erby E. Meredith at the organ presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Owen Brown of Alexandria, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Pedestal baskets of white pompon mums interspersed with huckleberry flanked a white Cross entwined with ivy and chrysanthemums and wrought iron candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father was dressed in an original gown of taffeta and imported Chantilly lace. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline edged in lace applique and seed pearls. The long tapering sleeves ended in lily points over the hands. The princess line dome skirt had crescents of lace insets and encircled the full chapel train. Her triple veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a bandeau of lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Dan Carr of Natchitoches, matron of honor, was dressed in a wedgewood blue lace dress over blue satin. A matching velvet bow and veil were worn on her hair. She carried blue pompon chrysanthemums in a cascade arrangement. Bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Carter of San Antonio, Texas; Miss Kay Witt of Ripley, Miss. sister of the groom, and Mrs. Luther Burkett of Memphis, Tenn., wore identical dresses to the matron of honor.

Johnnie L. Witt of Memphis, Tenn., served his brother as best man. Ushers were Grady Dale Warner, Columbia, brother of the bride; Allen Crawford of Ripley, Miss., Lonnie Bennett of Alexandria.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the social room of the church.

Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Billy Kitchen of Monroe.

The bridal table was centered with a lace cloth and centered with a fan shaped arrangement of white chrysanthemums. The tiered wedding confection was served by Miss Best Hearn of Columbia. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. Grady D. Warner of Columbia ond Mrs. Zola Windham of Baton Roupe.

Tea girls were Mrs. Jimmy B. Royland of Columbia, Miss., Rita Gail Tullos of San Antonio and Mrs. Charles Thompson of Columbia. The bride traveled in a brown ensemble with darker brown accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet.

Mrs. Witt graduated from Columbia High School and Northwestern State College. Her sorority was Alpha Sigma Alpha.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Beuna Vista High School, Ripley, Miss., and Delta State College, Cleveland, Miss. The couple will be at home in Nashville, Tenn.

PFC. AND MRS. TRAVIS T. SANDERS JR.

Miss Hughes T. T. Sanders Repeat Vows

Miss Ruby Alice Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Hughes, and Pfc. Travis Troy Sanders Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Troy Sanders, were married in the home of the bride's parents on Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. Mr. E. C. McKenzie, minister of Church of Christ officiated.

The vows were repeated in front of a double window flanked by tall wicker baskets of white stock.

The bride was dressed in a white embroidered cotton satin sheath, street dress with a white fitted jacket with three quarter sleeves and a stand-away collar. Her hat was a white pill box shape with matching veil. She wore a white orchid.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Charles Staples, sister of the groom. She was dressed in an avocado chrystalline two piece street dress, with this she wore black patent slippers and her other accessories were white.

Charles Staples served as the groom's only attendant.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The table was covered with a handmade cloth. It held a low centerpiece of pale asters flanked by gold candle holders holding spiral white tapers. The punch bowl stood on one end of the table and the wedding cake on the other.

For her going away outfit the bride was wearing a deep turquoise wool sheath with matching feather hat and black accessories.

RJH Auxiliary Announces An Essay Contest

The Rodney J. Hobbs Ladies Auxiliary 1809 held their meeting at the post home with the president, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, presiding.

The essay chairman, Mrs. Violet Berry, stated that the new essay contest is entitled Civil Defense — An American Tradition. This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the National High School Essay Contest, sponsored annually by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in cooperation with the educators and free press of the nation. This year the office of civil and defense mobilization has joined with the Auxiliary to award special prizes on the state level. The contest is open to any 10th, 11th and 12th grade student who is enrolled in any public, private or parochial school, and who is carrying a full prescribed course. The students who are interested should contact their high school principal for further information.

Mrs. Gossett, announced that the Auxiliary won 3rd place in the first week of the Community Club Awards Contest which is sponsored by KMLB. The bonus credits of the CCA Contest were announced. All members were encouraged to read the CCA Buyer's Guide and to participate in the contest.

After the meeting, Mrs. Fred Cowan was honored with a pink and blue shower.

MRS. LASTER CLIFTON WILLIAMS JR.

Early Evening Ceremony Unites Miss Cheryl Fink John Wesley Lolley

Parkview Baptist Church was the setting of October 2nd for a double ring ceremony uniting Miss Cheryl Anne Fink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fink of this city and John Wesley Lolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morton Lolley of West Monroe.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a small group of relatives and close friends with the Reverend H. L. Sampson officiating.

Bows were exchanged before a background of burning white tapers in antique white tree candelabra with greenery interspersed and white chrysanthemums placed in an antique urn resting on a pedestal base.

The candles were lighted by Charles Midyett as Mrs. William Wilkerson, organist, began the pre-nuptial music. During the ceremony, the selections "Clair de Lune" and "Whither Thou Goest" were played.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a rounded neckline outlined with appliques or organza and net sprinkled with seed pearls. These same appliques were featured on the sleeves and at the center waistline where a pleated band of organza joined to form a large flat bow in the back. The appliques were also featured just above the bow. The voluminous skirt fell in soft folds. Her finger tip veil of illusion was held by a cap of lace and taffeta. She carried a cascade bouquet of white brides roses and lillies of the valley. The bride wore the traditional something old, a linen lace edged handkerchief used by her mother in her wedding, something new, something borrowed, something blue and a six-pence in her shoe.

She was preceded to the altar by her sister, Miss Beth Fink, who was her only attendant. She wore a street length dress of emerald green mat peau satin. It featured a draped neckline forming floating panels just below the small bow at the back. The bodice was fitted and the full skirt fell in graceful folds. Her headpiece was a flat bow of the same material with veiling that blended. Her satin slippers were of a matching shade. She carried a large white glamelia on a single stem.

Edward Lolley served his son as best man. Ushers were Richard Ringheim of Monroe and Charles Midyett of Shreveport.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fink chose a horizon blue re-embroidered lace dress over matching taffeta. It was complemented by a scalloped neckline. Seed pearls enhanced the front of the bodice and her skirt featured slim lines in front falling onto graceful fullness in the back. Her hat was of blue feathers and she wore matching satin slippers. She carried a small evening bag on which was pinned a corsage of white glamelias. Mrs. Lolley, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a Royal blue silk faille sheath dress with short sleeves and a rounded neckline. The skirt featured a side drape of self material caught together with a rhinestone pin at the waistline. She wore a white feather hat and her corsage was of white glamelias.

Receiving guests at the door was Mrs. Paul Fink, aunt of the bride. Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. Robert Ervin, Miss Leita Heard, Mrs. Louis Peters, Miss Bobbie Faye Ervin.

The bride's table, covered with a cut work linen cloth, was centered with a five branched candelabra holding burning white tapers. The center branch of the candelabra held a taper encircled with white pom mums, ivy and tube roses. At one end of the table was the bride's cake, embossed with calla lilies, roses and lilies of the valley and topped with wedding bells. On the opposite end was the crystal punch bowl encircled with ivy dotted with snowy white pom mums. Alternating at the punch service was Mrs. Jimmie Branch and Miss Nancy Breard.

Little Georgiana Fink, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book which was placed on a small table which also held a single white burning taper in a silver candlestick at the base of which was a large single white glamelia with ribbonized stem.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and has been a student in the School of Business Administration at Louisiana Tech for the past two years. Her social sorority is Kappa Delta. She was a Colonel Sponsor of the Air Force R.O.T.C. Wing Staff during the last spring semester and sponsor of the Arnold Air Society during her second year at Tech.

The bridegroom was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and is also a graduate of Louisiana Tech where he majored in economics. His social fraternity is Kappa Sigma, serving as its president during his senior year. His honorary fraternities are Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Kappa Delta and DeltaS iPmiag. He has ta and Delta Sigma Pi. He has recently been commissioned as a 2nd lieutenant in the United States Air Force and the couple will make their home at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco, California.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Roland Fink, Eunice; Dr. Maxwell Fink, Opelousas; Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Henry, Mrs. J. D. Green, Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Lawrence Sr., Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Lawrence Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Colvin Jr., and Miss Leita Heard, all of Bernice; Mr. and Mrs. Armond Rabun, Farmerville; Miss Nancy Breard, Newcomb College, New Orleans Miss Sue Broadnax, Pine Bluff, Arkansas; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ivy Sorrells, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Ben A. Rentz, Jackson, Miss.

Miss Sullivan L. C. Williams Are Wed

The Claiborne Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Betty Sue Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude D. Sullivan of West Monroe, and Laster Clifton Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Laster Clyde Williams of this city. The Oct. 3 ceremony was performed at 6 p.m. with the Rev. Paul Sullivan officiating.

The altar held 6 candelabra entwined with smilax and two large baskets of white gladioli.

Lay Baird Jr. at the piano accompanied Ray Barr who sang, "Through The Years," "I Take Thee Dear" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father, Claude Sullivan, wore a bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over bridal satin. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline. Her tiered circular veil was shoulder length and it fell from a tiara of lace and pearls. pompon chrysanthemums formed her bouquet.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Gracie McKnight. She was dressed in a shrimp colored organza over taffeta with a ruffled head band of the same material. Her bouquet was of shrimp colored chrysanthemums and this was tied with matching ribbons.

Candlelighters, nieces of the bridegroom, were Linda Williams and Charlotte Ann Berry. They were dressed in shrimp colored silk organza over taffeta with ruffled head bands. Their corsages were of white chrysanthemums with rainbow ribbons.

Bobby Bennett served as best man and the ushers were James McKnight and Edward Horne.

The bride's mother wore blue chantilly lace over taffeta with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother was dressed in blue crepe with matching accessories. They each carried white mum corsages.

A reception was held in the educational building of the church. The bride's table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth, centered with a centerpiece of white pompon mums. Mrs. I. D. Spharler presided at the wedding cake while Mrs. H. J. Bouler assisted at the punch bowl.

For their trip to Hot Springs, Ark. the bride was wearing a red wool suit and black accessories.

The couple will be at home in West Monroe.

She is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended La. Business School. The bridegroom attended Ouachita Parish High School.

Ou-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Lawrence Scarpinatto, Shreveport; Mrs. S. W. Pussell, Granda, Miss., Mrs. Howard Sullivan, Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McKnight, Rayville.

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL DON ADAMS

TAKING A FEW MOMENTS OF POOLSIDE RELAXATION in Acapulco, Mexico, are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thrower of this city.

Vows Said By Miss Gould C. D. Adams

The marriage of Miss Portia Jo Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Gould, and Carroll Don Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Adams, all of this city was solemnized on Sept. 26 in the pastor's study of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe with Dr. Jaroy Weber officiating. The double ring ceremony was repeated in the presence of members of the families and close friends.

The only attendant, Miss Barbara Neyland, was wearing a two piece brown dress with a turquoise hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations and turquoise ribbons.

Lynn Vaughn served as best man.

The bride wore a turquoise jacket dress of lightweight wool featuring a large collar. Her close fitting hat was of variegated shades of brown feathers with a brief nose veil. Her accessories were in a smoked tone. She wore a white orchid.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received in a royal blue dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a light green dress and black accessories for the occasion. Her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The green and white motif was carried out on the mantel with white gladioli and fern flanked by tapers in silver holders. Caladium leaves were used in other arrangements.

The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth over green. This was centered with a five branched candelabra holding burning tapers interspersed with gardenias, lilies of the valley and greenery. At one end of the table the wedding cake held a bride and groom figurine. At the opposite end Mrs. Jerry Robinson served punch from an antique cut glass punch bowl.

The couple will be at home in Rockford, Ill.

J. Harrington Is PTA Speaker

Professor J. Harrington, child psychologist from Northeast State College, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Kiroli P. T. A. He said that discipline is an influence designed to help a child with demands that go counter to his own demands, and that amount of freedom depends on the development of the child, and it was the parents' responsibility to help with problems of development.

Mrs. Walter Silmon, carnival chairman, informed the group the date had been set Thursday, October 29 for the fall carnival and variety show which will feature a "Womanless Wedding."

Mrs. Beasley's first grade won the room count.

MRS. CALVIN B. FOLDS is pictured with her children, left to right, Mary Elizabeth, Mrs. Folds, Carl and Kathy. Dr. and Mrs. Folds and family, formerly of Monroe, are now making their home in Sterlington. Mrs. Folds is the former Miss Peggy Strong.

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL DON ADAMS

TAKING A FEW MOMENTS OF POOLSIDE RELAXATION in Acapulco, Mexico, are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thrower of this city.

Vows Said By Miss Gould C. D. Adams

The marriage of Miss Portia Jo Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Gould, and Carroll Don Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Adams, all of this city was solemnized on Sept. 26 in the pastor's study of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe with Dr. Jaroy Weber officiating. The double ring ceremony was repeated in the presence of members of the families and close friends.

The only attendant, Miss Barbara Neyland, was wearing a two piece brown dress with a turquoise hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations and turquoise ribbons.

Lynn Vaughn served as best man.

The bride wore a turquoise jacket dress of lightweight wool featuring a large collar. Her close fitting hat was of variegated shades of brown feathers with a brief nose veil. Her accessories were in a smoked tone. She wore a white orchid.

The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received in a royal blue dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a light green dress and black accessories for the occasion. Her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The green and white motif was carried out on the mantel with white gladioli and fern flanked by tapers in silver holders. Caladium leaves were used in other arrangements.

The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth over green. This was centered with a five branched candelabra holding burning tapers interspersed with gardenias, lilies of the valley and greenery. At one end of the table the wedding cake held a bride and groom figurine. At the opposite end Mrs. Jerry Robinson served punch from an antique cut glass punch bowl.

The couple will be at home in Rockford, Ill.

J. Harrington Is PTA Speaker

Professor J. Harrington, child psychologist from Northeast State College, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Kiroli P. T. A. He said that discipline is an influence designed to help a child with demands that go counter to his own demands, and that amount of freedom depends on the development of the child, and it was the parents' responsibility to help with problems of development.

Mrs. Walter Silmon, carnival chairman, informed the group the date had been set Thursday, October 29 for the fall carnival and variety show which will feature a "Womanless Wedding."

Mrs. Beasley's first grade won the room count.

Good Old Yogurt Gets In The Hair

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The newest culture to go to the head is yogurt. At least one hairdresser prefers it to home permanent wave lotion to control the hair, especially fine locks.

"I've been experimenting with yogurt for a long time now," explains V. George of New York, "and I have seen tremendous improvement in the hair of people who have had several permanent waves with this method instead of the regular lotion."

George uses it when he winds the hair for the permanent wave.

"The yogurt slows up the entire action of the permanent wave. It takes longer, but it doesn't shock the hair as regular lotion does," he explains.

"Many hairdressers use milk stead of lotion," he says, "and it isn't because I'm on Fifth Avenue that I've switched to yogurt. It just seems to give the hair more body than anything else."

George believes that he gets a more uniform wave with his method because the action of the permanent wave lotion begins when it is applied. He says:

"There is a difference in winding time of about 15 minutes from bottom to top winding, and there is bound to be that much difference in the wave when it is completed — tighter and looser spots.

"Yogurt on the other hand has a more uniform action. It seems to revitalize the hair follicle, rectifying hair dryness, hair bruises or damage. The hair seems to have far more gloss after the use of yogurt, is more pliable to work with after the yogurt treatment."

Yogurt, a milk to which a culture has been added to create its special properties, is not difficult to find. George gives a blunt haircut to those with fine hair.

"It gives the hair more body," he says, "than a hairdo that is tapered, which is likely to create flying ends."

Good Old Yogurt Gets In The Hair

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The newest culture to go to the head is yogurt. At least one hairdresser prefers it to home permanent wave lotion to control the hair, especially fine locks.

"I've been experimenting with yogurt for a long time now," explains V. George of New York, "and I have seen tremendous improvement in the hair of people who have had several permanent waves with this method instead of the regular lotion."

George uses it when he winds the hair for the permanent wave.

"The yogurt slows up the entire action of the permanent wave. It takes longer, but it doesn't shock the hair as regular lotion does," he explains.

"Many hairdressers use milk stead of lotion," he says, "and it isn't because I'm on Fifth Avenue that I've switched to yogurt. It just seems to give the hair more body than anything else."

George believes that he gets a more uniform wave with his method because the action of the permanent wave lotion begins when it is applied. He says:

"There is a difference in winding time of about 15 minutes from bottom to top winding, and there is bound to be that much difference in the wave when it is completed — tighter and looser spots.

"Yogurt on the other hand has a more uniform action. It seems to revitalize the hair follicle, rectifying hair dryness, hair bruises or damage. The hair seems to have far more gloss after the use of yogurt, is more pliable to work with after the yogurt treatment."

Yogurt, a milk to which a culture has been added to create its special properties, is not difficult to find. George gives a blunt haircut to those with fine hair.

"It gives the hair more body," he says, "than a hairdo that is tapered, which is likely to create flying ends."

Your Child Should Pass Muscle Test

AP Newsfeatures

Our muscles are part of us. To be really healthy we must have muscles strong enough to be able to carry on the activities of everyday living. If we are city or suburban dwellers we do not need the muscular power of a champion athlete, but we do need muscles able to hold our bodies in good efficient posture to move us about without undue fatigue. Muscles do not develop adequately without exercise.

There is a good bit of evidence to indicate that the softness of American life is depriving our children of the opportunity to grow muscles strong enough even for the sedentary life many of us lead. We are becoming a nation of the physically unfit in spite of our excellent medical care. When health is measured in terms of freedom from disease and good nutritional status America is one of the healthiest countries in the world, but measured in terms of muscular fitness we are outranked by all of Europe.

Bonnie Prudden, director of Institute of Physical Fitness, made a study of the physical fitness of American school children compared with similar groups in Italy, Austria and Switzerland. She discovered that over 50 per cent of American children failed to meet the minimum standards of physical fitness and that less than 10 per cent of the European children were in this low group.

The tests used by Miss Prudden were those known as the Kraus - Weber Tests for Minimum Physical Fitness.

There are six tests in all. They are very simple. All children over 4 years old should be able to do them easily. Try them out with your children.

Test 1. Child lies flat on his back, hands under head. He is instructed to sit up. He should be able to do so without using his hands to help him.

Test 2. Same as 1 except that legs are bent at the knees.

Tests 1 and 2 determine the strength of the abdominal muscles.

Test 3. Child in same position. He is instructed to raise his feet about 10 inches, keeping his legs straight, and hold the position 10 seconds.

This test is for adequacy of muscles used in running and in keeping the body in good posture.

Test 4. The child lies on his abdomen, a small pillow is placed under his hips. With his feet held down by the examiner he is instructed to raise his trunk and hold it steady for 10 seconds.

Test 5. Same as 4 except child is instructed to raise his legs, keeping knees stiff while his trunk is held down by the examiner.

Test 6. Child stands on his feet and bends forward to touch hands to floor without bending knees.

The child who can successfully perform these six tests has the minimum physical requirements for a normal life.

Body building begins in infancy. The child with ample opportunity to exercise his body should have muscular strength to perform these tests by the age of 4 or surely by the age of 6. If he cannot pass the test at 6 he can strengthen his muscles by specific exercises without too much struggle. If at 10 he fails he will have to work harder to make the grade, at 16 it may be impossible for him to repair the damage done to a muscular system permitted to develop without adequate exercise.

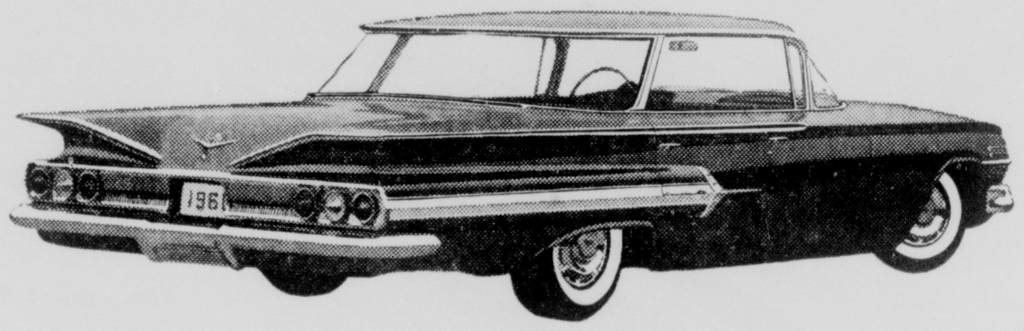
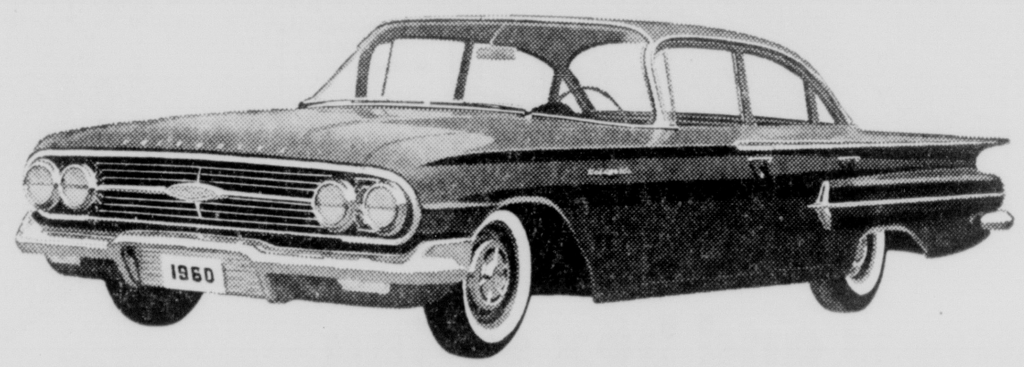
HERE NOW ARE SIXTY'S SIZZLERS

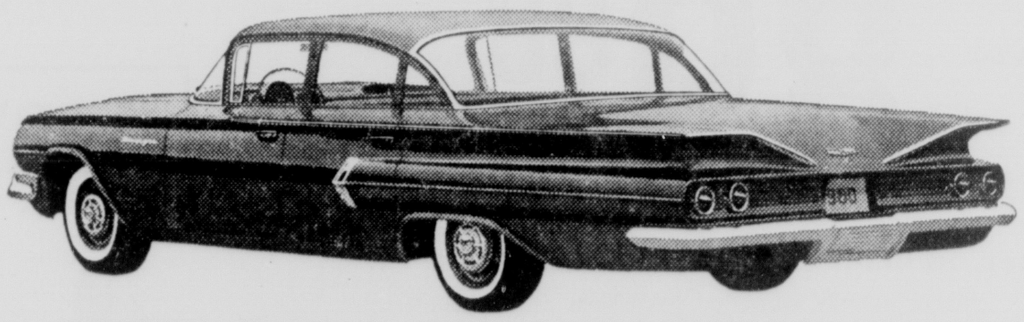
16 SUPERLATIVE NEW CHEVROLETS FOR 1960!



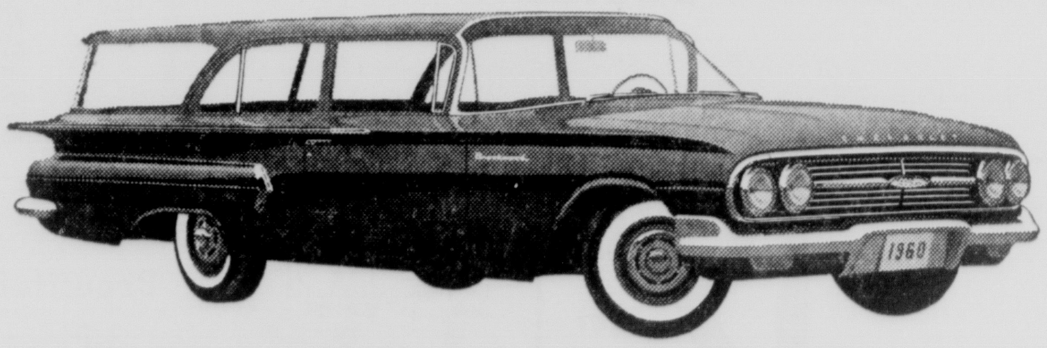
4 IMPALAS—Nowhere else in the low-price field will you find luxury like this. These fresh, fashionable Impalas—most elegant of all the superlative '60 Chevrolets—are all the car you ever yearned for. Each embodies distinctive treatment inside and out, with triple-unit rear lights, fingertip door releases and safety-reflector armrests. Besides the Impala sport sedan above, there are a convertible, sport coupe and 4-door sedan.



4 BEL AIRS—Sumptuous as these Bel Airs are to behold, they're priced just above Chevy's thriftiest models. And, like all Chevies, they give you a choice of two of the thriftiest engines going as standard equipment—the famed Hi-Thrift 6 and a new Economy Turbo-Fire V8 that gets up to 10% more miles out of a gallon of regular while giving you more "git" at normal speeds. There are the 4-door Bel Air sedan above, a 2-door sedan, sport sedan and sport coupe.



3 BISCAYNES—These (though you'd never know to look at them) are the lowest priced of the superlative '60 Chevrolets. They bring you the same basic beauty and relaxing roominess as the other models. And, like all Chevies, they ride on cradle-soft Full Coil suspension, isolated from road shock and noise by thicker, newly designed body mounts. Along with the 4-door Biscayne sedan above, you have your choice of a 2-door and a utility sedan.



5 STATION WAGONS—From clean-thrusting grille to trim new tailgate, these Chevy wagons are stunningly styled to carry you away. And they've got the kind of cargo space (over 10 ft. from the back of the front seat to the tip of the tailgate) to carry away most anything you want to take with you. Besides that thrifty 2-door Brookwood above, you have your choice of a 4-door Brookwood, 4-door Parkwood, 9-passenger Kingswood and the nifty Nomad.

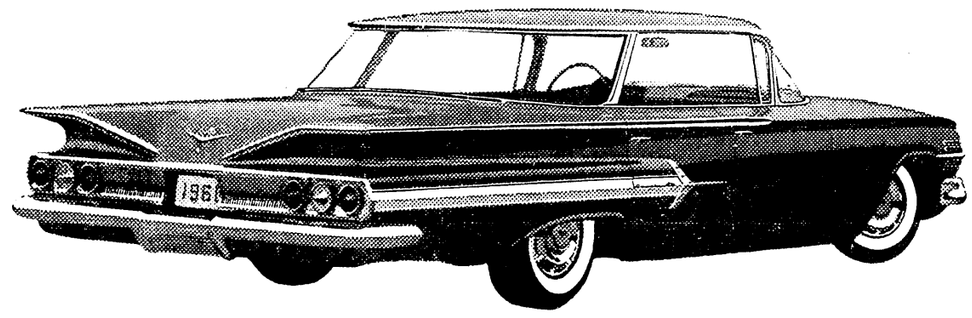
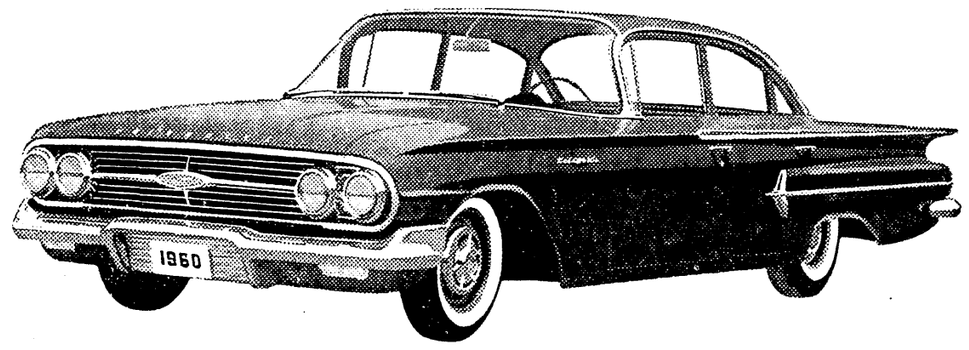
HERE NOW ARE SIXTY'S SIZZLERS 16 SUPERLATIVE NEW CHEVROLETS FOR 1960!



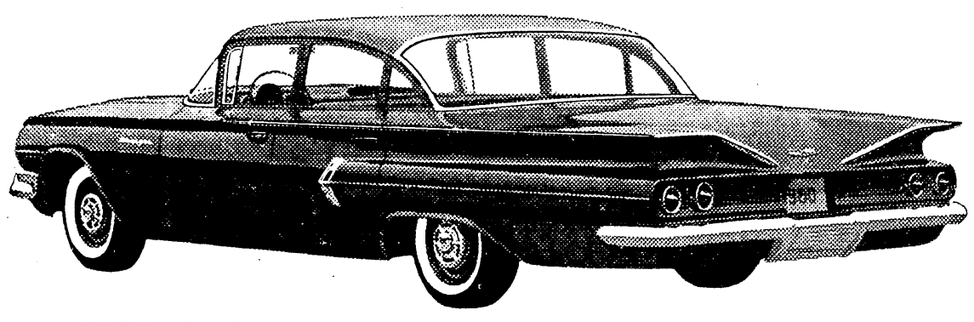
4 IMPALAS—Nowhere else in the low-price field will you find luxury like this. These fresh, fashionable Impalas—most elegant of all the superlative '60 Chevrolets—are all the car you ever yearned for. Each embodies distinctive treatment inside and out, with triple-unit rear lights, fingertip door releases and safety-reflector armrests. Besides the Impala sport sedan above, there are a convertible, sport coupe and 4-door sedan.



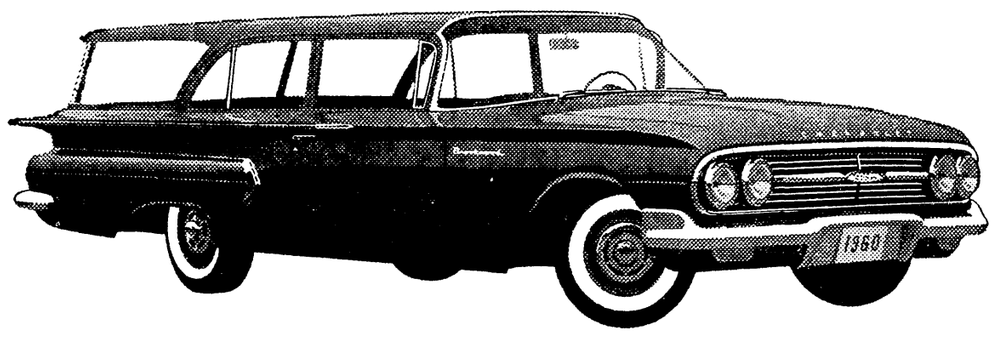
4 BEL AIRS—Sumptuous as these Bel Airs are to behold, they're priced just above Chevy's thriftiest models. And, like all Chevies, they give you a choice of two of the thriftiest engines going as standard equipment—the famed Hi-Thrift 6 and a new Economy Turbo-Fire V8 that gets up to 10% more miles out of a gallon of regular while giving you more "git" at normal speeds. There are the 4-door Bel Air sedan above, a 2-door sedan, sport sedan and sport coupe.

CHEVROLET

Nearest to perfection a low-priced car ever came!



3 BISCAYNES—These (though you'd never know to look at them) are the lowest priced of the superlative '60 Chevrolets. They bring you the same basic beauty and relaxing roominess as the other models. And, like all Chevies, they ride on cradle-soft Full Coil suspension, isolated from road shock and noise by thicker, newly designed body mounts. Along with the 4-door Biscayne sedan above, you have your choice of a 2-door and a utility sedan.



5 STATION WAGONS—From clean-thrusting grille to trim new tailgate, these Chevy wagons are stunningly styled to carry you away. And they've got the kind of cargo space (over 10 ft. from the back of the front seat to the tip of the tailgate) to carry away most anything you want to take with you. Besides that thrifty 2-door Brookwood above, you have your choice of a 4-door Brookwood, 4-door Parkwood, 9-passenger Kingswood and the nifty Nomad.

Top entertainment—The Dinah Shore Chevy Show—Sundays NBC-TV and the Pat Boone Chevy Showroom—Weekly on ABC-TV—Red Skelton Chevy Special Friday, October 9, CBS-TV.

Well, and have you ever seen more gorgeous, warmer, or sunnier days than we've had in the second week in October? 'Tis enough to make Indian Summer one's favorite season.

And 'tis a season for high adventure. We know a group of young men who had just that last week. NELSON ABELL, JR., and ROY JOHNS took their sons, NELS and HUGHES ABELL and HANK JOHNS, "down the Mississippi down to New Orleans" on the Abells' boat. The boys were driven to Jonesville by Bennie and Clarice, who then went on to the city to await them. Conditions were perfect for this kind of trip, with the rivers not swollen, and the temperature warm without being unbearably hot. They encountered some high winds and went through two rainstorms, but they would have been disappointed if things had been otherwise.

Saturday night was spent on an island in the Mississippi, shared with some hospitable mosquitoes. Supper consisted of hot dogs cooked over the campfire, and beds were made on the ground, of course. They arrived in New Orleans Sunday afternoon.

Monday morning the boys went sightseeing, visiting Jackson Square and counting cannons from the Battle of New Orleans. Monday afternoon the whole group came home by car, all exhausted but exhilarated by an unforgettable week end.

Autumn is apparent in the flowers and decorations used for the parties this week. The centerpiece at MABEL RATLIFF's luncheon table yesterday at the Paragon was particularly seasonal. Yellow Fuji mums were used with grapes and greenery in a wooden container which was flanked by a pair of china pheasants. On the menu was a fresh fruit cup, followed by crab meat au gratin with asparagus. Dessert was cold chocolate souffle and coffee. Twelve guests attended.

The BOB CARSONS took advantage of the Indian Summer weather for some golf. They spent last week at Gulf Hills Dude Ranch in Ocean Springs, Mississippi.

The first fall luncheon meeting of the Junior Charity League, held last Saturday at the Paragon, brought out a group of intriguing new hats. League President JOAN SAGER wore an all-feather hat with a beige crown and a brim of pheasant feathers . . . With a gold dress and shoes, JEAN DICKENHORST wore a wide - brimmed emerald green velvet banded in gold . . . HELEN LEDBETTER's turban shaded from deep blue velour around her face to a grey - blue satin crown . . . Most becoming was CONNIE JONES' red velvet derby . . . JEAN HAMILTON chose a rust - colored feather cloche . . . MARJORIE PHILLIPS wore a cocoa brown turban with a cocoa and black print dress . . . CHARLOTTIE DENT's hair was completely covered by her black velour banded with felt . . . With a biege suit, GLORIA ROBERTSON wore a wide black hat feather stitched in rose beige.

Guest this week of the SONNY DIXONS in Sterlington has been Jean's mother, MRS. O. H. JUNOT of New Iberia. The visitor was honored on Thursday at a small coffee party at the home of PEGGY CLAY. Friends gathered in the den, which was decorated with a large standing arrangement of pine branches, magnolia leaves, and pyrocantha berries which was placed on the hearth. The buffet table was centered with bronze chrysanthemums, cattails, and pyrocantha in a brass chafing dish. Orange nut bread, sausage pastries, and toasted pecan rolls were among the goodies offered to some thirty guests.

The ARTHUR GRANTS moved this week into their new home at 2007 Valencia. The Grants' home at 1409 N. Second has been purchased by the TOMMY GODFREYS, who will be moving back to Monroe from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, the latter part of this month.

On Friday JEAN HUENEFELD invited a few friends in for lunch and bridge. Guests arrived at ten and were treated to coffee and a sweet before beginning play. At noon, Jean served a salad plate featuring crab in aspic and a pineapple salad. Hot cheese rolls were passed. Dessert was peppermint ice cream and cookies. Three tables played bridge until mid - afternoon, with CISSY RYAN winning high, and JEANNIE DOWNING, low.

Friday night the HARRELL WEBSTERS, the DARRELL BRISBINS, and the BOB CLAYS were hosts at a neighborhood party held at the Clay home. Tables were set up on the patio, which was lit by luau lights. Pumpkins filled with pyrocantha branches were used on the tables and on the buffet, where an oyster-and-shrimp supper was served. The group danced to the record player on the patio after dinner. There were twenty guests.

The new home of the BENNY GWINS, which we described for you some weeks ago, was warmed with a surprise party Thursday night. A group of intimates arrived, bearing their own barbecued chicken supper and all the trimmings. Gift to the house was a brass chafing dish. Twenty - four attended.

MARY ANN ATKINSON marked her tenth birthday with a "play - lady" party, inviting her girl friends to arrive dressed up. Twenty - six took part in the style show which opened the party. MARILYNN MAXWELL took the "best - dressed" prize. The girls played Bingo and guessing games. The birthday cake was decorated with candles shaped like little ladies, and the guests ate lady - like petit - fours with their ice cream.

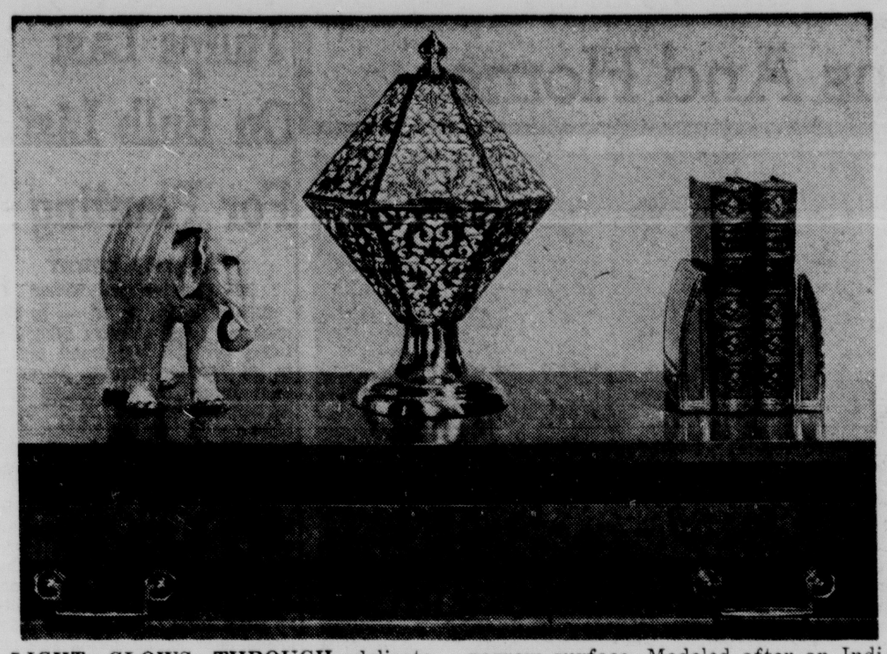
Of the good in you I can speak, but not of the evil.
For what is evil but good tortured by its own hunger and thirst?
You are good when you are one with yourself.
Yet when you are not one with yourself you are not evil.
For a divided house is not a den of thieves; it is only a divided house.
You are good when you strive to give of yourself.
Yet you are not evil when you seek gain for yourself.
Surely the fruit cannot say to the root, "Be like me, ripe and full and ever giving of your abundance."
For to the fruit, giving is a need, as receiving is a need to the root.
You are good when you walk to your goal firmly and with bold steps.
Yet you are not evil when you go thither limping.
Even those who limp go not backward.
But you who are strong and swift, see that you do not limp before the lame, deeming it kindness.
You are good in countless ways, and you are not evil when you are not good.
You are only loitering and sluggard.
Pity that the stags cannot teach swiftness to the turtles.
In your longing for your giant self lies your goodness; and that longing is in all of you.
But in some of you that longing is a torrent rushing with might to the sea;
And in others it is a flat stream that lingers before it reaches the shore.
But let not him who longs much say to him who longs little, "Wherefore are you slow and halting?"
For the truly good ask not the naked "Where is your garment?" or the houseless, "What has befallen your house?"



LIGHT GLOWS THROUGH delicate brass filigree in this decorative new accent lamp, proportioned to stand on a narrow surface. Modeled after an Indian lantern, the unit is lined with white for light diffusion.

TODAY'S MORE ELEGANT MODERN FURNITURE . . . is typified by this bedroom group. The natural grain beauty of walnut is enhanced by unobtrusive accents like flat wood moldings and a sparsely-used slimwaisted rectangle of shiny brass that serves as a unifying motif for the group. The triple dresser at left is worthy of special study for the clever way it minimizes its overall size.

MISS MARGO SKINNER MCDONALD, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Donald Raymond McGehee of Waterproof is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Randolph McDonald of Newellton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McGehee of Waterproof. The wedding will take place at 5 p.m. on November 26 in the Newellton Union Church with Rev. James Poole of Minden officiating.

Loftin Home Setting For Review Club

The Review Club celebrated its 30th birthday and first meeting of the fall on Oct. 5 in the home of Mrs. J. C. Loftin.

Mrs. D. W. Griffith, president, called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Fred Huenefeld gave a review of Mary Renault's book, "The King Must Die." Mrs. DeWitt led the discussion.

Corsages were presented the charter members, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. H. W. Colbert and Mrs. E. P. Cudd.

A birthday cake in the shape of an open book was served to the following members: Mrs. Braun, Mrs. H. W. Chapman, Mrs. Cudd, Mrs. W. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Huenefeld, Mrs. Marcus Mapp, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone, Mrs. L. N. Wadell, Mrs. C. K. Smith and Mrs. Loftin.

Noble Names In Hungarian Fine Porcelain

HEREND, Hungary (AP) — The aristocratic Hungarian names of Apponyi, Esterhazy, Batthanyi and many others remain significantly alive in this village in anti - aristocratic Communist Hungary.

They are the names of patterns hand - painted on fine porcelain dinnerware at the 120-year-old Herend Porcelain factory. Named for the noblemen who first ordered them, they are among 800 different chinaware patterns which the now state - owned Herend firm is prepared to produce.

But not only Hungarians contributed to the inventory names, which sound more like the Almanac de Gotha than the products of a Communist - run plant whose central courtyard is graced by a large white bust of Lenin.

VICTORIA PATTERN

The most popular pattern of all is called "Victoria" in honor of England's Queen Victoria, who ordered a 120-piece service in this Chinese floral and butterfly pattern back in 1856.

"If we made all the Victoria that is ordered, we would be nothing but a Victoria factory," remarked foreman Janos Ivanyi, a veteran of 26 years with Herend. To keep the colorful and generously gilded Victoria pattern from dominating production, the company purposely limits it to 10 per cent of factory output.

Another popular and world-known pattern is a bird design called Rothschild for Baron Rothschild of Paris who first ordered the pattern in 1860.

The Herend factory, founded in 1839 by Mor Fisher, today earns important foreign credits for Hungary's state - planed economy. Seventy per cent of its output is exported, mostly to western countries which have long appreciated the skill and craftsmanship of Herend workers.

The factory management is close - lipped about the value of its output. Foreman Ivanyi estimates about 150,000 separate pieces are produced each year but declines to guess what the money value would be.

Herend products range from tiny figures, that cost as little as about one dollar, to large figures costing over 100 dollars. A complete service for six in the Victoria pattern costs 6,500 forints (280 dollars) in Hungary. Simpler patterns are less expensive.

Nowadays a visitor to Herend is struck by the large number of young people seen at the turning wheels and benches where the 15,000 different shapes and patterns of Herend porcelain are produced.

Large numbers of mature and older workmen left after the Communists nationalized the firm, the last big exodus being at the time of the 1956 Hungarian rebellion. They took their skills and craft secrets to Austria and other western countries.

From ingredients found here and elsewhere in Hungary, a giant mixer turns out a fine white clay which is the basic material for Herend products. This is then cured for six months in cool storerooms, a process that kills any organic materials which mig otherwise produce flaws when the clay is later moulded, poured or turned into any one of the company's thousands of figurine and dinnerware shapes.

Girl Scout News

When Troop 8 registers, one may be sure that Troop 33 is not far behind. For several years they have been the first to re-register every year. Beginning their fourth year of Scouting, the following sixth graders are looking forward to another year of fun and worthwhile activity under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan: Pamela Clay, Jean Colvin, Judy Grigsby, Maureen Halpin, Janet Hood, Teresa Langley, Carol Madden, Linda Montrozos, Barbara Smith, Carol Ullman, Kitty Vaughan. If a few names are missing, it is because the girls for some reason did not attend the first meetings and will bring their membership fee in later. Mrs. Halpin was a unit leader at Pine Wood for a session. Maureen, Kitty Vaughan, and Carol Ullman earned insect and outdoor safety badges as part of their unit program at camp. Janet Hood chose the pottery class and cooking lessons for a summer activity and Barbara Smith earned her swimmer badge.

While we gave Troop 8 credit for being first to reregister, it had some later ones, too. They are good Scouts and we'll name them, too: Brenda Hale, Sandra Fowler, Carol Johnson, Leslie Leath, Joyce Maddox, Sheila McGough, Kathy Davis, Anita Christman.

Girls all have to start in Scouting sometime and lucky is the girl who has leadership and good program and a chance to start in the second grade. The first brand new troop and second grade one to register this fall is Troop 10, at Highland School, with Mrs. John T. Bush and Mrs. Walter C. Bell as leaders. These ladies have been attending training sessions at the Girl Scout office.

The proud new Brownies who will receive their pins in an investiture service soon are: Debbie Anderson, Pam Auttonberry, Charlotte Bell, Nancy Blazier, Della Brooks, Laurie Bush, Mary Lou Compton, Sally Kay Cormier, Belinda Freeland, Sherry Harris, Rhonda Ann Hibbard, Felicia Newman, Terri Richardson, Beverly Roberts, Kathryn Smith, Annette Spaulding, Patsy Steinert, Robin Streeter. Congratulations to all of them!

A reminder of training events for the adults — first year (fifth grade) intermediate leaders Tuesday at 9:30 at the office — Wednesday Mrs. E. S. Parrish will demonstrate making Christmas ornaments and Friday there will be another session for new leaders. Council president, Mrs. Guy Alford, has invited Girl Scout adults in Columbia and Caldwell Parish to a neighborhood meeting in her home Thursday at 10:00 o'clock.

Painting On Velvet Is A New Vogue

By BOB BARNES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A former air stewardess is giving new life to a form of painting which has been merely dabbled in for centuries: oil painting on velvet.

Miss Carol Eytinge has perfected this rare technique without formal training, using trial and error until now her pictures are in considerable demand.

Why paint on black velvet instead of canvas, which is what most artists working in oils use?

"I feel my technique used on velvet gives pictures a living quality," Miss Eytinge says. "It's posible to work in detail that makes the paintings more realistic."

One has only to look at the paintings in her Japanese apartment atop a hill overlooking Hollywood to see what she means. They're loaded with detail. And realism.

"One if the things that strikes people is the way you can walk right up close to a velvet painting," Miss Eytinge says. "The detail gets finer as your approach."

A viewer best appreciates many canvas paintings when he's not too close.

She does all her work with small brushes. The paint dries rapidly and cannot be removed, making great care necessary. Says she:

"I like to work from good photographs. They give me the basic idea, and I take off from there."

Subjects of her character studies include Frank Lloyd Wright, Bertrand Russell, Winston Churchill, Albert Schweitzer and Albert Einstein.

She has done a few symbolistic paintings. One shows only a pair of blazing eyes, a shock of hair and two gracefully upright hands. Otherwise — blackness. It portrays a Hawaiian dancer.

A former Baldwin, Long Island, N. Y., girl, Miss Eytinge became interested when she wandered into a Honolulu gallery during a flight from Los Angeles to Japan. There she saw velvet paintings by the late Edgar Leeteg, an American who lived in Tahiti and exhibited in Hawaii.

"He did a lot to bring the art into prominence," she says. "Some of his paintings bring as much as $20,000."

Although she knew nothing about painting, she set out to teach herself between flights and later in off-hours while doing secretarial work.

Her technique is to let the black background show through for shading. Lines on people's faces, for example, result from leaving the velvet bare of paint.

"In a sense, you're working backward," she explains. "Seventy - five per cent of those who see my work have never seen velvet painting before. They keep asking me how I do it. All I can say is that to me velvet is a challenge."

Well, and have you ever seen more gorgeous, warmer, or sunnier days than we've had in the second week in October? 'Tis enough to make Indian Summer one's favorite season.

And 'tis a season for high adventure. We know a group of young men who had just that last week. NELSON ABELL, JR., and ROY JOHNS took their sons, NELS and HUGHES ABELL and HANK JOHNS, "down the Mississippi down to New Orleans" on the Abells' boat. The boys were driven to Jonesville by Bennie and Clarice, who then went on to the city to await them. Conditions were perfect for this kind of trip, with the rivers not swollen, and the temperature warm without being unbearably hot. They encountered some high winds and went through two rainstorms, but they would have been disappointed if things had been otherwise.

Saturday night was spent on an island in the Mississippi, shared with some hospitable mosquitoes. Supper consisted of hot dogs cooked over the campfire, and beds were made on the ground, of course. They arrived in New Orleans Sunday afternoon.

Monday morning the boys went sightseeing, visiting Jackson Square and counting cannons from the Battle of New Orleans. Monday afternoon the whole group came home by car, all exhausted but exhilarated by an unforgettable week end.

Autumn is apparent in the flowers and decorations used for the parties this week. The centerpiece at MABEL RATLIFF's luncheon table yesterday at the Paragon was particularly seasonal. Yellow Fuji mums were used with grapes and greenery in a wooden container which was flanked by a pair of china pheasants. On the menu was a fresh fruit cup, followed by crab meat au gratin with asparagus. Dessert was cold chocolate souffle and coffee. Twelve guests attended.

The BOB CARSONS took advantage of the Indian Summer weather for some golf. They spent last week at Gulf Hills Dude Ranch in Ocean Springs, Mississippi.

The first fall luncheon meeting of the Junior Charity League, held last Saturday at the Paragon, brought out a group of intriguing new hats. League President JOAN SAGER wore an all-feather hat with a beige crown and a brim of pheasant feathers . . . With a gold dress and shoes, JEAN DICKENHORST wore a wide - brimmed emerald green velvet banded in gold . . . HELEN LEDBETTER's turban shaded from deep blue velour around her face to a grey - blue satin crown . . . Most becoming was CONNIE JONES' red velvet derby . . . JEAN HAMILTON chose a rust - colored feather cloche . . . MARJORIE PHILLIPS wore a cocoa brown turban with a cocoa and black print dress .. . CHARLOTTIE DENT's hair was completely covered by her black velour banded with felt . . . With a biege suit, GLORIA ROBERTSON wore a wide black hat feather stitched in rose beige.

Guest this week of the SONNY DIXONS in Sterlington has been Jean's mother, MRS. O. H. JUNOT of New Iberia. The visitor was honored on Thursday at a small coffee party at the home of PEGGY CLAY. Friends gathered in the den, which was decorated with a large standing arrangement of pine branches, magnolia leaves, and pyrocantha berries which was placed on the hearth. The buffet table was centered with bronze chrysanthemums, cattails, and pyrocantha in a brass chafing dish. Orange nut bread, sausage pastries, and toasted pecan rolls were among the goodies offered to some thirty guests.

The ARTHUR GRANTS moved this week into their new home at 2007 Valencia. The Grants' home at 1409 N. Second has been purchased by the TOMMY GODFREYS, who will be moving back to Monroe from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, the latter part of this month.

On Friday JEAN HUENEFELD invited a few friends in for lunch and bridge. Guests arrived at ten and were treated to coffee and a sweet before beginning play. At noon, Jean served a salad plate featuring crab in aspic and a pineapple salad. Hot cheese rolls were passed. Dessert was peppermint ice cream and cookies. Three tables played bridge until mid - afternoon, with CISSY RYAN winning high, and JEANNIE DOWNING, low.

Friday night the HARRELL WEBSTERS, the DARRELL BRISBINS, and the BOB CLAYS were hosts at a neighborhood party held at the Clay home. Tables were set up on the patio, which was lit by luau lights. Pumpkins filled with pyrocantha branches were used on the tables and on the buffet, where an oyster-and-shrimp supper was served. The group danced to the record player on the patio after dinner. There were twenty guests.

The new home of the BENNY GWINS, which we described for you some weeks ago, was warmed with a surprise party Thursday night. A group of intimates arrived, bearing their own barbecued chicken supper and all the trimmings. Gift to the house was a brass chafing dish. Twenty - four attended.

MARY ANN ATKINSON marked her tenth birthday with a "play - lady" party, inviting her girl friends to arrive dressed up. Twenty - six took part in the style show which opened the party. MARILYNN MAXWELL took the "best - dressed" prize. The girls played Bingo and guessing games. The birthday cake was decorated with candles shaped like little ladies, and the guests ate lady - like petit - fours with their ice cream.

Of the good in you I can speak, but not of the evil.
For what is evil but good tortured by its own hunger and thirst?
You are good when you are one with yourself.
Yet when you are not one with yourself you are not evil.
For a divided house is not a den of thieves; it is only a divided house.
You are good when you strive to give of yourself.
Yet you are not evil when you seek gain for yourself.
Surely the fruit cannot say to the root, "Be like me, ripe and full and ever giving of your abundance."
For to the fruit, giving is a need, as receiving is a need to the root.
You are good when you walk to your goal firmly and with bold steps.
Yet you are not evil when you go thither limping.
Even those who limp go not backward.
But you who are strong and swift, see that you do not limp before the lame, deeming it kindness.
You are good in countless ways, and you are not evil when you are not good.
You are only loitering and sluggard.
Pity that the stags cannot teach swiftness to the turtles.
In your longing for your giant self lies your goodness; and that longing is in all of you.
But in some of you that longing is a torrent rushing with might to the sea;
And in others it is a flat stream that lingers before it reaches the shore.
But let not him who longs much say to him who longs little, "Wherefore are you slow and halting?"
For the truly good ask not the naked "Where is your garment?" or the houseless, "What has befallen your house?"

Girl Scout News

When Troop 8 registers, one may be sure that Troop 33 is not far behind. For several years they have been the first to reregister every year. Beginning their fourth year of Scouting, the following sixth graders are looking forward to another year of fun and worthwhile activity under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan: Pamela Clay, Jean Colvin, Judy Grigsby, Maureen Halpin, Janet Hood, Teresa Langley, Carol Madden, Linda Montrozos, Barbara Smith, Carol Ullman, Kitty Vaughan. If a few names are missing, it is because the girls for some reason did not attend the first meetings and will bring their membership fee in later. Mrs. Halpin was a unit leader at Pine Wood for a session. Maureen, Kitty Vaughan, and Carol Ullman earned insect and outdoor safety badges as part of their unit program at camp. Janet Hood chose the pottery class and cooking lessons for a summer activity and Barbara Smith earned her swimmer badge.

While we gave Troop 8 credit for being first to reregister, it had some later ones, too. They are good Scouts and we'll name them, too: Brenda Hale, Sandra Fowler, Carol Johnson, Leslie Leath, Joyce Maddox, Sheila McGough, Kathy Davis, Anita Christman.

Girls all have to start in Scouting sometime and lucky is the girl who has leadership and good program and a chance to start in the second grade. The first brand new troop and second grade one to register this fall is Troop 10, at Highland School, with Mrs. John T. Bush and Mrs. Walter C. Bell as leaders. These ladies have been attending training sessions at the Girl Scout office.

The proud new Brownies who will receive their pins in an investiture service soon are: Debbie Anderson, Pam Auttonberry, Charlotte Bell, Nancy Blazier, Della Brooks, Laurie Bush, Mary Lou Compton, Sally Kay Cormier, Belinda Freeland, Sherry Harris, Rhonda Ann Hibbard, Felicia Newman, Terri Richardson, Beverly Roberts, Kathryn Smith, Annette Spaulding, Patsy Steinert, Robin Streeter. Congratulations to all of them!

A reminder of training events for the adults — first year (fifth grade) intermediate leaders Tuesday at 9:30 at the office — Wednesday Mrs. E. S. Parrish will demonstrate making Christmas ornaments and Friday there will be another session for new leaders. Council president, Mrs. Guy Alford, has invited Girl Scout adults in Columbia and Caldwell Parish to a neighborhood meeting in her home Thursday at 10:00 o'clock.

Painting On Velvet Is A New Vogue

By BOB BARNES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A former air stewardess is giving new life to a form of painting which has been merely dabbled in for centuries: oil painting on velvet.

Miss Carol Eytinge has perfected this rare technique without formal training, using trial and error until now her pictures are in considerable demand.

Why paint on black velvet instead of canvas, which is what most artists working in oils use?

"I feel my technique used on velvet gives pictures a living quality," Miss Eytinge says. "It's posible to work in detail that makes the paintings more realistic."

One has only to look at the paintings in her Japanese apartment atop a hill overlooking Hollywood to see what she means. They're loaded with detail. And realism.

"One if the things that strikes people is the way you can walk right up close to a velvet painting," Miss Eytinge says. "The detail gets finer as your approach."

A viewer best appreciates many canvas paintings when he's not too close.

She does all her work with small brushes. The paint dries rapidly and cannot be removed, making great care necessary. Says she:

"I like to work from good photographs. They give me the basic idea, and I take off from there."

Subjects of her character studies include Frank Lloyd Wright, Bertrand Russell, Winston Churchill, Albert Schweitzer and Albert Einstein.

She has done a few symbolistic paintings. One shows only a pair of blazing eyes, a shock of hair and two gracefully upright hands. Otherwise — blackness. It portrays a Hawaiian dancer.

A former Baldwin, Long Island, N. Y., girl, Miss Eytinge became interested when she wandered into a Honolulu gallery during a flight from Los Angeles to Japan. There she saw velvet paintings by the late Edgar Leeteg, an American who lived in Tahiti and exhibited in Hawaii.

"He did a lot to bring the art into prominence," she says. "Some of his paintings bring as much as $20,000."

Although she knew nothing about painting, she set out to teach herself between flights and later in off-hours while doing secretarial work.

Her technique is to let the black background show through for shading. Lines on people's faces, for example, result from leaving the velvet bare of paint.

"In a sense, you're working backward," she explains. "Seventy - five per cent of those who see my work have never seen velvet painting before. They keep asking me how I do it. All I can say is that to me velvet is a challenge."

Loftin Home Setting For Review Club

The Review Club celebrated its 30th birthday and first meeting of the fall on Oct. 5 in the home of Mrs. J. C. Loftin.

Mrs. D. W. Griffith, president, called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Fred Huenefeld gave a review of Mary Renault's book, "The King Must Die." Mrs. DeWitt led the discussion.

Corsages were presented the charter members, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. H. W. Colbert and Mrs. E. P. Cudd.

A birthday cake in the shape of an open book was served to the following members: Mrs. Braun, Mrs. H. W. Chapman, Mrs. Cudd, Mrs. W. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Huenefeld, Mrs. Marcus Mapp, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone, Mrs. L. N. Wadell, Mrs. C. K. Smith and Mrs. Loftin.

Noble Names In Hungarian Fine Porcelain

HEREND, Hungary (AP) — The aristocratic Hungarian names of Apponyi, Esterhazy, Batthanyi and many others remain significantly alive in this village in anti - aristocratic Communist Hungary.

They are the names of patterns hand - painted on fine porcelain dinnerware at the 120-year-old Herend Porcelain factory. Named for the noblemen who first ordered them, they are among 800 different chinaware patterns which the now state - owned Herend firm is prepared to produce.

But not only Hungarians contributed to the inventory names, which sound more like the Almanac of Gotha than the products of a Communist - run plant whose central courtyard is graced by a large white bust of Lenin.

VICTORIA PATTERN

The most popular pattern of all is called "Victoria" in honor of England's Queen Victoria, who ordered a 120-piece service in this Chinese floral and butterfly pattern back in 1856.

"If we made all the Victoria that is ordered, we would be nothing but a Victoria factory," remarked foreman Janos Ivanyi, a veteran of 26 years with Herend. To keep the colorful and generously gilded Victoria pattern from dominating production, the company purposely limits it to 10 per cent of factory output.

Another popular and world-known pattern is a bird design called Rothschild for Baron Rothschild of Paris who first ordered the pattern in 1860.

The Herend factory, founded in 1839 by Mor Fisher, today earns important foreign credits for Hungary's state - planed economy. Seventy per cent of its output is exported, mostly to western countries which have long appreciated the skill and craftsmanship of Herend workers.

The factory management is close - lipped about the value of its output. Foreman Ivanyi estimates about 150.000 separate pieces are produced each year but declines to guess what the money value would be.

Herend products range from tiny figures, that cost as little as about one dollar, to large figures costing over 100 dollars. A complete service for six in the Victoria pattern costs 6,500 forints (280 dollars) in Hungary. Simpler patterns are less expensive.

A factory museum preserves an important collection of old and new Herend products.

Nowadays a visitor to Herend is struck by the large number of young people seen at the turning wheels and benches where the 15,000 different shapes and patterns of Herend porcelain are produced.

Large numbers of mature and older workmen left after the Communists nationalized the firm, the last big exodus being at the time of the 1956 Hungarian rebellion. They took their skills and craft secrets to Austria and other western countries.

From ingredients found here and elsewhere in Hungary, a giant mixer turns out a fine white clay which is the basic material for Herend products. This is then cured for six months in cool storerooms, a process that kills any organic materials which mig otherwise produce flaws when the clay is later moulded, poured or turned into any one of the company's thousands of figurine and dinnerware shapes.

THE HOME SHIFT

Leave Trees Enough Room

By MILDRED SWIFT

When you plant trees in your garden, it's difficult to visualize their ultimate size. There's that little three foot twig you just planted. Can you believe that in twenty - five years that little twig will be a tree with a hundred foot spread? And — twenty-five years will pass in a hurry.

Before planting, take note of telephone and light wires. If around these wires, then there will have to be some unsightly trimming. You've seen a tree with a great gap cut out, not pretty, is it?

So — either plant a smaller tree or if your lot is large enough, plant far enough from the lines so there will be no interference. This goes back to the statement I've made so many times — there is no room for an oak or pecan on a 75 foot lot.

Our streets were laid out many years ago. Most of them are too narrow, now. Already many are in the process of being widened. This is just the beginning. Lots of our beautiful trees will have to be cut. So — when you plant trees, in the future, look ahead. Plant them away from the neutral gound, far enough so they'll never have to be destroyed when the street is widened. Few of us will leave fame or fortune to our community, but we can leave a tree. But — progress must go on, and trees that are in the way must be cut.

GARDEN JOBS

Plant calendula seed now if you'd like to have the blossoms for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Of course if there's a heavy freeze you'll lose them but you've only lost the price of the package of seed. Chances are — you'll have flowers during the holidays.

Sweet peas can be planted from now until Thanksgiving.

When planting both ranunculus and anemone bulbs, place the claws down. If you can't remember whether they go up or down, plant them on their side. They'll bloom. Claws down is best and is the proper method. It is fatal to get them upside down.

You can divide daylilies, callas, La. Iris and watsonias now.

Don't prune roses now. Associate that job with Washington's birthday. Dead wood, of course, should be pruned at all times.

Snap dragons are rather uncertain to raise from seed. It can be done but you're safer to buy the plants when they come to the markets.

When planting bulbs, don't forget to get Dutch iris. They bloom early in the spring and arrange beautifully. Their colors are white, blue and yellow.

You'll find scilla bulbs in the stores in colors of white, blue and pink. The blue is the hardiest and comes back every year. So does the white. Scilla likes an acid soil, as so few bulbs do. They'll stand a pretty heavy mulch. Scilla makes a beautiful ground cover. It is much prettier if the white bulbs are planted together, and the blue together. They don't look too pretty mixed. I find the pink doesn't last but about a year or two.

Scilla is so beautiful, cut. As the flowers die, those too are nice in arrangements.

DRYING

A number of arrangers have asked about drying okra. After talking to a number of people who have kept this vegetable for arrangements they say just pull up the plant and leave it for a short time, a week or so. The okra dries and is ready to use.

Gourds dry nicely if you'll put a few holes through each one with a skewer or hat pin. Mrs. Jardine says the gourd will mold and rot unless the holes are put through it to let out some of the moisture.

I've just glycerinized some small asperdistra leaves and short pittosporum branches. They are very lovely.

Thanks to the following women who gave material for dried flower arrangements or gave of their valuable time in helping to arrange them: Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Eva Haynes, Mrs. Serina Lewis, Mrs. W. M. Rasbury, Mrs. Neil Butler, Mrs. R. F. Wilson, Mrs. B. I. Talton, Mrs. W. E. Bennett, Mrs. H. A. Malone, Mrs. E. M. Baber, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. Monroe Trimble, Mrs. H. F. Shepard, Mrs. Susie Gorman, Mrs. Ted Allen, Mrs. Morris Harrison and Mrs. Homer Massingale.

These lovely arrangements of Louisiana plants are on their way to New Orleans for our National Home Demonstration Agents Association. I'm sure agents from all over the U. S. will admire your handwork because believe me, they were something to admire.

Just get this please! The Friskies Housing Authority reminds dog owners that proper housing for their pets can mean a healthier, happier dog.

"Are you and your dog ashamed of his dog house?", they ask. If Fido is uncomfortable — too hot in summer, too cold in winter, this may seriously affect his health and cause rheumatism, arthritis, colds and joint troubles."

GLOVES

If you're planning to buy some new gloves this fall, here is a reminder that close coordination of gloves with costumes is the current style trend. Mink tones from pale grays to deep browns are the favorites. There are also such colors as blues, reds and pastels for late day and evening.

Long chalk white pigskin gloves are very effective with black and white ensembles. And — chamois yellow is taking the spotlight away from traditional white suede. The new gloves vary from bracelet lengths and pert shorties to the up to the elbow type which are worn crushed down to where coat or jacket sleeve begins.

Leather is the favorite material for gloves, of course, but there are good fabric imitations and substitutes. Cotton is always good.

SEWING HINT

Wool jersey is a good choice of fabric for dress suit or light weight coat. The colors are so beautiful this year. White is high fashion.

Line the jersey dress with a light weight taffeta. Line everything except sleeves. Cut dress and lining by same pattern. Stitch lining and jersey together ½ inch from edge and treat each section as one piece.

The jersey must be cut on the grain. This can be determined by following one rib of the fabric down the fold. The greatest care must be taken to keep jersey flat in the cutting and pinning to avoid stretching the rabric. Adjust the machine to avoid popping the seams and use 12 to 14 stitches to the inch.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Bonnie Gaddis on grooming poultry; Tuesday Marietta Harrell will show you how to make objects with ceramic tile; Wednesday flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine, Thursday and Friday Marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Laos Officials Finish Report To Probe Group

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laotian officials said yesterday they have finished presenting to the U. N. four-nation fact - finding subcommittee evidence supporting charges of aggresison by Communist North Viet Nam.

U.N. officials also indicated they have seen all there is to see in the case. Laos now awaits the U.N. verdict based on the fact-finding mission's report to the security council.

The U.N. subcommittee said it will pass no judgment on the situation here and make no recommendations.

Top Twenty

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Darin's "Mack the Knife" was the nation's top record for the fourth straight week, United Press International's "Top 20" survey showed Saturday.

The fastest - climbing record, however, was Della Reece's "Don't You Know," which went to fifth after only two weeks on the survey. Another relative newcomer, Andy William's "Lonely Street," moved up from 18th to 8th in its fourth week among the top tunes.

In the two, three, and four spots the Fleetwoods' "Mr. Blue," Paul Anka's "Put Your Head on My Shoulder" and Sandy Nelson's "Teen Beat."

Two newcomers to the top 20 were the Kingston Trio's "Worried Man" and Johnny Nash's "But Not for Me."

The Top 20: (Figures in parentheses indicate this week's spot, last week's and number of weeks on survey.)

Now for the complete record breakdown:

(1-1-6) Mack the Knife — Bobby Darin (Atco).

(2-3-4) Mr. Blue — The Fleetwoods (Dolton).

(3-2-5) Put Your Head on My Shoulder—Paul Anka (ABC).

(4-5-6) Teen Beat — Sandy Nelson (Original).

(5-11-2) Don't You Know—Della Reece (Victor).

(6-7-5) Primrose Lane — Jerry Wallace (Challenge).

(8-18-4) Lonely Street — Andy Williams (Cadence).

(9-4-9) Sleepwalk — Santo and Johnny (Canadian-American).

(10-6-8) Red River Rock—Johnny and the Hurricanes (Warwick)

(11-8-9) Till I Kissed You—Everly Brothers (Cadence).

(12-10-10) Three Bells — The Browns (Victor).

(13-14-3) Deck of Cards — Wink Martindale (Dot).

(14-15-5) Just Ask Your Heart—Frankie Avalon (Chancellor).

(15-16-3) Misty—Johnny Mathis (Columbia).

(17-0-4) Poison Ivy — Coasters (United Artists).

(16-0-1) A Worried Man—Kingston Trio (Capitol).

(18-20-2) Love Potion Number Nine — The Clovers (United Artists).

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

For those who want to take pictures merely by pointing a camera and pressing a button, a new type of automatic still camera is now available. Here from West Germany, after remarkable public response since its debut in July, is the Agfa Optima. It's an automatic 35mm camera with an 4-3.9 lens.

An automatic still camera is one which comes closest to George Eastman's original slogan: You press the button; we do the rest. Snapshooters can disregard shutter speed and lens aperture calculations. The camera's electric eye brain does all the work and makes the proper selection when there is enough light.

The present American fully automatic still cameras are the Kodak Automatic 35, the Brownie Starmatic, the Bell & Howell Infallible and the Revere Eye-Matic. These work on the principle of using a single fixed shutter speed except for the Kodak 35. It offers a choice of two speeds: 1-40 or 1-80th of a second.

The feature of the new Agfa Optima is a continuous, complete range of shutter speeds from 1-30 to 1-250th of a second. The camera's electric eye brain automatically selects the highest speed possible in that range according to lighting conditions. The lens aperture will range from f-3.9 to f-22.

This, then, is a brand new type of shutter. There are no set speeds and aperture openings visible. The electric eye gauges the light and picks the top speed possible. Where the light is brightest, this would be 1-250th of a second at f-22. As the light diminishes from this peak, the speed of 1-250th remains constant but the lens aperture gets larger until it is f-3.9.

Now if the light falls off, the lens aperture remains the same, as f-3.9, but the electric eye causes the speed to get progressively less until it reaches the slowest speed possible, 1.30th of a second. Therefore it is conceivable that the new shutter will give exposure combinations like 1-250th at f-9.6 or 1-92nd of a second at f-3.9.

The actual picture - snapping operation of the Optima is different than all other automatic still cameras. You must press two buttons! To actuate the electric eye, a finger of the left hand must press a lever alongside the lens. This "magic button," as they call it, sets the electric eye working and gives a "go ahead" green ball signal in the viewfinder. Then the right forefinger presses the snapshot button on top of the camera and the picture is taken.

Until the "magic button" is pressed, the eye sees a "stop" red ball signal. If there isn't enough light in front of the camera, the stop signal remains in the viewfinder even though the "magic button" is pressed down.

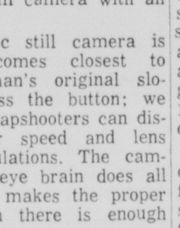
Some Annuals To Plant Now



By AUDREY DAWSON

Many annual flowers do better when planted in the fall instead of spring. Among leaders for these are larkspur, bachelor button, calendula, phlox, poppy, sweet pea, pansy, verbena, and stock. Seed may be planted in beds and transplanted in spring of the year.

If you plan to sow your lawn with rye grass or winter grass, you should fertilize now with a complete fertilizer. Use about 15 pounds per 1000 square feet of lawn.

If your crepe myrtle has a grayish appearance from mildew, dust with sulphur.

MORE GARDENING

I have been most interested in a new bulb this fall — calchicum. It is called the wonder bulb. In trying to learn more about the bulb, Mrs. H. V. Faust of Columbia Road gave me some excellent information which I know you will be interested in. Now as to why they are called "wonder bulbs". They will flower whether you plant them outdoors, indoors, place them in a dish with pebbles and water, or lay them on a shelf and forget them. Because of these characteristics they have come to be considered floral curiosities.

There are a great number of species and hybrids. They range in color mauve lilac, violet to lavender, violet to mulberry. There's only one yellow variety. The one I have blooming, when petals first opened, they are snow white. In a few days, they turned to gorgeous lavender.

These bulbs bloom from September to November, which lends beauty and color to the garden at a time when it is certain to be appreciated. These plants should always be planted so as to have some sort of green background or underplanting, for their naked white stems rise 8 to 11 inches in height. This is a new bulb for me, but Mrs. Faust has grown them for two or three years.

COTTON CLOTHES

Have you, Mrs. Homemaker, ever seen such lovely winter cottons as this fall? Cotton has surely come to the front. We once knew it as the "Cinderella of the kitchen," but it is now "Queen of the wardrobe" and a favorite with every member of the family. Cotton is ideally suited to our American way of living because it is practical and long - wearing as well as beautiful and versatile. Cotton is raised in this country and surely right here in our own parish, and it represents America's greatest agricultural industry and is often called the "White Gold of America." If you have not seen the lovely cottons, may I suggest you look at the gorgeous velveteens, corduroy, wide-wale plush, and cotton velvet when you make the next trip downtown.

Be sure to read the garments tag before bleaching. Starch is never used, and a warm iron is all that is needed to press these cottons.

HONEY MONTH

October is honey month, and the slogan selected for the month is, "Put a little honey in your life." Honey is one of our most easily digested foods that provides quick energy. It contains calcium, iron, copper, sodium phosphorus, Vitamin B and C. Honey gives us protection against bacteria which causes diseases in human beings — they cannot grow in it. Now for all of these important nutrients, can't you put a little honey in your diet?

OUR PARISH FAIR

Yes, our parish fair begins tomorrow. Remember to bring your exhibits before 7:00 o'clock Monday. That's the deadline, and those of you who do not have something to enter, come visit us during the week. You will find all of the homemaking exhibits in the main building. Be sure to look at all the homemaking educational booths. The 24 Home Demonstration clubs of the parish have worked hard on them, and each one has a good thought which will be of help to you, Mrs. Homemaker. Hope to see you at the fair.

If you get hungry while on the fair grounds, come by our Home Demonstration Concession. The money received from this project is used for a scholarship for a 4-H girl studying Home Economics, to help promote 4-H club work and for furthering the home demonstration program in Ouachita parish.

STAMPS

The Eleventh Inter - American Conference of American States will open in Quito, Ecuador, on Feb. 1, 1960. To honor the occasion the United States Post Office Department will issue a 10-cent commemorative airmail stamp.

Says Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield: "The United States has been a staunch supporter of the hemisphere's regional organization from its inception, believing that the Organization of American States embodies the spirit and aspirations of the peoples of the Americas, and can serve the hemisphere as a genuine instrument of cooperation."

The first such conference was held 70 years ago in Washington, D. C. Details as to design and color of this new airmail commemorative will be given in this column soon.

The 4-cent "Famous American" postage stamp honoring Dr. Ephraim McDowell will be placed on first day sale at Danville, Ky., on Dec. 30. The stamp will mark the 150th anniversary of the first surgical operation of its kind in the world.

The stamp features a likeness of Dr. McDowell based on a photo of a print furnished by Dr. C. C. Howard, head of the Howard Clinic, Glasgow, Ky.

Collectors desiring first day covers may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Danville, Ky., prior to Dec. 30.

The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers McDowell Stamp."

The inauguration of Beethoven Hall in Bonn, West Germany, was celebrated with a souvenir sheet containing five perforated stamps and showing these famous composers: George Friederich Handel, Ludwig Spohr, Joseph Haydn, Felix Mendelsohn - Bartholdy and Beethoven.

The United States Post Office Department reports that the site of the first day sale of the new Pony Express stamp scheduled for July 19, 1960, will be Sacramento, Calif. The Pony Express operated between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento from 1860 to 1861.

Greece has issued a 2.50- drachmas stamp in red, white and blue to commemorate the 10th anniversity of the end of the Communist uprising in that country. The stamp illustrates the Greek soldier through the ages (ancient, Byzantine, War of Independence and modern) and a figure of "Victory."

Tulips Last On Bulb List For Planting

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — In the gardener's fall planting schedule, tulips are the last small plants to go into the ground. Nurserymen frequently set balled and burlapped trees into the soil even when snow is on the ground. And it would be possible, too, for the tulips if it were not so uncomfortable for the gardner.

Anyway, there is no need to hurry up on these May-flowering bulbs if there are other, more temperamental plantings on the schedule. If the tulips are planted very late, or if they are planted extra deep, however, they may bloom later in the spring season.

Meanwhile, there are all the other bulbs to plant, and plantings to thin out. One of the reasons it is most wise to have a plan of bulb plantings on paper — and kept in a safe place — is because old bulbs are completely invisible at this time of the year. In digging for them it is easy to accidentally cut up a lot of good bulbs.

The old rule of thumb in bulb planting is to have the top of the bulb set in the soil about 2½ times its height. However, I've had good results with tulips set eight and 10 inches deep. And some of my Star of Bethlehem and some of the snowdrops bloom magnificently after they have been heaved on top of the ground and only their roots tie them to the soil. Many bulbs, in case you hadn't noticed, are hardy and undemanding.

Perhaps it is these qualities which have made a few types of bulbs so popular. There's scarcely a suburban garden in these parts without its quota of the crocus, daffodil and tulip. But there are so many, many others, almost all showing up in the late winter and very early spring, which are a joy to behold and it is a shame they are not more widely planted.

The snowdrops, for instance, which sometimes start blooming as early as January even in the New York area, and snowflakes, iris reticulata, and blue squill are delightful. There are many varieties and types of crocus. There are many, many types and sizes and colors in the narcissus family — daffodils are only one branch of a big family. And, of course, breeders have been doing remarkable things with tulips.

There's a whole gardening world of excitement to be discovered by specializing in the spring bulb area and there isn't a garden in the country which can't use some of them. There are the miniatures for the rock gardeners; there are the mass displays for the formal gardens. There are the bulbs which can be naturalized — planted and forgotten — in fields and wild areas.

With the weather still good, it is best to get the earliest - blooming of these bulbs into the ground. If you think it will be a few weeks until you reach the tulips, mark out the spot now where you propose to plant them. Then, if you think there may be freezing weather, keep the ground from freezing by covering it with a mulch of leaves. Meanwhile keep bulbs awaiting planting in a cool, airy spot and in containers which receive some fresh air.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Blue Ribbon Show Staged

By MARY JARDINE

Ruston Garden Club members staged an all blue ribbon flower show at the Garden Center this week. Blue ribbons in the horticulture class were awarded as follows: Mrs. H. E. Townsend for purple dahlia, Mrs. R. L. Seegers for High Hat Camellia, Mrs. Jack Mashaw for Rosa Montana, and Mrs. J. B. Milam for Marigolds and Poinsettia Rose.

In the design division Mrs. Dan O'Neal was awarded top score. Using a subtle color scheme of greens and gray-greens Mrs. O'Neal created a pyramid triangle design. The container was a heavy black footed bowl color washed with gray-green. The pattern was established with three placements of agave (called Century Plant). Secondary placements were of the blue-green foliage of Pfitzer Juniper. For a center of interest Mrs. O'Neal selected large rosettes of echeveria in soft gray green. A most creative arrangement and interesting handling easily available material.

Mrs. Herbert Neely created a lovely arrangement of fall garden material. A round brass bowl was selected for this design. Brilliant orange pyracantha berries delineated the triangular pattern. The line was emphasized with seed pods of magnolia (a red orange at this time of year) and magnolia foliage skillfully placed. Low in the design, for a focus of interest, pomegranates and a cluster of deep purple grapes were placed within the lines of the design. On the reverse side lemon and apples completed the design.

Driftwood was featured in the composition by Mrs. R. L. Seegers. A gnarled branch of driftwood tinted to a grayed pink was placed in a deep amethyst bowl and set on a black base. Small leaf green ivy followed the lines of the driftwood. Salmon pink celosia was worked into the design with a large cluster at the base. The subtle color was most engaging and the combination of materials excellent.

HOUSE PLANTS

How many of you are familiar with Jacobinia carena, the lovely little plant of the acanthus family. These make attractive house plants for winter flowering and in addition can be grown outdoors in this climate. They are not difficult to grow, liking a good loamy soil and partial shade. Under the best conditions variety carnea will grow to five feet outdoors, but indoors a good plant can be flowered in five to six inch pots. It has dense terminal heads of rosy-pink flowers. The flowers are delightfully curled. Sometimes this plant is also called King's Crown and Justicia. Available from your favorite nursery.

Refer to last Sunday's column for a list of flower shows coming.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Pointers For Better Hedges

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of the real problems of landscaping is to find the proper plants for narrow, upright screens. When the screen can be only a few inches in thickness, about the only thing to do is to put up a good wire mesh fence and weave ivy into it. During the several years it takes for the ivy to grow to the top of the fence, you can grow annual vines on it. When the ivy gets to be mature, it will put out its fruiting limbs, but these can be pruned away.

In places where a screen has to be held to about two feet of thickness, some of the upright types of Japanese holly are beautiful. These narrow upright types are very hard to find, but some southern nurseries now have them.

If there is room for as much as four feet of thickness in your screen, then the variety of glossy privet called "nobilis" can be used. It has grassy green foliage and a very upright growth. There is another glossy privet, the one called "microphylla" which withstands shearing and pruning to a remarkable degree. This plant is very dense. It has small, narrow foliage which is very thick and dark green when the plants have been well fed. For a tall screen up to fifteen feet high, you can plant one of the sasanqua camellias, Texas Star. This variety has very upright growing branches. Everything about it grows upward instead of outward. Shearing will remove the flower buds of sasanquas if you do it after late June, but you can screen bloom and then clip it back a little in late fall.

Very elegant screens can be made, if you wish to spend the time and money to find and purchase the plants of the upright tree box, and the upright variety of Harrington plum-yew. Only boxwood specialists can find the narrow, tall tree box with its handsome large foliage. The upright plum-yew is shaped like a tall vase. It is not a true yew but does better than the yews. In catalogues, it is listed under Cephalo - taxus Harringtonia fastigiata.

HOLLY HEDGES

Holly hedges can be kept down to about four feet of thickness for a number of years. Visitors to Williamsburg, Virginia have seen how handsome a holly hedge can be. There is not a great deal of shearing to do to a holly screen after the first four or five years when it has begun to mature.

A screen of any kind must have attention. The soil it grows in should be of even fertility to make it grow evenly. Where hedges or screens must pass near trees or shrubs that will steal food from them, the sections in competition with other plants have to be fed extra heavily.

A well balanced fertilizer needs to be used — not one heavily overbalanced with nitrogen — to keep the growth as even as possible. For the first few seasons, it will be necessary to shape and prune considerably, but helter - skelter growth will soon settle down.

Leave Trees Enough Room

By MILDRED SWIFT

When you plant trees in your garden, it's difficult to visualize their ultimate size. There's that little three foot twig you just planted. Can you believe that in twenty - five years that little twig will be a tree with a hundred foot spread? And — twenty-five years will pass in a hurry.

Before planting, take note of telephone and light wires. If around these wires, then there will have to be some unsightly trimming. You've seen a tree with a great gap cut out, not pretty, is it?

So — either plant a smaller tree or if your lot is large enough, plant far enough from the lines so there will be no interference. This goes back to the statement I've made so many times — there is no room for an oak or pecan on a 75 foot lot.

Our streets were laid out many years ago. Most of them are too narrow, now. Already many are in the process of being widened. This is just the beginning. Lots of our beautiful trees will have to be cut. So — when you plant trees, in the future, look ahead. Plant them away from the neutral gound, far enough so they'll never have to be destroyed when the street is widened. Few of us will leave fame or fortune to our community, but we can leave a tree. But — progress must go on, and trees that are in the way must be cut.

GARDEN JOBS

Plant calendula seed now if you'd like to have the blossoms for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Of course if there's a heavy freeze you'll lose them but you've only lost the price of the package of seed. Chances are — you'll have flowers during the holidays.

Sweet peas can be planted from now until Thanksgiving.

When planting both ranunculus and anemone bulbs, place the claws down. If you can't remember whether they go up or down, plant them on their side. They'll bloom. Claws down is best and is the proper method. It is fatal to get them upside down.

You can divide daylilies, callas, La. Iris and watsonias now.

Don't prune roses now. Associate that job with Washington's birthday. Dead wood, of course, should be pruned at all times.

Snap dragons are rather uncertain to raise from seed. It can be done but you're safer to buy the plants when they come to the markets.

When planting bulbs, don't forget to get Dutch iris. They bloom early in the spring and arrange beautifully. Their colors are white, blue and yellow.

You'll find scilla bulbs in the stores in colors of white, blue and pink. The blue is the hardiest and comes back every year. So does the white. Scilla likes an acid soil, as so few bulbs do. They'll stand a pretty heavy mulch. Scilla makes a beautiful ground cover. It is much prettier if the white bulbs are planted together, and the blue together. They don't look too pretty mixed. I find the pink doesn't last but about a year or two.

Scilla is so beautiful, cut. As the flowers die, those too are nice in arrangements.

DRYING

A number of arrangers have asked about drying okra. After talking to a number of people who have kept this vegetable for arrangements they say just pull up the plant and leave it for a short time, a week or so. The okra dries and is ready to use.

Gourds dry nicely if you'll put a few holes through each one with a skewer or hat pin. Mrs. Jardine says the gourd will mold and rot unless the holes are put through it to let out some of the moisture.

I've just glycerinized some small asperdistra leaves and short pittosporum branches. They are very lovely.

Thanks to the following women who gave material for dried flower arrangements or gave of their valuable time in helping to arrange them: Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Eva Haynes, Mrs. Serina Lewis, Mrs. W. M. Rasbury, Mrs. Neil Butler, Mrs. R. F. Wilson, Mrs. B. I. Talton, Mrs. W. E. Bennett, Mrs. H. A. Malone, Mrs. E. M. Baber, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. Monroe Trimble, Mrs. H. F. Shepard, Mrs. Susie Gorman, Mrs. Ted Allen, Mrs. Morris Harrison and Mrs. Homer Massingale.

These lovely arrangements of Louisiana plants are on their way to New Orleans for our National Home Demonstration Agents Association. I'm sure agents from all over the U. S. will admire your handwork because believe me, they were something to admire.

Just get this please! The Friskies Housing Authority reminds dog owners that proper housing for their pets can mean a healthier, happier dog.

"Are you and your dog ashamed of his dog house?", they ask. If Fido is uncomfortable — too hot in summer, too cold in winter, this may seriously affect his health and cause rheumatism, arthritis, colds and joint troubles."

GLOVES

If you're planning to buy some new gloves this fall, here is a reminder that close coordination of gloves with costumes is the current style trend. Mink tones from pale grays to deep browns are the favorites. There are also such colors as blues, reds and pastels for late day and evening.

Long chalk white pigskin gloves are very effective with black and white ensembles. And — chamois yellow is taking the spotlight away from traditional white suede. The new gloves vary from bracelet lengths and pert shorties to the up to the elbow type which are worn crushed down to where coat or jacket sleeve begins.

Leather is the favorite material for gloves, of course, but there are good fabric imitations and substitutes. Cotton is always good.

SEWING HINT

Wool jersey is a good choice of fabric for dress suit or light weight coat. The colors are so beautiful this year. White is high fashion.

Line the jersey dress with a light weight taffeta. Line everything except sleeves. Cut dress and lining by same pattern. Stitch lining and jersey together ½ inch from edge and treat each section as one piece.

The jersey must be cut on the grain. This can be determined by following one rib of the fabric down the fold. The greatest care must be taken to keep jersey flat in the cutting and pinning to avoid stretching the rabric. Adjust the machine to avoid popping the seams and use 12 to 14 stitches to the inch.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Bonnie Gaddis on grooming poultry; Tuesday Marietta Harrell will show you how to make objects with ceramic tile; Wednesday flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine, Thursday and Friday Marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Laos Officials Finish Report To Probe Group

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laotian officials said yesterday they have finished presenting to the U. N. four-nation fact - finding subcommittee evidence supporting charges of aggresison by Communist North Viet Nam.

U.N. officials also indicated they have seen all there is to see in the case. Laos now awaits the U.N. verdict based on the fact-finding mission's report to the security council.

The U.N. subcommittee said it will pass no judgment on the situation here and make no recommendations.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

For those who want to take pictures merely by pointing a camera and pressing a button, a new type of automatic still camera is now available. Here from West Germany, after remarkable public response since its debut in July, is the Agfa Optima. It's an automatic 35mm camera with an 4-3.9 lens.

An automatic still camera is one which comes closest to George Eastman's original slogan: You press the button; we do the rest. Snapshooters can disregard shutter speed and lens aperture calculations. The camera's electric eye brain does all the work and makes the proper selection when there is enough light.

The present American fully automatic still cameras are the Kodak Automatic 35, the Brownie Starmatic, the Bell & Howell Infallible and the Revere Eye-Matic. These work on the principle of using a single fixed shutter speed except for the Kodak 35. It offers a choice of two speeds: 1-40 or 1-80th of a second.

The feature of the new Agfa Optima is a continuous, complete range of shutter speeds from 1-30 to 1-250th of a second. The camera's electric eye brain automatically selects the highest speed possible in that range according to lighting conditions. The lens aperture will range from f-3.9 to f-22.

This, then, is a brand new type of shutter. There are no set speeds and aperture openings visible. The electric eye gauges the light and picks the top speed possible. Where the light is brightest, this would be 1-250th of a second at f-22. As the light diminishes from this peak, the speed of 1-250th remains constant but the lens aperture gets larger until it is f-3.9.

Now if the light falls off, the lens aperture remains the same, as f-3.9, but the electric eye causes the speed to get progressively less until it reaches the slowest speed possible, 1.30th of a second. Therefore it is conceivable that the new shutter will give exposure combinations like 1-250th at f-9.6 or 1-92nd of a second at f-3.9.

The actual picture - snapping operation of the Optima is different than all other automatic still cameras. You must press two buttons! To actuate the electric eye, a finger of the left hand must press a lever alongside the lens. This "magic button," as they call it, sets the electric eye working and gives a "go ahead" green ball signal in the viewfinder. Then the right forefinger presses the snapshot button on top of the camera and the picture is taken.

Until the "magic button" is pressed, the eye sees a "stop" red ball signal. If there isn't enough light in front of the camera, the stop signal remains in the viewfinder even though the "magic button" is pressed down.

STAMPS

The Eleventh Inter - American Conference of American States will open in Quito, Ecuador, on Feb. 1, 1960. To honor the occasion the United States Post Office Department will issue a 10-cent commemorative airmail stamp.

Says Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield: "The United States has been a staunch supporter of the hemisphere's regional organization from its inception, believing that the Organization of American States embodies the spirit and aspirations of the peoples of the Americas, and can serve the hemisphere as a genuine instrument of cooperation."

The first such conference was held 70 years ago in Washington, D. C. Details as to design and color of this new airmail commemorative will be given in this column soon.

The 4-cent "Famous American" postage stamp honoring Dr. Ephraim McDowell will be placed on first day sale at Danville, Ky., on Dec. 30. The stamp will mark the 150th anniversary of the first surgical operation of its kind in the world.

The stamp features a likeness of Dr. McDowell based on a photo of a print furnished by Dr. C. C. Howard, head of the Howard Clinic, Glasgow, Ky.

Collectors desiring first day covers may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Danville, Ky., prior to Dec. 30.

The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers McDowell Stamp."

The inauguration of Beethoven Hall in Bonn, West Germany, was celebrated with a souvenir sheet containing five perforated stamps and showing these famous composers: George Friederich Handel, Ludwig Spohr, Joseph Haydn, Felix Mendelsohn - Bartholdy and Beethoven.

The United States Post Office Department reports that the site of the first day sale of the new Pony Express stamp scheduled for July 19, 1960, will be Sacramento, Calif. The Pony Express operated between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento from 1860 to 1861.

Greece has issued a 2.50- drachmas stamp in red, white and blue to commemorate the 10th anniversity of the end of the Communist uprising in that country. The stamp illustrates the Greek soldier through the ages (ancient, Byzantine, War of Independence and modern) and a figure of "Victory."

Some Annuals To Plant Now

By AUDREY DAWSON

Many annual flowers do better when planted in the fall instead of spring. Among leaders for these are larkspur, bachelor button, calendula, phlox, poppy, sweet pea, pansy, verbena, and stock. Seed may be planted in beds and transplanted in spring of the year.

If you plan to sow your lawn with rye grass or winter grass, you should fertilize now with a complete fertilizer. Use about 15 pounds per 1000 square feet of lawn.

If your crepe myrtle has a grayish appearance from mildew, dust with sulphur.

MORE GARDENING

I have been most interested in a new bulb this fall — calchicum. It is called the wonder bulb. In trying to learn more about the bulb, Mrs. H. V. Faust of Columbia Road gave me some excellent information which I know you will be interested in. Now as to why they are called "wonder bulbs". They will flower whether you plant them outdoors, indoors, place them in a dish with pebbles and water, or lay them on a shelf and forget them. Because of these characteristics they have come to be considered floral curiosities.

There are a great number of species and hybrids. They range in color mauve lilac, violet to lavender, violet to mulberry. There's only one yellow variety. The one I have blooming, when petals first opened, they are snow white. In a few days, they turned to gorgeous lavender.

These bulbs bloom from September to November, which lends beauty and color to the garden at a time when it is certain to be appreciated. These plants should always be planted so as to have some sort of green background or underplanting, for their naked white stems rise 8 to 11 inches in height. This is a new bulb for me, but Mrs. Faust has grown them for two or three years.

COTTON CLOTHES

Have you, Mrs. Homemaker, ever seen such lovely winter cottons as this fall? Cotton has surely come to the front. We once knew it as the "Cinderella of the kitchen," but it is now "Queen of the wardrobe" and a favorite with every member of the family. Cotton is ideally suited to our American way of living because it is practical and long - wearing as well as beautiful and versatile. Cotton is raised in this country and surely right here in our own parish, and it represents America's greatest agricultural industry and is often called the "White Gold of America." If you have not seen the lovely cottons, may I suggest you look at the gorgeous velveteens, corduroy, wide-wale plush, and cotton velvet when you make the next trip downtown.

Be sure to read the garments tag before bleaching. Starch is never used, and a warm iron is all that is needed to press these cottons.

HONEY MONTH

October is honey month, and the slogan selected for the month is, "Put a little honey in your life." Honey is one of our most easily digested foods that provides quick energy. It contains calcium, iron, copper, sodium phosphorus, Vitamin B and C. Honey gives us protection against bacteria which causes diseases in human beings — they cannot grow in it. Now for all of these important nutrients, can't you put a little honey in your diet?

OUR PARISH FAIR

Yes, our parish fair begins tomorrow. Remember to bring your exhibits before 7:00 o'clock Monday. That's the deadline, and those of you who do not have something to enter, come visit us during the week. You will find all of the homemaking exhibits in the main building. Be sure to look at all the homemaking educational booths. The 24 Home Demonstration clubs of the parish have worked hard on them, and each one has a good thought which will be of help to you, Mrs. Homemaker. Hope to see you at the fair.

If you get hungry while on the fair grounds, come by our Home Demonstration Concession. The money received from this project is used for a scholarship for a 4-H girl studying Home Economics, to help promote 4-H club work and for furthering the home demonstration program in Ouachita parish.

A THOUGHT — Never wish for anything at the expense of others.

Tulips Last On Bulb List For Planting

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — In the gardener's fall planting schedule, tulips are the last small plants to go into the ground. Nurserymen frequently set balled and burlapped trees into the soil even when snow is on the ground. And it would be possible, too, for the tulips if it were not so uncomfortable for the gardner.

Anyway, there is no need to hurry up on these May-flowering bulbs if there are other, more temperamental plantings on the schedule. If the tulips are planted very late, or if they are planted extra deep, however, they may bloom later in the spring season.

Meanwhile, there are all the other bulbs to plant, and plantings to thin out. One of the reasons it is most wise to have a plan of bulb plantings on paper — and kept in a safe place — is because old bulbs are completely invisible at this time of the year. In digging for them it is easy to accidentally cut up a lot of good bulbs.

The old rule of thumb in bulb planting is to have the top of the bulb set in the soil about 2½ times its height. However, I've had good results with tulips set eight and 10 inches deep. And some of my Star of Bethlehem and some of the snowdrops bloom magnificently after they have been heaved on top of the ground and only their roots tie them to the soil. Many bulbs, in case you hadn't noticed, are hardy and undemanding.

Perhaps it is these qualities which have made a few types of bulbs so popular. There's scarcely a suburban garden in these parts without its quota of the crocus, daffodil and tulip. But there are so many, many others, almost all showing up in the late winter and very early spring, which are a joy to behold and it is a shame they are not more widely planted.

The snowdrops, for instance, which sometimes start blooming as early as January even in the New York area, and snowflakes, iris reticulata, and blue squill are delightful. There are many varieties and types of crocus. There are many, many types and sizes and colors in the narcissus family — daffodils are only one branch of a big family. And, of course, breeders have been doing remarkable things with tulips.

There's a whole gardening world of excitement to be discovered by specializing in the spring bulb area and there isn't a garden in the country which can't use some of them. There are the miniatures for the rock gardeners; there are the mass displays for the formal gardens. There are the bulbs which can be naturalized — planted and forgotten — in fields and wild areas.

With the weather still good, it is best to get the earliest - blooming of these bulbs into the ground. If you think it will be a few weeks until you reach the tulips, mark out the spot now where you propose to plant them. Then, if you think there may be freezing weather, keep the ground from freezing by covering it with a mulch of leaves. Meanwhile keep bulbs awaiting planting in a cool, airy spot and in containers which receive some fresh air.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MARY JARDINE

Ruston Garden Club members staged an all blue ribbon flower show at the Garden Center this week. Blue ribbons in the horticulture class were awarded as follows: Mrs. H. E. Townsend for purple dahlia, Mrs. R. L. Seegers for High Hat Camellia, Mrs. Jack Mashaw for Rosa Montana, and Mrs. J. B. Milam for Marigolds and Poinsettia Rose.

In the design division Mrs. Dan O'Neal was awarded top score. Using a subtle color scheme of greens and gray-greens Mrs. O'Neal created a pyramid triangle design. The container was a heavy black footed bowl color washed with gray-green. The pattern was established with three placements of agave (called Century Plant). Secondary placements were of the blue-green foliage of Pfitzer Juniper. For a center of interest Mrs. O'Neal selected large rosettes of echeveria in soft gray green. A most creative arrangement and interesting handling easily available material.

Mrs. Herbert Neely created a lovely arrangement of fall garden material. A round brass bowl was selected for this design. Brilliant orange pyracantha berries delineated the triangular pattern. The line was emphasized with seed pods of magnolia (a red orange at this time of year) and magnolia foliage skillfully placed. Low in the design, for a focus of interest, pomegranates and a cluster of deep purple grapes were placed within the lines of the design. On the reverse side lemon and apples completed the design.

Driftwood was featured in the composition by Mrs. R. L. Seegers. A gnarled branch of driftwood tinted to a grayed pink was placed in a deep amethyst bowl and set on a black base. Small leaf green ivy followed the lines of the driftwood. Salmon pink celosia was worked into the design with a large cluster at the base. The subtle color was most engaging and the combination of materials excellent.

HOUSE PLANTS

How many of you are familiar with Jacobinia carena, the lovely little plant of the acanthus family. These make attractive house plants for winter flowering and in addition can be grown outdoors in this climate. They are not difficult to grow, liking a good loamy soil and partial shade. Under the best conditions variety carnea will grow to five feet outdoors, but indoors a good plant can be flowered in five to six inch pots. It has dense terminal heads of rosy-pink flowers. The flowers are delightfully curled. Sometimes this plant is also called King's Crown and Justicia. Available from your favorite nursery.

Refer to last Sunday's column for a list of flower shows coming.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Pointers For Better Hedges

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

One of the real problems of landscaping is to find the proper plants for narrow, upright screens. When the screen can be only a few inches in thickness, about the only thing to do is to put up a good wire mesh fence and weave ivy into it. During the several years it takes for the ivy to grow to the top of the fence, you can grow annual vines on it. When the ivy gets to be mature, it will put out its fruiting limbs, but these can be pruned away.

In places where a screen has to be held to about two feet of thickness, some of the upright types of Japanese holly are beautiful. These narrow upright types are very hard to find, but some southern nurseries now have them.

If there is room for as much as four feet of thickness in your screen, then the variety of glossy privet called "nobilis" can be used. It has grassy green foliage and a very upright growth. There is another glossy privet, the one called "microphylla" which withstands shearing and pruning to a remarkable degree. This plant is very dense. It has small, narrow foliage which is very thick and dark green when the plants have been well fed. For a tall screen up to fifteen feet high, you can plant one of the sasanqua camellias, Texas Star. This variety has very upright growing branches. Everything about it grows upward instead of outward. Shearing will remove the flower buds of sasanquas if you do it after late June, but you can screen bloom and then clip it back a little in late fall.

Very elegant screens can be made, if you wish to spend the time and money to find and purchase the plants of the upright tree box, and the upright variety of Harrington plum-yew. Only boxwood specialists can find the narrow, tall tree box with its handsome large foliage. The upright plum-yew is shaped like a tall vase. It is not a true yew but does better than the yews. In catalogues, it is listed under Cephalo - taxus Harringtonia fastigiata.

HOLLY HEDGES

Holly hedges can be kept down to about four feet of thickness for a number of years. Visitors to Williamsburg, Virginia have seen how handsome a holly hedge can be. There is not a great deal of shearing to do to a holly screen after the first four or five years when it has begun to mature.

A screen of any kind must have attention. The soil it grows in should be of even fertility to make it grow evenly. Where hedges or screens must pass near trees or shrubs that will steal food from them, the sections in competition with other plants have to be fed extra heavily.

A well balanced fertilizer needs to be used — not one heavily overbalanced with nitrogen — to keep the growth as even as possible. For the first few seasons, it will be necessary to shape and prune considerably, but helter - skelter growth will soon settle down.

Designers Plan Color Matching For Ensembles

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those beautifully coordinated skirts, slacks, suits, blouses and sweaters you're seeing all over the place this fall are the result of some high - powered planning and color - matching by fabric designers.

Take, for instance, the team of Larry Gabbe and Sandy Elias, who design and engineer yarns and fabrics for the house of Lawford. This season they have supplied to garment designers a new kind of fabric "package" which uses the same yarns in woven and knitted fabrics as well as a dyed-to-match pure silk. Thus the color of a suit can be matched exactly to the blouse or sweater worn with it.

Many handsome examples are appearing in shops all over the country about now, in coordinated ensembles which allow the wearer to assemble an outfit in which everything goes together.

Sweater tops repeat exactly the dominant color of plaid tweeds in suits, skirts or slacks. Silk blouses match a wool suit exactly. And there are solid color tweeds which are teamed with a coordinated plaid or stripe.

LEFTOVER RICE

Leftover cooked rice in the house? Mix it with well-drained canned tomatoes, sprinkle with plenty of grated cheese and heat in the oven.

MISS LUCILLE BROWDER, whose engagement and approaching marriage is announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Homer Browder of West Monroe. She will become the bride of Pvt. Alton C. Brownlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brownlee of Calhoun. The wedding will be an event of December 4, at which time Mr. Brownlee will have completed his military duties. He is now stationed at Fort Jackson, North Carolina.

MR. AND MRS. ROY THORNTON, of Hope, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Irene, to the Rev. Robert A. Regnier, son of Dr. and Mrs. Waldo A. Regnier of Crossett. The couple will be married December 28th in the First Methodist Church of Hope. Miss Thornton is a graduate of Henderson State Teachers College. She is at present the Director of Youth Work for the Little Rock Conference Board of Education of the Methodist Church. Mr. Regnier is a graduate of Hendrix College, Conway; and Duke Divinity School, Durham, North Carolina; and at present is pastor of Bryant and Mt. Carmel Methodist Churches.

FEMININITY IS THE ESSENCE which permeates this pink silk chiffon cocktail dress. Tucks form cap sleeves, completely drape the bodice and then burst into a diaphonous, full skirt. Matching silk satin wraps the waist in the wide, permanent bow.

Junior Girls Hold Meeting

The Rodney J. Hobbs Junior Girls Unit 1809 held their regular monthly meeting at the post home with the president, Mary Claire Hanson, presiding.

The secretary, Kay Cobb, called the roll with 12 members responding. All correspondence was read by the secretary.

The youth activity chairman of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary, Mrs. Lena Perry, presented a certificate of organization from national headquarters to the president.

Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, president of Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809, explained the CCA Contest and asked the Junior Girls Unit to assist the Auxiliary with the contest. The Buyer's Guide for the Community Club Awards Contest sponsored by KMLB was distributed to the members.

Plans were completed for the members to be entertained with a Halloween party at the post home on October 30, at 7 p.m.

The group was invited to attend a wiener roast sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1809 later in the evening.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

La. Vingt Club Has Luncheon

Members of the La Vingt Club on Wednesday, Oct. 7th were guests of the Southern Bell Telephone Company for a conducted tour through their plant.

Prior to the tour the group met for lunch at the Francis Hotel where a brief business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. E. W. Cruze.

Members present were Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Mrs. Earl Brimberry, Mrs. Cruze, Mrs. J. T. Conger, Mrs. William Crow, Mrs. Walter Knapp, Mrs. Ralph Norman, Mrs. A. Petrus, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. L. D. Ritter, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Leon Sutton, Mrs. Wayne Warren, Mrs. W. O. Webb, and Mrs. Bruce Brooks.

Local Legion Auxiliary Has Installation

The first fall meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 13 was held at the Paragon Club. New officers installed at this time were Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, president; Mrs. Lucy G. Cooper, 1st vice president; Mrs. Vivian Benison, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Sam Orchard, treasurer; Mrs. D. H. Mobley, secretary; Mrs. Ted Mahr, chaplain; Mrs. Flood Madison, historian.

Mrs. L. J. Gimler, retiring president, read her report for the past year and received a rising vote of thanks for the good work that was done. Mrs. Ted Mahr presented Mrs. Gimler with a gift.

Several members attended the 5th district conference held at Bastrop recently.

Mrs. Wainwright, new president, spoke briefly urging co-operation and support and pledged to do her best.

Mrs. Hilburn, guest, thanked the unit for courtesies extended to her.

Mrs. Gimler presented gifts to those officers present who had served with her.

The Auxiliary meets the second Thursday of each month and all members are invited and urged to attend.

ADD FLOUR

A yeast dough made with rye flour may have a tendency to be sticky. If it is, you may have to add a little extra white flour.

FLAVOR TIP

Canned chicken - noodle soup takes on extra-good flavor if you sprinkle it with minced chives just before serving.

The secretary, Kay Cobb, called the roll with 12 members responding. All correspondence was read by the secretary.

The youth activity chairman of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary, Mrs. Lena Perry, presented a certificate of organization from national headquarters to the president.

Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, president of Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809, explained the CCA Contest and asked the Junior Girls Unit to assist the Auxiliary with the contest. The Buyer's Guide for the Community Club Awards Contest sponsored by KMLB was distributed to the members.

Plans were completed for the members to be entertained with a Halloween party at the post home on October 30, at 7 p.m.

The group was invited to attend a wiener roast sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1809 later in the evening.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

La. Vingt Club Has Luncheon

Members of the La Vingt Club on Wednesday, Oct. 7th were guests of the Southern Bell Telephone Company for a conducted tour through their plant.

Prior to the tour the group met for lunch at the Francis Hotel where a brief business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. E. W. Cruze.

Members present were Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Mrs. Earl Brimberry, Mrs. Cruze, Mrs. J. T. Conger, Mrs. William Crow, Mrs. Walter Knapp, Mrs. Ralph Norman, Mrs. A. Petrus, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. L. D. Ritter, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Leon Sutton, Mrs. Wayne Warren, Mrs. W. O. Webb, and Mrs. Bruce Brooks.

FEMININITY IS THE ESSENCE which permeates this pink silk chiffon cocktail dress. Tucks form cap sleeves, completely drape the bodice and then burst into a diaphonous, full skirt. Matching silk satin wraps the waist in the wide, permanent bow.

Local Legion Auxiliary Has Installation

The first fall meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 13 was held at the Paragon Club. New officers installed at this time were Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, president; Mrs. Lucy G. Cooper, 1st vice president; Mrs. Vivian Benison, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Sam Orchard, treasurer; Mrs. D. H. Mobley, secretary; Mrs. Ted Mahr, chaplain; Mrs. Flood Madison, historian.

Mrs. L. J. Gimler, retiring president, read her report for the past year and received a rising vote of thanks for the good work that was done. Mrs. Ted Mahr presented Mrs. Gimler with a gift.

Several members attended the 5th district conference held at Bastrop recently.

Mrs. Wainwright, new president, spoke briefly urging co-operation and support and pledged to do her best.

Mrs. Hilburn, guest, thanked the unit for courtesies extended to her.

Mrs. Gimler presented gifts to those officers present who had served with her.

The Auxiliary meets the second Thursday of each month and all members are invited and urged to attend.

ADD FLOUR

A yeast dough made with rye flour may have a tendency to be sticky. If it is, you may have to add a little extra white flour.

FLAVOR TIP

Canned chicken - noodle soup takes on extra-good flavor if you sprinkle it with minced chives just before serving.

Hiccups Painful To Performer

Burns decided to use 21-inch neon tubes instead of swords.

He placed the tubes, half an inch in diameter, in his throat. Then he took wires dangling from the tubes and plugged them into a socket.

Presto! the neons glowed.

Then Burns hiccuped and caused a short circuit. One of the tubes burst.

He quickly removed the good tube and spit out what he could of the other one. He was rushed to a hospital, where doctors removed minced glass from his throat. His condition was good.

From his hospital bed, he vowed to stick to swallowing steel swords.

Catahoula To Send Group To Convention

JONESVILLE (Special) — A delegation of Future Farmers of America members from Catahoula parish will attend the 32nd national convention in Kansas City on Oct. 25 through 15.

Those from this area who will attend include Frank Sheppard, Calvin Gibson, H. C. Lewis and D. H. Clark Jr., of Enterprise FFA Chapter; John Bartmess of Harrisonburg; Quion Ford and Tubbie Hardy of Jonesville and Billy Barron of Sicily Island.

These members will serve as delegates representing the local chapters on business matters conducted at the convention.

Accompaing the members from the Catahoula Parish FFA chapters will be Daniel A. Creel, agriculture teacher of Enterprise High School and A. L. Brooks, superintendent of Catahoula parish schools.

SPECIAL TRAIN

The group will travel on a special train which will leave Alexandria on Sunday, Oct. 11. On the return trip, they will leave Kansas City on Thursday night at 9:30 and return to Alexandria on Friday afternoon, Oct. 16.

Representatives from chapters in all 50 states and visitors from 20 countries will attend the convention. A slate of outstanding speakers secured by members of the National FFA office in Washington, D.C., will be heard. These are leaders in government, industry and agriculture.

Educational tours will be conducted to packing houses, livestock exchange, stockyards, American Hereford Building, oil refinery, farm machinery assembly plant, steel plant and manufacturers of farm buildings. Other points of interest such as Penn Valley Park, Kansas City Museum, Truman Library, and Agriculture Hall of Fame will also be visited.

Assisting the area agriculture teachers in the planning and arrangements for the trip were Clyde Lewis, principal of Enterprise high school, S. E. Lanier, principal of Harrisonburg high school, Raymond Peace, principal of Sicily Island high school and Kelly Breithaupt of Block High School of Jonesville.

High Court Will Study Rate Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Supreme Court turns its attention Thursday to the 14-million-dollar phone rate fight between Southern Bell and the State Public Service Commission.

The high court set an unusual two hours for the last-ditch rate hearing marked by the rival issues of constitutionality and the public pocketbook.

On April 23rd, a Baton Rouge judge rejected Southern Bell's appeal for a phone rate boost of up to $14,242,478. But he ordered the commission to grant a $1,918,707 rate increase the commission had favored but withheld.

Neither side has appealed the $1,918,707 question.

Attorneys said Saturday the Supreme Court ordinarily grants only one hour for oral arguments. But in this important question, each side has been granted a full hour in the hearing in New Orleans.

A Supreme Court decision probably can be expected within a month and a half, according to the time the court took to give its ruling in 1957 after a previous phone rate controversy.

In months of commission hearings, dickering mostly over financial structures, Southern Bell counsel accused the commission of bias and charged it had drafted a program for the company's financial disaster.

Commission counsel Theo Cangelosi accused the phone company of a sitdown strike in Louisiana in a campaign to force higher rates in the state.

The commission had refused to grant any increase at first, with the complaint Southern Bell had been rendering "grossly inadequate" service, and had caused an arbitrary slowdown in Louisiana phone expansion. Dist. Judge G. Caldwell Herget, in his decision, overturned the commission's refusal. But the company didn't get the 14 million it sought.

Southern Bell's Supreme Court appeal is based on a company claim Judge Herget's ruling in favor of the commission was "contrary to the law and evidence."

Basically, the issue before the high court is whether the latest rates fixed by the commission are just and reasonable as the constitution requires.

Repeatedly, the phone company has insisted its Louisiana rate of earnings is the lowest in the nation, hurting attraction of capital for proper expansion. It said the rate level amounted to confiscation and therefore was unconstitutional.

The commission, in its latest ruling, stuck closely to a rate fixing method the Supreme Court had approved in the previous Southern Bell rate squabble.

A 1956 commission order reducing Southern Bell rates at that time by almost 4 million dollars a year gained Supreme Court approval. That same order also brought the current nickle pay phone charge while most states continue to pay a dime.

The 1956 cut amounted roughly to 20 per cent. The current commission decision, in effect, eased up halfway on that 20 per cent.

Hiccups Painful To Performer

Burns decided to use 21-inch neon tubes instead of swords.

He placed the tubes, half an inch in diameter, in his throat. Then he took wires dangling from the tubes and plugged them into a socket.

Presto! the neons glowed.

He quickly removed the good tube and spit out what he could of the other one. He was rushed to a hospital, where doctors removed minced glass from his throat. His condition was good.

From his hospital bed, he vowed to stick to swallowing steel swords.

Catahoula To Send Group To Convention

JONESVILLE (Special) — A delegation of Future Farmers of America members from Catahoula parish will attend the 32nd national convention in Kansas City on Oct. 25 through 15.

Those from this area who will attend include Frank Sheppard, Calvin Gibson, H. C. Lewis and D. H. Clark Jr., of Enterprise FFA Chapter; John Bartmess of Harrisonburg; Quion Ford and Tubbie Hardy of Jonesville and Billy Barron of Sicily Island.

These members will serve as delegates representing the local chapters on business matters conducted at the convention.

Accompaing the members from the Catahoula Parish FFA chapters will be Daniel A. Creel, agriculture teacher of Enterprise High School and A. L. Brooks, superintendent of Catahoula parish schools.

SPECIAL TRAIN

The group will travel on a special train which will leave Alexandria on Sunday, Oct. 11. On the return trip, they will leave Kansas City on Thursday night at 9:30 and return to Alexandria on Friday afternoon, Oct. 16.

Representatives from chapters in all 50 states and visitors from 20 countries will attend the convention. A slate of outstanding speakers secured by members of the National FFA office in Washington, D.C., will be heard. These are leaders in government, industry and agriculture.

Educational tours will be conducted to packing houses, livestock exchange, stockyards, American Hereford Building, oil refinery, farm machinery assembly plant, steel plant and manufacturers of farm buildings. Other points of interest such as Penn Valley Park, Kansas City Museum, Truman Library, and Agriculture Hall of Fame will also be visited.

Assisting the area agriculture teachers in the planning and arrangements for the trip were Clyde Lewis, principal of Enterprise high school, S. E. Lanier, principal of Harrisonburg high school, Raymond Peace, principal of Sicily Island high school and Kelly Breithaupt of Block High School of Jonesville.

High Court Will Study Rate Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Supreme Court turns its attention Thursday to the 14-million-dollar phone rate fight between Southern Bell and the State Public Service Commission.

The high court set an unusual two hours for the last-ditch rate hearing marked by the rival issues of constitutionality and the public pocketbook.

On April 23rd, a Baton Rouge judge rejected Southern Bell's appeal for a phone rate boost of up to $14,242,478. But he ordered the commission to grant a $1,918,707 rate increase the commission had favored but withheld.

Neither side has appealed the $1,918,707 question.

Attorneys said Saturday the Supreme Court ordinarily grants only one hour for oral arguments. But in this important question, each side has been granted a full hour in the hearing in New Orleans.

A Supreme Court decision probably can be expected within a month and a half, according to the time the court took to give its ruling in 1957 after a previous phone rate controversy.

In months of commission hearings, dickering mostly over financial structures, Southern Bell counsel accused the commission of bias and charged it had drafted a program for the company's financial disaster.

Commission counsel Theo Cangelosi accused the phone company of a sitdown strike in Louisiana in a campaign to force higher rates in the state.

The commission had refused to grant any increase at first, with the complaint Southern Bell had been rendering "grossly inadequate" service, and had caused an arbitrary slowdown in Louisiana phone expansion. Dist. Judge G. Caldwell Herget, in his decision, overturned the commission's refusal. But the company didn't get the 14 million it sought.

Southern Bell's Supreme Court appeal is based on a company claim Judge Herget's ruling in favor of the commission was "contrary to the law and evidence."

Basically, the issue before the high court is whether the latest rates fixed by the commission are just and reasonable as the constitution requires.

Repeatedly, the phone company has insisted its Louisiana rate of earnings is the lowest in the nation, hurting attraction of capital for proper expansion. It said the rate level amounted to confiscation and therefore was unconstitutional.

The commission, in its latest ruling, stuck closely to a rate fixing method the Supreme Court had approved in the previous Southern Bell rate squabble.

A 1956 commission order reducing Southern Bell rates at that time by almost 4 million dollars a year gained Supreme Court approval. That same order also brought the current nickle pay phone charge while most states continue to pay a dime.

The 1956 cut amounted roughly to 20 per cent. The current commission decision, in effect, eased up halfway on that 20 per cent.

Sculptor Plans Festival Lecture

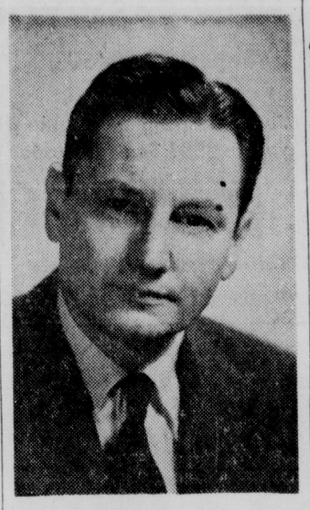
COLUMBIA (Special) — Internationally known sculptor Arthur Morgan of Shreveport, speaking on "Clay Modeling from Life," will be one of the most distinguished features on the program of the upcoming Caldwell Parish Art Festival in Columbia on Saturday, Oct. 17.

In a two hour session Saturday morning, Morgan will sketch a clay figure or a portrait head from a model for the benefit of all those attending the art show sponsored annually by the Caldwell Parish library in Columbia.

Born on Riverton plantation in southern Louisiana, Morgan early showed signs of the talent which today makes him say, "Sculpture is my life!" Called a child prodigy at 15 by New York art critics, he studied under Gutzon Borglum, the great American sculptor who created the famous presidents' heads on Mt. Rushmore in the Black Hills of the Dakotas. Borglum said of him, "There is in all his work a poetic quality rarely found in contemporary art."

After studying several years in the home of Borglum at Stanford, Conn., Morgan went to the Beaux Arts Institute of Design in New York. At the age of 15 he received his first commission — a portrait bust of Dr. Simon Baruch, father of the elder statesman Bernard M. Baruch. This was so successful it won him many other commissions for sculptured portraits of nationally and internationally prominent men and women as well as decorative bronzes, reliefs and medallions.

He came to Shreveport in 1928 to organize the art department of Centenry College. He taught life drawing, painting, and sculpture both at the college and in his own private art and music school, which he operates in collaboration with his wife, Gladys Morgan, herself a widely - known water colorist.



ARTHUR MORGAN

Morgan's latest achievement is the heroic statue of Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the United States from Louisiana, which was formally presented in 1955 to the national government in Washington, D. C. on behalf of the State of Louisiana.

This creation represents six months of painstaking work for the sculptor. In preparing it he borrowed a robe from a friend who is a judge and used a pupil as a model.

The artist works with many media — plaster, terra cotta, bronzez, marble and other stones and wood. Inspiration for his creations comes from many sources — life, folk story, mythology, history. "I go to all ages and all fields for my ideas," he says.

Morgan is a member of the American Federations of Arts, the Society of Medalists and the Art Association of New Orleans, and an honorary member of the Shreveport Art Club.

Funds Told For Federal Roadbuilding

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Saturday apportioned to the states $2,725,000,000 of federal roadbuilding money for the 1961 fiscal year, which begins next July 1.

The states must spend this money within three years from that date or lose it. However, they may not be able to spend all of it in fiscal 1961 because of new restrictions on road outlays.

The Commerce Department announced Thursday that the states may spend no more than $2,700,000,000 of federal road aid in the current fiscal year. It said the restrictions were necessary to keep spending in line with revenues received by the highway trust fund, which finances roadbuilding.

Officials said a similar ceiling on spending undoubtedly will be announced later for fiscal 1961. And they said it might be lower than the $2,725,000,000 apportioned.

For fiscal 1960, the apportionment totaled $3,400,000,000.

Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller announced the new apportionment and said $1,800,000,000 was earmarked for the interstate superhighway program. The remaining 925 million dollars is for primary, secondary and urban road projects.

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of new superhighways and 50 per cent of the cost of other roads.

The Commerce Department said its announcement "provides approximately nine months lead time to the states for adequate planning of their use of the money and assures continued orderly progress" in the highway program.

However, officials conceded that advance planning will be hampered by the fact that the states still do not know how much they actually will be permitted to spend in fiscal 1961.

In addition to the new apportionment, they will have available additional sums carried over from past apportionments. On Aug. 31 this carryover fund amounted to $2,456,000,000.

California got the biggest apportionment for fiscal 1961—$227,708,000. Ohio was next with $149,552,000 followed by New York, $142,018,000; Texas, $129,579,000, and Illinois, $128,850,000.

A total of $416,250,000 was apportioned for primary highways, $277,500,000 for feeder roads and $231,250,000 for urban highways.

Deducted from the 925 million dollar total was 51 million dollars representing repayment of half the money advanced to the states last year under a special anti-recession public works program.

A protest against mounting costs of the highway program came from Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va). Robertson called for a conference of state highway commissioners and federal officials to review the program and consider less ambitious plans.

In a letter to U.S. Public Roads Commissioner Ellis L. Armstrong, Robertson voiced special criticism of the cost involved in a proposed uniform 300-foot right of way for the interstate system.

Governors Meet Set In Ashville

The chief executives of 16 southern states reaching from Oklahoma to Delaware are expected for the four-day conference.

The official convention program appears aimed at a meeting characterized by harmony, cooperation and understanding of mutual problems. It discloses little, if anything, of a controversial nature.

With 14 of the 16 governors Democrats, party politics involving the 1960 national convention will undoubtedly liven the unofficial sessions.

Officially, the governors will be concerned with mutual problems and solutions. Such a discussion will feature the opening general session of the convention Monday.

Each governor will speak five minutes on what he considers his toughest problem and what steps he has taken toward its solution. Preceding this will be addresses by Mississippi Gov. James P. Coleman, conference chairman; Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, chairman of the National Governors' Conference; and Gov. Hodges of North Carolina, conference host.

Monday's program will also feature a round table discussion on highway safety led by Oklahoma Gov. J. Howard Edmondson. Principal speaker will be former Gov. Howard Pyle of Arizona, chairman of the National Safety Council.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida and John Patterson of Alabama will act as discussion leaders.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina will officially welcome conference delegates at a buffet supper Sunday. Preceding this, the governor and Mrs. Hodges will hold a reception aided by stage star Andy Griffith.

Estimates place the total convention registration near 500 persons. In addition to the governors, there will be their aides, families, and press representatives.

The annual meeting of the Southern Regional Education Board, headed by Gov. Cecil H. Undedwood of West Virginia, will be held Tuesday morning.

Reports will be given later in the conference by Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, chairman of the committee on effect of imports on domestic economy; Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, chairman of the committee on freight rates; and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, chairman of the committee on industrial development.

The annual state dinner Tuesday night will be addressed by Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

On Wednesday morning, Tennessee's Gov. Buford Ellington will make the report of the regional advisory council on nuclear energy. Later the same day there will be a discussion of residence requirements for public assistance led by Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia. Dr. Ellen Winston, N. C. commissioner of public welfare, will speak. Discussions leaders will be Govs. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia, Albert B. Chandler of Kentucky and J. Millard Tawes of Maryland.

Action on reports of the resolutions and nominating committees will be taken at a final business session. Adjournment will follow a noon luncheon.

U.S. Thinks Lunik Doing What Reds Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — American space experts said today that as far as they can determine Russia's moon circling Lunik III is doing just about all the Soviets claim.

The flying laboratory is due to start its trip back toward the earth today after a broad swing out around the moon.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the tracking stations provide information that coincides with the skimpy data the Russians have given out. About all the Russians have supplies, he said, are angles for sighting on the satellite from the stations.

The Jodrell Bank Station at Manchester, England, reported to NASA Friday that it now estimates the power of the radio transmitters in Lunik III range from 5 to 20 watts. This is far stronger than any the U.S. has put aloft, the strongest being a ½ watt transmitter in the Explorer VI paddlewheel satellite.

Macmillan Pushes For Summit Meet

AT EARLY DATE

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, voted powerful new authority to speak for Britain, resumed Saturday his quest for an early summit meeting.

For more than an hour, Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd discussed the next step toward an East-West parley. The meeting at No. 10 Downing St. was their first since British voters gave Macmillan and his Conservative party a pointed mandate to govern for another five years and press ahead for a summit conference.

With returns of Thursday's election complete for all but one of the 630 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives held 364 against 258 for the Labor party. Liberals won six seats and one went to an independent.

The Conservative majority over the combined opposition will be 100 in the next parliament since the still unreported district is safely Conservative. In the recently dissolved parliament, Conservatives ruled by an over-all majority of 53.

In the nearly complete popular vote, Conservatives amassed a total of 13,734,336 or 49.3 per cent, to 12,208,810 or 43.9 per cent for the Laborites. The Liberals, in an upsurge, collected 1,636,292 votes or 5.9 per cent, with about 250,000 votes going to minor parties.

The total number of votes cast came to 27,834,284, or 78.7 per cent of the 35,378,417 persons eligible.

In the next-to-last district to report its returns, Liberal party leader Jo Grimond won re-election to represent the Orkney and Shetland Islands in the House of Commons.

Macmillan conferred with Lloyd at his official residence in London before setting out for his country home in Sussex for a quiet weekend. Lloyd was expected to transmit to Washington and Paris immediately the Prime Minister's latest view on hastening to the summit. With the British elections over, the United States and France were thought here to be more ready to make arrangements for such an East-West parley in late fall or early winter.

Macmillan is expected to devote the next few days to mulling over possible changes in his cabinet, although no major shake-up is likely in the immediate future.

Most politicos expect the Prime Minister to retain Lloyd as foreign secretary, at least until after a summit conference.

A more talked about change could involve dropping Alan Lennox-Boyd as colonial secretary and replacing him with Iain MacLeod, at present labor minister. Lennox-Boyd, often under fire for his colonial policy, particularly in Africa, has been in the post under three prime ministers and is known to be anxious to return to private business.

Macmillan must go through several formalities before officially forming a new government, probably late next week. He is expected to journey to Balmoral Castle in Scotland to call on Queen Elizabeth early in the week. By long established convention, the Prime Minister—or any other new minister — kisses the Queen's hand on taking office.

The new parliament will convene Oct. 20 to swear in the 630 members elected Thursday. It will recess immediately afterward until Oct. 27 when it begins its regular session.

Cartoonist Dies At 69

CHICAGO (AP) — Carl Frank Ludwig Ed, cartoonist creator of the newspaper comic strip, Harold Teen, died today. He was 69.

Ed died in suburban Evanston Hospital of complications from a lingering illness. He retired from active work at the drawing board two weeks ago.

His cartoon strip, printed in 90 newspapers and distributed by the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, is to be discontinued after the last of his advance drawings is used up Nov. 18.

Ed's cartoon character, Harold Teen, first displayed in 1919, typified the flaming youth of the 1920s. It was kept up to date as a teen-age attraction. Harold, unlike his creator, never aged.

Red Cross Calls Committeemen To Special Meet

George Rorex, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Red Cross chapter, has called a meeting of disaster committee chairmen and subcommittee members for Wednesday, October 14 at 5 p.m. in the local Red Cross chapter.

Disaster chairmen C. C. Boardman and Tom Hicks pointed to the hurricane and tornado season that usually brings a series of dangerous weather warnings for the area at this time of year. "We need to be alerted for any emergency measures in case of disasterous weather such as the gulf coast and California areas are experiencing," they commented.

National Red Cross has moved staff workers into Hurricane Gracie's path around Charleston, S. C., north central Oklahoma and parts of Texas, to start their rehabilitation program. Latest reports show that 9,000 refugees have been housed and fed in 90 Red Cross shelters during the period, and 16 Red Cross shelters are still operating in Oklahoma and Texas in districts of flooded homes.

Sculptor Plans Festival Lecture

COLUMBIA (Special) — Internationally known sculptor Arthur Morgan of Shreveport, speaking on "Clay Modeling from Life," will be one of the most distinguished features on the program of the upcoming Caldwell Parish Art Festival in Columbia on Saturday, Oct. 17.

In a two hour session Saturday morning, Morgan will sketch a clay figure or a portrait head from a model for the benefit of all those attending the art show sponsored annually by the Caldwell Parish library in Columbia.

Born on Riverton plantation in southern Louisiana, Morgan early showed signs of the talent which today makes him say, "Sculpture is my life!" Called a child prodigy at 15 by New York art critics, he studied under Gutzon Borglum, the great American sculptor who created the famous presidents' heads on Mt. Rushmore in the Black Hills of the Dakotas. Borglum said of him, "There is in all his work a poetic quality rarely found in contemporary art."

After studying several years in the home of Borglum at Stanford, Conn., Morgan went to the Beaux Arts Institute of Design in New York. At the age of 15 he received his first commission — a portrait bust of Dr. Simon Baruch, father of the elder statesman Bernard M. Baruch. This was so successful it won him many other commissions for sculptured portraits of nationally and internationally prominent men and women as well as decorative bronzes, reliefs and medallions.

He came to Shreveport in 1928 to organize the art department of Centenry College. He taught life drawing, painting, and sculpture both at the college and in his own private art and music school, which he operates in collaboration with his wife, Gladys Morgan, herself a widely - known water colorist.

ARTHUR MORGAN

Morgan's latest achievement is the heroic statue of Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the United States from Louisiana, which was formally presented in 1955 to the national government in Washington, D. C. on behalf of the State of Louisiana.

This creation represents six months of painstaking work for the sculptor. In preparing it he borrowed a robe from a friend who is a judge and used a pupil as a model.

The artist works with many media — plaster, terra cotta, bronzez, marble and other stones and wood. Inspiration for his creations comes from many sources — life, folk story, mythology, history. "I go to all ages and all fields for my ideas," he says.

Morgan is a member of the American Federations of Arts, the Society of Medalists and the Art Association of New Orleans, and an honorary member of the Shreveport Art Club.

Funds Told For Federal Roadbuilding

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Saturday apportioned to the states $2,725,000,000 of federal roadbuilding money for the 1961 fiscal year, which begins next July 1.

The states must spend this money within three years from that date or lose it. However, they may not be able to spend all of it in fiscal 1961 because of new restrictions on road outlays.

The Commerce Department announced Thursday that the states may spend no more than $2,700,000,000 of federal road aid in the current fiscal year. It said the restrictions were necessary to keep spending in line with revenues received by the highway trust fund, which finances roadbuilding.

Officials said a similar ceiling on spending undoubtedly will be announced later for fiscal 1961. And they said it might be lower than the $2,725,000,000 apportioned.

For fiscal 1960, the apportionment totaled $3,400,000,000.

Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller announced the new apportionment and said $1,800,000,000 was earmarked for the interstate superhighway program. The remaining 925 million dollars is for primary, secondary and urban road projects.

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of new superhighways and 50 per cent of the cost of other roads.

The Commerce Department said its announcement "provides approximately nine months lead time to the states for adequate planning of their use of the money and assures continued orderly progress" in the highway program.

However, officials conceded that advance planning will be hampered by the fact that the states still do not know how much they actually will be permitted to spend in fiscal 1961.

In addition to the new apportionment, they will have available additional sums carried over from past apportionments. On Aug. 31 this carryover fund amounted to $2,456,000,000.

California got the biggest apportionment for fiscal 1961—$227,708,000. Ohio was next with $149,552,000 followed by New York, $142,018,000; Texas, $129,579,000, and Illinois, $128,850,000.

A total of $416,250,000 was apportioned for primary highways, $277,500,000 for feeder roads and $231,250,000 for urban highways.

Deducted from the 925 million dollar total was 51 million dollars representing repayment of half the money advanced to the states last year under a special anti-recession public works program.

A protest against mounting costs of the highway program came from Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va). Robertson called for a conference of state highway commissioners and federal officials to review the program and consider less ambitious plans.

In a letter to U.S. Public Roads Commissioner Ellis L. Armstrong, Robertson voiced special criticism of the cost involved in a proposed uniform 300-foot right of way for the interstate system.

Governors Meet Set In Ashville

The chief executives of 16 southern states reaching from Oklahoma to Delaware are expected for the four-day conference.

The official convention program appears aimed at a meeting characterized by harmony, cooperation and understanding of mutual problems. It discloses little, if anything, of a controversial nature.

With 14 of the 16 governors Democrats, party politics involving the 1960 national convention will undoubtedly liven the unofficial sessions.

Officially, the governors will be concerned with mutual problems and solutions. Such a discussion will feature the opening general session of the convention Monday.

Each governor will speak five minutes on what he considers his toughest problem and what steps he has taken toward its solution. Preceding this will be addresses by Mississippi Gov. James P. Coleman, conference chairman; Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, chairman of the National Governors' Conference; and Gov. Hodges of North Carolina, conference host.

Monday's program will also feature a round table discussion on highway safety led by Oklahoma Gov. J. Howard Edmondson. Principal speaker will be former Gov. Howard Pyle of Arizona, chairman of the National Safety Council.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida and John Patterson of Alabama will act as discussion leaders.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina will officially welcome conference delegates at a buffet supper Sunday. Preceding this, the governor and Mrs. Hodges will hold a reception aided by stage star Andy Griffith.

Estimates place the total convention registration near 500 persons. In addition to the governors, there will be their aides, families, and press representatives.

The annual meeting of the Southern Regional Education Board, headed by Gov. Cecil H. Undedwood of West Virginia, will be held Tuesday morning.

Reports will be given later in the conference by Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, chairman of the committee on effect of imports on domestic economy; Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, chairman of the committee on freight rates; and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, chairman of the committee on industrial development.

The annual state dinner Tuesday night will be addressed by Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

On Wednesday morning, Tennessee's Gov. Buford Ellington will make the report of the regional advisory council on nuclear energy. Later the same day there will be a discussion of residence requirements for public assistance led by Gov. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia. Dr. Ellen Winston, N. C. commissioner of public welfare, will speak. Discussions leaders will be Govs. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia, Albert B. Chandler of Kentucky and J. Millard Tawes of Maryland.

Action on reports of the resolutions and nominating committees will be taken at a final business session. Adjournment will follow a noon luncheon.

U.S. Thinks Lunik Doing What Reds Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — American space experts said today that as far as they can determine Russia's moon circling Lunik III is doing just about all the Soviets claim.

The flying laboratory is due to start its trip back toward the earth today after a broad swing out around the moon.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the tracking stations provide information that coincides with the skimpy data the Russians have given out. About all the Russians have supplies, he said, are angles for sighting on the satellite from the stations.

The Jodrell Bank Station at Manchester, England, reported to NASA Friday that it now estimates the power of the radio transmitters in Lunik III range from 5 to 20 watts. This is far stronger than any the U.S. has put aloft, the strongest being a ½ watt transmitter in the Explorer VI paddlewheel satellite.

Macmillan Pushes For Summit Meet

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, voted powerful new authority to speak for Britain, resumed Saturday his quest for an early summit meeting.

For more than an hour, Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd discussed the next step toward an East-West parley. The meeting at No. 10 Downing St. was their first since British voters gave Macmillan and his Conservative party a pointed mandate to govern for another five years and press ahead for a summit conference.

With returns of Thursday's election complete for all but one of the 630 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives held 364 against 258 for the Labor party. Liberals won six seats and one went to an independent.

The Conservative majority over the combined opposition will be 100 in the next parliament since the still unreported district is safely Conservative. In the recently dissolved parliament, Conservatives ruled by an over-all majority of 53.

In the nearly complete popular vote, Conservatives amassed a total of 13,734,336 or 49.3 per cent, to 12,208,810 or 43.9 per cent for the Laborites. The Liberals, in an upsurge, collected 1,636,292 votes or 5.9 per cent, with about 250,000 votes going to minor parties.

The total number of votes cast came to 27,834,284, or 78.7 per cent of the 35,378,417 persons eligible.

In the next-to-last district to report its returns, Liberal party leader Jo Grimond won re-election to represent the Orkney and Shetland Islands in the House of Commons.

Macmillan conferred with Lloyd at his official residence in London before setting out for his country home in Sussex for a quiet weekend. Lloyd was expected to transmit to Washington and Paris immediately the Prime Minister's latest view on hastening to the summit. With the British elections over, the United States and France were thought here to be more ready to make arrangements for such an East-West parley in late fall or early winter.

Macmillan is expected to devote the next few days to mulling over possible changes in his cabinet, although no major shake-up is likely in the immediate future.

Most politicos expect the Prime Minister to retain Lloyd as foreign secretary, at least until after a summit conference.

A more talked about change could involve dropping Alan Lennox-Boyd as colonial secretary and replacing him with Iain MacLeod, at present labor minister. Lennox-Boyd, often under fire for his colonial policy, particularly in Africa, has been in the post under three prime ministers and is known to be anxious to return to private business.

Macmillan must go through several formalities before officially forming a new government, probably late next week. He is expected to journey to Balmoral Castle in Scotland to call on Queen Elizabeth early in the week. By long established convention, the Prime Minister—or any other new minister — kisses the Queen's hand on taking office.

The new parliament will convene Oct. 20 to swear in the 630 members elected Thursday. It will recess immediately afterward until Oct. 27 when it begins its regular session.

Woman Gives Birth To Quads

BALTIMORE Md. (AP) — An Annapolis woman, 30, gave birth to quadruplets Saturday at Johns Hopkins Hospital. All four babies are reported by a hospital spokesman to be "doing fairly well."

Mrs. Lorraine Graves gave birth to a 4 pound 8½ ounce girl at 1:17 p.m., a 3 pound 13½ ounce girl at 1:32 p.m., a 3 pound 11 ounce boy at 1:49 p.m., and a 3 pound, 8 ounce girl at 1:52 p.m.

All four babies were placed in the premature nursery. The babies were delivered by Dr. Frank Leach, resident physician in obstetrics.

Mrs. Graves has eight other children, including two sets of twins.

Red Cross Calls Committeemen To Special Meet

George Rorex, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Red Cross chapter, has called a meeting of disaster committee chairmen and subcommittee members for Wednesday, October 14 at 5 p.m. in the local Red Cross chapter.

Disaster chairmen C. C. Boardman and Tom Hicks pointed to the hurricane and tornado season that usually brings a series of dangerous weather warnings for the area at this time of year. "We need to be alerted for any emergency measures in case of disasterous weather such as the gulf coast and California areas are experiencing," they commented.

National Red Cross has moved staff workers into Hurricane Gracie's path around Charleston, S. C., north central Oklahoma and parts of Texas, to start their rehabilitation program. Latest reports show that 9,000 refugees have been housed and fed in 90 Red Cross shelters during the period, and 16 Red Cross shelters are still operating in Oklahoma and Texas in districts of flooded homes.

Cartoonist Dies At 69

CHICAGO (AP) — Carl Frank Ludwig Ed, cartoonist creator of the newspaper comic strip, Harold Teen, died today. He was 69.

Ed died in suburban Evanston Hospital of complications from a lingering illness. He retired from active work at the drawing board two weeks ago.

His cartoon strip, printed in 90 newspapers and distributed by the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, is to be discontinued after the last of his advance drawings is used up Nov. 18.

Ed's cartoon character, Harold Teen, first displayed in 1919, typified the flaming youth of the 1920s. It was kept up to date as a teen-age attraction. Harold, unlike his creator, never aged.

Income Producer
Top bayou location is a feature of this unusual investment property. There is a 3 bedroom concrete block home with a 2 bedroom apartment. In addition to this house, there is an apartment house with four 2 bedroom apartments. This investment property brings in approximately $400.00 a month. A wise investment this month will pay off next month.
Constant Income
MEANS PEACE OF MIND
The happiest, most successful individual is the one who owns and operates his own business. We strongly urge you to investigate the possibilities of this 2-story building in its setting of an entire city block. There are ten spacious rooms with two baths. The location and size are ideal for a doctor's clinic, convalescent home, or funeral home, to mention a few. The successful man is the one who launches out to obtain the facilities he needs for his business, including the right building and location.

Income Producer
Top bayou location is a feature of this unusual investment property. There is a 3 bedroom concrete block home with a 2 bedroom apartment. In addition to this house, there is an apartment house with four 2 bedroom apartments. This investment property brings in approximately $460.00 a month. A wise investment this month will pay off next month.

Constant Income
MEANS PEACE OF MIND
The happiest, most successful individual is the one who owns and operates his own business. We strongly urge you to investigate the possibilities of this 2-story building in its setting of an entire city block. There are ten spacious rooms with two baths. The location and size are ideal for a doctor's clinic, convalescent home, or funeral home, to mention a few. The successful man is the one who launches out to obtain the facilities he needs for his business, including the right building and location.

NOTHING LEFT OUT

Of this charming 2 bedroom brick home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" on convenience as it's on the busline and just 2 blocks from Plum Street School. You'll be thrilled with this lovely home and its low (less than $10,000) price.

JUST OLD ENOUGH

To be a good buy. This spacious older home is conveniently located to busline and school. The living room and 3 large bedrooms are carpeted. Two baths will be of invaluable assistance in the morning in getting the family off to work, school, or play. There's a comfortable den for the time you need to work or relax quietly. For comfort, roominess, and convenience, this home cannot be equaled at its asking price of less than $8,000.

VERY NEAT PACKAGE

Best describes this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for only $250 and closing, with payments less than rent.

JUST A NICE LITTLE PLACE

Is this immaculate 2 bedroom Southside home. A more compact and convenient home you'll never find than this home that's just a hop, skip, and two jumps to Plum Street School and just one block to the bus stop. The house is wired for 220 for better electrical living. You get location and convenience for only $250 down plus closing costs.

THERE ARE MANY HOUSES

But few real homes; however, this 2 bedroom Northside home has every feature planned for happy living. The approximately 1600 sq. feet includes a comfortable den for informal entertaining. The living room is spacious enough for massive furniture, but small enough for a homey air. There's a luxury "extra" bath in this 1½ bath home. The children will eagerly await next summer because of the small cement wading pool in the back yard. Save your heart for this "heart catcher" home.

TAKE

To better living in this beautiful new 3 bedroom brick home. Its sprawling (nearly 1400 sq. feet) design is set for 1959's informal living. Dad and the boys will give a "hooray" for this half bath with formica top dressing table. Mom will breeze through her cooking with the built-in oven and range in this Mahogany paneled kitchen. This home is conveniently located near West Monroe schools and churches.

EUREKA!

We've found it! A lovely 3 bedroom Lakeshore home for less than $12,000. The kitchen will win any wife's heart with its many pine paneled cabinets and practical vent. The monowall bath has a handy shower over the tub and a built-in linen closet. There has never been a more compact and attractive home for such an astonishingly low price of just $400 down plus closing costs.

LAUGHTER OF CHILDREN

Will be prevalent in this modestly priced older home. In addition to the 3 spacious bedrooms, there's a den that becomes a hospitable guest room in minutes. The separate dining room will be the scene for Mom's more formal dinners. The huge (160x160) corner lot is enhanced by many trees and shrubs. There is much house, but a small price—less than $12,000.

COMPACT LUXURY

Is embodied in this beautiful 3 bedroom brick home in its select Northside location. The Mahogany paneled kitchen is a dream with its built-in dishwasher, disposal, oven and range. PLUS: a built-in refrigerator and freezer. Convenient to the kitchen is the lovely Mahogany paneled family room with its soft, indirect lighting and modern fireplace and terrazzo floors. There's a large tile guest bath with entrances from the foyer and bedroom wing in addition to the spacious master bath. Year 'round weather control comfort is yours with the five ton Lennox unit. This home has atmosphere and charm and lacks only your charming family for its owners.

YOUR TIMING IS RIGHT

If you buy now. Autumn is here and cozy, comfortable winter occupancy is yours. This 4 bedroom home with acreage includes 2 tile baths (one with shower stall). Mom will enjoy meal preparation in her step-saver kitchen. The 1700 sq. feet in this home is cooled by an attic fan. The quality and beauty cannot be equaled for twice the price.

STERLINGTON
ASSUME 4½% LOAN

This neat 3 bedrom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are spacious. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.8 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature-rich home.

15 ACRES
PLUS CAMP

Located just ten miles from town is this small club house or hunting camp. There's barb-wire fencing completely around the acreage and there's some marketable hardwood and young pines. The completely furnished camp, club house, or lodge will be the scene for these private weekends or house parties. The kids will fall in love with the pond for wading or splashing. This property WILL NOT be surpassed in value.

GRACIOUS LIVING

This pretentious Northside home has everything incorporated into its 2060 sq. feet. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature a wife could dream of . . . Mahogany cabinets galore, built-in oven and range, disposal, and dishwasher. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

NOTHING TO IMPROVE

The location is exceptional on this attractive 3 bedroom home just across from Lexington School. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved.

A HAPPY FUTURE

Is predicted for you in this very attractive 3 bedroom home in an executive neighborhood of prestige homes. Even the largest family can gather for entertaining or relaxing in this spacious living room. A "plus" feature of this home is found in the 2 complete baths. Dad will applaud the convenience of a small office at home. The 2400 sq. feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness, this is your house of the future.

UNLIMITED JOY

Is what you'll feel when you see this distinguished Northside home. It's new and in an excellent neighborhood, just one block from the new Lee Junior High. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's modern kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 square feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad's heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. The entire family will "leap for joy" at the thought of owning such a prestige home for such a modest figure.

RELAX AND LIVE

In this almost new (9 months old) 3 bedroom brick home in one of Monroe's fastest growing areas. The kitchen has eye appeal with its many natural finish cabinets and built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and already draped. Ceramic tile bath with shower over tub is another "plus" feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as the payments are less than rent.

KID SPACE

There's a lot of it in this 4 bedroom older home in West Monroe. Two baths, one with shower stall, add luxury to this budget home. There's a small breakfast room for informal family meals. The back yard is fenced for protection of the smaller children as they play while the older children are in school (just 2 blocks away). Seldom do you find a feature packed and spacious home for such a modest price.

BAYOU PRESTIGE

Of this charming 2 bedroom brick home. You'll thrill to the luxury of carpeting in the spacious living room and front bedroom. There'll be no winter sniffles with the wall heaters in this home. This home rates an "excellent" on convenience as it's on the busline and just 2 blocks from Plum Street School. You'll be thrilled with this lovely home and its low (less than $10,000) price.

JUST OLD ENOUGH

To be a good buy. This spacious older home is conveniently located to busline and school. The living room and 3 large bedrooms are carpeted. Two baths will be of invaluable assistance in the morning in getting the family off to work, school, or play. There's a comfortable den for the time you need to work or relax quietly. For comfort, roominess, and convenience, this home cannot be equaled at its asking price of less than $8,000.

VERY NEAT PACKAGE

Best describes this cozy 2 bedroom home which has so much to offer. There's a spacious living room that will win any woman's heart. This neat home is in excellent repair and has over 1100 sq. feet of living area. There's a workshop in back for Dad. This charming home can be bought for only $250 and closing, with payments less than rent.

JUST A NICE LITTLE PLACE

Is this immaculate 2 bedroom Southside home. A more compact and convenient home you'll never find than this home that's just a hop, skip, and two jumps to Plum Street School and just one block to the bus stop. The house is wired for 220 for better electrical living. You get location and convenience for only $250 down plus closing costs.

THERE ARE MANY HOUSES

But few real homes; however, this 2 bedroom Northside home has every feature planned for happy living. The approximately 1600 sq. feet includes a comfortable den for informal entertaining. The living room is spacious enough for massive furniture, but small enough for a homey air. There's a luxury "extra" bath in this 1½ bath home. The children will eagerly await next summer because of the small cement wading pool in the back yard. Save your heart for this "heart catcher" home.

TAKE

To better living in this beautiful new 3 bedroom brick home. Its sprawling (nearly 1400 sq. feet) design is set for 1959's informal living. Dad and the boys will give a "hooray" for this half bath with formica top dressing table. Mom will breeze through her cooking with the built-in oven and range in this Mahogany paneled kitchen. This home is conveniently located near West Monroe schools and churches.

EUREKA!

We've found it! A lovely 3 bedroom Lakeshore home for less than $12,000. The kitchen will win any wife's heart with its many pine paneled cabinets and practical vent. The monowall bath has a handy shower over the tub and a built-in linen closet. There has never been a more compact and attractive home for such an astonishingly low price of just $500 down plus closing costs.

LAUGHTER OF CHILDREN

Will be prevalent in this modestly priced older home. In addition to the 3 spacious bedrooms, there's a den that becomes a hospitable guest room in minutes. The separate dining room will be the scene for Mom's more formal dinners. The huge (100x160) corner lot is enhanced by many trees and shrubs. There is much house, but a small price—less than $12,000.

COMPACT LUXURY

Is embodied in this beautiful 3 bedroom brick home in its select Northside location. The Mahogany paneled kitchen is a dream with its built-in dishwasher, disposal, oven and range. PLUS, a built-in refrigerator and freezer. Convenient to the kitchen is the lovely Mahogany paneled family room with its soft, indirect lighting and modern fireplace and terrazzo floors. There's a large tile guest bath with entrances from the foyer and bedroom wing in addition to the spacious master bath. Year 'round weather control comfort is yours with the five ton Lennox unit. This home has atmosphere and charm and lacks only your charming family for its owners.

YOUR TIMING IS RIGHT

If you buy now. Autumn is here and cozy, comfortable winter occupancy is yours. This 4 bedroom home with acreage includes 2 tile baths (one with shower stall). Mom will enjoy meal preparation in her step-saver kitchen. The 1700 sq. feet in this home is cooled by an attic fan. The quality and beauty cannot be equaled for twice the price.

STERLINGTON
ASSUME 4½% LOAN

This neat 3 bedrom home is just a few minutes drive from the business district of Sterlington. The tastefully carpeted and draped living room radiates gracious living. All 3 bedrooms are spacious. Two cheery baths eliminate "traffic problems". This lovely home is situated on a 1.8 acre hillcrest site for beauty and privacy. There's no "rich man's price" on this feature-rich home.

15 ACRES
PLUS CAMP

Located just ten miles from town is this small club house or hunting camp. There's barb-wire fencing completely around the acreage and there's some marketable hardwood and young pines. The completely furnished camp, club house, or lodge will be the scene for these private weekends or house parties. The kids will fall in love with the pond for wading or splashing. This property WILL NOT be surpassed in value.

GRACIOUS LIVING

This pretentious Northside home has everything incorporated into its 2000 sq. feet. The living room is beautiful with wall-to-wall carpet. The kitchen has every feature a wife could dream of . . . Mahogany cabinets galore, built-in oven and range, disposal, and dishwasher. The Mahogany paneled family room with its quarry tile floors will be everyone's favorite spot for family fun and informal entertaining. Next summer will be anxiously awaited by all the family as there is central air conditioning inside and a private swimming pool for refreshing relaxation outside. This is truly a gracious home in a gracious setting.

NOTHING TO IMPROVE

The location is exceptional on this attractive 3 bedroom home just across from Lexington School. The house is exceptional as it is so well planned there is not an inch of wasted space. The den is ideally located for quiet hours with friends. The large corner lot has many trees which shade the barbecue pit for outdoor cooking. You'll agree not even the low price on this home could be improved.

A HAPPY FUTURE

Is predicted for you in this very attractive 3 bedroom home in an executive neighborhood of prestige homes. Even the largest family can gather for entertaining or relaxing in this spacious living room. A "plus" feature of this home is found in the 2 complete baths. Dad will applaud the convenience of a small office at home. The 2400 sq. feet of living area can be adequately cooled by 3 air conditioners. For your future happiness, this is your house of the future.

UNLIMITED JOY

Is what you'll feel when you see this distinguished Northside home. It's new and in an excellent neighborhood, just one block from the new Lee Junior High. The 1½ tile baths add to the convenience of this modern as the minute home. Mom's modern kitchen is beautiful with its built-in Tappan oven and range and Nutone hood. The 1500 square feet of this lovely home is adequately cooled by the central air conditioning. Dad's heart will be made glad at the sight of the double carport. The entire family will "leap for joy" at the thought of owning such a prestige home for such a modest figure.

RELAX AND LIVE

In this almost new (9 months old) 3 bedroom brick home in one of Monroe's fastest growing areas. The kitchen has eye appeal with its many natural finish cabinets and built-in oven and range. The living room is spacious and already draped. Ceramic tile bath with shower over tub is another "plus" feature of this attractive and conveniently located home. You can relax without money worries as the payments are less than rent.

KID SPACE

There's a lot of it in this 4 bedroom older home in West Monroe. Two baths, one with shower stall, add luxury to this budget home. There's a small breakfast room for informal family meals. The back yard is fenced for protection of the smaller children as they play while the older children are in school (just 2 blocks away). Seldom do you find a feature packed and spacious home for such a modest price.

BAYOU PRESTIGE

. . . can be yours in this elegant home. The bedrooms (one's 17x18) will easily accomodate even the most massive bedroom furniture. Beautiful oak paneling and oak block floors help dramatize the spacious den which overlooks the patio and bayou. Luxurious living room carpet and fine draperies are designed to show your furnishings to best advantage. The ultra modern kitchen has built-in oven and range and 9' refrigerator. Year 'round comfort will be yours with the York heating—air conditioning system. This bayou home has features galore.

2100 MARIE PLACE

LOCATED near schools, churches, shopping center, this lovely 3 bedroom, den, 2 bath home, sturdily constructed of brick and redwood. You'll feel its relaxed charm from the moment you step into its inviting and luxurious living room . . . dining room is divided from living room by stone fireplace and planter . . . kitchen is chock full of cabinets and owner will leave Frigidaire range and refrigerator, 'cause they were made to match this beautifully decorated kitchen. Other features you'll appreciate are — its white crushed rock lifetime roof . . . York year 'round air conditioning . . . wall-to-wall carpeting . . . $2000 worth of decorator drapes . . . call now — we'll gladly show anytime!

421 HOWARD

ASK ANY good contractor what it would cost to duplicate the space in this home and you'll see it's truly a good buy at $10,500. It's located in an excellent neighborhood only a couple of blocks from Lexington School . . . and there's priceless pecan trees on the lot! Besides 3 bedrooms, there's a separate dining room . . . and all rooms are large. A delightful surprise in the kitchen is the new G. E. dishwasher (transferred owner!). Excellent financing on this home means we can handle it for as little as $200 down . . . and owner will pay closing costs . . . and it's vacant!

403 SHERIDAN

ONLY a couple of blocks from Our Lady of Fatima School . . . here's a completely redecorated 3 bedroom brick home that can be bought for as little as $300 down on new FHA loan . . . or on an assumption. $150 down with monthly payments of $61 including insurance and taxes.

OH, GOLLY, I'M STUCK ON MY NOVEL AGAIN, LUCILLE! LILLY LOU, MY HEROINE, HAS GOT APPENDICITIS. JUST HOW WOULD MY HERO, CEDRIC, WHO LOVES HER MADLY, REACT? DO YOU THINK I DARE USE ROSCOE AS A GUINEA PIG AGAIN?

OH, SURE, DREAMY. BROTHER WON'T MIND.

OH, HO! A GUINEA PIG, AM I? BY DINGIES, I'M GOING TO SETTLE THIS ONCE AND FOR ALL!

HI, WHERE'S BABY SISTER?

GONE TO TOWN... OH!...MY SIDE!...OW! I THINK I HAVE APPENDICITIS!

CALL THE DOCTOR! QUICK!

PHONE'S OUT OF ORDER.

THEN GET THE CAR! TAKE ME TO THE HOSPITAL!

WELL, UH, LET ME SEE. LUCILLE TOOK THE CAR, THE TRUCK HAS A FLAT TIRE, THE TRACTOR'S BROKEN DOWN... COULD YOU RIDE TO TOWN IN A WHEELBARROW?

OH, ROSCOE, I'M TOO YOUNG TO DIE! SAVE ME, PLEASE! OH, SAVE ME!

OKAY, SUPPOSE YOU CLIMB UP ON THE KITCHEN TABLE AND I'LL DO MY BEST!

WHAT ARE YOU DOING?

GETTING THINGS READY. YOU WOULDN'T WANT ME TO USE A DULL KNIFE, WOULD YOU?

HELP!

WHOA! COME BACK! THERE'S NOT A MINUTE TO LOSE!

LATER:

WHERE'S DREAMY, BROTHER?

WELL, UH, I WAS AWFULLY SORRY TO SEE HER GO. SHE DECIDED TO GIVE UP HER NOVEL AND GO BACK TO TEACHING SCHOOL.

I'M AFRAID I'VE BEEN REMISS AS A HOST! WE SHOULD HAVE AMUSEMENT, TO PASS THE HAPPY HOURS! I HAVE SOME CARDS! HOW ABOUT A LITTLE POKER?

WE SHOULD HAVE STAKES, TO MAKE IT INTERESTING, BUT I'M AFRAID I'M FRESH OUT OF CASH!

WELL, YOU HAVE A VERY HANDSOME RIFLE. LET'S SEE NOW! AND I HAVE THESE!

DIAMONDS! BEAUTIES! WHERE ON EARTH...?

THE LITTLE BROWN BROTHERS HAVE THEIR SOURCES! SAY A HANDFUL AGAINST YOUR RIFLE, EH?

AND FAR INTO THE NIGHT...

HE'S A SHARPIE FROM WAY BACK! A MARKED DECK. LUCKY I CAN READ 'EM, TOO!

HE'S THE LUCKIEST BIRD I EVER MET! BUT THIS TIME I'LL TAKE HIM!

I THINK YOU'RE BLUFFING, JUNIOR! BUT I'M CALLING YOU WITH EVERYTHING I'VE GOT; BOAT, SUPPLIES, THE WORKS, AGAINST THAT BUCKET OF ROCKS!

I HATE TO DO THIS TO A FRIEND, BUT THERE THEY ARE! FOUR ACES!

AH, ME! ONLY A SMALL FLUSH....BUT A STRAIGHT ONE! JUST PURE LUCK, I GUESS!

HM! ALL I CAN SAY IS YOU ARE THE GREATEST MAGICIAN I HAVE EVER MET!

I TELL YA BOXERS TODAY ARE A LOT OF SISSIES...THEY'LL BE SPOUTING SHAKESPEARE NEXT...

I HEAR THERE'S A BANK CLERK IN SAN FRANCISCO WHO ACTUALLY EATS PEAS WITH A FORK..."GENTLEMAN SOMETHING" THEY CALL HIM...

PUTTING GLOVES ON 'EM WILL KILL THE GAME...THEY'LL BE BOXING IN OVER-COATS NEXT...

THAT MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY GUY IS MAKING SO MANY RULES...FIGHTIN' WILL BE LEGAL.. HEH-HEH!

NOW THEY WANT TO PUT PILLOWS ON THEIR HANDS...

THE BOXING GAME WAS GOING TO THE DOGS LONG BEFORE TV, TO HEAR 'EM TELL IT, CIRCA 1888...

I LOST AT LEAST TEN!

I DIDN'T HAVE A GOOD HAND ALL NIGHT... I MUSTA DROPPED TWELVE BUCKS...

I'M CLEANED... NEVER HAD SUCH A RUN OF TOUGH LUCK...

I'M OUT SIX BUCKS!

I DIDN'T WIN A SINGLE POT!

HOWCUM... SOMEBODY MUST'VE WON...BUT NOBODY EVER ADMITS IT...

Little Orphan Annie

"TRUE LUCK CONSISTS NOT IN HOLDING THE BEST OF THE CARDS AT THE TABLE;" JOHN HAY. OH, YEAH? WELL, A CHAP CAN GET RICH THAT WAY! IS THAT BAD?

I GUESS IF PLINY THE ELDER, JR., WANTS US TO STAY, HE'S GOT THE POINTS TO CONVINCE US!

YEAH! A THOUSAND SHARP ONES, WITH POISON TIPS! BR-R-R!

HE'S RIGHT ABOUT IT BEING SAFE HERE, SO LONG AS HE'S THE GREAT WHITE GOD AND CONTINUES TO LIKE OUR COMPANY!

SECURITY IS GREAT, HE SAYS! TH' KIND O' SECURITY Y'GET IN PRISON!

WELL, IT'S BETTER HERE THAN IN ONE PRISON I CAN RECALL! BUT IT CAN SOON GET PRETTY DULL!

SH-H! HERE HE COMES!

10-11

I'M AFRAID I'VE BEEN REMISS AS A HOST! WE SHOULD HAVE AMUSEMENT, TO PASS THE HAPPY HOURS! I HAVE SOME CARDS! HOW ABOUT A LITTLE POKER?

WE SHOULD HAVE STAKES, TO MAKE IT INTERESTING, BUT I'M AFRAID I'M FRESH OUT OF CASH!

WELL, YOU HAVE A VERY HANDSOME RIFLE. LET'S SEE NOW! AND I HAVE THESE!

DIAMONDS! BEAUTIES! WHERE ON EARTH...?

AND FAR INTO THE NIGHT...

HE'S A SHARPIE FROM WAY BACK! A MARKED DECK. LUCKY I CAN READ 'EM, TOO!

HE'S THE LUCKIEST BIRD I EVER MET! BUT THIS TIME I'LL TAKE HIM!

I THINK YOU'RE BLUFFING, JUNIOR! BUT I'M CALLING YOU WITH EVERYTHING I'VE GOT; BOAT, SUPPLIES, THE WORKS, AGAINST THAT BUCKET OF ROCKS!

I HATE TO DO THIS TO A FRIEND, BUT THERE THEY ARE! FOUR ACES!

AH, ME! ONLY A SMALL FLUSH....BUT A STRAIGHT ONE! JUST PURE LUCK, I GUESS!

HM! ALL I CAN SAY IS YOU ARE THE GREATEST MAGICIAN I HAVE EVER MET!

10-11-59

YOU'RE A REAL GENTLEMAN AND A TRUE SPORT, JUNIOR! AND A WONDERFUL HOST!

AND YOU, SIR, ARE A GUEST AFTER MY OWN HEART!

YOUR GENIUS AND DEXTERITY MAKE MY TALENTS SEEM AMATEURISH! HOW MANY WHITE GODS CAN MAKE THAT STATEMENT?

HM-M! YOU KNOW, JUNIOR, YOU AND I COULD MAKE QUITE A TEAM!

HAROLD GRAY

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By JIMMY HATLO

ELMAR BATH HOUSE

OKAY.. LOCK UP.. TIME TO GO HOME!

Z-Z-Z-Z

THEN THE FUN BEGAN

HATLO'S HISTORY

THEY DON'T HAVE FIGHTERS LIKE WE HAD IN THE OLD DAYS.. TOM FIGG COULDA LICKED BOTH OF 'EM WITH ONE HAND!

NOW THEY WANT TO PUT PILLOWS ON THEIR HANDS...

I TELL YA BOXERS TODAY ARE A LOT OF SISSIES...THEY'LL BE SPOUTING SHAKESPEARE NEXT...

I HEAR THERE'S A BANK CLERK IN SAN FRANCISCO WHO ACTUALLY EATS PEAS WITH A FORK..."GENTLEMAN SOMETHING" THEY CALL HIM...

PUTTING GLOVES ON 'EM WILL KILL THE GAME...THEY'LL BE BOXING IN OVERCOATS NEXT...

THAT MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY GUY IS MAKING SO MANY RULES...FIGHTIN' WILL BE LEGAL.. HEH-HEH!

THE BOXING GAME WAS GOING TO THE DOGS LONG BEFORE TV, TO HEAR 'EM TELL IT, CIRCA 1888...

I LOST AT LEAST TEN!

I DIDN'T HAVE A GOOD HAND ALL NIGHT... I MUSTA DROPPED TWELVE BUCKS...

I'M CLEANED... NEVER HAD SUCH A RUN OF TOUGH LUCK...

I'M OUT SIX BUCKS!

I DIDN'T WIN A SINGLE POT!

HOWCUM... SOMEBODY MUST'VE WON...BUT NOBODY EVER ADMITS IT...
